INTRODUCTION.

THE "Chronicle" of the learned Lightfoot has been made the basis of the following Arrangement. Of all the writers of the day in which he lived, this celebrated divine is supposed to have been the most deeply versed in the knowledge of the Scriptures. It was his custom for many years to note down, as opportunity presented, in the course of his talmudical and other studies, the order and time of the several passages of Scripture as they came under his consideration. By pursuing this method, he gradually formed that invaluable Chronicle, which his biographer and the editor of his works has placed before all his other publications, as the most useful and important. The title of this celebrated tract is, "A Chronicle of the times, and the order of the texts of the Old Testament, wherein the Books, Chapters, Psalms, Stories, Prophecies, &c. are reduced into their proper order, and taken up in their proper places, in which the natural method and genuine series of the Chronology requireth them to be taken in. With reason given of dislocations where they come. And many remarkable notes and observations given all along for the better understanding of the text; the difficulties of the Chronicle declared; the differences occurring in the relating of stories reconciled; and exceeding many scruples and obscurities in the Old Testament explained." Lightfoot was so eminent, that Bishop Walton consulted him both on the Polyglott Bible, and the Samaritan Pentateuch, Dr. Castell on his Heptaglott Lexicon, and Poole on his Synopsis Criticorum. Buxtorf, Dr. Outram, Thorndike, and Morinus, with other distinguished men, openly expressed how much they admired and venerated him. The most learned foreigners came to England to visit him. In the Assembly of Divines at Westminster, he was the most distinguished for his learning and ability; opposing the more violent measures, and frequently by his arguments changing the sentiments of the majority. His work was published at the time when the nation was unfortunately engaged in the bitter contests between the King and his Parliament. We are not possessed of sufficient means of accurately ascertaining the reception this invaluable Chronicle met with from the public; but if we may judge from the complaints of his biographer, Dr. Bright, and Mr. Strype, the author of the "Annals," it does not appear to have obtained much celebrity, nor to have attracted the attention it so well deserved.

This supposition is still further corroborated by the singular omission of the work in the list mentioned by Torshel, in his rare and valuable pamphlet. This divine was chaplain to king Charles the First, and tutor to the royal children. In the year before the death of his royal master, he published a tract (which was afterwards reprinted in the Phoenix) entitled "A design about disposing the Bible into an harmony; or an Essay concerning the transposing the order of books and chapters of the Holy Scriptures, for the reducing of all into a continued history—The benefits, difficulties, and the helps." The tract was addressed to the right honourable the lords and commons assembled in Parliament; intimating to them the propriety and necessity of taking the subject on which it treats into consideration, that under their gracious auspices and influence "it may grow to full maturity." Torshel's object indeed was to induce the two Houses to appoint a committee to execute his plans. Had Lightfoot and Torshel united their efforts in this cause, it is not improbable that the sanction of the legislature at that period might have been obtained, and a most accurate and valuable arrangement been made by the learned men, who, at that time, abounded in England. "Let the state," says Torshel, "only please to make it their care, after the example of some kings and republics, that have done such like works of general use, for the advance of learning and divine knowledge, and they will find some men very learned of their own order, besides many in the profession of divinity, and others of private quality, that will contribute much assistance to it." And in another part—"If the state may please to look upon it with favour and encouragement, somewhat may be done to the great service of the Churches of Christ," &c. &c. The state, however, paid no attention to the petition, and the design of harmonizing the Bible has not hitherto been put into execution.

Dr. Hales, the learned and laborious author of the Analysis of Sacred Chronology, is the last writer by whom this design of Torshel has been brought before the public. After enumerating a variety of works, which have been submitted at different times to the world, to assist the reader of Scripture in his attempts to understand the Sacred Volume, Dr. Hales observes, "We have still to search in vain for a competent history of the Bible; a history which shall be plain and clear, even to the unlearned, and yet concise, correct, and critical; competent 1st. to arrange all the scattered events of Scripture in a regular and lucid chronological and geographical order; 2nd. to trace the connection between the Old and New Testaments throughout, so as to render the whole one uniform and consistent narrative; 3rd. to expound the mysteries, doctrines, and precepts of both, intelligibly, rationally, and faithfully; without adding to, or diminishing from the word of God; and without undue respect to persons, parties, or sects; 4th. to unfold and interpret the whole grand and comprehensive scheme of 'the prophetic argument' from Genesis to Revelation, all admirably linked, and closely connected together, subsisting in the divine mind, before the foundation of the world; and gradually revealed to mankind at sundry times, and divers modes, and degrees, during the Patriarchal, Mosaical, and Christian dispensations, as they were able to bear it; 5th. to solve real difficulties, and reconcile apparent dissonances, resulting from the obscurity of the original text, or from inaccurate translations; 6th. to silence sceptics and heretics, infidels and scoffers, by exposing the weakness and inconclusiveness of their objections and cavils; 7th. to defend the institutions of the primitive Church against schismatics and levellers, and in fine, 8th. to copy as closely as possible the brevity and conciseness, yet simplicity and plainness, of the Gospel style." Such a history of the Bible is altogether a desideratum in the annals of sacred literature.

"Such a plan was partly proposed," (Dr. Hales proceeds to observe,) "many years ago, after" (more properly during) "the grand rebellion, by Samuel Torshel, a preceptor of the royal family of Charles the First, who addressed the Lords and Commons assembled in Parliament on this great and important national concern."

He proposed "to dispose the Bible into a method and harmony, by transposing the order of the books and chapters, inserting the sacred oracles according to the times they were delivered in, and the Psalms in their places, and on the occasions which they were framed to suit, in such a manner that by the mere force of series and connection, the historical and prophetical parts may reciprocally explain and authenticate each other."

The miscellaneous form of the Sacred Books has been often considered by pious and learned men as one principal cause of those difficulties which have given rise to so many commentaries. The great majority of the readers of Scripture are either unable, or unwilling, to undergo the delightful labour of arranging the scattered events in their unbroken and historical order. Much error has arisen from this neglect. The Scripture is too generally perused in detached passages and chapters only. It is but too frequently considered as a collection of unconnected narratives, promises, warnings, prophecies, and miscellaneous remarks on important and interesting subjects. Hence the most opposite doctrines have been taught, and the most inconsistent inferences drawn; and the Christian world, which ought to profess one faith, as it has but one Scripture, one Lord, and one Baptism, is divided into every possible gradation of opinion, each of which is defended by its advocates from detached and misapplied passages of Scripture.

The inspired writers, though living in so many different ages, writing upon various occasions, without communication with each other, of opposite talents, dispositions, circumstances, and education, confirm and support, throughout, one code and system; the general plan of which does not, in any one instance, appear to have been present to their minds when the various books of the Old Testament were penned. Uninspired authors, although educated on the same plan, of the same age and country, writing with the same object, of the same sect and party, and defending the same system of opinions, will frequently vary in their modes of expression, in their statements of arguments, in their ideas of the subject matter; and will be often found to contradict, either through inadvertence or through the defect of language, the positions of their own partisans: whereas, among the inspired writers, there is no contradiction, no opposition, no diversity of sentiment, in any of the difficult and important subjects upon which they treat. The various passages of the history of the world and Church, contained in their united labours, like the links of a chain, are so interwoven with each other, that they cannot be separated. The precepts, examples, and doctrines they inculcate are so varied, yet so blended, that they form one complete and perfect system of religious ethics.

Let not the pious Christian feel any conscientious scruples against altering the disposition of the sacred text as contained in our common Bibles, or suppose that this Arrangement is intended to supersede the Authorized Version. The four Gospels, which are equally entitled to our veneration with the Old Testament, have been repeatedly arranged in their supposed historical order, in the form of diatessarons and harmonies; and no opposition has ever yet been made on the part of the English Church to the labours of its exemplary divines, who engaged in these useful works. "No variation in the order of the sacred books (Prideaux observes, Connection, vol. ii. p. 477, 10th edit.) is of any moment. For in what order soever the books are placed, they are still the word of God; and no change, in this respect, can make any change in that divine authority which is stamped upon them. And that this is a just view of the question is further evident from two very important facts. First: that, although the Church of Christ has long ago fixed the number of the canonical books, neither the Jewish Church before the advent of Christ, nor the Christian Church since his advent, has pronounced the order of these books to be canonical: and, secondly, that though the Old Testament was edited nearly in its present form, so far as relates to the number only of the books, first by Ezra, and afterwards by the great Sanhedrim, yet the collocation of these books is different in the Hebrew, Syriac, Greek, and Latin versions." The position, therefore, of the books could not have been regarded as a matter of essential importance; and it may be justly concluded that an attempt to arrange them in their chronological order ought not to be condemned as an infringement of the sacred canon. The three principal writers who give any light on the subject of the order of the books of the sacred writings as left by Ezra, are Josephus, Origen, and Jerome.

Josephus gives no catalogue of the sacred books: he merely observes (contra Appion, lib. 1, c. 8,) that the Jews had twenty-two sacred books; five composed by Moses; thirteen of prophetic and historical writings; and four which contain hymns to God, and precepts for the direction of the conduct of men. Here is a plain reference to the three great divisions, the Law, the Prophets, and the Hagiographa: but of the order in which these books were consecutively placed, we have no intimation. Origen, who made the Scriptures the study of his life, has made an arrangement of the books of the Old Testament very different from that in our Bibles: he preserves all the canonical books, but with respect to their order he appears to consider it as a matter of indifference. The Hebrews, he remarks, (Origen's Works, Benedictine Edition, vol. ii. p. 529,) have twenty-two books: 1. Genesis, 2. Exodus, 3. Leviticus, 4. Numbers, 5. Deuteronomy, 6. Joshua, 7. Judges and Ruth, 8. The first and second books of Kings, or Samuel, 9. Third and fourth of Kings, 10. The first and second of Chronicles, 11. Ezra, or Ezra and Nehemiah, 12. The book of Psalms, 13. Proverbs, 14. Ecclesiastes, 15. Canticles, 16. Isaiah, 17. Jeremiah, the Lamentations, and the Epistle, 18. Daniel, 19. Ezekiel, 20. Job, 21. Esther. By some strange mistake the twenty-second book, that of the minor prophets, has been omitted. Jerome, who translated and wrote a commentary on the Scriptures, and studied in Judea under the most learned Jews, may be supposed to have exhibited the arrangement which obtained in his time. His catalogue may be found in the Benedictine Edition, vol. i. p. 318. He divides the sacred books into the three usual classes, the Law, the Prophets, and the Hagiographa. In the first are contained 1. Genesis, 2. Exodus, 3. Leviticus, 4. Numbers, 5. Deuteronomy. In the second class, 6. Joshua, 7. Judges and Ruth, 8. First and second of Samuel, 9. First and second of Kings, 10. Isaiah, 11. Jeremiah, 12. Ezekiel, 13. The twelve minor prophets, all in one book. The third class contains, 14. Job, 15. The Psalms, in five books, 16. Proverbs, 17. Ecclesiastes, 18. Canticles, 19. Daniel, 20. First and second of Chronicles, 21. Ezra, divided into two books, 22. Esther. Thus twenty-two books are computed, Moses five, the Prophets eight, the Hagiographa nine.

The copies of the Vulgate differ from each other. In some MSS. of the Vulgate, Job, Psalms, Proverbs, Ecclesiastes, and Canticles, are placed after Malachi. The catalogues of Origen and Jerome are most probably nearest to the Esdrine arrangement; yet as these vary from each other, and we have no means of ascertaining which is the most correct, we have reason to suppose either that the arrangement by Ezra is totally lost, or that in the different copies published in his time, and in that of the great Sanhedrim, the order of the books varied: and as the precise order has in no Church been so far considered of moment as to be made canonical, it may justly be concluded, that no reasonable objection can be made to a connected arrangement of the Sacred Volume.

Almost every commentator has observed the miscellaneous disposition of the contents of the Old Testament; and has pointed out the historical place of many chapters, and passages. Since the time of Lightfoot, biblical literature has been so much the object of general attention, that it was necessary to consult the labours of many modern divines, as well as of those who immediately preceded them. The union of these authorities, it is hoped, will give additional sanction to the work. Where a difference of opinion has prevailed among these various writers, the arranger has been compelled to decide on the validity of opposing arguments; and at other times from a consideration of the internal evidence, the context, the circumstances, and the primary object of a passage, a psalm, or a prophecy, he has been induced to act upon his own judgment, which has occasionally led him to differ from those authorities, on which he has ever been inclined to place the most dependence.

One material alteration has been made in the manner in which Lightfoot has arranged his Chronicle. On his plan, the Old Testament would have been read as one unbroken history, without any division into chapters, or any of those breaks, the omission of which is generally supposed to be the cause of great weariness to the reader. To obviate this difficulty, and to endeavour to make the Scripture narrative more attractive, and more easily remembered, the present Arrangement is divided into Periods, Parts, and Sections. These several portions it was thought would render the work more useful and interesting to the unlearned reader, or to the reader who is not accustomed to devote much uninterrupted time to the perusal of books. By this means he will be enabled, without burthening his memory, to take up and lay down the Old Testament at his leisure, as he would any other history or narrative.

The First Period contains the history of the world and the church from the Creation to the Deluge: and includes the first nine chapters of Genesis. As the object of Moses in writing the Pentateuch was the preservation of the Israelites from the contagion of the surrounding idolatry, in the notes are pointed out the several reasons of many of those peculiar phrases, supposed to be directed against the prevailing superstitions of his day. The circumstances of this Period are few, the narrative brief, and the traditions concerning it, scattered among the heathen, obscure and confused: little is related to enable us to judge of the manners and customs of the Antediluvians: yet sufficient is recorded to show us that the world was the same then as at present; divided between the good and the evil, the sons of God and the sons of men; that the latter so prevailed against the former, that the visible Church was reduced to the limits of a single family, and the world was destroyed, that the Church might be preserved. The principal events related in this Period are the divine institution of sacrifice,—the origin of many of the arts and sciences, and a clear and consistent account of the awful destruction of the world by the Deluge, an event, which, though known by tradition among all nations, and commemorated by rites, customs, festivals, and emblems, was so disguised and perverted, that it required the consistent and simple narration we find in Scripture.

In consequence of the brevity of this period, the transpositions of the text are necessarily few.

The Second Period comprises the history of the time between the dispersion, and the birth of Moses; and includes the remainder of Genesis, the book of Job, and the first chapter of Exodus.

The transpositions of the sacred text in this Period are not numerous. The history of the three great heads of the Jewish nation, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, proceeds without much interruption to the close of the Period. The account of the divisions of mankind into their respective families is placed after the event which caused their dispersion; and the narrative, after thus relating the origin of the principal nations of the Gentile world, goes on to the genealogy of Shem, and the history of the family from which the Messiah was to descend. The inspired historian is contented with merely glancing at the annals of other nations, and hastens on to the immediate object he proposed to himself, the submitting to the sacred family of Abraham the origin and early history of their election as the people of God, and their consequent separation from the rest of the sons of Noah, into a visible Church.

It may excite surprise that the narrative is interrupted by inserting the life of Job in the midst of the brief history of the ancestors of Abraham, given by Moses in pursuance of this plan. The authority for assigning to the Arabian Patriarch an earlier date than Abraham, is given in the note. Wherever this book was inserted, it would have been impossible to have given general satisfaction. The subject has been much controverted; but after reconsidering the subject, and after perusing the valuable remarks of Dr. A. Clarke, the last commentator who has discussed this point, the Editor is unable to come to any other conclusion. He cannot but consider Job to have been the witness to the truth of the pure religion of God, in an age when even the ancestors of Abraham were infected with the increasing contagion of idolatry.

The chief transpositions in this Period are, the harmonizing those parts of the 25th and 26th chapters which relate the circumstances originating in the same famine, and the inserting in their chronological places the births and deaths of the patriarchs. The Period concludes with the oppression of the Israelites by the Egyptians, before the birth of Moses, related in the first chapter of Exodus.

The Third Period extends from the birth to the death of Moses, and comprises the remainder of Exodus to the conclusion of the Pentateuch. With the exception of the insertion of the institution of the Passover in its required place, little transposition is here necessary till we arrive at the eighth Part, which contains the account of the wanderings in the Wilderness. The several encampments of the Israelites are variously arranged by different writers, according to the names of the places mentioned by Moses. The number of their encampments and marches is reckoned by Dr. Hales, after Bishop Clayton, to have been sixty, including the passage over the river Jordan. The map which he has given in his Analysis, and his accompanying account of the wanderings of the Israelites in the Wilderness, are truly valuable. The learned writer's theory, however, has not been adopted, as it was thought the reader would be more satisfied with a still closer adherence to the Scripture account. The sojourning of the Israelites therefore is arranged according to the itinerary of Moses himself, in the thirty-third chapter of Numbers, who distinctly mentions the forty-two journeyings of his people, in which of course all their encampments and stations are included. This method of relating this part of the Scripture history has occasioned more transposition than in the preceding Periods; but the Scripture is so evidently made to corroborate its own account, that the advantages arising from it appeared to justify its adoption. The miracles, and the events of their wanderings, are recorded in the respective journeyings in which they occurred. The account of the several journeys commences with the verse in which each is briefly mentioned in the thirty-third chapter of Numbers.

The principal events in this Period which require transposition, are the arrival of Jethro at the camp of the Israelites—the thirty-third of Numbers already mentioned — and various passages in Numbers and Deuteronomy. As there were not sufficient data to enable me to decide in what particular encampments the various exhortations of Moses, in the first chapters of Deuteronomy, were respectively delivered, I have referred them to the conclusion of the wanderings of the Israelites, when he certainly addressed to them the greater part of the contents of that book.

The Fourth Period comprises the events from the entrance of the Israelites into the Holy Land, to the death of David. It includes the books of Judges, Joshua, Ruth, the first and second of Samuel, the first book of Chronicles, with the exception of the nine first chapters, which are placed in the last section of the last Period, and the two first chapters of the first book of Kings. It comprises also those Psalms which were probably written by David, and which are inserted in their supposed places, according to the events to which they are believed to refer. The people of God having been delivered from their persecutors in Egypt, having escaped all the attacks of their enemies, and the peril of the Wilderness, at length enter into the Promised Land, and establish the religion of the one true God, in the country which their ancestors had traversed ; and which God had sworn to Abraham that his descendants should possess. Though they were so entirely successful at their first occupation of the country, that they obtained possession of the whole land, as Moses had predicted, they failed to execute the commands of God ; they spared the lives of the idolatrous inhabitants ; they then began to associate with them ; to be familiar among them ; and, at length, to unite with them in their hateful superstitions and idolatry. For these offences they were severely punished. The surrounding nations were armed with extraordinary power to purify the visible church by oppressing and persecuting it, till it had found, by bitter experience, that God always punishes those who forsake his service. These relapses into negligence and idolatry, with their consequent punishments, were continued till the accession of David to the throne of Israel, after the death of Saul. By him the surrounding enemies of God were subdued, and the visible church advanced to its utmost perfection, purity, and glory. David never fell into idolatry, and the effect of his continued perseverance in, and faithful adherence to, the religion of his fathers, was visible in the extent of his dominions, the abundance of his wealth, the liberality of his people, the universal regard to religion throughout his kingdom, and the magnificent preparations for that temple, which Solomon founded and completed.

The transpositions of passages in this Period are more numerous than those in the second and third. In the book of Joshua, the appearance of the angel to the Hebrew leader is formed into a more connected history. Josh. vi. 1; v. 13, to the end; and vi. 2, to the end. The authority of Bp. Horsley is preferred to that of St. Jerome, respecting the time and place of the reading the law of Moses on Mount Ebal and Gerizim. The passage in which this event is related will be found in Joshua viii. 30, to the end. The Israelites, in the preceding verses of the chapter, are represented as being at Gilgal, which was at a great distance from Mount Gerizim; they had not yet possessed the country, and it is not probable that all the people should suddenly leave the seat of the war in which they were then engaged, and proceed to another part of the country, to do that which might with greater convenience, and greater propriety, be done at a later period. Bishop Horsley supposes, therefore, that the law was read to the people after the conquest of the country, when the land rested from war; and upon his authority the transposition of the passage has been made. St. Jerome supposes, that immediately on entering upon the promised land, the law was read on two smaller mountains, named Ebal and Gerizim, near Jericho; an opinion which, though defended by Euphrianius, does not appear to be sufficiently supported.

The twenty-second of Joshua is also transposed. It records the return of the Reubenites, after the end of the war, the conquest of the country, and the reading of the law on Mount Gerizim. Their return is placed after the latter event, and not, as in the canon, after the division of the country. When their service was fully accomplished, they would, of course, be sent home, as Joshua had promised.

The latter chapters of the book of Judges are well known to relate the events which took place during the interregnum, after the death of Joshua. They are accordingly inserted, in this Arrangement, before the first servitude of the Israelites, under Cushan-Rishathaim.

The story of Ruth, on the authority of Bishop Patrick, is referred to the account of the famine in Israel, on the invasion of the Midianites.

To enable the reader to remember with greater accuracy the history of the Judges, the sections are divided according to the several governments of these magistrates.

In the history of Eli, the Bible chronology is followed, and Eli, Samson, and Samuel, are made contemporaries. The Arranger has adopted, except in a few instances, the Bible chronology throughout this work; because it appeared, after much consideration, preferable to any other system. It is consistent with itself, it is sanctioned by authority, having received that almost infallible stamp of excellence, the test of time, and the most diligent and critical inquiry. Valuable as the Analysis of Dr. Hales undoubtedly is, the Editor could not venture to adopt his dates, and his system, till they had been approved by the same authorities, and confirmed by the same criterion of excellence, which have determined the value, and recommended the Bible chronology.

In arranging the very difficult passages which refer to the youth of David, when he conquered Goliath, and played before Saul, he has been guided by the authority of Bishop Horsley, who seems to have considered the subject with much attention, and he has relied with confidence on his decision.

The chief remaining transpositions in this Period, are the several passages in Samuel and Chronicles, which are necessarily changed, to harmonize the general narrative more completely; and the parallel passages are inserted at the end of the respective sections in which they occur in smaller type, so that the reader may always compare the corresponding accounts of the same events by the writers of the two different books. The events of the life of David are so arranged in sections, that the reader will be able to follow his wanderings on the map, and to peruse his history without difficulty. The appeal of the woman of Tekoa to David is put together on the authority of Bishop Horsley; and the escape of Hadad, inserted parenthetically in 1 Kings x., is assigned to its chronological place. One principal cause of the apparent want of order, in the arrangement of the events recorded in the sacred canon, arises from frequent parentheses; in the same way as the account of the death of John the Baptist is an interruption of the narrative of the Evangelists in the New Testament.

The Fifth Period comprises the reign of Solomon, the era of the highest greatness at which the Jewish kingdom arrived ; when the visible church attained its utmost splendour, and the promise to Abraham was accomplished, that the country from the Mediterranean to the Euphrates should be subject to the dominion of Israel. This period includes the first chapters in the first book of Kings, which relate the life of Solomon ; the nine first chapters of the second book of the Chronicles, which are harmonized with those from the book of Kings ; the Psalms, supposed to have been sung or written at the dedication of the temple ; and the books of Canticles, Proverbs, and Ecclesiastes.

The chief difficulty of arranging the events of this Period arose from the miscellaneous manner in which the several circumstances of Solomon's life are narrated by the sacred writers. They are enumerated either as they occurred to the minds of the writers, or as they were compiled or abridged from the public registers of the kingdom. It has been endeavoured so to dispose of them, that the events of the reign of this great king may be read in their probable order. The prayer at the dedication of the temple, which is given at greater length in the book of Chronicles than in the Kings, will be seen in its complete form. The book of Canticles is supposed to have been written when Solomon was a young man, at the time he removed the daughter of Pharaoh to his palace in the forest of Lebanon. The book of Proverbs is placed after the visit of the queen of Sheba, when the wisdom of Solomon was celebrated throughout the world. It immediately follows the passage which refers to the number of his proverbs. The proverbs which were found in the temple, and were copied out by the men of Hezekiah, are inserted among the rest, and are not placed in the reign of Hezekiah, as recommended by Torshel, because they are not called the proverbs of the men of Hezekiah, but of Solomon. They were neglected till the reign of Hezekiah, when they were discovered among the archives in the temple, but they cannot chronologically be dated from that time. The book of Ecclesiastes comes after the account of the offence of Solomon. It is generally supposed to have been written as a kind of recantation upon his repentance for his errors, before his death.

The Sixth Period comprises the time from the accession of Rehoboam, to the commencement of the Babylonish captivity. It includes the greater part of the books of Chronicles and Kings, which are harmonized throughout, with some of the Psalms, and the prophecies of Joel, Isaiah, Hosea, Amos, Jonah, Micah, Obadiah, Nahum, Habakkuk, Zephaniah, part of Jeremiah, and part of the first chapter of Daniel. The several predictions or distinct discourses contained in the respective books of the prophets are given in their historical places; and notes are appended to each, explaining the reasons for the dislocation. The difficulties of arranging this period were very great. The intricacies of the chronology, the double line of the kings of Judah and Israel, with the differences of explanation among the authors who were consulted, presented obstacles which at first sight appeared insuperable. Various modes presented themselves of dividing the double line of kings: one, by placing them in two columns, and attaching the common date in the margin; another, of placing the kings of Israel after those of Judah, as a separate Part; and, that which has been adopted, to divide the history of the kings of Judah into Parts, each chapter containing two Portions: the first giving a history of a king of Judah; the second appropriated to the reign of the contemporary king, or kings of the sister kingdom. This plan was selected because it presented two advantages. It enabled the reader to peruse the history of all the kings of Judah as one connected history, by reading through the first Portion of each Part, and the history of the kings of Israel in the same manner, by perusing the second Portion of each Part; and it enabled him also to pass without interruption to the history of the kings of Israel contemporary with the respective kings of Judah. If the first of the plans mentioned had been adopted, much room would have been lost, in consequence of the number of blank spaces left in the columns devoted to the history of the kings of Israel, the history of these kings being given in the inspired writers within much less compass than the history of the kings of Judah; and the Arrangement had already occupied more pages than was expected. If the second plan had been acted upon, the chronological and historical continuity of the narrative would have been destroyed, and the principal design of the Arrangement consequently defeated.

Although this period occasioned more labour and inquiry than the rest, the authorities for inserting particular passages in their appropriate places were sometimes so equally balanced, that it was almost impossible to decide between the merits of the contending arguments. In such cases, the Arranger is open to the charge of want of judgment from those from whom he may differ. The compass of the work did not admit the insertion of long discussions; he has been contented, therefore, with submitting to his readers, in the several notes, the arguments which have induced him to place the prophecies and the history in their present order.

The Seventh Period comprises the history of the Babylonish captivity. No historical book in the Old Testament contains a complete narrative of the transactions of the seventy years; they are related in various parts of the prophets Jeremiah, Ezekiel, and Daniel, and in the latter passages of the books of Kings and Chronicles. Much difficulty arose in arranging the several events referred to in this Seventh Period, from the circumstance that the prophecies of Ezekiel were delivered to the Jews in the captivity at Babylon, at the same time that Jeremiah was prophesying at Jerusalem and in Egypt. To prevent any confusion in rightly apprehending this part of the sacred history, the events which took place, and the prophecies which were delivered, at Jerusalem, are placed in a different Part from those at Babylon. The transactions in Egypt, when the Jews who escaped from the captivity fled into that country, after the murder of Gedaliah, and took with them Jeremiah the prophet, are given in a separate Part. The reader will thus be enabled to peruse the account of the affairs of the Jews at Jerusalem, Babylon, and Egypt, without confounding either places or dates. The variety of contending authorities respecting the dates and occasions of the several prophecies of Jeremiah caused some embarrassments: the decision to which the Arranger came is submitted, with the result of the labours of Blayney, Lightfoot, and Taylor, in a tabular form to the reader, who will be able to compare the arguments of the various writers on this subject, and to rectify any error which he may suppose has been made. The many interesting circumstances which took place in the siege of Jerusalem are collected into one narration from Jeremiah, Chronicles, and Kings; and few narratives of sieges or battles, in ancient or modern history, are so full of incident, instruction, and variety. The prophecies of Ezekiel, being for the most part dated by the prophet himself, were arranged with little difficulty. The events at Babylon, after the return of Nebuchadnezzar, and prior to the decree of Cyrus, are chiefly related in the historical chapters of the book of Daniel. The account of the wonderful manner in which these events effected the elevation of Daniel, the restoration of the Jews, and thereby the accomplishment of the prophecies of God, may be justly considered as one of the most interesting and beautiful parts of the Old Testament. The Period ends with the decree of Cyrus, as it is contained in the last chapter of the Chronicles, and the first of Ezra.

The Eighth and last Period comprises the events from the termination of the captivity to the probable close of the canon. It includes, besides, several of the Psalms, the books of Ezra, Nehemiah, and Esther, and the prophecies of Zechariah, Haggai, and Malachi. The arrangement of the events of this period has been chiefly made on the authority of Dean Prideaux, whose history is advocated and adopted by Dr. Hales, Dr. A. Clarke, Bishop Tomline, and many other learned and pious authors. Lightfoot's hypothesis of the arrangement of the events of this period is generally considered as incorrect. The very close connection which subsisted between the Holy Land and Persia, after the restoration of the Jews from their captivity, and the manner in which their adversity and prosperity, as well as their progress in the building of the Temple and city were influenced, or rather affected, by the politics of the court of Persia, rendered it impossible to separate the accounts of the two countries; they are incorporated, therefore, into one history, and the prophecies are placed in their respective situations. The principal dislocated passages included in this period are those of Ezra and part of Nehemiah. The whole book concludes with the nine first chapters of the first of Chronicles, and a passage from Nehemiah; both which were either written by the last editors, or verses in them were interpolated by the last editor, that is, by Simon the Just and the great Sanhedrim, as some expressions in them allude to the times of Alexander the Great. The concluding passage from Nehemiah speaks of Jaddua the high priest, who met Alexander; and mentions also Darius, who was conquered by that sovereign, in terms which seem to imply that Darius lived many years before the time when the passage in question was written; and as Alexander died about 324 B.C., and Simon the Just in 291, these passages are dated a few years before the death of the latter, and assigned to the year 300 B.C.

Thus is the biblical reader presented with a complete history of the World and the Church, from the delivery of the promise to our first parents in obscure terms, till the dawn of the day of the Messiah approached. The light of prophecy gradually became clearer, till the express testimony of Malachi was given, "the Lord whom ye seek shall suddenly come to his temple."

Such is the brief outline of that Arrangement of the contents of the Old Testament, which is now submitted to the judgment and candour of the Christian world. It is designed only to assist the reader of Scripture in his study of that great scheme of Providence, God revealed by Omnipotence. The visible world, so magnificent and so beautiful, is a temple worthy of God the Creator: the spiritual world, described in the pages of Scripture, is a temple equally worthy of God the Redeemer. Both equally demonstrate the mercy and the love of the same all-wise Providence to the bodies and the souls of man. In the privileges and in the certainty of a covenanted redemption, as in the changes of the seasons, and other blessings of the visible creation, every child of Adam is alike interested: and if the researches of science to promote the happiness of the body, or to illustrate the laws and the harmony of the universe, are regarded with favour, in such a manner it is trusted the present attempt will be received, which is intended to promote the happiness of the soul, and to elucidate the great scheme of Almighty God in the moral government of the world.

Considering the subject in this view, it may be justly said that every class and description of the admirers and readers of Scripture are interested in an Arrangement of its sacred contents.

The unlearned will be more able to comprehend those difficulties of Scripture which originate in an ignorance of the occasion on which a Psalm or Prophecy was written. The passages which seem at first sight to contradict each other will, by harmonizing the several accounts, be clear and consistent; those innumerable false interpretations of single texts, the chief source perhaps of popular theological misapprehension, will be obviated, by fixing that primary meaning which was intended to be conveyed to the mind of the persons to whom the passage was originally addressed.

The learned will find his labours lessened in tracing the meaning of peculiar words, the object of obscure expressions, or the intention and scope of passages which require more particular attention. As the meaning of a sentence is better and sooner apprehended when the preceding and subsequent passages of the context are evident, so, also, will the meaning of the obscure difficulties of the inspired narrative be more easily discoverable, if the preceding and subsequent events of the connected history are known.

The divine will of all others be most interested in a work of this nature. In expounding the Scripture to his hearers, the primary meaning of a passage is of the utmost importance. As the books of Scripture were all, in some measure, originally designed to accomplish some temporary object before they were committed as a lasting testimony to the Church of God—the spiritual application of every part of the Old Testament to Christians of the present day will be immediately perceived, when the original application to the circumstances of the ancient church has been satisfactorily ascertained. The lessons appointed for every day in the year will become more interesting, in proportion as they are better understood. The beauty and sublimity of many passages will be made evident, when that part of the history of the dispensations of Providence to which they refer is thus more fully developed.

The attendant on public worship, who has but little time, except on the Sunday, for studying the Scriptures, when his attention is arrested by any passage or expression which appears obscure and difficult, if he has not, on his return home, access to commentaries and more valuable and laborious works, will find an Arrangement of the text of the old Testament solve many difficulties, and supply in some degree the place of a more extensive commentary.

The pious mother of a family, who is anxious to lay the foundation of Christian morality upon Christian principles, and endeavours to make her children acquainted with the wisdom “that maketh wise unto salvation,” by engaging their tender minds through the medium of connected annals, will be more able to interest them in the finest volume of all history. Many of the most important parts of the Old Testament are with the utmost difficulty made pleasing to children, who do not, and cannot, at a very early age, perceive the connexion, the consistency, and the harmony, that pervade the whole. While their attention is arrested by the beautiful narratives of the Sacred Volume, they are too often embarrassed and confused by the attempts of the anxious parent to explain the connexion between the parts of that variety of interesting matter which makes the Scripture so attractive as well as useful. The best foundation of a good education is a knowledge of Scripture: and that knowledge will be acquired with delight, if the child becomes interested in the Bible as a complete history. By such an Arrangement, therefore, the labour of the parent is lessened, and the child is at once interested and improved.

The students of history, it may be justly supposed, will be particularly interested in an Arrangement of the Bible. As the history of the world in general has been called "philosophy teaching by examples," the history of the Bible may be called "religion teaching by examples." Without this inestimable collection of records, there would be no foundation for the ancient history of the world: we should be in utter darkness with respect to the most important questions: we should know nothing of the origin of all things—the cause of the mixture of good and evil—the manner in which man began to be, and continues to be, the being that he is: we should know nothing of the origin of nations, or by what means the world was overspread; we should be still ignorant of the primitive condition of society in the patriarchal ages, before the corruptions of the Postdiluvians had introduced, or perfected, the incongruous and detestable system of idolatry which characterized Egypt, and Greece, and Rome, and the whole Pagan world, and which now disgraces the nations of the East in general, and particularly Hindostan. Events which are only hinted at, or referred to in Scripture, are related at length in history. In the Arrangement of the narrative of Scripture the student of history may read the prophecies that foretold events, and in the events recorded in history he will read the accomplishment of those prophecies. History will thus be the commentary on Scripture and on prophecy; and the influence of religion will be confirmed, while the knowledge of the inquirer is increased. The falsely-called philosophical reader of history, who rejects the notion of a particular Providence in overruling the affairs of men, may imagine he can discover adequate causes for the several changes in dominion and power among the ancient monarchies; but he who looks beyond what are called secondary causes perceives that all these powers in their turn were raised up to protect or to punish the visible Church of God; and that when they had accomplished this object, their pride, their greatness, their pomp, and their glory, were annihilated. The history of the Bible alone acquaints us with the real cause of the origin, the decline, and fall, of all the ancient monarchies; and when that history is arranged in its order, a clear explanation is given to many obscurities of ancient history, to the plans of Providence in the government of the world, and to the pre-disposing causes which led to the various circumstances connected with the history of the Church.

Nor will an Arrangement of the Bible be less useful to the general reader, and to the lover of literature; to that large portion of the community who, though they have no objection to peruse works of instruction, uniformly prefer those which promise amusement only. It never ought to be said that the sacred Scriptures are given for our amusement; but while they abound in the most solemn and important lessons, on the observance or neglect of which both our present and our future happiness depends, it is equally true that the lover of poetry may elevate his mind, and kindle his imagination, in admiring ideas which no other book contains, in language which the epic or dramatic power of Greece itself has neither surpassed nor equalled. The literary beauties of the Scriptures, considering those Scriptures only as specimens of composition, are superior to all that can be selected from the tenderest, the sublimest, the most admired efforts of human genius. Those only are worthy to be placed near them, the authors of which have wandered on the heights of Sion's hill, and visited the flowery brooks beneath.

By an Arrangement of the Bible, the lover of literary excellence will be more able to appreciate these invaluable compositions. The jewels of the temple will be set—the apples of gold will be enclosed in the net-work of silver; the man most indifferent to their spiritual value will learn to admire the harmony and simplicity of the narrative, and the magnificence of the poetry. And when he permits the question to propose itself fairly to his consideration, why this wonderful volume was written? Whence was the more than human intellect thus displayed throughout? then it may be, that the same Holy Spirit of God, which gave eloquence and poetry, as well as purity, holiness, and truth, to his servants, may render the impression, which the answer to such a question would suggest, effectual and permanent.

The infidel and the sceptic, who have thoughtlessly or wilfully rejected Revelation, because in truth they have never submitted to the labour of exploring and examining its evidences, may perceive in an Arrangement of the contents of the Old Testament, the most incontrovertible demonstration of the Bible's authenticity, its genuineness, and inspiration.

The absurdities of the deistical Creed are so great, that the wildest reveries of the most unbridled enthusiasm are sober common sense when compared to them ; and the arguments in favour of the Scriptures are so complete and satisfactory, that no additional reasoning can be expected to influence those who have disregarded them : yet a powerful and a novel corroboration of those arguments is afforded by the wonderful harmony which pervades this miscellaneous collection of writings, called the Old Testament. Lord Bacon has observed with equal force and truth, that “The harmony of a science, supporting each part the other, is, and ought to be, the true and brief confutation and suppression of all the smaller sorts of objections.” And the remark will apply to the Arrangement of the Bible. The contents of this book were written at different times : the various writers were unknown to each other. Like the writers of the New Testament, the greater part of them were exposed to suffering and persecution on account of their doctrine ; the times in which they wrote were remote from each other ; their compositions were delivered to the people, and were preserved by the priests in their unconnected form. One primary object was principally intended by each writer, and by every paragraph ; yet all these miscellaneous compositions, when they are put together, are found to contain a perfect history, confirmed by the testimony of all other authenticated histories. The researches of the learned and the enterprising have alike contributed to demonstrate the truth of the narrative, which is so wonderfully complete in itself, that ingenuity has been in vain engaged for two thousand years, in attempting to discover some imposition, or to overthrow one recorded fact. The history, therefore, contained in the Bible, is true, and the system of infidelity is consequently false, or all the writers of the Old Testament without exception were impostors, or dupes, and every history of ancient nations is not to be credited, or, what is still more difficult to suppose, all ancient history is uniformly falsified in those particulars which corroborate the sacred Scriptures. These and many similar absurdities unavoidably consequent on any deistical scheme it is needless to confute ; and these absurdities, the mere statement of which form their immediate refutation, are made more glaring by perusing the Scripture narrative, in the form of an Arrangement of the sacred text.

The pious and humble Christian, as a member of the Universal Church, cannot but be interested in that portion of sacred history which is related in the Old Testament ; and in perusing it in its historical form, he will be able to perceive more clearly the developement of the plans of Providence. He will there discover in what manner events apparently unconnected all tend in a greater or less degree to the fulfilment of some wonderful events which were previously foretold, but which at the time when these results were delivered appeared impossible to be brought about;—he will perceive that all the circumstances recorded in the Scripture tend to one end, with as much regularity as the incidents in a regular drama bring about the catastrophe. He will see them combine in one purpose, prove one point, develop one mighty scheme, which was planned in the councils of Omnipotence, gradually revealed to mankind, and is still in progress among mankind;—he will perceive that the scheme of prophecy has been in a great measure surely accomplished, and will be more and more convinced that the remaining prophecies shall be all fulfilled; he will hail the day when the curse shall be removed, the house of Israel restored, and the reign of universal righteousness commence: he will learn to apply to himself the doctrine of a peculiar Providence: he will see that though prophecy and miracle have in one sense been discontinued, though the canon of the Scripture be closed, yet the gradual fulfilment of the prophecies it contains may be regarded as a perpetual miracle, appealing to the hearts and to the consciences of all the generations of mankind. The same unchangeable God still governs the world and the Church, and orders the events that occur to both according to the purposes of his own will. He rules over the least as well as the greatest events; and as the beauty of a flower, and the mechanism of an insect, declare the universality of his Providence as loudly and as plainly as the sun in the heavens, or the moon walking in her brightness; so does the declaration of his own immutable Scripture, that not a sparrow falls unpermitted to the ground, convince the Christian who views the stupendous events recorded in his Bible, that he too is not, and cannot be, unnoticed nor neglected in the government of the universe. Happy is he, who, having a hope full of immortality, through Him who has become the propitiation for the sins of man, reads his own lot in the conduct of God towards his Church, and resigned, and contented with the present, rejoices in the prospect of the future.

In this edition, which has been carefully corrected, the marginal references, and various readings, are given. And, in order to render this Arrangement still more extensively useful, the whole has been divided into Sections, in such a manner, that, by reading one Section daily, the Old Testament (with the exception of the Genealogical Tables, some parts of the Levitical law, and a few other passages) may be read through once in a year. The Tables of Sections, which have been formed chiefly for THE USE OF FAMILIES, will be found in the annexed Calendar, which is constructed on the same plan with that prefixed to the Book of Common Prayer, in which the reader is referred to the portion of Scripture appointed for every day throughout the year.

¹ Two objects are continually kept in view throughout the volume of the Old Testament. One is, to turn men from idolatry in all its forms of vice and error; the other, to direct their attention, by the gradual developement of the scheme of prophecy, to the future Messiah. It is my design, in the following notes, not only to give the reader, wherever it may appear necessary, satisfactory references for the arrangement I have adopted; but to point out the wonderful manner in which Infinite Wisdom has manifested itself in the government of the world, in constant reference to these two great objects.

² The design of Moses will be better understood, if we consider the state of the world at the time in which the Pentateuch was written. Mankind was absorbed in the grossest idolatry; and that idolatry, for the most part, originated in the neglect, the perversion, or the misapprehension of certain truths, which had once been universally known. Moses therefore commences his narrative, by relating, in simple language, the truths thus disguised, or perverted; and he alludes, in many of his expressions, to the surrounding superstitions. In pursuance of this plan, he relates first, the creation of the world by the one true God, in opposition to the Egyptian doctrines of the necessary eternity of the world, and an infinite succession of similar worlds.—Vide Horsley's Biblical Criticisms, vol. i. p. 3; Faber's Origin of Pagan Idolatry, vol. i. p. 111—152; Hales' Analysis, vol. i. p. 317; with the authorities in Pritchard's Egyptian Mythology, p. 178—187.

A. C. 4004. And God said, ^g Let the waters under the heaven be gathered together unto one place, and let the dry land appear : and it was so. And God called the dry land Earth ; and the 10 gathering together of the waters called he Seas : and God saw that it was good. And God said, Let the earth. bring forth 11 ^h grass, the herb yielding seed, and the fruit tree yielding fruit after his kind, whose seed is in itself, upon the earth : and it was so. And the earth brought forth grass, and herb yielding 12 seed after his kind, and the tree yielding fruit, whose seed was in itself, after his kind : and God saw that it was good. And God made two 16 great lights ; the greater light ^k to rule the day, and the lesser light to rule the night : he made the stars also. And God set 17 them in the firmament of the heaven to give light upon the earth, and to ^l rule over the day and over the night, and to 18 divide the light from the darkness : and God saw that it was good. And the evening and the morning were the fourth 19 day.

⁷ As Adam and Eve were created on the sixth day, the history of their creation necessarily precedes the account of the institution of the Sabbath. Lightfoot inserts the institution of the Sabbath after the Fall; but we have no proof, from the history, on what day the Fall took place. There is a tradition, that our first parents were in Paradise forty days.

^a The history of the Fall, and the account of the garden of Eden, which precedes it, must be taken literally: there is no proof or appearance of allegory; and that they were always so understood, is sufficiently evident from the remains of the traditions of ancient nations. The proofs are too numerous even to be hinted at here; but the curious reader may compare the authorities in Faber's Origin of Pagan Idolatry, with Dean Allix' Reflections on the books of Moses, particularly chapters x—xviii.; in which the Dean shows, that Moses related nothing but what was generally known.

^g From the moment of the announcement of this promise, the bright and morning star of prophecy, mankind lived in constant, and sometimes in daily, expectation of the Messiah. Their attention was now directed to their future Deliverer; and we shall see their expectations continually renewed, by the long train of prophecies and institutions, till the aged Simeon desired to depart when he beheld the promised salvation.

So ¹¹ he 24 drove out the man; and he placed at the east of the garden of Eden Cherubims, and a flaming sword which turned every way, to keep the way of the tree of life.

History of Adam and his Descendants, till the Deluge.

GENESIS IV. VER. 1—16.

^a Heb. Hebel. And she again bare his brother ^a Abel. And Abel was ^b a 2 keeper of sheep, but Cain was a tiller of the ground. And ^c in 3 process of time it came to pass, that Cain brought of the fruit of the ground an offering unto the LORD. ¹⁰ We live in Messiah's world. The divine Personage who is here called the LORD God, and who spoke to Adam in the garden, was the angel Jehovah, who afterwards appeared to the patriarchs, led the Israelites through the wilderness, tabernacled among men in the form of a man, is still the head of his Church, and will again appear to the world. Three things were necessary to be known by man, even in a state of purity; and they appear to have been revealed to him by the angel Jehovah. These were, the right choice of food; the rite of marriage; and the use of language. The angel Jehovah had been the guide and protector of man before his fall, and he afterwards becomes his Mediator and Judge. The angel Jehovah commences a new dispensation, which, when it has passed through its three forms, Patriarchal, Levitical, and Christian, will be terminated by reviving and perfecting the primeval happiness of mankind, in that future Paradise, of which the garden of Eden was but an emblem.—Vide Barrington's Essay on the Dispensations; Burnet's Sermons at Boyle's Lecture, vol. ii.; Law's Theory of Religion, 4th edit. p. 50; and Lowman's Essay on the Shechinah.

¹¹ Our first parents were now banished from Paradise, and clothed in skins. At this time sacrifices were appointed to be offered. The Deity was pleased to ordain, that "without shedding of blood, is no remission of sins." God therefore commanded, that the blood of animals should be offered mystically, as an acknowledgment of the sins of man. Not that the blood of bulls and of goats "could take away sin;" but that the sacrificer, by offering his bleeding victim, in compliance with the divine ordinance, confessed thereby, that, through sin, he was himself deserving of destruction, and unable of himself to propitiate the Deity. By thus shedding the blood of an innocent victim, he declared his faith and dependence on a better and more perfect atonement. And, as there can be no imaginable connexion between the death of a lamb and the forgiveness of the crime of a man, it is not possible that this plan of worship could have originated in the mind of man.—Vide the authorities on this subject, collected in Ahp. Magee's work on the Atonement; in Faber's chapter on the Origin and Purport of Sacrificial Rites, Orig. of Pag. Idol. b. 2. c. viii.; and in Outram de Sacrificiis. Mr. Davison's arguments do not convince me that the opinion which I have here given is erroneous. See his work on Primitive Sacrifice.

¹² In this passage we see the first tokens of the anxious desire of the human race to behold the promised Messiah. The meaning of the exclamation, in the opinion of many divines, is, "I have obtained the man, even Jehovah himself."

Heidegger interprets the phrase thus: "Then began men to be called by the name of the Lord;" that is, the visible church had so diminished, that the faithful of Jehovah were called, by way of distinction, by the name of the Lord.—Heidegger (Sac. - 1 AND it came to pass, when men began to multiply on the ^{2468.}
2 face of the earth, and daughters were born unto them, that the sons of God saw the daughters of men that they were fair; and 3 they took them wives of all which they chose. And the LORD said, My spirit shall not always strive with man, for that he also is flesh: yet his days shall be an hundred and twenty years.
4 There were giants in the earth in those days; and also after that, when the sons of God came in unto the daughters of men, and they bare children to them, the same became mighty men which were of old, men of renown.

¹⁷ The sacred historian now proceeds to relate the history of the Deluge. The causes for which this terrible judgment of the Almighty was permitted to overwhelm the earth are to be found in the state of mankind at that period. It seems to have been necessary (if the term necessary may be applied to the works of that Being, to whom necessity and chance "approach not") for the preservation of the line of the Messiah, and for the perpetual instruction of mankind. The apostasy was almost universal; the visible church of God was reduced to one family; and it is scarcely possible to suppose, that this single family would long have remained unaffected by the contagion of infidelity around them. The world therefore was destroyed, that the church of God might be preserved; as it is at present only "kept in store," until the numbers of the Christian Church be completed. The Being who utters these words to Noah is the angel Jehovah, the Messiah of the Church: and the words in Gen. vi. 17, "I, even I, do bring a flood of waters," may be considered as an assertion of his divinity, as a declaration of the power which he possessed, as the God of mankind, to destroy, as well as to create and to preserve. That this wonderful event, the Deluge, certainly took place, is confirmed by every proof which could be required by the most incredulous. Its history is written on the surface of the globe, and engrafted into the annals of all nations. If it once took place, it could never have been forgotten; and we accordingly find, that it was commemorated by rites, customs, festivals, and emblems; such as the dove, the serpent, the lotus, the cypselus, the mundane or arkite egg, with many others; all of which, though useful and innocent at first, were afterwards perverted to idolatrous uses. Moses therefore relates this important history at some length, and uses many expressions which evidently allude to the manners and customs of the surrounding idolatrous nations.—(Vide Bryant's Analysis; Maurice's Hindostan papers in the Asiatic Researches; Faber's Origin of Pagan Idolatry; in which the interesting subjects of the arkite worship, and the traditions of the Deluge, are discussed at great length.)

And the flood was forty days upon the earth; and the waters 17 increased, and bare up the ark, and it was lift up above the earth. And the waters prevailed, and were increased greatly 18 upon the earth; and the ark went upon the face of the waters. And the waters prevailed exceedingly upon the earth; and all 19 the high hills, that were under the whole heaven, were covered. Fifteen cubits upward did the waters prevail; and the moun- 20

And God remembered Noah, and every living thing, and 1 all the cattle that was with him in the ark: and God made a wind to pass over the earth, and the waters asswaged. The 2 fountains also of the deep and the windows of heaven were stopped, and the rain from heaven was restrained; and the 3

And it came to pass at the end of forty days, that Noah 6 opened the window of the ark which he had made: and he sent 7 c Heb. in going forth and returning. forth a raven, which went forth ^c to and fro, until the waters were dried up from off the earth. Also he sent forth a dove 8 from him, to see if the waters were abated from off the face of the ground; but the dove found no rest for the sole of her 9 foot, and she returned unto him into the ark, for the waters were on the face of the whole earth: then he put forth his hand, and took her, and ^d pulled her in unto him into the ark. And he stayed yet other seven days; and again he sent forth 10 the dove out of the ark; and the dove came in to him in 11 the evening; and, lo, in her mouth was an olive leaf pluckt off: so Noah knew that the waters were abated from off the earth. And he stayed yet other seven days; and sent forth 12 the dove; which returned not again unto him any more.

GENESIS IX. VER. 18. TO THE END.

AND the sons of Noah, that went forth of the ark, were 18 Shem, and Ham, and Japheth: and Ham is the father of ^h Canaan. These are the three sons of Noah: and of them 19 was the whole earth overspread. And Noah began to be an 20 husbandman, and he planted a vineyard: and he drank of the 21 wine, and was drunken; and he was uncovered within his tent. And Ham, the father of Canaan, saw the nakedness of his 22 father, and told his two brethren without. And Shem and 23 Japheth took a garment, and laid it upon both their shoulders, and went backward, and covered the nakedness of their father; and their faces were backward, and they saw not their father's nakedness. And Noah awoke from his wine, and knew what 24 his younger son had done unto him. And he said, Cursed be 25 Canaan; a servant of servants shall he be unto his brethren. And he said, Blessed be the LORD God of Shem; and Canaan 26 shall be ⁱ his servant. God shall ^j enlarge Japheth, and he 27 shall dwell in the tents of Shem; and Canaan shall be his servant. And Noah lived after the flood three hundred and fifty years. 28 And all the days of Noah were nine hundred and fifty years: 29 and he died. 18

That the whole world was of one language, and that their language was that of Noah and his three sons, is acknowledged by all: and Josephus informs us, that mankind long remained together as one family, inhabiting the tops of the mountains, in the country round Ararat. While they were thus united, it is likewise generally allowed, that their future destinations were assigned to them by Noah, speaking under the influence of divine inspiration. Moses mentions this division of the earth (Deut. xxxii. 7, 8.), when the Israelites were in sight of the Holy Land, and reminds them, as of a thing well known, that Canaan had been from the beginning the lot of their inheritance.

So far then all are agreed. With respect to the emigration of mankind from Armenia (for there, according to the best evidence, the ark rested), Mr. Bryant (with others) is of opinion, that some of the families of Noah dispersed in an orderly manner to their respective settlements. This was the first dispersion; and this event he supposes to be related in that most invaluable of all ancient records, the tenth chapter of Genesis. Other families were not, however, equally obedient to the divine will. The sons of Cush, under the command of Nimrod, marched off through the defiles of the lofty Tauric range; passed round the southern extremity of the Caspian Sea, and then turning to the south-west, reached the plain of Shinar. There they built the city and the tower of Babel. Thence they were dispersed by miracle, and scattered over the whole earth. The confusion of tongues, Mr. Bryant supposes, to have been merely the confusion of the lip, or a change of pronunciation only. After this second dispersion, the Cuthim or Hammonians, as they were called, wandered over the earth; established their idolatry, which consisted chiefly of the worship of fire, and of the sun, with the Arkite rites; carried every where science, arts, and commerce; conquered their brethren, planted flourishing colonies, and founded powerful kingdoms.

Mr. Faber supposes, that mankind continued in Armenia till after the death of Noah and his three sons; and endeavours to confirm this position by adopting the chronology of the Samaritan Pentateuch. In the year 559 after the deluge, according to this learned and ingenious author, the whole of the descendants of Noah, under the influence of Nimrod and the family of Cush, who had gradually obtained great influence among their brethren, moved in one large body from Armenia, and, following the course of the Euphrates, at length arrived in Shinar. At this place idolatry, which had insensibly commenced in Armenia, and proceeded till it had almost superseded the worship of the one true God, was perfected. As the human mind never tolerates any violent or sudden change in received and well confirmed opinions, the ancient idolatry is supposed to have originated in slow and imperceptible innovations, alterations, and perversions of the pure patriarchal religion; till it became a strange and monstrous compound of Demonolatry, Sabianism, Materialism, Polytheism, and cruelty. The outward forms of Patriarchism were studiously copied: even the doctrine of the Incarnation was perverted to hero worship: each of their ancestors who had been eminent or useful,

And they had brick for stone, and slime had they for mortar. And they said, Go ⁴ to, let us build us a city and a tower, whose top may reach unto heaven; and let us make us a name, lest we be scattered abroad upon the face of the whole earth. And the LORD came down ⁵

e Heb. burn them to a burning.

was considered as an incarnation of the Deity; and there is abundant reason to believe, that the influence of Nimrod was obtained from this circumstance; that he assumed the title of "the Son;" he named himself, and was believed to be, the expected Incarnate, the angel Jehovah, who sometimes appeared to mankind.

Had this state of things continued, religion would have been again in danger of perishing from off the earth. Mankind continued at Shinar, Mr. Faber endeavours to prove, about seventy-one years. During this period, the whole body of mankind were divided into castes, under the influence of Nimrod, the Maha-Bad, or Maha-Bel, or the great Belus of the Hindoos; and every effort which human wisdom could contrive was exerted, to continue the influence of the sacerdotal and military family of the Cuthim; and to perpetuate, against the commands of God, the unholy union of a corrupt and idolatrous empire.

While the tower, which they intended to be the monument of their glory, was still building, the true Incarnate, the angel Jehovah, appeared to them from heaven; overthrew their tower (according to general tradition) with thunders and lightnings; and confused their language, "so that they left off to build the city."

The Jewish writers believed that seventy-two languages were spoken upon the dispersion from Shinar, corresponding with the number of the heads of families. The learned Joseph Mede supposes there were but sixteen, corresponding with the heads of nations. Sir William Jones, however, seems to have demonstrated that three languages only succeeded to the one language spoken at Shinar: after this event, he is of opinion that the primitive language was entirely lost. Others with great probability affirm, that the Hebrew was the primitive and sacred language.

Language was at first the gift of God. The various disquisitions of learned men have proved that it could not have been the invention of man. It was given by miracle and inspiration.

As the primitive language was thus given, so the three languages to which, according to Sir William Jones, all the dialects of men are to be traced, were three underived, unconnected languages. All mankind is divided into three races, corresponding with the three languages. The three races are denominated by Sir William Jones (speaking generally) Hindoos, Arabs, and Tartars; the three languages, Sanscrit, Arabic, and Slavonic.

The Indian race comprehends the ancient Persians; the Asiatic and African Ethiopians; the Greeks, Phenicians, Tuscans; the Scuths, or Goths; the Celts; the Chinese, Japanese, Egyptians, Syrians, Burmans, Romans, and Peruvians.

The language of the Indian race was Sanscrit; the parent of the Gothic and Celtic, though blended with another idiom, the Persian, the Armenian, and the old Ethiopic. Sanscrit too is undoubtedly the fountain of the Greek and Latin. The traditions of Homer are to be found in Sanscrit Poems; the idolatry of Greece and Rome was brought into those countries by the Pelasgi, who were but a branch of the Cuthic shepherds, whose language was Sanscrit.

The Arabic race comprehends those who occupy the country between the Red Sea and the Persian Gulf. From the Arabic spring the dialects used by the Jews, Arabs, and Assyrians.

The Tartar race comprehends those who occupy the wide regions of Tartary; who have spread themselves into Russia, Poland, and Hungary. Their language was the Slavonic, from which originated, so far as Sir William Jones could decide, the various dialects of Northern Asia, and North Eastern Europe.

Bryant, Sir William Jones, and Mr. Faber, are thus more particularly mentioned, because they are not only the best, but the last, of the more eminent writers who have discussed this subject; and they are all intimately acquainted with the learned labours of their predecessors. Our knowledge of the circumstances of the dispersion, and of the manner in which Idolatry was established in the several countries where it most flourished, has been much increased by these authors; particularly by Mr. Faber. But the general conclusion at which they and the earlier writers arrived, is the same: and the question is for ever set at rest, whether all the races of men were descended from one stock: the dark Negro, the white European, and the swarthy Asiatic, being plainly traced to their respective ancestors of the family of Noah. Vide Bryant's Analysis; Faber's Origin of Pagan Idolatry, chiefly B. 6; Papers of Sir Wm. Jones, in the three first volumes of the Asiatic Researches; Mede; Lightfoot; Stillingfleet.

 they have all one language; and this they begin to do: and now nothing will be restrained from them, which they have 7 imagined to do. Go to, let us go down, and there confound their language, that they may not understand one another's speech.
 8 So the LORD scattered them abroad from thence upon the face 9 of all the earth: and they left off to build the city. Therefore

PART II.

*The Life of Job*¹.

SECTION I.

JOB I. VER. 1—5.

The holiness, riches, and religious care of Job for his children.

- 1 THERE was a man in the land of Uz, whose name was Job; A.C. 2130. and that man was ^a perfect and upright, and one that feared ^{a ch. ii. 3.}

1. The silence of this book respecting the Exodus, the passage of the Red Sea, the promulgation of the law, &c. &c. which took place in the vicinity of the country of Job, and which were so apposite in his debate on the ways of Providence, seems to prove that it was written prior to those events.

2. Its silence respecting the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah, shows that it was written before that event.

3. The longevity of Job places him among the patriarchs which long preceded Abraham. He survived his trial 140 years; and is supposed to have attained to that age before his trial began.

4. The manners and customs are exclusively those of pure and ancient patriarchism. He was the priest in his own family; and the institution of an established priesthood does not appear to have taken place till the days of Abraham.

5. The very ancient custom of prostration, as a mark of respect, does not even appear to have been known in Arabia, in the time of Job. Job was one of "the greatest men of the east," yet we do not find this adoration paid to him. See the marks of respect shown to Job, chap. xxix.

6. The most ancient kind of idolatry seems to have been Zabanism, which, in the time of Job, was regarded with abhorrence, as a novelty deserving judicial punishment. (Job xxxi. 26.)

7. In the time of Job, the stars Chimah and Chesil, or Taurus and Scorpio, (Job ix. 9,) were the cardinal constellations of spring and autumn. Dr. Hales calculates, in the usual manner, from their present position, the probable period of Job's trial.

Such are the arguments of the venerable Dr. Hales, which have induced me to place the history of the life of Job before that of Abraham. They do not, however, appear to fix his exact era; for the mere circumstance, that Job mentions certain stars, does not prove them to have been the cardinal constellations in his day. With Dr. Hales, therefore, I have placed the life of Job before that of Abraham, but have supposed him to have lived about the year 2130 A.C. The postdiluvian patriarchs, who lived the same number of years, were contemporary with each other. Job is said to have lived 280 years; and it is supposed that his life was prolonged on account of his piety and sufferings. If we allow fifty years for this unusual term, his age will be found to be of the same length as that of Serug, the great-grandfather of Abraham, who flourished about this time.

But my chief reason for assigning to the life of Job its present date is derived from a consideration of the manner in which God has condescended to deal with mankind.

Idolatry, as we read in the preceding Part of this Period, had occasioned the dispersion from Babel. It was gradually encroaching still further on every family, which had not yet lost the knowledge of the true God. Whoever has studied the conduct of Providence, will have observed, that God has never left himself without witnesses, in the world, to the truth of his religion. To the old world, Noah was a preacher and a witness; to the latter times of patriarchism, Abraham and his descendants; to the ages of the Levitical law, Moses, David, and the Prophets; and to the first ages of Christianity, the apostles and the martyrs were severally witnesses of the truth of God. But we have no account whatever, unless Job be the man, that any faithful confessor of the one true God arose between the dispersion from Babel and the call of Abraham. If it be said, that the family of Shem was the visible church of that age, it may be answered, that it is doubtful whether even this family were not idolaters; for Joshua tells the Israelites, (Jos. xxiv. 2.) that the ancestors of Abraham were worshippers of images.

Job therefore, in this age of error, may be considered as the faithful witness, in his day, to the hope of the Messiah: he professed the true religion, and his belief in the following important truths:—the creation of the world by one Supreme Being; the government of that world by the Providence of God; the corruption of man, by nature; the necessity of sacrifices to propitiate the Deity; and the certainty of a future resurrection. These were the doctrines of the patriarchal age, as well as of the Jewish and Christian covenants. They are the fundamental truths of that

His ^b substance also was seven ³ thousand sheep, and three thousand camels, and five hundred yoke of oxen, and five hundred she asses, and a very great ^c household; so that this man was the greatest of all the ^d men of the east. And his sons went and feasted in their houses, ⁴ every one his day; and sent and called for their three sisters to eat and to drink with them. And it was so, when the days of their ⁵ feasting were gone about, that Job sent and sanctified them, and rose up early in the morning, ^e and offered burnt offerings according to the number of them all: for Job said, It may be that my sons have sinned, and ^f cursed God in their hearts. 1 Again there was a day when the sons of God came to present themselves before the LORD, and Satan came also among them to present himself before the LORD. And Satan answered the LORD, and said, Skin for skin, yea, all that a man hath will he give for his life. But put forth thine hand now, and touch his bone and his flesh, and he will curse thee to thy face. And the LORD said unto Satan, Behold, he is in thine hand; ^d but save his life.

7 So went Satan forth from the presence of the LORD, and smote Job with sore boils from the sole of his foot unto his crown.

8 And he took him a potsherd to scrape himself withal; and he sat down among the ashes.

9 Then said his wife unto him, Dost thou still retain thine integrity? curse God, and die. But he said unto her, Thou speakest as one of the foolish women speaketh. What? shall we receive good at the hand of God, and shall we not receive evil? In all this did not Job sin with his lips.

Or, Deliver me from the enemy's hand? or, Redeem me 23 from the hand of the mighty?

Teach me, and I will hold my tongue: and cause me to 24 understand wherein I have erred.

How forcible are right words! but what doth your arguing 25 reprove?

Do ye imagine to reprove words, and the speeches of one 26 that is desperate, which are as wind?

^m Heb. ye cause to fall upon. Yea, ^m ye overwhelm the fatherless, and ye dig a pit for your 27 friend.

ⁿ Heb. before your face. Now therefore be content, look upon me; for it is ⁿ evident 28 unto you if I lie.

^o That is, in this matter. Return, I pray you, let it not be iniquity; yea, return again, 29 my righteousness is ^o in it.

^p Heb. my palate. Is there iniquity in my tongue? cannot ^p my taste discern 30 perverse things?

JOB VII.

1 Job excuseth his desire of death. 12 He complaineth of his own restlessness, 17 and God's watchfulness.

^a Or, a warfare. Is there not ^a an appointed time to man upon earth? are not 1 his days also like the days of an hireling?

^b Heb. gapeth after. As a servant ^b earnestly desireth the shadow, and as an hire- 2 ling looketh for the reward of his work:

- 3 So am I made to possess months of vanity, and wearisome ^{A.C. 2130.} nights are appointed to me.
- 4 When I lie down, I say, When shall I arise, and * the night ^{c Heb. the evening be measured.} be gone? and I am full of tossings to and fro unto the dawning of the day.
- 5 My flesh is clothed with worms and clods of dust; my skin is broken, and become loathsome.
- 6 ^d My days are swifter than a weaver's shuttle, and are spent without hope. ^{d ch. xvi. 22. & xvii. 11.}
- 7 O remember that my life is wind: mine eye * shall no more see good. ^{Ps. xc. 6. & cil. 11. & cil. 15. & cxliv. 4. Isa. xxxviii. 12. & xl. 6.}
- 8 The eye of him that hath seen me shall see me no more: thine eyes are upon me, and ^e I am not. ^{Jam. iv. 14. e Heb. shall not return.}
- 9 As the cloud is consumed and vanisheth away: so he that goeth down to the grave shall come up no more. ^{f To see, that is, to enjoy. g That is, I can live no longer.}
- 10 He shall return no more to his house, neither shall his place know him any more.
- 11 Therefore I will not refrain my mouth; I will speak in the anguish of my spirit; I will complain in the bitterness of my soul.
- 12 Am I a sea, or a whale, that thou settest a watch over me?
- 13 When I say, My bed shall comfort me, my couch shall ease my complaint;
- 14 Then thou scarest me with dreams, and terrifiest me through visions:
- 15 So that my soul chooseth strangling, and death rather ^h than my life. ^{h Heb. than my bones.}
- 16 I loathe it; I would not live alway: let me alone; for my days are vanity.
- 17 What is man, that thou shouldest magnify him? and that thou shouldest set thine heart upon him? ^{i Ps. viii. 4. & cxliv. 3. Heb. ii. 6.}
- 18 And that thou shouldest visit him every morning, and try him every moment?
- 19 How long wilt thou not depart from me, nor let me alone till I swallow down my spittle?
- 20 I have sinned; what shall I do unto thee, O thou preserver of men? why hast thou set me as a mark against thee, so that I am a burden to myself?
- 21 And why dost thou not pardon my transgression, and take away mine iniquity? for now shall I sleep in the dust; and thou shalt seek me in the morning, but I shall not be.

§ 7. The Argument taken up by Bildad.

JOB VIII.

1 Bildad sheweth God's justice in dealing with men according to their works. 8 He alledgeth antiquity to prove the certain destruction of the hypocrite. 20 He applieth God's just dealing to Job.

1 Then answered Bildad the Shuhite, and said,

A.C. 2130. If the scourge slay suddenly, he will laugh at the trial of the 23 innocent.

The earth is given into the hand of the wicked: he 24 covereth the faces of the judges thereof; if not, where, and who is he?

Now my days are swifter than a post: they flee away, they 25 see no good.

^k Heb. ships of desire: or, ships of Ebeh. They are passed away as the ^k swift ships: as the eagle that 26 hasteth to the prey.

If I say, I will forget my complaint, I will leave off my 27 heaviness, and comfort myself:

I am afraid of all my sorrows, I know that thou wilt not hold 28 me innocent.

If I be wicked, why then labour I in vain? 29

If I wash myself with snow water, and make my hands never 30 so clean;

Yet shalt thou plunge me in the ditch, and mine own clothes 31 shall ^l abhor me.

^l Or, make me to be abhorred.

For he is not a man, as I am, that I should answer him, and 32 we should come together in judgment.

^m Heb. one that should argue.
ⁿ Or, umpire.

Neither is there ^m any ⁿ daysman betwixt us, that might lay 33 his hand upon us both.

Let him take his rod away from me, and let not his fear 34 terrify me:

^o Heb. But I am not so with myself.

Then would I speak, and not fear him; ^o but it is not so with 35 me.

JOB X.

1 Job, taking liberty of complaint, expostulateth with God about his afflictions. 18 He complaineth of life, and craveth a little ease before death.

^a Or, cut off while I live.

My soul is ^a weary of my life; I will leave my complaint 1 upon myself; I will speak in the bitterness of my soul.

I will say unto God, Do not condemn me; shew me where- 2 fore thou contendest with me.

^b Heb. the labour of thine hands.

Is it good unto thee that thou shouldest oppress, that thou 3 shouldest despise ^b the work of thine hands, and shine upon the counsel of the wicked?

Hast thou eyes of flesh? or seest thou as man seeth? 4

Are thy days as the days of man? are thy years as man's 5 days,

That thou enquirest after mine iniquity, and searchest after 6 my sin?

^c Heb. It is upon thy knowledge.

Thou knowest that I am not wicked; and there is none that 7 can deliver out of thine hand.

^d Heb. took pains about me.

Thine hands ^d have made me and fashioned me together 8 round about; yet thou dost destroy me.

Remember, I beseech thee, that thou hast made me as the 9 clay; and wilt thou bring me into dust again?

- 10 ^e Hast thou not poured me out as milk, and curdled me like cheese ? A.C. 2130.
e Ps. cxxxiv
14, 15, 16.
f Heb. hedged.
- 11 Thou hast clothed me with skin and flesh, and hast ^f fenced me with bones and sinews.
- 12 Thou hast granted me life and favour, and thy visitation hath preserved my spirit.
- 13 And these things hast thou hid in thine heart: I know that this is with thee.
- 14 If I sin, then thou markest me, and thou wilt not acquit me from mine iniquity.
- 15 If I be wicked, woe unto me; and if I be righteous, yet will I not lift up my head. I am full of confusion; therefore see thou mine affliction;
- 16 For it increaseth. Thou huntest me as a fierce lion: and again thou shewest thyself marvellous upon me.
- 17 Thou renewest ^g thy witnesses against me, and increasest thine indignation upon me; changes and war are against me. g That is, t plagues.
- 18 ^h Wherefore then hast thou brought me forth out of the womb? Oh that I had given up the ghost, and no eye had seen me ! h ch. iii. 1
- 19 I should have been as though I had not been; I should have been carried from the womb to the grave.
- 20 ⁱ Are not my days few? cease then, and let me alone, that I may take comfort a little, i See ch. v 6. 16. & viii.
- 21 Before I go whence I shall not return, even to the land of darkness and the shadow of death;
- 22 A land of darkness, as darkness itself; and of the shadow of death, without any order, and where the light is as darkness.

JOB XI.

1 Zophar reproveth Job for justifying himself. 5 God's wisdom is unsearchable. 13 The assured blessing of repentance.

- 1 Then answered Zophar the Naamathite, and said,
- 2 Should not the multitude of words be answered? and should ^a a man full of talk be justified? a Heb. a man of lips.
- 3 Should thy ^b lies make men hold their peace? and when thou mockest, shall no man make thee ashamed? b Or, devices.
- 4 For thou hast said, My doctrine is pure, and I am clean in thine eyes.
- 5 But oh that God would speak, and open his lips against thee;
- 6 And that he would shew thee the secrets of wisdom, that they are double to that which is! Know therefore that God exacteth of thee less than thine iniquity deserveth.
- 7 Canst thou by searching find out God? canst thou find out the Almighty unto perfection?

A.C. 2130.

c Heb. *the heights of heaven.*d Or, *make a change.*e Heb. *who can turn him away?*f Heb. *empty.*g Heb. *shall arise above the noonday.*h Lev. xxvi. 5. i Heb. *intreat thy face.*j Heb. *flight shall perish from them.*k ch. viii. 14. & xviii. 14. Prov. xi. 7. l Or, a puff of breath.

It is ^c as high as heaven; what canst thou do? deeper than 8 hell; what canst thou know?

The measure thereof is longer than the earth, and broader 9 than the sea.

If he ^d cut off, and shut up, or gather together, then ^e who 10 can hinder him?

For he knoweth vain men: he seeth wickedness also; will 11 he not then consider it?

For ^f vain man would be wise, though man be born like a 12 wild ass's colt.

If thou prepare thine heart, and stretch out thine hands 13 toward him;

If iniquity be in thine hand, put it far away, and let not 14 wickedness dwell in thy tabernacles.

For then shalt thou lift up thy face without spot; yea, thou 15 shalt be stedfast, and shalt not fear:

Because thou shalt forget thy misery, and remember it as 16 waters that pass away.

And thine age ^g shall be clearer than the noonday; thou 17 shalt shine forth, thou shalt be as the morning.

And thou shalt be secure, because there is hope; yea, thou 18 shalt dig about thee, and ^h thou shalt take thy rest in safety.

Also thou shalt lie down, and none shall make thee afraid; 19 yea, many shall ⁱ make suit unto thee.

But the eyes of the wicked shall fail, ^j and they shall 20 not escape, and ^k their hope shall be as ^l the giving up of the ghost.

§ 10. Reply of Job to the whole Argument.

JOB XII.

1 Job maintaineth himself against his friends that reprove him. 7 He acknowledgeth the general doctrine of God's omnipotency.

And Job answered and said,

No doubt but ye are the people, and wisdom shall die with 2 you.

But I have ^a understanding as well as you; ^b I am not in- 3 ferior to you: yea, ^c who knoweth not such things as these?

I am as one mocked of his neighbour, who calleth upon 4 God, and he answereth him: the just upright man is laughed to scorn.

He that is ready to slip with his feet is as a lamp despised 5 in the thought of him that is at ease.

The tabernacles of robbers prosper, and they that provoke 6 God are secure; into whose hand God bringeth abundantly.

But ask now the beasts, and they shall teach thee; and the 7 fowls of the air, and they shall tell thee:

Or speak to the earth, and it shall teach thee: and the fishes 8 of the sea shall declare unto thee.

- 9 Who knoweth not in all these that the hand of the LORD ^{A.C. 2130.} hath wrought this?
- 10 In whose hand is the ^d soul of every living thing, and the breath of ^e all mankind. <sup>d Or, life.

- 16 With him is strength and wisdom: the deceived and the deceiver are his.
- 17 He leadeth counsellors away spoiled, and maketh the judges fools.
- 18 He looseth the bond of kings, and girdeth their loins with a girdle.
- 19 He leadeth princes away spoiled, and overthroweth the mighty.
- 20 ^k He removeth away ^l the speech of the trusty, and taketh away the understanding of the aged. <sup>k Ch. xxxii. 9.

- 21 He poureth contempt upon princes, and ^m weakeneth the strength of the mighty. <sup>l Heb. the lip

- 22 He discovereth deep things out of darkness, and bringeth out to light the shadow of death.

- 24 He taketh away the heart of the chief of the people of the earth, and causeth them to wander in a wilderness where there is no way.

der.</sup>

JOB XIII.

1 Job reproveth his friends of partiality. 14 He professeth his confidence in God: 20 and intreateth to know his own sins, and God's purpose in afflicting him.

- 1 Lo, mine eye hath seen all this, mine ear hath heard and understood it.
- 2 What ye know, the same do I know also: I am not inferior unto you.
- 3 Surely I would speak to the Almighty, and I desire to reason with God.
- 4 But ye are forgers of lies, ye are all physicians of no value.
- 5 O that ye would altogether hold your peace! and it should be your wisdom.

A.C. 2130. Hear now my reasoning, and hearken to the pleadings of 6 my lips.

Will ye speak wickedly for God? and talk deceitfully for him? 7

Will ye accept his person? will ye contend for God? 8

Is it good that he should search you out? or as one man 9 mocketh another, do ye so mock him?

He will surely reprove ye, if you do secretly accept persons. 10

Shall not his excellency make you afraid? and his dread fall 11 upon you?

Your remembrances are like unto ashes, your bodies to 12 bodies of clay.

^a Heb. Be-sistent from me. ^a Hold your peace, let me alone, that I may speak, and let 13 come on me what will.

Wherefore do I take my flesh in my teeth, and put my life 14 in mine hand?

^b Heb. *prove,
or, argue.* ^b Though he slay me, yet will I trust in him: but I will 15 maintain mine own ways before him.

He also shall be my salvation: for an hypocrite shall not 16 come before him.

Hear diligently my speech, and my declaration with your ears. 17

Behold now, I have ordered my cause; I know that I shall 18 be justified.

Who is he that will plead with me? for now, if I hold my 19 tongue, I shall give up the ghost.

Only do not two things unto me: then will I not hide myself 20 from thee.

Withdraw thine hand far from me: and let not thy dread 21 make me afraid.

Then call thou, and I will answer: or let me speak, and 22 answer thou me.

How many are mine iniquities and sins? make me to know 23
my transgression and my sin.

Wherefore hidest thou thy face, and holdest me for thine 24 enemy?

Wilt thou break a leaf driven to and fro? and wilt thou 25 pursue the dry stubble?

^c Ps. xxv. 7. For thou writest bitter things against me, and ^c makest me 26 to possess the iniquities of my youth.

- 5 ^e Seeing his days are determined, the number of his months are with thee, thou hast appointed his bounds that he cannot pass ; e ch. vii. 1.
- 6 Turn from him, that he may ^f rest, till he shall accomplish, as an hireling, his day. f Heb. cease.
- 7 For there is hope of a tree, if it be cut down, that it will sprout again, and that the tender branch thereof will not cease.
- 8 Though the root thereof wax old in the earth, and the stock thereof die in the ground ;
- 9 Yet through the scent of water it will bud, and bring forth boughs like a plant.
- 10 But man dieth, and ^g wasteth away : yea, man giveth up the ghost, and where is he ? g Heb. is weakened, or, cut off.
- 11 As the waters fail from the sea, and the flood decayeth and drieth up ;
- 12 So man lieth down, and riseth not : till the heavens be no more, they shall not awake, nor be raised out of their sleep.
- 13 O that thou wouldest hide me in the grave, that thou wouldest keep me secret, until thy wrath be past, that thou wouldest appoint me a set time, and remember me !
- 14 If a man die, shall he live again ? all the days of my appointed time will I wait, till my change come.
- 15 Thou shalt call, and I will answer thee : thou wilt have a desire to the work of thine hands.
- 16 ^h For now thou numberest my steps : dost thou not watch over my sin ? h Ps. cxxxix. 2, 3.
- 17 My transgression is sealed up in a bag, and thou sewest up mine iniquity.
- 18 And surely the mountain falling ⁱ cometh to nought, and the rock is removed out of his place. i Heb. fadeth.
- 19 The waters wear the stones : thou ^j wasthest away the things which grow out of the dust of the earth ; and thou destroyest the hope of man. j Heb. overflowest.
- 20 Thou prevailest for ever against him, and he passeth : thou changest his countenance, and sendest him away.
- 21 His sons come to honour, and he knoweth it not ; and they are brought low, but he perceiveth it not of them.
- 22 But his flesh upon him shall have pain, and his soul within him shall mourn.

§ 11. The Second Controversy between Job and his Friends.

JOB XV.

1 Eliphaz reproveth Job of impiety in justifying himself. 17 He proveth by tradition the unquietness of wicked men.

A.C. 2130. Then answered Eliphaz the Temanite, and said, 1 a Heb. knowledge of wind. Should a wise man utter ^a vain knowledge, and fill his belly 2 with the east wind?

Should he reason with unprofitable talk? or with speeches 3 wherewith he can do no good?

b Heb, thou makest void. Yea, ^b thou castest off fear, and restrainest ^c prayer before 4 c Or, speech. God.

d Heb. teacheth. For thy mouth ^d uttereth thine iniquity, and thou choosest 5
 the tongue of the crafty.

Thine own mouth condemneth thee, and not I: yea, thine 6 own lips testify against thee.

Art thou the first man that was born? or wast thou made 7 before the hills?

e Rom. xi. 34. ^e Hast thou heard the secret of God? and dost thou restrain 8 wisdom to thyself?

What knowest thou, that we know not? what understandest 9 thou, which is not in us?

With us are both the grayheaded and very aged men, much 10 elder than thy father.

Are the consolations of God small with thee? is there any 11 secret thing with thee?

Why doth thine heart carry thee away? and what do thy 12 eyes wink at,

That thou turnest thy spirit against God, and lettest such 13 words go out of thy mouth?

f 1 Kings vii. 46. 2 Chr. vi. 36. ch. xiv. 4. ^f What is man, that he should be clean? and he which is born 14 of a woman, that he should be righteous?

g ch. iv. 18. ^g Behold he putteth no trust in his saints; yea, the heavens 15 are not clean in his sight.

How much more abominable and filthy is man, which drink- 16 eth iniquity like water?

I will shew thee, hear me; and that which I have seen I will 17 declare;

Which wise men have told from their fathers, and have not 18 hid it:

Unto whom alone the earth was given, and no stranger 19 passed among them.

The wicked man travaileth with pain all his days, and the 20 number of years is hidden to the oppressor.

h Heb. a sound of fears. ^h A dreadful sound is in his ears: in prosperity the destroyer 21 shall come upon him.

He believeth not that he shall return out of darkness, and 22
 he is waited for of the sword.

- 23 He wandereth abroad for bread, saying, Where is it? he knoweth that the day of darkness is ready at his hand. A.C. 2130.
- 24 Trouble and anguish shall make him afraid; they shall prevail against him, as a king ready to the battle.
- 25 For he stretcheth out his hand against God, and strengtheneth himself against the Almighty.
- 26 He runneth upon him, even on his neck, upon the thick bosses of his bucklers:
- 27 Because he covereth his face with his fatness, and maketh collops of fat on his flanks.
- 28 And he dwelleth in desolate cities, and in houses which no man inhabiteth, which are ready to become heaps.
- 29 He shall not be rich, neither shall his substance continue, neither shall he prolong the perfection thereof upon the earth.
- 30 He shall not depart out of darkness; the flame shall dry up his branches, and ⁱ by the breath of his mouth shall he go away. i ch. iv. 9.
- 31 Let not him that is deceived trust in vanity: for vanity shall be his recompence.
- 32 It shall be ^j accomplished ^k before his time, and his branch shall not be green. j Or, cut off.
k ch. xxii. 16.
Ps. iv. 23.
- 33 He shall shake off his unripe grape as the vine, and shall cast off his flour as the olive.
- 34 For the congregation of hypocrites shall be desolate, and fire shall consume the tabernacles of bribery.
- 35 ^l They conceive mischief, and bring forth ^m vanity, and their belly prepareth deceit. l Ps. vii. 14.

§ 12. Job declares his Innocence.

JOB XVI.

- ¹ Job reproveth his friends of unmercifulness. 7 He sheweth the pitifulness of his case.
17 He maintaineth his innocency.

- 1 Then Job answered and said,
- 2 I have heard many such things: ^a ^b miserable comforters are ye all. a Or, trouble-some.
b ch. xiii. 4.
c Heb. words of wind.
- 3 Shall ^c vain words have an end? or what emboldeneth thee that thou answerest?
- 4 I also could speak as ye do: if your soul were in my soul's stead, I could heap up words against you, and shake mine head at you.
- 5 But I would strengthen you with my mouth, and the moving of my lips should assuage your grief.
- 6 Though I speak, my grief is not asswaged: and though I forbear, ^d what am I eased?
- 7 But now he hath made me weary: thou hast made desolate all my company. d Heb. what goeth from me?
- 8 And thou hast filled me with wrinkles, which is a witness against me: and my leanness rising up in me beareth witness to my face.

A.C. 2130. He teareth me in his wrath, who hateth me: he gnasheth 9 upon me with his teeth; mine enemy sharpeneth his eyes upon me.

They have gaped upon me with their mouth; they have 10 smitten me upon the cheek reproachfully; they have gathered themselves together against me.

e Heb. hath
shut me up.

God ^e hath delivered me to the ungodly, and turned me over 11 into the hands of the wicked.

I was at ease, but he hath broken me asunder: he hath also 12 taken me by my neck, and shaken me to pieces, and set me up for his mark.

His archers compass me round about, he cleaveth my reins 13 asunder, and doth not spare; he poureth out my gall upon the ground.

He breaketh me with breach upon breach, he runneth upon 14 me like a giant.

I have sewed sackcloth upon my skin, and defiled my horn 15 in the dust.

My face is foul with weeping, and on my eyelids is the 16 shadow of death;

Not for any injustice in mine hands: also my prayer is pure. 17

O earth, cover not thou my blood, and let my cry have no 18 place.

Also now, behold, my witness is in heaven, and my record 19 is ^f on high.

f Heb. in the
high places.
g Heb. are my scorners.

My friends ^g scorn me: but mine eye poureth out tears unto 20
God.

O that one might plead for a man with God, as a man 21
pleadeth for his ^h neighbour!

h Or, friend.

i Heb. years
of number.

When ⁱ a few years are come, then I shall go the way whence 22
I shall not return.

JOB XVII.

1 Job appealeth from men to God. 6 The unmerciful dealing of men with the afflicted may astonish, but not discourage the righteous. 11 His hope is not in life, but in death.

a Or, spirit is spent.

My ^a breath is corrupt, my days are extinct, the graves are 1 ready for me.

Are there not mockers with me? and doth not mine eye 2

b Heb. lodge.

^b continue in their provocation?

Lay down now, put me in a surety with thee; who is he 3 that will strike hands with me?

For thou hast hid their heart from understanding: therefore 4 shalt thou not exalt them.

He that speaketh flattery to his friends, even the eyes of his 5 children shall fail.

c Or, before
them.

He hath made me also a byword of the people; and ^c afore- 6 time I was as a tabret.

d Or, my thoughts.

Mine eye also is dim by reason of sorrow, and all ^d my mem- 7
bers are as a shadow.

- 8 Upright men shall be astonished at this, and the innocent shall stir up himself against the hypocrite. A.C. 2130.
- 9 The righteous also shall hold on his way, and he that hath clean hands ^e shall be stronger and stronger. ^e Heb. shall add strength.
- 10 But as for you all, do ye return, and come now: for I cannot find one wise man among you.
- 11 My days are past, my purposes are broken off, even ^f the thoughts of my heart. ^f Heb. the possessions.
- 12 They change the night into day: the light is ^g short because of darkness. ^g Heb. near.

§ 13. Bildad replies to Job.

JOB XVIII.

- 1 Bildad reproveth Job of presumption and impatience. 5 The calamities of the wicked.
- 1 Then answered Bildad the Shuhite, and said,
- 2 How long will it be ere ye make an end of words? mark, and afterwards we will speak.
- 3 Wherefore are we counted as beasts, and reputed vile in your sight?
- 4 He teareth ^a himself in his anger: shall the earth be forsaken for thee? and shall the rock be removed out of his place? ^a Heb. his soul.
- 5 Yea, the light of the wicked shall be put out, and the spark of his fire shall not shine.
- 6 The light shall be dark in his tabernacle, and his ^b candle shall be put out with him. ^b Or, lamp.
- 7 The steps of his strength shall be straitened, and his own counsel shall cast him down.
- 8 For he is cast into a net by his own feet, and he walketh upon a snare.
- 9 The gin shall take him by the heel, and the robber shall prevail against him.
- 10 The snare is ^c laid for him in the ground, and a trap for him in the way. ^c Heb. hidden.
- 11 Terrors shall make him afraid on every side, and shall ^d drive him to his feet. ^d Heb. scatter him.

- 14 ^f His confidence shall be rooted out of his tabernacle, and it shall bring him to the king of terrors. ^f ch. viii. 14. & xi. 20. Ps. cxli. 10. Prov. x. 28.

A.C. 2130. It shall dwell in his tabernacle, because it is none of his : 15

His roots shall be dried up beneath, and above shall his 16 branch be cut off.

g Prov. ii. 22. ^s His remembrance shall perish from the earth, and he shall 17 have no name in the street.

h Heb. They shall drive him. ^b He shall be driven from light into darkness, and chased out 18 of the world.

He shall neither have son nor nephew among his people, 19

they that ⁱ went before ^j were affrighted.

i Or, lived with him.
j Heb. laid hold on horror.

Surely such are the dwellings of the wicked, and this is the 21

§ 14. Job complains of the cruelty of his friends.

JOB XIX.

1 Job, complaining of his friends' cruelty, sheweth there is misery enough in him to feed their cruelty. 21, 28 He craveth pity. 23 He believeth the resurrection.

Then Job answered and said, 1

How long will ye vex my soul, and break me in pieces with 2 words?

These ten times have ye reproached me: ye are not ashamed 3 that ye ^a make yourselves strange to me.

a Or, harden yourselves against me.

And be it indeed that I have erred, mine error remaineth 4 with myself.

If indeed ye will magnify yourselves against me, and plead 5 against me my reproach:

Know now that God hath overthrown me, and hath compassed 6 me with his net.

b Or, violence. Behold, I cry out of ^b wrong, but I am not heard: I cry 7 aloud, but there is no judgment.

He hath fenced up my way that I cannot pass, and he hath 8 set darkness in my paths.

He hath stripped me of my glory, and taken the crown from 9 my head.

He hath destroyed me on every side, and I am gone: and 10 mine hope hath he removed like a tree.

He hath also kindled his wrath against me, and he counteth 11 me unto him as one of his enemies.

His troops come together, and raise up their way against me, 12 and encamp round about my tabernacle.

He hath put my brethren far from me, and mine acquaint- 13 ance are verily estranged from me.

My kinsfolk have failed, and my familiar friends have for- 14 gotten me.

They that dwell in mine house, and my maids, count me for 15
a stranger: I am an alien in their sight.

- 17 My breath is strange to my wife, though I intreated for the children's sake of ^c mine own body. c Heb. my belly.
- 18 Yea, ^d young children despised me; I arose, and they spake against me. d Or, the wicked.
- 19 ^e All ^f my inward friends abhorred me: and they whom I loved are turned against me. e Ps. xli. 9. & lv. 13, 14, 20.
f Heb. the men of my secret.
- 20 My bone cleaveth to my skin ^g and to my flesh, and I am escaped with the skin of my teeth. g Or, as.
- 21 Have pity upon me, have pity upon me, O ye my friends;
for the hand of God hath touched me.
- 22 Why do ye persecute me as God, and are not satisfied with my flesh?
- 23 ^h Oh that my words were now written! oh that they were printed in a book! h Heb. Who will give, &c.
- 24 That they were graven with an iron pen and lead in the rock for ever!
- 25 For I know that my redeemer liveth, and that he shall stand at the latter day upon the earth:
- 26 ⁱ And though after my skin worms destroy this body, yet in my flesh shall I see God: i Or, After I shall awake, though this body be destroyed, yet out of my flesh shall I see God.
- 27 Whom I shall see for myself, and mine eyes shall behold, and not ^j another; ^k though my reins be consumed ^l within me. j Heb. a stranger.
k Or, my reins within me are consumed with earnest desire.
- 28 But ye should say, ^m Why persecute we him, ⁿ seeing the root of the matter is found in me? l Heb. in my bosom.
m ver. 22.
n Or, and what root of matter is found in me?
- 29 Be ye afraid of the sword: for wrath bringeth the punishments of the sword, that ye may know there is a judgment.

§ 15. Zophar replies to Job.

JOB XX.

Zophar sheweth the state and portion of the wicked.

- 1 Then answered Zophar the Naamathite, and said,
2 Therefore do my thoughts cause me to answer, and for this
^a I make haste. a Heb. my haste is in me.
- 3 I have heard the check of my reproach, and the spirit of my understanding causeth me to answer.
- 4 Knowest thou not this of old, since man was placed upon earth,
- 5 ^b That the triumphing of the wicked is ^c short, and the joy of the hypocrite but for a moment? b Ps. xxxvii. 35, 36.
c Heb. from near.
- 6 Though his excellency mount up to the heavens, and his head reach unto the ^d clouds;
- 7 Yet he shall perish for ever like his own dung: they which have seen him shall say, Where is he?
- 8 He shall fly away as a dream, and shall not be found: yea, he shall be chased away as a vision of the night. d Heb. cloud.

A.C. 2130. The eye also which saw him shall see him no more; neither 9 shall his place any more behold him.

^e Or, The poor shall oppress his children. * His children shall seek to please the poor, and his hands 10 shall restore their goods.

His bones are full of the sin of his youth, which shall lie 11 down with him in the dust.

Though wickedness be sweet in his mouth, though he hide 12 it under his tongue;

Though he spare it, and forsake it not; but keep it still 13 ^f within his mouth:

^f Heb. in the midst of his palate. Yet his meat in his bowels is turned, it is the gall of asps 14 within him.

He hath swallowed down riches, and he shall vomit them up 15 again: God shall cast them out of his belly.

He shall suck the poison of asps: the viper's tongue shall 16 slay him.

^g Or, streaming brooks. He shall not see the rivers, ^g the floods, the brooks of honey 17 and butter.

That which he laboured for shall he restore, and shall not 18 swallow it down: ^h according to his substance shall the restitution be, and he shall not rejoice therein.

ⁱ Heb. crushed.

Because he hath ⁱ oppressed and hath forsaken the poor; 19 because he hath violently taken away an house which he builded not;

^j Eccles. v. 13, 14. ^j Surely he shall not ^k feel quietness in his belly, he shall not 20 ^k Heb. know. save of that which he desired.

^m Or, troublesome. In the fulness of his sufficiency he shall be in straits: every 22 hand of the ^m wicked shall come upon him.

When he is about to fill his belly, God shall cast the fury 23 of his wrath upon him, and shall rain it upon him while he is eating.

He shall flee from the iron weapon, and the bow of steel 24 shall strike him through.

It is drawn, and cometh out of the body; yea, the glittering 25 sword cometh out of his gall: terrors are upon him.

All darkness shall be hid in his secret places: a fire not 26 blown shall consume him: it shall go ill with him that is left in his tabernacle.

The heaven shall reveal his iniquity; and the earth shall 27 rise up against him.

The increase of his house shall depart, and his goods shall 28 flow away in the day of his wrath.

ⁿ Heb. of his decree from God. This is the portion of a wicked man from God, and the 29 heritage ⁿ appointed unto him by God.

§ 16. Reply of Job to Zophar.

JOB XXI.

1 Job sheweth that even in the judgment of man he hath reason to be grieved. 7 Sometimes the wicked do so prosper, as they despise God. 16 Sometimes their destruction is manifest. 22 The happy and unhappy are alike in death. 27 The judgment of the wicked is in another world.

- 1 But Job answered and said,
 2 Hear diligently my speech, and let this be your consolation. A.C. 2130.
 3 Suffer me that I may speak; and after that I have spoken, mock on.
 4 As for me, is my complaint to man? and if it were so, why should not my spirit be ^a troubled? a Heb. shortened.
 5 ^b Mark me, and be astonished, and lay your hand upon your mouth. b Heb. Look unto me.
 6 Even when I remember I am afraid, and trembling taketh hold on my flesh.
 7 ^c Wherefore do the wicked live, become old, yea, are mighty in power? c Ps. xvii. 10, 14. & lxxiii. 3, 12. Jer. xii. 1. Hab. i. 16.
 8 Their seed is established in their sight with them, and their offspring before their eyes.
 9 Their houses ^d are safe from fear, neither is the rod of God upon them. d Heb. are peace from fear.
 10 Their bull gendereth, and faileth not; their cow calveth, and casteth not her calf.
 11 They send forth their little ones like a flock, and their children dance.
 12 They take the timbrel and harp, and rejoice at the sound of the organ.
 13 They spend their days ^e in wealth, and in a moment go down to the grave. e Or, in mirth.
 14 ^f Therefore they say unto God, Depart from us; for we desire not the knowledge of thy ways. f ch. xxii. 17.
 15 What is the Almighty, that we should serve him? and what profit should we have, if we pray unto him?
 16 Lo, their good is not in their hand: the counsel of the wicked is far from me.
 17 How oft is the ^g candle of the wicked put out? and how oft cometh their destruction upon them? God distributeth sorrows in his anger. g Or, lamp.
 18 They are as stubble before the wind, and as chaff that the storm ^h carrieth away. h Heb. scattereth away.
 19 God layeth up ⁱ his iniquity for his children: he rewardeth him, and he shall know it. i That is, the punishment of his iniquity.
 20 His eyes shall see his destruction, and he shall drink of the wrath of the Almighty.
 21 For what pleasure hath he in his house after him, when the number of his months is cut off in the midst?

A.C. 2130.

j Heb. in his very perfection, or, in the strength of his perfection.
k Or, milk
pails.

Shall any teach God knowledge? seeing he judgeth those 22 that are high.

One dieth ^j in his full strength, being wholly at ease and 23 quiet.

His ^k breasts are full of milk, and his bones are moistened 24 with marrow.

And another dieth in the bitterness of his soul, and never 25 eateth with pleasure.

They shall lie down alike in the dust, and the worms shall 26 cover them.

Behold, I know your thoughts, and the devices which ye 27 wrongfully imagine against me.

l Heb. the tent of the tabernacles of the wicked.

For ye say, Where is the house of the prince? and where 28 are ^l the dwelling places of the wicked?

Have ye not asked them that go by the way? and do ye not 29 know their tokens,

m Prov. xvi.

him.

q Heb. trans-

How then comfort ye me in vain, seeing in your answers 34
there remaineth ^q falsehood?

§ 17. The Third Controversy between Job and his Friends—begun by Eliphaz.

JOB XXII.

1 Eliphaz sheweth that man's goodness profiteth not God. 5 He accuseth Job of divers sins. 21 He exhorteth him to repentance, with promises of mercy.

Then Eliphaz the Temanite answered and said, 1 a Or, if he may be profitable, doth his good success depend thereon?

Can a man be profitable unto God, ^a as he that is wise may 2 be profitable unto himself?

Is it any pleasure to the Almighty that thou art righteous? 3 or is it gain to him, that thou makest thy ways perfect?

Will he reprove thee for fear of thee? will he enter with thee 4 into judgment?

Is not thy wickedness great? and thine iniquities infinite? 5

b Heb. stripped the clothes
of the naked.

For thou hast taken a pledge from thy brother for nought, 6 and ^b stripped the naked of their clothing.

c Heb. the man of arm.
d Heb. emi-

Thou hast not given water to the weary to drink, and thou 7 hast withholden bread from the hungry.

But as for ^c the mighty man, he had the earth; and the 8 ^d honourable man dwelt in it.

- 9 Thou hast sent widows away empty, and the arms of the fatherless have been broken. A.C. 2130.
- 10 Therefore snares are round about thee, and sudden fear troubleth thee;

- 12 Is not God in the height of heaven? and behold ^e the height of the stars, how high they are! ^e Heb. the head of the stars.
- 13 And thou sayest, ^f How doth God know? can he judge through the dark cloud? ^f Or, what.
- 14 Thick clouds are a covering to him, that he seeth not; and he walketh in the circuit of heaven.
- 15 Hast thou marked the old way which wicked men have trodden?
- 16 Which were cut down out of time, ^g whose foundation was overflown with a flood: ^g Heb. a flood was poured upon their foundation.
- 17 ^h Which said unto God, Depart from us: and what can the Almighty do ⁱ for them? ^h ch. xxi. 14.
ⁱ Or, to them.
- 18 Yet he filled their houses with good things: but ^j the counsel of the wicked is far from me. ^j ch. xxi. 16.
- 19 ^k The righteous see it, and are glad: and the innocent laugh them to scorn. ^k Ps. cvii. 42.

§ 18. Reply of Job.

JOB XXIII.

1 Job longeth to appear before God, 6 in confidence of his mercy. 8 God, who is invisible, observeth our ways. 11 Job's innocency. 13 God's decree is immutable.

Then Job answered and said, 1

a Heb. my hand.

Even to day is my complaint bitter: ^a my stroke is heavier 2 than my groaning.

Oh that I knew where I might find him, that I might come 3 even to his seat!

I would order my cause before him, and fill my mouth with 4 arguments.

I would know the words which he would answer me, and 5 understand what he would say unto me.

Will he plead against me with his great power? No; but 6 he would put strength in me.

There the righteous might dispute with him; so should I be 7 delivered for ever from my judge.

Behold, I go forward, but he is not there; and backward, 8
but I cannot perceive him:

On the left hand, where he doth work, but I cannot behold 9 him: he hideth himself on the right hand, that I cannot see him:

b Heb. the way that is with me.

But he knoweth the ^b way that I take: when he hath tried 10 me, I shall come forth as gold.

My foot hath held his steps, his way have I kept, and not 11 declined.

c Heb. I have hid, or, laid up.
d Or, my appointed portion.
e Ps. cxv. 3.

Neither have I gone back from the commandment of his 12 lips; ^c I have esteemed the words of his mouth more than ^d my necessary food.

But he is in one mind, and who can turn him? and what 13 ^e his soul desireth, even that he doeth.

For he performeth the thing that is appointed for me: and 14 many such things are with him.

Therefore am I troubled at his presence: when I consider, 15
I am afraid of him.

For God maketh my heart soft, and the Almighty troubleth 16
me:

Because I was not cut off before the darkness, neither hath 17
he covered the darkness from my face.

JOB XXIV.

1 Wickedness goeth often unpunished. 17 There is a secret judgment for the wicked.

Why, seeing times are not hidden from the Almighty, do 1
they that know him not see his days?

a Deut. xix. 14. & xxvii. 17.
b Or, feed them.

Some remove the ^a landmarks; they violently take away 2 flocks, and ^b feed thereof.

- 3 They drive away the ass of the fatherless, they take the widow's ox for a pledge. A.C. 2130.
- 4 They turn the needy out of the way: the poor of the earth hide themselves together.
- 5 Behold, as wild asses in the desert, go they forth to their work; rising betimes for a prey: the wilderness yieldeth food for them and for their children.
- 6 They reap every one his ^c corn in the field: and ^d they gather the vintage of the wicked. ^c Heb. mingled corn, or, dredge.
^d Heb. the wicked gather the vintage.
- 7 They cause the naked to lodge without clothing, that they have no covering in the cold.
- 8 They are wet with the showers of the mountains, and embrace the rock for want of a shelter.
- 9 They pluck the fatherless from the breast, and take a pledge of the poor.
- 10 They cause him to go naked without clothing, and they take away the sheaf from the hungry;
- 11 Which make oil within their walls, and tread their winepresses, and suffer thirst.
- 12 Men groan from out of the city, and the soul of the wounded crieth out: yet God layeth not folly to them.
- 13 They are of those that rebel against the light; they know not the ways thereof, nor abide in the paths thereof.
- 14 The murderer rising with the light killeth the poor and needy, and in the night is as a thief.
- 15 The eye also of the adulterer waiteth for the twilight, saying, No eye shall see me: and ^e disguiseth his face. ^e Heb. setteth his face in secret.
- 16 In the dark they dig through houses, which they had marked for themselves in the daytime: they know not the light.
- 17 For the morning is to them even as the shadow of death: if one know them, they are in the terrors of the shadow of death.
- 18 He is swift as the waters; their portion is cursed in the earth: he beholdeth not the way of the vineyards.
- 19 Drought and heat ^f consume the snow waters; so doth the grave those which have sinned. ^f Heb. violently take.
- 20 The womb shall forget him; the worm shall feed sweetly on him; he shall be no more remembered; and wickedness shall be broken as a tree.
- 21 He evil entreateth the barren that beareth not: and doeth not good to the widow.
- 22 He draweth also the mighty with his power: he riseth up, ^g and no man is sure of life. ^g Or, he trusteth not his own life.
- 23 Though it be given him to be in safety, whereon he resteth; yet ^h his eyes are upon their ways. ^h Ps. xl. 4. Prov. xv. 3.
- 24 They are exalted for a little while, but ⁱ are gone and brought low; they are ^j taken out of the way as all other, and cut off as the tops of the ears of corn. ⁱ Heb. are not.
^j Heb. closed up.

A.C. 2130. And if it be not so now, who will make me a liar, and make 25 my speech nothing worth?

§ 19. Bildad again takes up the Argument.

JOB XXV.

Bildad sheweth that man cannot be justified before God.

Then answered Bildad the Shuhite, and said, 1
Dominion and fear are with him, he maketh peace in his 2 high places.

Is there any number of his armies? and upon whom doth 3 not his light arise?

^a How then can man be justified with God? or how can he 4 be clean that is born of a woman?

^a ch. iv. 17,
&c. & xv. 14,
&c.

Behold even to the moon, and it shineth not; yea, the stars 5 are not pure in his sight.

^b Ps. xxii. 6. How much less man, that is ^b a worm? and the son of man, 6 which is a worm?

JOB XXVI.

1 Job, reproving the uncharitable spirit of Bildad, 5 acknowledgeth the power of God to be infinite and unsearchable.

But Job answered and said, 1
How hast thou helped him that is without power? how savest 2 thou the arm that hath no strength?

How hast thou counselled him that hath no wisdom? and 3 how hast thou plentifully declared the thing as it is?

To whom hast thou uttered words? and whose spirit came 4
from thee?

^a Or, with the inhabitants. Dead things are formed from under the waters, ^a and the 5 inhabitants thereof.

^b Prov. xv. 11. ^b Hell is naked before him, and destruction hath no covering. 6

He stretcheth out the north over the empty place, and 7 hangeeth the earth upon nothing.

He bindeth up the waters in his thick clouds; and the cloud 8 is not rent under them.

He holdeth back the face of his throne, and spreadeth his 9 cloud upon it.

^c Heb. until the end of light with darkness. He hath compassed the waters with bounds, ^c until the day 10 and night come to an end.

The pillars of heaven tremble and are astonished at his 11 reproof.

^d Heb. pride. He divideth the sea with his power, and by his under- 12 standing he smiteth through ^d the proud.

By his spirit he hath garnished the heavens; his hand hath 13 formed the crooked serpent.

- 14 Lo, these are parts of his ways: but how little a portion A.C. 2130.
is heard of him? but the thunder of his power who can understand?

JOB XXVII.

- 1 Job protesteth his sincerity. 8 The hypocrite is without hope. 11 The blessings which the wicked have are turned into curses.

- 1 Moreover Job ^a continued his parable, and said,
2 As God liveth, who hath taken away my judgment; and the Almighty, who hath ^b vexed my soul;
3 All the while my breath is in me, and ^c the spirit of God is in my nostrils;
4 My lips shall not speak wickedness, nor my tongue utter deceit.
5 God forbid that I should justify you: till I die I will not remove mine integrity from me.
6 My righteousness I hold fast, and will not let it go: my heart shall not reproach me ^d so long as I live.
7 Let mine enemy be as the wicked, and he that riseth up against me as the unrighteous.
8 ^e For what is the hope of the hypocrite, though he hath gained, when God taketh away his soul?
9 ^f Will God hear his cry when trouble cometh upon him?
10 Will he delight himself in the Almighty? will he always call upon God?
11 I will teach you ^g by the hand of God: that which is with the Almighty will I not conceal.
12 Behold, all ye yourselves have seen it; why then are ye thus altogether vain?
13 This is the portion of a wicked man with God, and the heritage of oppressors, which they shall receive of the Al-

JOB XXXV.

1 Comparison is not to be made with God, because our good or evil cannot extend unto him. 9 Many cry in their afflictions, but are not heard for want of faith.

1 Elihu spake moreover, and said,

2 Thinkest thou this to be right, that thou saidst, My righteousness is more than God's?

3 For thou saidst, What advantage will it be unto thee? and, What profit shall I have, ^a*if I be cleansed* from my sin?

4 ^bI will answer thee, and thy companions with thee.

a Or, by it more than by my sin.
b Heb. I will return to thee words.

A.C. 2130. Look unto the heavens, and see; and behold the clouds which 5

Rom. xi. 35.

^c If thou be righteous, what givest thou him? or what 7 receiveth he of thine hand?

Thy wickedness may hurt a man as thou art; and thy 8 righteousness may profit the son of man.

By reason of the multitude of oppressions they make the 9 oppressed to cry: they cry out by reason of the arm of the mighty.

But none saith, Where is God my maker, who giveth songs 10 in the night;

Who teacheth us more than the beasts of the earth, and 11
maketh us wiser than the fowls of heaven?

There they cry, but none giveth answer, because of the 12 pride of evil men.

But now, because it is not so, ^e he hath visited in his anger; 15 words without knowledge.

JOB XXXVI.

Suffer me a little, and I will shew thee ^a that I have yet to 2 speak on God's behalf.

I will fetch my knowledge from afar, and will ascribe righte- 3 ousness to my Maker.

For truly my words shall not be false: he that is perfect in 4 knowledge is with thee.

Behold, God is mighty, and despiseth not any: he is mighty 5 15.

^d He withdraweth not his eyes from the righteous: but with 7 kings are they on the throne; yea, he doth establish them for ever, and they are exalted.

And if they be bound in fetters, and be holden in cords of 8 affliction;

Then he sheweth them their work, and their transgressions 9 that they have exceeded.

He openeth also their ear to discipline, and commandeth that 10 they return from iniquity.

- 17 But thou hast fulfilled the judgment of the wicked: ^k judgment and justice take hold on thee. k Or, judgment and justice should uphold thee.
- 18 Because there is wrath, beware lest he take thee away with his stroke: then a great ransom cannot ^l deliver thee. l Heb. turn thee aside.
- 19 Will he esteem thy riches? no, not gold, nor all the forces of strength.
- 20 Desire not the night, when people are cut off in their place.
- 21 Take heed, regard not iniquity: for this hast thou chosen rather than affliction.
- 22 Behold, God exalteth by his power: who teacheth like him?
- 23 Who hath enjoined him his way? or who can say, Thou hast wrought iniquity?
- 24 Remember that thou magnify his work, which men behold.
- 25 Every man may see it; man may behold it afar off.
- 26 Behold, God is great, and we know him not, neither can the number of his years be searched out.
- 27 For he maketh small the drops of water: they pour down rain according to the vapour thereof:
- 28 Which the clouds do drop and distil upon man abundantly.
- 29 Also can any understand the spreadings of the clouds, or the noise of his tabernacle?
- 30 Behold, he spreadeth his light upon it, and covereth ^m the bottom of the sea. m Heb. the roots.
- 31 For by them judgeth he the people; he giveth meat in abundance.
- 32 With clouds he covereth the light; and commandeth it not to shine by the cloud that cometh betwixt.

Hearken unto this, O Job: stand still, and consider the 14

Dost thou know when God disposed them, and caused the 15 light of his cloud to shine?

Dost thou know the balancings of the clouds, the wondrous 16 works of him which is perfect in knowledge?

Hast thou with him spread out the sky, which is strong, and 18

Teach us what we shall say unto him; for we cannot order 19

Therefore take unto you now seven bullocks and seven rams, and go to my servant Job, and offer up for yourselves a burnt offering ; and my servant Job shall pray for you : for ^c him will I accept : lest I deal with you after your folly, in that ye have not spoken of me the thing which is right, like my 9 servant Job. So Eliphaz the Temanite and Bildad the Shuhite and Zophar the Naamathite went, and did according as the LORD commanded them : the LORD also accepted ^d Job.
10 And the LORD turned the captivity of Job, when he prayed for his friends : also the LORD ^e gave Job twice as much as he 11 had before. Then came there unto him all his brethren, and all his sisters, and all they that had been of his acquaintance before, and did eat bread with him in his house : and they be-
12 moaned him, and comforted him over all the evil that the LORD had brought upon him : every man also gave him a piece of 13 money, and every one an earring of gold. So the LORD blessed the latter end of Job more than his beginning : for he had fourteen thousand sheep, and six thousand camels, and a 14 thousand yoke of oxen, and a thousand she asses. He had also 15 seven sons and three daughters. And he called the name of the first, Jemima ; and the name of the second, Kezia ; and the 16 name of the third, Keren-happuch. And in all the land were no women found so fair as the daughters of Job : and their 17 father gave them inheritance among their brethren. After this lived Job an hundred and forty years, and saw his sons, and his sons' sons, even four generations. So Job died, being old and full of days.

GENESIS XI. VER. 27, TO THE END.

A.C. 1996. Now these are the generations of Terah: Terah begat 27 Abram, Nahor, and Haran; and Haran begat Lot. And 28 Haran died before his father Terah in the land of his nativity, in Ur of the Chaldees. And Abram and Nahor took them 29 wives: the name of Abram's wife was Sarai; and the name of Nahor's wife, Milcah, the daughter of Haran, the father of Milcah, and the father of Iscah. But Sarai was barren; she 30 had no child. And Terah took Abram his son, and Lot the 31 son of Haran his son's son, and Sarai his daughter in law, his son Abram's wife; and they went forth with them from ^a Ur of the Chaldees, to go into the land of Canaan; and they came unto Haran, and dwelt there. And the days of Terah was 32 two hundred and five years: and Terah died in Haran.

a Acts vii. 3.

Now the ^a LORD had said unto Abram, Get thee out of thy 1 country, and from thy kindred, and from thy father's house, ⁵ With the Life of Abraham the Mosaic history may be said to commence: all that precedes being introductory to it. Though the knowledge of the One True God was not entirely banished from the world; yet it seems to have been so generally united with idolatrous corruptions, that God selected one family from the rest of mankind, to preserve uninterruptedly, by a course of laws and institutions, purity of religion, and belief in the Messiah. For this purpose the family of Abraham was chosen. His father's house was infected with the prevalent idolatry: but God, the angel Jehovah (Acts vii. 2, &c.), appeared to Abraham, and commanded him to leave his country, and kindred, to seek another home. Abraham at this time dwelt at Ur, in Chaldæa, and in obedience to the Divine will he proceeded immediately to Haran in Mesopotamia, where his father Terah died. After the death of his father, the angel Jehovah again appeared to him, and assured him in his seed all "the families of the earth should be blessed." He then commanded him to leave Haran, and to wander over the earth as he should be directed by future revelations.

If we consult the map of the countries through which Abraham passed; and consider at the same time the probable amount of the population of the earth at this period; we shall find that Abraham, in complying with the Divine command, preached the true religion to the great majority of mankind. And how impressive must have been the spectacle he presented to the world! A rich and powerful prince, attended with a large retinue of servants and retainers, traverses the earth, not for the purposes of war and conquest, as so many various tribes were then doing; but to preach the recovery of man from the effects of the Fall. So great was the check given to idolatry by this dispensation of Providence, that the effect of his preaching remained in some families till the age of Moses. And so universally was the fame of this great man extended, and so abundant is the evidence for the truth of this part of the narration of Moses, that the ancient Persians, the Hindoos, the Jews, the Lacedæmonians, and the Arabians, have at various times united in celebrating his name, and declaring that their religion in its purity was the religion of Abraham.—Hales' Analysis, vol. ii. p. 124.—Vide Heidegger, Exerc. 3. vol. ii. De Abrahamo; Bp. Cumberland's Origines Gent. p. 434, &c.; Calmet, art. Abraham; Bayle's Dict.; Witsius Ægyptiacorum, lib. 3. cap. 12. § 6, &c. &c.; Law's Theory of Religion, p. 65; Revelation examined with Candour, vol. ii. p. 216.

- 2 unto a land that I will shew thee: and I will make of thee a great nation, and I will bless thee, and make thy name great; and thou shalt be a blessing: and I will bless them that bless thee, and curse him that curseth thee: ^b and in thee shall all families of the earth be blessed. So Abram departed, as the LORD had spoken unto him, and Lot went with him: and Abram was seventy and five years old when he departed out of Haran.
- 5 And Abram took Sarai his wife, and Lot his brother's son, and all their substance that they had gathered, and the souls that they had gotten in Haran; and they went forth to go into the land of Canaan: and into the land of Canaan they came.
- 6 And Abram passed through the land unto the place of Sichem, unto the plain of Moreh. And the Canaanite was then in the land. And the Lord appeared unto Abram, and said, ^c Unto thy seed will I give this land: and there builded he an ^d altar unto the LORD, who appeared unto him. And he removed from thence unto a mountain on the east of Beth-el, and pitched his tent, having Beth-el on the west, and Hai on the east: and there he builded an altar unto the LORD, and called upon the name of the LORD. And Abram journeyed, ^e going on still toward the south.
- 10 And there was a famine in the land: and Abram went down into Egypt to sojourn there; for the famine was grievous in the land. And it came to pass, when he was come near to enter into Egypt, that he said unto Sarai his wife, Behold now, I know that thou art a fair woman to look upon; therefore it shall come to pass, when the Egyptians shall see thee, that they shall say, This is his wife: and they will kill me, but they will save thee alive. Say, I pray thee, thou art my sister: that it may be well with me for thy sake; and my soul shall live because of thee.
- 14 And it came to pass, that, when Abram was come into Egypt, the Egyptians beheld the woman that she was very fair. The princes also of Pharaoh saw her, and commended her before Pharaoh: and the woman was taken into Pharaoh's house.
- 16 And he entreated Abram well for her sake: and he had sheep, and oxen, and he asses, and menservants, and maidservants, and she asses, and camels. And the LORD plagued Pharaoh and his house with great plagues because of Sarai Abram's wife. And Pharaoh called Abram, and said, What is this that thou hast done unto me? why didst thou not tell me that she was thy wife? Why saidst thou, She is my sister? so I might have taken her to me to wife: now therefore behold thy wife, take her, and go thy way. And Pharaoh commanded his men concerning him: and they sent him away, and his wife, and all that he had.

Abram and Lot return out of Egypt.

And Abram went up out of Egypt, he, and his wife, and all 1 that he had, and Lot with him, into the south. And Abram 2 was very rich in cattle, in silver, and in gold. And he went 3 on his journeys from the south even to Beth-el, unto the place where his tent had been at the beginning, between Beth-el a ch. xii. 7. and Hai; unto the ^aplace of the altar, which he had made 4

LORD.

§ 2. Separation of Abram and Lot.

GENESIS XIII. VER. 5—13.

And Lot also, which went with Abram, had flocks, and 5 herds, and tents. And the land was not able to bear them, 6 that they might dwell together, for their substance was great, so that they could not dwell together. And there was a strife 7 between the herdmen of Abram's cattle and the herdmen of Lot's cattle: and the Canaanite and the Perizzite dwelled then in the land. And Abram said unto Lot, Let there be no 8 strife, I pray thee, between me and thee, and between my me: if thou wilt take the left hand, then I will go to the right; or if thou depart to the right hand, then I will go to the left.

And Lot lifted up his eyes, and beheld all the plain of Jordan, 10 that it was well watered every where, before the LORD destroyed Sodom and Gomorrah, even as the garden of the LORD, like the land of Egypt, as thou comest unto Zoar. Then Lot 11 chose him all the plain of Jordan; and Lot journeyed east:
and they separated themselves the one from the other. Abram 12 dwelled in the land of Canaan, and Lot dwelled in the cities of the plain, and pitched his tent toward Sodom. But the 13 men of Sodom were wicked and sinners before the LORD exceedingly.

§ 3. Renewal of the Promise.

§ 4. War with the five Kings.

GENESIS XIV. VER. 1—17.

1912.

1 And it came to pass in the days of Amraphel king of Shinar, Arioch king of Ellasar, Chedorlaomer king of Elam, and 2 Tidal king of nations; that these made war with Bera king of Sodom, and with Birsha king of Gomorrah, Shinab king of Admah, and Shemeber king of Zeboiim, and the king of Bela, 3 which is Zoar. All these were joined together in the vale of 4 Siddim, which is the salt sea. Twelve years they served 5 Chedorlaomer, and in the thirteenth year they rebelled. And in the fourteenth year came Chedorlaomer, and the kings that were with him, and smote the Rephaims in Ashteroth Karnaim, and the Zuzims in Ham, and the Emims in ^a Shaveh Kiriath-6 aim, and the Horites in their mount Seir, unto ^b El-paran, 7 which is by the wilderness. And they returned, and came to En-mishpat, which is Kadesh, and smote all the country of the Amalekites, and also the Amorites, that dwelt in Hazezon-8 tamar. And there went out the king of Sodom, and the king of Gomorrah, and the king of Admah, and the king of Zeboiim, and the king of Bela, (the same is Zoar;) and they joined 9 battle with them in the vale of Siddim; with Chedorlaomer the king of Elam, and with Tidal king of nations, and Amraphel king of Shinar, and Arioch king of Ellasar; four kings 10 with five. And the vale of Siddim was full of slimepits; and the kings of Sodom and Gomorrah fled, and fell there; and 11 they that remained fled to the mountain. And they took all the goods of Sodom and Gomorrah, and all their victuals, and 12 went their way. And they took Lot, Abram's brother's son, who dwelt in Sodom, and his goods, and departed.
13 And there came one that had escaped, and told Abram the Hebrew; for he dwelt in the plain of Mamre the Amorite, brother of Eschol, and brother of Aner: and these were con-14 federate with Abram. And when Abram heard that his brother was taken captive, he ^c armed his ^d trained servants, born in his own house, three hundred and eighteen, and pursued them unto 15 Dan. And he divided himself against them, he and his servants, by night, and smote them, and pursued them unto 16 Hobah, which is on the left hand of Damascus. And he brought back all the goods, and also brought again his brother 17 Lot, and his goods, and the women also, and the people. And the king of Sodom went out to meet him after his return from him, at the valley of Shaveh, which is the ^e king's dale.

About 1899. And it came to pass, when they had brought them forth ¹⁷abroad, that he said, Escape for thy life; look not behind thee, neither stay thou in all the plain; escape to the mountain, lest thou be consumed. And Lot said unto them, Oh, not so, my ¹⁸Lord: behold now, thy servant hath found grace in thy sight, ¹⁹and thou hast magnified thy mercy, which thou hast showed unto me in saving my life; and I cannot escape to the mountain, lest some evil take me, and I die: behold now, this city ²⁰is near to flee unto, and it is a little one: Oh, let me escape thither, (is it not a little one?) and my soul shall live. And ²¹he said unto him, See, I have accepted ^hthee concerning this thing also, that I will not overthrow this city, for the which thou hast spoken. Haste thee, escape thither; for I cannot ²²do any thing till thou be come thither. Therefore the name of the city was called Zoar.

The sun was ⁱrisen upon the earth when Lot entered into ²³Zoar. Then ^kthe LORD rained upon Sodom and upon Gomor- ²⁴rah brimstone and fire from the LORD out of heaven; and he ²⁵overthrew those cities, and all the plain, and all the inhabitants of the cities, and that which grew upon the ground.

But his wife looked back from behind him, and she became ²⁶a pillar of salt.

And Abraham gat up early in the morning to the place ²⁷where he stood before the LORD: and he looked toward Sodom ²⁸and Gomorrah, and toward all the land of the plain, and beheld, and, lo, the smoke of the country went up as the smoke of a furnace.

And it came to pass, when God destroyed the cities of the ²⁹plain, that God remembered Abraham, and sent Lot out of the midst of the overthrow, when he overthrew the cities in the which Lot dwelt.

§ 12. Lot and his two Daughters.

GENESIS XIX. VER. 30 TO THE END.

And Lot went up out of Zoar, and dwelt in the mountain, ³⁰ and his two daughters with him; for he feared to dwell in A.C. 1899.

 31 Zoar: and he dwelt in a cave, he and his two daughters. And the firstborn said unto the younger, Our father is old, and there is not a man in the earth to come in unto us after the 32 manner of all the earth: come, let us make our father drink wine, and we will lie with him, that we may preserve seed of our 33 father. And they made their father drink wine that night:
 and the firstborn went in, and lay with her father; and he per-34 ceived not when she lay down, nor when she arose. And it came to pass on the morrow, that the firstborn said unto the younger, Behold, I lay yesternight with my father: let us make him drink wine this night also; and go thou in, and lie 35 with him, that we may preserve seed of our father. And they made their father drink wine that night also: and the younger arose, and lay with him; and he perceived not when she lay 36 down, nor when she arose. Thus were both the daughters of 37 Lot with child by their father. And the firstborn bare a son, and called his name Moab: the same is the father of the 38 Moabites unto this day. And the younger, she also bare a 1898.
 son, and called his name Ben-ammi: the same is the father of the children of Ammon unto this day.

§ 13. Abraham at Gerar.

GENESIS XX.

1 And Abraham journeyed from thence toward the south 1897.
 country, and dwelled between Kadesh and Shur, and sojourned 2 in Gerar. And Abraham said of Sarah his wife, She is my sister: and Abimelech king of Gerar sent, and took Sarah.
 3 But God came to Abimelech in a dream by night, and said to him, Behold, thou art but a dead man, for the woman which 4 thou hast taken; for she is ^a man's wife. But Abimelech had not come near her: and he said, LORD, wilt thou slay also <sup>a Heb. mar-

 5 righteous nation? Said he not unto me, She is my sister?
 and she, even she herself said, He is my brother: in the ^b integri- <sup>b Or, simpli-

cerity.</sup>
 6 And God said unto him in a dream, Yea, I know that thou didst this in the integrity of thy heart; for I also withheld thee from sinning against me: therefore suffered I thee not to touch 7 her. Now therefore restore the man his wife; for he is a prophet, and he shall pray for thee, and thou shalt live: and if thou restore her not, know thou that thou shalt surely die, thou, 8 and all that are thine. Therefore Abimelech rose early in the morning, and called all his servants, and told all these things in 9 their ears: and the men were sore afraid. Then Abimelech called Abraham, and said unto him, What hast thou done unto us? and what have I offended thee, that thou hast brought on me and on my kingdom a great sin? thou hast done deeds unto 10 me that ought not to be done. And Abimelech said unto

A.C. 1897. Abraham, What sawest thou, that thou hast done this thing?

 And yet indeed she is my sister; she is the daughter of my ¹² father, but not the daughter of my mother; and she became have given thy brother a thousand pieces of silver: behold, he and with all other: thus she was reproved.

So Abraham prayed unto God: and God healed Abimelech, ¹⁷ and his wife, and his maidservants; and they bare children.
 For the LORD had fast closed up all the wombs of the house of ¹⁸ Abimelech, because of Sarah Abraham's wife.

 14 bondwoman will I make a nation, because he is thy seed. And Abraham rose up early in the morning, and took bread, and a bottle of water, and gave it unto Hagar, putting it on her shoulder, and the child, and sent her away : and she departed, 15 and wandered in the wilderness of Beersheba. And the water was spent in the bottle, and she cast the child under one of the shrubs.
 16 And she went, and sat her down over against him a good way off, as it were a bowshot : for she said, Let me not see the death of the child. And she sat over against him, and lift up her voice, 17 and wept. And God heard the voice of the lad ; and the angel of God called to Hagar out of heaven, and said unto her, What aileth thee, Hagar ? fear not ; for God hath heard the voice of 18 the lad where he is. Arise, lift up the lad, and hold him in 19 thine hand ; for I will make him a great nation. And God opened her eyes, and she saw a well of water ; and she went, 20 and filled the bottle with water, and gave the lad drink. And God was with the lad ; and he grew, and dwelt in the wilder-21 ness, and became an archer. And he dwelt in the wilderness of Paran : and his mother took him a wife out of the land of Egypt.

GENESIS XXI. VER. 22, TO THE END.

22 And it came to pass at that time, that Abimelech and Phichol nor with my son, nor with my son's son : but according to the kindness that I have done unto thee, thou shalt do unto me, 24 and to the land wherein thou hast sojourned. And Abraham 25 said, I will swear. And Abraham reproved Abimelech because of a well of water, which Abimelech's servants had violently 26 taken away. And Abimelech said, I wot not who hath done this thing : neither didst thou tell me, neither yet heard I of 27 it, but to day. And Abraham took sheep and oxen, and gave them unto Abimelech ; and both of them made a covenant.

 28 And Abraham set seven ewe lambs of the flock by themselves.
 29 And Abimelech said unto Abraham, What mean these seven 30 ewe lambs which thou hast set by themselves ? And he said,
 For these seven ewe lambs shalt thou take of my hand, that they may be a witness unto me, that I have digged this well.

⁷ It was not by means of prophecy alone that the Almighty directed the attention of mankind to the future Messiah; the types of the Old Testament were rendered subservient to the same wise and useful purpose. A type has been well defined, to be "a prefigurative action or occurrence, in which one event, person, or circumstance, is intended to represent another similar to it in certain respects, but future and distant."—"To constitute one thing the type of another, (remarks the learned Bishop Marsh) something more is wanted than mere resemblance. The former must not only resemble the latter, but it must have been designed so to resemble it, in its original institution."—"And there is no other rule by which we can distinguish a real from a pretended type, than that of Scripture itself." For these reasons I have not insisted on the resemblances between the Messiah and many of the eminent characters in the Old Testament. Though it is both a pleasant and profitable employment to discover allusions to the Son of God in every page of Scripture, we are by no means justified in asserting that one person, or event, is undoubtedly the type of another; unless, as in the instances of Adam, Abel, Noah, the passover, and other chief institutions of the Levitical law, we can shew, from Scripture, that the resemblance was originally designed, and was not merely a coincidence. The sacrifice of Isaac by his father was so evidently typical of the sacrifice of Christ, that there can be no doubt of the design which was to be answered by this otherwise mysterious event. On the very spot where Christ was afterwards crucified, Abraham is commanded to slay his son. It is needless to recapitulate the coincidences between the sacrifice of Isaac and of Christ: they are to be found in every commentary. That the meaning of all the circumstances of this mystical sacrifice of his son was revealed to Abraham, that he learnt from them that the promised Messiah should in like manner bear the wood of the cross, and die for mankind, and that Abraham, in obeying the divine command, rejoiced to see the day of Christ, and he then saw it and was glad, is well argued by Bishop Warburton.—Vide Bp. Van Mildert's Bampton Lectures, p. 237.—Bishop Marsh's Lectures, part 4, page 113 to 115.—Warburton's Div. Legat. v. 6. s. 5.—M'Ewen on the Types.

had told him of; and Abraham built an altar there, and laid ^{A.C. 1871.} the wood in order, and bound Isaac his son, and ^{e James ii. 21.} laid him on the altar upon the wood. And Abraham stretched forth his hand, and took the knife to slay his son. And the angel of the LORD called unto him out of heaven, and said, Abraham, Abraham: and he said, Here am I. And he said, Lay not thine hand upon the lad, neither do thou any thing unto him: for now I know that thou fearest God, seeing thou hast not withheld thy son, thine only son, from me. And Abraham lifted up his eyes, and looked, and behold behind him a ram caught in a thicket by his horns: and Abraham went and took the ram, and offered him up for a burnt offering in the stead of his son. And Abraham called the name of that place ^{f That is, the LORD will see, or, provide.} Jehovah-jireh: as it is said to this day, In the mount of the LORD it shall be seen.

And the angel of the LORD called unto Abraham out of heaven the second time, and said, ^{g Ps. cv. 9. Eccclus. xlv. 21. Luke i. 73. Heb. vi. 13.} By myself have I sworn, saith the LORD, for because thou hast done this thing, and hast not withheld thy son, thine only son: that in blessing I will bless thee, and in multiplying I will multiply thy seed as the stars of the heaven, and as the sand which is upon the sea^h shore; and thy seed shall possess the gate of his enemies; and in thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed; because thou hast obeyed my voice. So Abraham returned unto his young men, and they rose up and went together to Beer-sheba; and Abraham dwelt at Beer-sheba.

§ 18. Death and Burial of Sarah.

GENESIS XXIII.

1 And Sarah was an hundred and seven and twenty years old: ^{1859.} these were the years of the life of Sarah. And Sarah died in Kirjath-arba; the same is Hebron in the land of Canaan: and Abraham came to mourn for Sarah, and to weep for her.

3 And Abraham stood up from before his dead, and spake unto the sons of Heth, saying, I am a stranger and a sojourner with you: give me a possession of a buryingplace with you, that I may bury my dead out of my sight. And the children of Heth answered Abraham, saying unto him, Hear us, my lord: thou art ^{a Heb. a prince of God.} a mighty prince among us: in the choice of our sepulchres bury thy dead; none of us shall withhold from thee his sepulchre, but that thou mayest bury thy dead. And Abraham stood up, and bowed himself to the people of the land, even to the children of Heth. And he communed with them, saying, If it be your mind that I should bury my dead out of my sight; hear me, and intreat for me to Ephron the son of Zohar, that he may give me the cave of Machpelah, which he hath, which is in the end of his field; for ^{b Heb. full money.} as much money as it is worth he shall give it me for a possession of a children of Heth: and Ephron the Hittite answered Abraham in the ^c audience of the children of Heth, even of all that went in at the gate of his city, saying, Nay, my lord, hear me: the 11 field give I thee, and the cave that is therein, I give it thee; in the presence of the sons of my people give I it thee: bury thy dead. And Abraham bowed down himself before the 12 people of the land. And he spake unto Ephron in the audience of the people of the land, saying, But if thou wilt give it, I pray thee, hear me: I will give thee money for the field; take it of me, and I will bury my dead there. And Ephron answered 14 Abraham, saying unto him, My lord, hearken unto me: the 15 land is worth four hundred shekels of silver; what is that betwixt me and thee? bury therefore thy dead. And Abraham 16 hearkened unto Ephron; and Abraham weighed to Ephron the silver, which he had named in the audience of the sons of Heth, four hundred shekels of silver, current money with the merchant.

And the field of Ephron, which was in Machpelah, which 17 was before Mamre, the field, and the cave which was therein, and all the trees that were in the field, that were in all the bor- 18 ders round about, were made sure unto Abraham for a possession in the presence of the children of Heth, before all that went in at the gate of his city. And after this, Abraham 19 buried Sarah his wife in the cave of the field of Machpelah before Mamre: the same is Hebron in the land of Canaan.
 And the field, and the cave that is therein, were made sure 20 unto Abraham for a possession of a buryingplace by the sons of Heth.

 and let down her pitcher from her shoulder, and said, Drink, and I will give thy camels drink also: so I drank, and she 47 made the camels drink also. And I asked her, and said, Whose daughter art thou? And she said, The daughter of Bethuel, Nahor's son, whom Milcah bare unto him: and I put the ear-48 ring upon her face, and the bracelets upon her hands. And I bowed down my head, and worshipped the LORD, and blessed the LORD God of my master Abraham, which had led me in the right way to take my master's brother's daughter unto his 49 son. And now if ye will deal kindly and truly with my master, tell me: and if not, tell me; that I may turn to the right hand,

 The thing proceedeth from the LORD: we cannot speak unto 51 thee bad or good. Behold, Rebekah is before thee, take her, and go, and let her be thy master's son's wife, as the LORD

^a The same famine, which compelled Isaac to go to Gerar, (Gen. xxvi. 1.) caused Esau to sell his birthright. Some powerful reason seems to be necessary to account for this absurd, and wicked exchange of the privileges of the birthright for a mess of lentile pottage, the commonest food of the country. Esau was the eldest son of a Prince or Emir; and the situation of the country must have been deplorable, when such a man, on his return from hunting, could not find in his father's tent sufficient food to appease the cravings of hunger. Esau, for this mess of pottage, yielding to the temptation of the moment, renounced, both for himself and his descendants, all the privileges of primogeniture, and the covenant which God made with Abraham, that from him the Messiah should descend.—Lightfoot, Stackhouse.

 2 went out to see the daughters of the land. And when Shechem the son of Hamor the Hivite, prince of the country, saw her, 3 he took her, and lay with her, and ^g defiled her. And his soul ^{g Heb. humbled her.}
 clave unto Dinah the daughter of Jacob, and he loved the 4 damsel, and spake ^h kindly unto the damsel. And Shechem ^{h Heb. to the heart of the damsel.}
 spake unto his ^lther Hamor, saying, Get me this damsel to 11 wife. And Jac ^v heard that he had defiled Dinah his daughter:
 now his sons were with his cattle in the field: and Jacob held his peace until they were come.
 6 And Hamor the father of Shechem went out unto Jacob to 7 commune with him. And the sons of Jacob came out of the field when they heard it: and the men were grieved, and they were very wroth, because he had wrought folly in Israel in lying with Jacob's daughter; which thing ought not to be 8 done. And Hamor communed with them, saying, The soul of my son Shechem longeth for your daughter: I pray you give 9 her him to wife. And make ye marriages with us, and give 10 your daughters unto us, and take our daughters unto you. And ye shall dwell with us: and the land shall be before you; dwell 11 and trade ye therein, and get you possessions therein. And Shechem said unto her father and unto her brethren, Let me find grace in your eyes, and what ye shall say unto me I will 12 give. Ask me never so much dowry and gift, and I will give according as ye shall say unto me: but give me the damsel to 13 wife. And the sons of Jacob answered Shechem and Hamor his father deceitfully, and said, because he had defiled Dinah 14 their sister: and they said unto them, We cannot do this thing, to give our sister to one that is uncircumcised; for that were a 15 reproach unto us: but in this will we consent unto you: If ye 16 will be as we be, that every male of you be circumcised; then will we give our daughters unto you, and we will take your daughters to us, and we will dwell with you, and we will become 17 one people. But if ye will not hearken unto us, to be circumcised; then will we take our daughter, and we will be gone.
 18 And their words pleased Hamor, and Shechem Hamor's son.
 19 And the young man deferred not to do the thing, because he

A.C. 1732. had delight in Jacob's daughter: and he was more honourable than all the house of his father.

And Hamor and Shechem his son came unto the gate of 20 their city, and communed with the men of their city, saying, These men are peaceable with us; therefore let them dwell in 21 the land, and trade therein; for the land, behold, it is large enough for them; let us take their daughters to us for wives, and let us give them our daughters. Only herein will the men 22 consent unto us for to dwell with us, to be one people, if every male among us be circumcised, as they are circumcised. Shall 23 not their cattle and their substance and every beast of their's be our's? only let us consent unto them, and they will dwell with us. And unto Hamor and unto Shechem his son heark- 24 ened all that went out of the gate of his city; and every male was circumcised, all that went out of the gate of his city.

And it came to pass on the third day, when ~~there~~ sore, 25 ^{i ch. xlix. 5, 6, 7.} that two of the sons of Jacob, ⁱ Simeon and ⁱ Levi, Dinah's brethren, took each man his sword, and came on the city boldly, and slew all the males. And they slew Hamor and 26 Shechem his son with the ^j edge of the sword, and took Dinah out of Shechem's house, and went out. The sons of Jacob 27 came upon the slain, and spoiled the city, because they had defiled their sister. They took their sheep, and their oxen, 28 and their asses, and that which was in the city, and that which was in the field. And all their wealth, and all their little ones, 29 and their wives took they captive, and spoiled even all that was in the house. And Jacob said to Simeon and Levi, Ye have troubled 30 me to make me to stink among the inhabitants of the land, among the Canaanites and the Perizzites: and I being few in number, they shall gather themselves together against me, and slay me; and I shall be destroyed, I and my house. And they said, 31 Should he deal with our sister as with an harlot?

AND Jacob dwelt in the land ^a wherein his father was a 1

These are the generations of Jacob. 2

Joseph, being seventeen years old, was feeding the flock with his brethren; and the lad was with the sons of Bilhah, and with the sons of Zilpah, his father's wives: and Joseph brought unto his father their evil report. Now Israel loved Joseph 3 more than all his children, because he was the son of his old age: and he made him a coat of many ^b colours. And when his 4 brethren saw that their father loved him more than all his brethren, they hated him, and could not speak peaceably unto him.

And Joseph dreamed a dream, and he told it his brethren: 5 and they hated him yet the more. And he said unto them, 6 Hear, I pray you, this dream which I have dreamed: For, 7 behold, we were binding sheaves in the field, and, lo, my sheaf arose, and also stood upright; and, behold, your sheaves stood round about, and made obeisance to my sheaf. And his brethren 8 said to him, Shalt thou indeed reign over us? or shalt thou indeed have dominion over us? And they hated him yet the more for his dreams, and for his words.

And he dreamed yet another dream, and told it his brethren, 9 and said, Behold, I have dreamed a dream more; and, behold, the sun and the moon and the eleven stars made obeisance to me. And he told it to his father, and to his brethren: and his 10 father rebuked him, and said unto him, What is this dream that thou hast dreamed? Shall I and thy mother and thy brethren indeed come to bow down ourselves to thee to the earth?
And his brethren envied him; but his father observed the 11 saying.

And his brethren went to feed their father's flock in Shechem. 12
And Israel said unto Joseph, Do not thy brethren feed the 13 flock in Shechem? come, and I will send thee unto them. And he said to him, Here am I. And he said to him, Go, I pray 14

¹⁰ In the history of Joseph and his brethren, a train of events, apparently natural, and arising out of each other, is overruled to the accomplishment of the purposes and prophecies of God, without any interference with, or control over, the free agency of man; and the history furnishes us with a complete specimen of the mode in which an all-wise Providence still governs the world. The ambition, the wars, the pride, and the restlessness of man, are still accomplishing the prophecies of the Almighty; and generations yet unborn will see that the transactions of the present, and of the few last centuries, are overruled to the fulfilment of the predictions of Revelation,—as plainly as we can ourselves trace the manner in which the wars of the Romans, and the subjugation of the world by those proud masters, prepared the way for the Prince of Peace.

Joseph advanced in Potiphar's house.

And Joseph was brought down to Egypt; and Potiphar, an ¹ officer of Pharaoh, captain of the guard, an Egyptian, bought him of the hands of the Ishmeelites, which had brought him down thither. And the LORD was with Joseph, and he was a ² prosperous man; and he was in the house of his master the Egyptian. And it came to pass from the time that he ⁵ had made him overseer in his house, and over all that he had, that the LORD blessed the Egyptian's house for Joseph's sake; and the blessing of the LORD was upon all that he had in the house, and in the field. GENESIS XL.

1717. And it came to pass after these things, that the butler of the 1 king of Egypt and his baker had offended their lord the king of Egypt. And Pharaoh was wroth against two of his officers, 2 against the chief of the butlers, and against the chief of the bakers. And he put them in ward in the house of the captain 3 of the guard, into the prison, the place where Joseph was ¹¹ It will be observed that Joseph obtains the blessing by his virtue, which his elder brothers Judah and Reuben lost by the opposite vice. Reuben and Judah were deprived of the blessing by their incontinence; Simeon and Levi by their cruelty. Joseph therefore became the head of the family, as the elder son of Rachel. Such was the manner in which moral lessons were enforced upon the Jews.—Vide Lightfoot in loc.

GENESIS XLI. VER. 1—45.

1715. And it came to pass at the end of two full years, that Pha- 1 raoh dreamed: and, behold, he stood by the river. And, 2 behold, there came up out of the river seven well favoured kine and fatfleshed; and they fed in a meadow. And, behold, 3 seven other kine came up after them out of the river, ill favoured and leanfleshed; and stood by the other kine upon the brink of the river. And the ill favoured and leanfleshed 4 kine did eat up the seven well favoured and fat kine. So Pharaoh awoke. And he slept and dreamed the second time, 5 and, behold, seven ears of corn came up upon one stalk, ^arank 6 and good. And, behold, seven thin ears and blasted with the 7 east wind sprung up after them. And the seven thin ears 8 devoured the seven rank and full ears. And Pharaoh awoke, and, behold, it was a dream. And it came to pass in the morn- 9 ing that his spirit was troubled; and he sent and called for all the magicians of Egypt, and all the wise men thereof: and Pharaoh told them his dream; but there was none that could interpret them unto Pharaoh.

 house, both me and the chief baker: and we dreamed a dream 11 in one night, I and he; we dreamed each man according to the interpretation of his dream. And there was there with us a 12 young man, an Hebrew, servant to the captain of the guard; and we told him, and he ^binterpreted to us our dreams; to each man according to his dream he did interpret. And it 13 came to pass, as he interpreted to us, so it was; me he restored unto mine office, and him he hanged.

 20 for badness: and the lean and the ill favoured kine did eat up
 21 the first seven fat kine: and when they had ^featen them up, it could not be known that they had eaten them; but they ^{f Heb. come to the inward parts of them.}
 22 ^{were} still ill favoured, as at the beginning. So I awoke. And I saw in my dream, and, behold, seven ears came up in one

 25 And Joseph said unto Pharaoh, The dream of Pharaoh is 26 one: God hath shewed Pharaoh what he is about to do. The seven good kine are seven years; and the seven good ears are

GENESIS XLI. VER. 46, TO THE END.

1707. And Joseph was thirty years old when he stood before Pha- 46 raoh king of Egypt. And Joseph went out from the presence of Pharaoh, and went throughout all the land of Egypt. And 47 in the seven plenteous years the earth brought forth by handfuls. And he gathered up all the food of the seven years, 48 which were in the land of Egypt, and laid up the food in the cities: the food of the field, which was round about every city, laid he up in the same. And Joseph gathered corn as the sand 49

a And unto Joseph were born two sons before the years of 50 famine came, which Asenath the daughter of Poti-pherah b priest my toil, and all my father's house. And the name of the second 52 called he d Ephraim: For God hath caused me to be fruitful in the land of my affliction.

And the seven years of plenteousness, that was in the land of 53
 Egypt, were ended. e And the seven years of dearth began to 54 come, according as Joseph had said: and the dearth was in all lands; but in all the land of Egypt there was bread. And 55 when all the land of Egypt was famished, the people cried to Pharaoh for bread: and Pharaoh said unto all the Egyptians, Go unto Joseph; what he saith to you, do. And the famine 56 was over all the face of the earth: And Joseph opened f all the storehouses, and sold unto the Egyptians; and the famine waxed sore in the land of Egypt. And all countries came 57 into Egypt to Joseph for to buy corn; because that the famine was so sore in all lands.

sacks' mouths, we brought again unto thee out of the land of Canaan: how then should we steal out of thy lord's house sil-

14 And Judah and his brethren came to Joseph's house; for he 15 was yet there: and they fell before him on the ground. And Joseph said unto them, What deed is this that ye have done?
16 wot ye not that such a man as I can certainly ^xdivine? And x Or, make Judah said, What shall we say unto my lord? what shall we speak? or how shall we clear ourselves? God hath found out the iniquity of thy servants: behold, we are my lord's servants, 17 both we, and he also with whom the cup is found. And he said, God forbid that I should do so: but the man in whose hand the cup is found, he shall be my servant; and as for you, get you up in peace unto your father.

18 Then Judah came near unto him, and said, Oh my lord, let thy servant, I pray thee, speak a word in my lord's ears, and let not thine anger burn against thy servant: for thou art even 19 as Pharaoh. My lord asked his servants, saying, Have ye a 20 father, or a brother? And we said unto my lord, We have a father, an old man, and a child of his old age, a little one; and his brother is dead, and he alone is left of his mother, and his 21 father loveth him. And thou saidst unto thy servants, Bring 22 him down unto me, that I may set mine eyes upon him. And we said unto my lord, The lad cannot leave his father: for if 23 he should leave his father, his father would die. And thou saidst unto thy servants, ^yExcept your youngest brother come y ch. xliiii.

to pass when we came up unto thy servant my father, we told 25 him the words of my lord. And our father said, Go again, 26 and buy us a little food. And we said, We cannot go down:

A.C. 1706. if our youngest brother be with us, then will we go down :
 for we may not see the man's face, except our youngest brother be with us. And thy servant my father said unto us, Ye 27 know that my wife bare me two sons : and the one went out 28 from me, and I said, ^z Surely he is torn in pieces ; and I saw him not since : and if ye take this also from me, and mischief 29 befall him, ye shall bring down my gray hairs with sorrow to the grave. Now therefore when I come to thy servant my 30 father, and the lad be not with us ; seeing that his life is bound up in the lad's life ; it shall come to pass, when he seeth that 31 the lad is not with us, that he will die : and thy servants shall bring down the gray hairs of thy servant our father with sorrow to the grave. For thy servant became surety for the lad 32 unto my father, saying, ^a If I bring him not unto thee, then I shall bear the blame to my father for ever. Now therefore, I 33 pray thee, let thy servant abide instead of the lad a bondman to my lord ; and let the lad go up with his brethren. For how 34 shall I go up to my father, and the lad be not with me ? lest peradventure I see the evil that shall ^b come on my father.

 he said, I am Joseph your brother, whom ye sold into Egypt.

¹² Jacob, in this address, prophesies the destiny of each of his sons, and predicts, in still clearer terms, the advent of the Messiah. It is important to observe the manner in which the future Deliverer of the world is gradually revealed, as well as the manner in which the line of the Messiah is gradually limited to the descendants of those patriarchs, on whom it pleased the Almighty to confer this part of the blessings of the birthright.—He is first represented in general terms, as “the seed of the woman.” It is predicted that he shall descend from Shem. From among the sons of Shem, Abraham is selected: from the sons of Abraham, Isaac is chosen: of the two sons of Isaac, Jacob obtains the blessing: from the twelve sons of Jacob, Judah is announced as the ancestor of the Deliverer of man: and from all the numerous descendants of Judah, it is at length predicted that the Messiah shall spring from the line of David. By these gradual revelations the providence of God perpetually kept up the attention, and preserved the faith of man in the expected Mediator; and the prophecy of Jacob was eminently useful to strengthen the faith of the Israelites in that gloomy season of bondage and distress, which began after the death of Joseph, and continued till the Exodus.

 7 And Joseph went up to bury his father: and with him went up all the servants of Pharaoh, the elders of his house, and all the elders of the land of Egypt, and all the house of Joseph, and his brethren, and his father's house: only their little ones, and their flocks, and their herds, they left in the land of Goshen. And there went up with him both chariots and

EXODUS I.

^a Gen. xlv. 8. Now ^a these are the names of the children of Israel, which ¹ came into Egypt; every man and his household came with Jacob. Reuben, Simeon, Levi, and Judah, Issachar, Zebulun, ² and Benjamin, Dan, and Naphtali, Gad, and Asher. And ³, ⁴ all the souls that came out of the ^b loins of Jacob were ^c seventy ⁵ souls: for Joseph was in Egypt already. And Joseph died, ⁶ and all his brethren, and all that generation.

^d Acts vii. 17. ^d And the children of Israel were fruitful, and increased ⁷ abundantly, and multiplied, and waxed exceeding mighty; and ^{1577.} the land was filled with them. Now there arose up a new ⁸ king over Egypt, which knew not Joseph. And he said unto ⁹ his people, Behold, the people of the children of Israel are more and mightier than we: come on, let us deal wisely with ¹⁰ them; lest they multiply, and it come to pass, that, when there falleth out any war, they join also unto our enemies, and fight against us, and so get them up out of the land. There- ¹¹ fore they did set over them taskmasters to afflict them with their burdens. And they built for Pharaoh treasure cities, Pithom and Raamses. ^e But the more they afflicted them, ¹² the more they multiplied and grew. And they were grieved because of the children of Israel. And the Egyptians made ¹³ the children of Israel to serve with rigour: and they made ¹⁴ their lives bitter with hard bondage, in mortar, and in brick, and in all manner of service in the field: all their service, wherein they made them serve, was with rigour.

said unto them, Why have ye done this thing, and have saved 19 the men children alive? And the midwives said unto Pharaoh, Because the Hebrew women are not as the Egyptian women :
for they are lively, and are delivered ere the midwives come 20 in unto them. Therefore God dealt well with the midwives :
21 and the people multiplied, and waxed very mighty. And it came to pass, because the midwives feared God, that he made 22 them houses. And Pharaoh charged all his people, saying, 1573.

² After the death of Joseph, and of the patriarchs, the Israelites began to depart from the worship of the God of their fathers. Many of them were contaminated by the idolatry of Egypt (Josh. xxiv. 14 ; Ezek. xx. 8.) ; others had neglected circumcision (Josh. v. 9.) ; and some had intermarried with the Egyptians. (Lev. xxiv. 10.) The majority, however, had not forsaken their ancient religion ; and in this period of distress and bondage, by which they were justly punished, they cried unto the Lord. The time of the fulfilment of the promise (Gen. i. 24.) drew nigh, and " The Lord remembered his covenant with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob."

The angel Jehovah, the guardian of the church, had frequently appeared to the patriarchs ; but we have no account of his manifesting himself after the death of Jacob, till he was revealed to Moses in the bush. As this Divine Being, however, had uniformly commissioned the patriarchs to preach the true religion, the people would naturally expect that the prophet, who should declare himself

A.C. 1491. out of the midst of a bush : and he looked, and, behold, the bush burned with fire, and the bush was not consumed. And 3
Moses said, I will now turn aside, and see this great sight, why the bush is not burnt. And when the LORD saw that he 4 turned aside to see, God called unto him out of the midst of the bush, and said, Moses, Moses. And he said, Here am I. 5
And he said, Draw not nigh hither : ^b put off thy shoes from off thy feet, for the place whereon thou standest is holy ground. Moreover he said, ^c I am the God of thy father, the God of 6

And the LORD said, I have surely seen the affliction of my 7 down to deliver them out of the hand of the Egyptians, and to bring them up out of that land unto a good land and a large, unto a land flowing with milk and honey ; unto the place of the Canaanites, and the Hittites, and the Amorites, and the Perizzites, and the Hivites, and the Jebusites. Now therefore, 9 behold, the cry of the children of Israel is come unto me : and I have also seen the oppression wherewith the Egyptians oppress them. Come now therefore, and I will send thee unto 10 Pharaoh, that thou mayest bring forth my people the children of Israel out of Egypt.

And Moses said unto God, Who am I, that I should go unto 11
Pharaoh, and that I should bring forth the children of Israel out of Egypt ? And he said, Certainly I will be with thee ; and this 12 shall be a token unto thee, that I have sent thee : When thou hast brought forth the people out of Egypt, ye shall serve God upon this mountain. And Moses said unto God, Behold, when I come 13 unto the children of Israel, and shall say unto them, The God of your fathers hath sent me unto you ; and they shall say to me, What is his name ? what shall I say unto them ? And 14
God said unto Moses, I AM THAT I AM : and he said, Thus shalt thou say unto the children of Israel, I AM hath sent me unto you. And God said moreover unto Moses, Thus 15 shalt thou say unto the children of Israel, The LORD God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, hath sent me unto you : this is my name for ever, and this is my memorial unto all generations. Go, and 16 gather the elders of Israel together, and say unto them, The the lawgiver and deliverer, would be appointed by the same authority. This we accordingly find to have been the case. Moses, when feeding the flock of Jethro at Horeb, observes a copse, or thicket, burning with fire ; while the branches and leaves appeared unconsumed and uninjured. Astonished at the phenomenon, he approaches the thicket. The angel Jehovah, the God of the patriarchal dispensation, was seen ; and Moses receives from him his commission. The diffidence, the delay, the scruples of the prophet, are overcome by miraculous proofs of his divine legation ; which at the same time convince him, that, by his means, the Israelites should be delivered from Egypt.—Lightfoot, vol. i. p. 22 ; Hales' Analysis, vol. ii. p. 182 ; Horæ Mosaicæ, vol. ii. p. 99.

 18 flowing with milk and honey. And they shall hearken to thy voice: and thou shalt come, thou and the elders of Israel, unto the king of Egypt, and ye shall say unto him, The LORD God of the Hebrews hath met with us: and now let us go, we beseech thee, three days' journey into the wilderness, that we may sacrifice to the LORD our God.

³ Moses was the first teacher of religion to whom the power of working miracles appears to have been granted. The patriarchal dispensation was of divine appointment; but Moses was now chosen to abrogate that mode of instructing mankind, and to institute another in its place. Miracles were not necessary to Adam, or to Noah, as they each possessed sufficient evidence of the truths they taught: they were not necessary to Abraham, as he was the reformer only of the religion of Noah: but when a legislator ventured to assert that a law, which was originally divinely appointed, was now about to be annulled, it was absolutely essential that he should be able to produce the most incontrovertible evidence in support of his authority. Moses therefore was empowered to work miracles, for the purpose of establishing a new dispensation. In the same manner, Christ, the prophet "like unto Moses," wrought his wonderful miracles, to convince the world of the dissolution of the Levitical dispensation, in favour of the Christian covenant.—Horæ Mossicæ, vol. ii. p. 222, &c.

From the Mission of Moses to the Infliction of the Plagues of Egypt.

EXODUS IV. VER. 29, TO THE END.

29 AND Moses and Aaron went and gathered together all the 30 elders of the children of Israel: and Aaron spake all the words which the LORD had spoken unto Moses, and did the signs in 31 the sight of the people⁴. And the people believed: and when they heard that the LORD had visited the children of Israel, and that he had looked upon their affliction, then they bowed their heads and worshipped.

task. 15 He checketh their complaints. 19 They cry out upon Moses and Aaron.
 22 Moses complaineth to God.

1 And afterward Moses and Aaron went in, and told Pharaoh,

⁴ Moses was either a true prophet, an enthusiast, a dupe, or an impostor. That he was not an enthusiast, may be argued from his learning; he was versed in all the learning of Egypt—from his education among the courtiers of Pharaoh—from the diffidence with which he received the first annunciation of his mission—from the admirable suitableness of his law to the accomplishment of the object proposed—the knowledge therein displayed of human nature—the connexion of laws politically necessary with religion, &c. &c. He could not have been a dupe; for if the appearance in the burning bush had not been real—if he had been deceived in the evidences of his mission—if the miracles wrought to convince him that he was the chosen prophet of God, had been only natural phenomena, he could not have inferred from them that he was to be the legislator and deliverer of the Jews. Neither was he an impostor. An impostor would not have chosen to suffer affliction with a degraded race, rather than to indulge in the gaieties and fascinations of a court—an impostor would not have exposed himself to the danger of death, by vindicating the cause of the oppressed—he would not, if banished to a desert, be contented with his lot—forget his schemes of ambition, intermarry among the natives of an obscure province, and calmly sink into the condition of a shepherd. Even if he were at length to rouse from this strange lethargy, and resolve to deliver his countrymen, or perish in the attempt, an impostor would have proceeded with some address, and policy—he would not enter abruptly into the presence of an absolute sovereign, and peremptorily insist on the liberation of a race of ‘useful slaves:’ neither would an impostor commit himself, by predicting a series of miraculous judgments, if these slaves were not permitted to emigrate. If Moses, too, had been any of these, he could not have conquered armies without fighting, or impressed a whole nation with imaginary terrors—or guided or fed a whole nation for forty years, in the wilderness;—he could not have compelled, and he could not have persuaded, the Egyptians and their king to resign their dominion over the Israelites, unless he had been possessed of powers more than human. That is, he was a true prophet—he wrought miracles—he was the character he professed to be. The mere fact, that Moses was not a true prophet, and yet delivered the Israelites, would be a much greater miracle than any he is related to have performed.—Horæ Mosaicæ (from which the above note is chiefly abridged), vol. i. p. 209–301; Dean Graves on the Pentateuch; Bryant’s Plagues, p. 344; Michaelis’ Commentary on the Law of Moses, vol. i. p. 42, &c.

A.C. 1491. Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, Let my people go, that they may hold a feast unto me in the wilderness. And 2 Pharaoh said, Who is the LORD, that I should obey his voice to let Israel go? I know not the LORD, neither will I let Israel go. And they said ^a, The God of the Hebrews hath 3 met with us: let us go, we pray thee, three days' journey into the desert, and sacrifice unto the LORD our God; lest he fall upon us with pestilence, or with the sword. And the king of 4 Egypt said unto them, Wherefore do ye, Moses and Aaron, let the people from their works? get you unto your burdens. And Pharaoh said, Behold, the people of the land now are 5 many, and ye make them rest from their burdens. And Pharaoh 6 commanded the same day the taskmasters of the people, and their officers, saying, Ye shall no more give the people straw to 7 make brick, as heretofore: let them go and gather straw for themselves. And the tale of the bricks, which they did make 8 heretofore, ye shall lay upon them; ye shall not diminish ought thereof: for they be idle; therefore they cry, saying, Let us go and sacrifice to our God. ^b Let there more work be laid upon 9 the men, that they may labour therein; and let them not regard vain words.

^b Heb. Let the work be heavy upon the men.

And the taskmasters of the people went out, and their 10 officers, and they spake to the people, saying, Thus saith Pharaoh, I will not give you straw. Go ye, get you straw 11 where ye can find it: yet not ought of your work shall be diminished. So the people were scattered abroad throughout 12 all the land of Egypt to gather stubble instead of straw. And the taskmasters hasted them, saying, Fulfil your works, 13 your ^c daily tasks, as when there was straw. And the officers 14 of the children of Israel, which Pharaoh's taskmasters had set over them, were beaten, and demanded, Wherefore have ye not fulfilled your task in making brick both yesterday and to day, as heretofore?

Then the officers of the children of Israel came and cried 15 unto Pharaoh, saying, Wherefore dealest thou thus with thy servants? There is no straw given unto thy servants, and they 16 say to us, Make brick: and, behold, thy servants are beaten; but the fault is in thine own people. But he said, Ye are idle, 17 ye are idle: therefore ye say, Let us go and do sacrifice to the LORD. Go therefore now, and work; for there shall no straw 18 be given you, yet shall ye deliver the tale of bricks. And the 19 officers of the children of Israel did see that they were in evil case, after it was said, Ye shall not minish ought from your bricks of your daily task.

And they met Moses and Aaron, who stood in the way, as 20 they came forth from Pharaoh: and they said unto them, The 21 LORD look upon you, and judge; because ye have made our savour ^d to be abhorred in the eyes of Pharaoh, and in the eyes

⁶ The manner in which the Divine Head of the Jewish Church appealed to the common sense of the Israelites against the idolatry of Egypt is wonderfully exemplified in the history of the plagues of Egypt. The miracles of Moses had now arrested their attention, and their hopes of an early deliverance from their bondage must have been proportionably excited. Yet many of the Israelites were still followers of the surrounding idolatry, and the mercy of Providence displayed itself in proving to them the utter worthlessness of all the idols, and false gods, on whom the proud, the learned, and the scientific Egyptians so vainly depended.

The first plague demonstrated the superiority of Jehovah over their imaginary river-gods; the Nile was turned into blood, which was an object of peculiar abhorrence to the Egyptians.

A.C. 1491. the river shall stink; and the Egyptians shall lothe to drink of the water of the river.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, Say unto Aaron, Take ¹⁹ thy rod, and stretch out thine hand upon the waters of Egypt, upon their streams, upon their rivers, and upon their ponds, and upon all their ^a pools of water, that they may become blood; and that there may be blood throughout all the land of Egypt, both in vessels of wood, and in vessels of stone. And Moses ²⁰ and Aaron did so, as the LORD commanded; and he ^b lifted up the rod, and smote the waters that were in the river, in the sight of Pharaoh, and in the sight of his servants; and all the ^c waters that were in the river were turned to blood. And the ²¹ fish that was in the river died; and the river stank, and the Egyptians could not drink of the water of the river; and there was blood throughout all the land of Egypt. ^d And the magi- ²² cians of Egypt did so with their enchantments: and Pharaoh's heart was hardened, neither did he hearken unto them; as the LORD had said. And Pharaoh turned and went into his house, ²³ neither did he set his heart to this also. And all the Egyptians ²⁴ digged round about the river for water to drink; for they could not drink of the water of the river. And seven days were ²⁵ fulfilled, after that the LORD had smitten the river.

THE SECOND PLAGUE—FROGS ⁷.

EXODUS VIII. VER. 1—15.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, Go unto Pharaoh, and ¹ say unto him, Thus saith the LORD, Let my people go, that they may serve me. And if thou refuse to let them go, behold, ² I will smite all thy borders with frogs: and the river shall ³ bring forth frogs abundantly, which shall go up and come into thine house, and into thy bedchamber, and upon thy bed, and into the house of thy servants, and upon thy people, and into ^e Or, dough. thine ovens, and into thy ⁴ kneadingtroughs: and the frogs shall come up both on thee, and upon thy people, and upon all thy servants.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, Say unto Aaron, Stretch ⁵ forth thine hand with thy rod over the streams, over the rivers, and over the ponds, and cause frogs to come up upon the land of Egypt. And Aaron stretched out his hand over the waters ⁶ of Egypt; and the frogs came up, and covered the land of ^f Wisd. xvii. 7. Egypt. ⁷ And the magicians did so with their enchantments, and brought up frogs upon the land of Egypt.

Then Pharaoh called for Moses and Aaron, and said, Intreat ⁸

⁷ The second effort of power on the part of Moses filled the holy river with frogs, and its streams by this means became a second time polluted, to the utter confusion both of their gods and priests. The land also was equally defiled; and they had no way to cleanse themselves, for every stream and every lake, was in a state of pollution. The frog was held sacred by the Egyptians, and was regarded as an emblem of preservation in floods and inundations.

the LORD, that he may take away the frogs from me, and from my people; and I will let the people go, that they may do sacrifice unto the LORD. And Moses said unto Pharaoh, ^gGlory over me: ^hwhen shall I intreat for thee, and for thy servants, and for thy people, ⁱto destroy the frogs from thee and thy houses, that they may remain in the river only? And he said, ^kTo morrow. And he said, Be it according to thy word: that thou mayest know that there is none like unto the LORD our God. And the frogs shall depart from thee, and from thy houses, and from thy servants, and from thy people; they shall remain in the river only. And Moses and Aaron went out from Pharaoh: and Moses cried unto the LORD because of the frogs which he had brought against Pharaoh. And the LORD did according to the word of Moses; and the frogs died out of the houses, out of the villages, and out of the fields. And they gathered them together upon heaps: and the land stank. But when Pharaoh saw that there was respite, he hardened his heart, and hearkened not unto them; as the LORD had said.

THE THIRD PLAGUE—LICE ⁸.

EXODUS VIII. VER. 16—19.

16 And the LORD said unto Moses, Say unto Aaron, Stretch out thy rod, and smite the dust of the land, that it may become lice throughout all the land of Egypt. And they did so; for Aaron stretched out his hand with his rod, and smote the dust of the earth, and it became lice in man, and in beast; all the dust of the land became lice throughout all the land of Egypt. 18 And the magicians did so with their enchantments to bring forth lice, but they could not: so there were lice upon man, 19 and upon beast. Then the magicians said unto Pharaoh, This is the finger of God: and Pharaoh's heart was hardened, and he hearkened not unto them; as the LORD had said.

THE FOURTH PLAGUE—FLIES ⁹.

EXODUS VIII, VER. 20, TO THE END.

20 And the LORD said unto Moses, Rise up early in the morning, and stand before Pharaoh; lo, he cometh forth to the water; and say unto him, Thus saith the LORD, Let my people go, that they may serve me. Else, if thou wilt not let my people go, behold, I will send ¹swarms of flies upon thee, and upon thy servants, and upon thy people, and into

A.C. 1491. thy houses : and the houses of the Egyptians shall be full of swarms of flies, and also the ground whereon they are. And I will sever in that day the land of Goshen, in which my people dwell, that no swarms of flies shall be there ; to the end thou mayest know that I am the LORD in the midst of the earth. And I will put ^m a division between my people and thy people : ⁿ to morrow shall this sign be. And the LORD did so ; and ^o there came a grievous swarm of flies into the house of Pharaoh, and into his servants' houses, and into all the land of Egypt : the land was ^p corrupted by reason of the swarm of flies.

We will go ^q three days' journey into the wilderness, and sacrifice to the LORD our God, as he shall command us. And Pharaoh said, I will let you go, that ye may sacrifice to the LORD your God in the wilderness ; only ye shall not go very far away : intreat for me. And Moses said, Behold, I go out from thee, and I will intreat the LORD that the swarms of flies may depart from Pharaoh, from his servants, and from his people, to morrow : but let not Pharaoh deal deceitfully any more in not letting the people go to sacrifice to the LORD. And Moses went out from Pharaoh, and intreated the LORD. And the LORD did according to the word of Moses ; and he removed the swarms of flies from Pharaoh, from his servants, and from his people ; there remained not one. And Pharaoh hardened his heart at this time also, neither would he let the people go.

EXODUS IX. VER. 1—7.

Then the LORD said unto Moses, Go in unto Pharaoh, and tell him, Thus saith the LORD God of the Hebrews, Let my people go, that they may serve me. For if thou refuse to let them go, and wilt hold them still, behold, the hand of the LORD is upon thy cattle which is in the field, upon the horses, upon the asses, upon the camels, upon the oxen, and upon the sheep : there shall be a very grievous murrain. And the LORD shall sever between the cattle of Israel and the cattle of Egypt : and there shall nothing die of all that is the children's of Israel.

¹⁰ The fifth plague destroyed the living objects of their stupid worship. The sacred bull, the ram, the heifer, and the he-goat, fell dead before their worshippers, as if in ridicule of their vain incense. This judgment must have likewise had a great effect on the Israelites, and must have tended to wean their affections from those gods of the country to which they had before attached themselves.

5 And the LORD appointed a set time, saying, To morrow the 6 LORD shall do this thing in the land. And the LORD did A.C. 1491.
 that thing on the morrow, and all the cattle of Egypt died :
 7 but of the cattle of the children of Israel died not one. And Pharaoh sent, and, behold, there was not one of the cattle of the Israelites dead. And the heart of Pharaoh was hardened, and he did not let the people go.

THE SIXTH PLAGUE—THE BOIL¹¹.

EXODUS IX. VER. 8—12.

8 And the LORD said unto Moses and unto Aaron, Take to you handfuls of ashes of the furnace, and let Moses sprinkle it 9 toward the heaven in the sight of Pharaoh. And it shall become small dust in all the land of Egypt, and shall be a boil breaking forth with blains upon man, and upon beast, 10 throughout all the land of Egypt. And they took ashes of the furnace, and stood before Pharaoh; and Moses sprinkled it up toward heaven; and it became a boil breaking forth with 11 blains upon man, and upon beast. And the magicians could not stand before Moses because of the boils; for the boil was 12 upon the magicians, and upon all the Egyptians. And the LORD hardened the heart of Pharaoh, and he hearkened not unto them; ^r as the LORD had spoken unto Moses.

 14 may serve me. For I will at this time send all my plagues upon thine heart, and upon thy servants, and upon thy people;

And Moses stretched forth his ²³rod toward heaven : and the LORD sent thunder and hail, and the fire ran along upon the ground ; and the LORD rained hail upon the land of Egypt. So there was hail, and fire mingled ²⁴with the hail, very grievous, such as there was none like it in all the land of Egypt since it became a nation. And the hail ²⁵smote throughout all the land of Egypt all that was in the field, both man and beast ; and the hail smote every herb of the field, and brake every tree of the field. Only in the land ²⁶of Goshen, where the children of Israel were, was there no hail.

And Pharaoh sent, and called for Moses and Aaron, and ²⁷said unto them, I have sinned this time: the LORD is righteous, and I and my people are wicked. An east wind (ver. 13.) prevailed all that day, and all that night; this wind must have brought the locusts from Arabia, and borne them, contrary to their nature, over the Red Sea; which proved no barrier to their progress.

Institution of the Passover ¹⁴.

EXODUS XII. VER. 1—20.

1 The beginning of the year is changed. 3 The passover is instituted. 11 The rite of the passover. 15 Unleavened bread.

AND the LORD spake unto Moses and Aaron in the land of 1 Egypt, saying, This month shall be unto you the beginning of 2

¹⁴ The account of the passover is put together (in Exod. chap. xii.) to connect the history of its institution with that of its observance. It is, however, evident from Exod. xii. 3, that the command for its observance was given on the tenth day of the month Nisan; and, in commemoration of this fact, the Jews were accustomed to select their victim for sacrifice four days before it was slain. By observing the arrangement of the events related in this fifth Part, we shall more clearly discern the very wonderful manner in which the wisdom of Providence impressed the Israelites with a contempt and hatred of idolatry, and directed their attention, at the same time, to their future Messiah.

The eight plagues, which had now been inflicted upon the Egyptians, must have convinced the Israelites of the vanity and folly of the Egyptian idolatry, and the certainty that their God was the only true God. While the effect of these eight judgments was still powerful, the people were ordered to prepare the passover. On the very day in which the command was issued, the plague of darkness began; while the children of Israel had light in their dwellings. Amid the silence and the terror of this fearful pause, they selected their victim, and made ready their passover. Time was afforded them for reflection on the meaning of those ceremonies with which their victim was to be offered. The lamb was a propitiatory sacrifice; and its blood was to be sprinkled upon the door, that the sword of the avenging angel might be turned aside from their families. Upon this sacrifice too they feasted; and the lamb was so to be slain, and so to be eaten, that they must have been conscious that their legislator was either acting from an arbitrary and useless caprice, or that each piacular rite and ceremony must have been ordained with some specific object. They could not have suspected their great prophet, at this terrible moment, of acting with caprice; neither is it probable that they would have inquired in vain concerning the object of each ceremony. They must then have seen, through the clouds and shadows of the typical institutions, the brightness of that truth, "Christ our passover is (to be) slain for us; therefore let us keep the feast." They must have known, that, by partaking of this feast, they entered into covenant with God, and that the sacrifice itself was exclusively mystical, referring to the future Great Sacrifice, the more perfect atonement, by means of faith in which they were to be delivered from a worse bondage than even this of Egypt. Such, (and many more of the same nature) were the reflections of the Israelites during the continuance of the plague of darkness. On the morning of the fourteenth they prepare their victim for the knife: between the two evenings, that is, between the ninth and eleventh hours of the day, the very hour on which Christ died, the sacrifice is slain—the blood is sprinkled on the door post—the passover is eaten, and the Israelites, with their loins girded, their shoes on

Egypt, ^a even darkness which may be felt. And Moses 22 stretched forth his hand toward heaven; and there was a thick

¹⁵ The ninth plague asserted the same truths. The heavenly host were the favourite objects of adoration with the Egyptians. Yet neither sun, nor moon, nor stars, could preserve them from this supernatural darkness.

¹⁶ The tenth plague was an assertion of the right of Jehovah to the firstborn. In the patriarchal dispensation, which the Egyptians had perverted, the firstborn were devoted to God; in addition to which, Moses had declared Israel to be the firstborn of Jehovah. The true God therefore demanded

EXODUS XI. VER. 9, 10.

 Pharaoh : and the LORD hardened Pharaoh's heart, so that he would not let the children of Israel go out of his land.

EXODUS XII. VER. 21—28.

21 Then Moses called for all the elders of Israel, and said unto those of the children of the Egyptians who ought to have been dedicated to his service. He destroyed them in a moment, at midnight. The Israelites were saved, by eating the god whom the Egyptians worshipped. The terrors of that moment have never been equalled by any scene of distress which has since been recorded in history. It was the custom of the Egyptians to rush from the house into the street, to bewail the dead with loud and bitter outcries ; and every member of the family united in the expression of sorrow : what must the scene have been, when, at midnight, the Lord smote all the firstborn of the land of Egypt, from the firstborn of Pharaoh on the throne, to the firstborn of the captive in the dungeon : when the king, and his servants, and all the people, rose up in the night : and " there was a great cry in Egypt ; for there was not a house where there was not one dead ! ¹⁸ For the sake of greater clearness, the wanderings of the Israelites in the wilderness are arranged according to the itinerary of Moses, (Num. xxxiii.) in forty-two journeyings. The Israelites might have entered Canaan within the space of forty days, instead of forty years. They were, however, commanded to wander in the wilderness during that length of time for the wisest purposes. They were by this means gradually inured to war, and prepared for obtaining possession of the promised land—they were not in so much danger of relapsing into idolatry—the old generation, which had been corrupted by Egyptian superstition would have died away—and the rising generation, supported by continued miracles, would be trained up in obedience to the God of their fathers.—Burnet's Boyle's Lecture, vol. ii. p. 193.

In one house shall 46 it be eaten; thou shalt not carry forth ought of the flesh abroad out of the house; ^d neither shall ye break a bone thereof. All 47 the congregation of Israel shall ^e keep it. And when a stranger 48 shall sojourn with thee, and will keep the passover to the LORD, let all his males be circumcised, and then let him come near and keep it; and he shall be as one that is born in the land: for no uncircumcised person shall eat thereof. One law shall 49 be to him that is homeborn, and unto the stranger that sojourneth among you. Thus did all the children of Israel; 50 as the LORD commanded Moses and Aaron, so did they. And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, Speak unto the children of Israel, that they turn and encamp before ^a Pi-hahiroth, between Migdol and the sea, over against Baal-zephon: before it shall ye encamp by the sea. For Pharaoh will say of the children of Israel, They are entangled in the land, the wilderness hath shut them in. And I will harden Pharaoh's heart, that he shall follow after them; and I will be honoured upon Pharaoh, and upon all his host; that the Egyptians may know that I am the LORD. And they did so.

And it was told the king of Egypt that the people fled: and the heart of Pharaoh and of his servants was turned against the people, and they said, Why have we done this, that we have let Israel go from serving us? And he made ready his chariot, and took his people with him ¹⁹: And he took six hun-

¹⁹ Idolatry, in its grossest and most odious forms, had not been long established in Egypt prior to the time of the Exodus. The Egyptians, that is, the ancient Misraim, who received the people with great kindness, and whom the Israelites were therefore directed to consider with esteem and gratitude, do not appear to have been idolaters of this description in the time of Joseph. It is not improbable that the preaching of Abraham might have had great effect, and preserved the Misraim from the surrounding contagion. They were, for a long time, patriarchal Monotheists. The wonderful miracles wrought among them by Moses, the destruction of their army and their sovereign in the Red Sea, and the final expulsion, by the native Misraim, of the shepherd kings who had introduced idolatry, contributed, in spite of the absurdities which characterized the superstitions of Egypt, to perpetuate those juster notions of a Deity, which are collected by Cudworth, in his INTELLECTUAL SYSTEM, and alluded to by Witsius (Ægyptiaca, lib. i. c. 2, 3, 4, &c.) The oppressors of the Israelites were not the native Misraim, but the shepherd kings; the history of whom has given rise to so much discussion. The following brief outline of that history will illustrate the part of the sacred narrative which we are now considering.

The Hursos, or shepherd kings, originally settled, after the dispersion from Babel, near the Indian Caucasus; from whence they descended to Babylonia. About the time of the death of Serug, they left their settlements in that province; and, proceeding round the Arabian desert, invaded Canaan from the north. There they left colonies, which, in subsequent ages, were known as the maritime Phœnicians, the Rephaim, the Perizzim, &c. At length they invaded Egypt, where they made Avaris, or Goshen, their chief residence. This event took place six years before the birth of Abraham. Abimelech is supposed to have been a feudatory chief of this race: after the conference with Abraham, he returned to Avaris. The shepherd kings were expelled from Egypt by the native Misraim, about fifteen years before Joseph was sold into Egypt; and the province of Goshen, which was thus left vacant, was assigned to the family of Jacob, in the second year of the famine. So did the providence of God render the contests of nations, and the ambition of their princes, subservient to the welfare of the visible Church.

The shepherd kings, however, were not to be diverted from their designs. About thirty-seven

- 10 And when Pharaoh drew nigh, the children of Israel lifted up their eyes, and, behold, the Egyptians marched after them;
 and they were sore afraid : and the children of Israel cried out 11 unto the LORD. And they said unto Moses, Because there thee in Egypt, saying, Let us alone, that we may serve the Egyptians? For it had been better for us to serve the Egyptians, than that we should die in the wilderness?

 and see the salvation of the LORD, which he will shew to you me? speak unto the children of Israel, that they go forward : 16 but lift thou up thy rod, and stretch out thine hand over the sea, and divide it : and the children of Israel shall go on dry

They establish idolatry in its most odious forms ; build the pyramids ; destroy the infants of the Israelites ; and, after enduring the ten plagues before they release their slaves from bondage, they are overwhelmed in the Red Sea ; a terrible monument, to their kindred in Palestine, of the power of the God of Israel. So much were they weakened by this calamity, that the remainder were soon expelled by the native Misraim ; and, under the guidance of Cadmus, Danaus, Cecrops, and others, retired to Greece, Phœnicia, Colchis, and other places. — See Faber's Origin of Idolatry, book vi. chap. 5. “ On the Shepherd Kings of Egypt.”

And the angel of God, which went before the camp of 19 Israel, removed and went behind them; and the pillar of the cloud went from before their face, and stood behind them: and 20 it came between the camp of the Egyptians and the camp of Israel; and it was a cloud and darkness to them, but it gave light by night to these: so that the one came not near the other all the night. And Moses stretched out his hand over the sea; 21 and the LORD caused the sea to go back by a strong east wind all that night, and made the sea dry land, and the waters were divided. - 1 And they took their journey from Elim, and all the congregation of the children of Israel came unto the wilderness of Sin, which is between Elim and Sinai, on the fifteenth day of the second month after their departing out of the land of Egypt. A.C. 1491.

- 3 Then said the LORD unto Moses, Behold, I will rain bread from heaven for you; and the people shall go out and gather ^ba certain rate every day, that I may prove them, whether they will walk in my law, or no. And it shall come to pass, that on the sixth day they shall prepare that which they bring in; and it shall be twice as much as they gather daily. And Moses and Aaron said unto all the children of Israel, At even, then ye shall know that the LORD hath brought you out from the land of Egypt: and in the morning, then ye shall see the glory of the LORD; for that he heareth your murmurings against the LORD: and what are we, that ye murmur against us? And Moses said, This shall be, when the LORD shall give you in the evening flesh to eat, and in the morning bread to the full; for that the LORD heareth your murmurings which ye murmur against him: and what are we? your murmurings are not against us, but against the LORD. b Heb. the portion of a day in his day.

And the children of 17 Israel did so, and gathered, some more, some less. And when 18 they did mete it with an omer, ^l he that gathered much had nothing over, and he that gathered little had no lack; they gathered every man according to his eating. And Moses said, 19 Let no man leave of it till the morning. Notwithstanding they 20 hearkened not unto Moses; but some of them left of it until the morning, and it bred worms, and stank: and Moses was wroth with them. And they gathered it every morning, every man ac- 21 cording to his eating: and when the sun waxed hot, it melted.

And it came to pass, that on the sixth day they gathered 22 twice as much bread, two omers for one man: and all the rulers of the congregation came and told Moses. And he said unto 23 them, This is that which the LORD hath said, To morrow is the rest of the holy sabbath unto the LORD: bake that which ye will bake to day, and seethe that ye will seethe; and that which remaineth over lay up for you to be kept until the morn- ing. And they laid it up till the morning, as Moses bade: 24 and it did not stink, neither was there any worm therein. And 25 Moses said, Eat that to day; for to day is a sabbath unto the LORD: to day ye shall not find it in the field. Six days ye 26 shall gather it; but on the seventh day, which is the sabbath, in it there shall be none.

And it came to pass, that there went out some of the people 27 on the seventh day for to gather, and they found none. And 28 the LORD said unto Moses, How long refuse ye to keep my commandments and my laws? See, for that the LORD hath 29 given you the sabbath, therefore he giveth you on the sixth day the bread of two days: abide ye every man in his place, let no man go out of his place on the seventh day. So the 30 people rested on the seventh day. And the house of Israel 31 called the name thereof Manna: and it was like coriander seed, white; and the taste of it was like wafers made with honey.

And Moses said, This is the thing which the LORD com- 32 mandeth, Fill an omer of it to be kept for your generations; that they may see the bread wherewith I have fed you in the wilderness, when I brought you forth from the land of Egypt. And Moses said unto Aaron, Take a pot, and put an omer full 33 of manna therein, and lay it up before the LORD, to be kept for your generations. As the LORD commanded Moses, so 34 Aaron laid it up before the Testimony, to be kept. And the 35 children of Israel did eat manna ^m forty years, until they came to a land inhabited; they did eat manna, until they came unto the borders of the land of Canaan. Wherefore the people did chide with Moses, and said, Give us water that we may drink. And Moses said unto them, Why chide ye with me? wherefore do ye tempt the LORD? And the people thirsted there for water; and the people murmured against Moses, and said, Wherefore is this that thou hast brought us up out of Egypt, to kill us and our children and our cattle with thirst? And Moses cried unto the LORD, saying, What shall I do unto this people? they be almost ready to stone me. And the LORD said unto Moses, Go on before the people, and take with thee of the elders of Israel; and thy rod, wherewith ^b thou smotest the river, take in thine hand, ^c Behold, I will stand before thee there upon the rock in Horeb; and thou shalt smite the rock, and there shall come water out of it, that the people may drink. Moses goes up into the Mountain.

EXODUS XXIV.

1 Moses is called up into the mountain. 3 The people promise obedience. 4 Moses buildeth an altar, and twelve pillars. 6 He sprinkleth the blood of the covenant. 9 The glory of God appeareth. 14 Aaron and Hur have the charge of the people. 15 Moses goeth into the mountain, where he continueth forty days and forty nights.

And he said unto Moses, Come up unto the LORD, thou, 1 and Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, and seventy of the elders of Israel; and worship ye afar off. And Moses alone shall come 2 near the LORD: but they shall not come nigh; neither shall the people go up with him.

And Moses came and told the people all the words of the 3 LORD, and all the judgments: and all the people answered with one voice, and said, ^aAll the words which the LORD hath said will we do. And Moses wrote all the words of the LORD, 4 and rose up early in the morning, and builded an altar under the hill, and twelve pillars, according to the twelve tribes of Israel. And he sent young men of the children of Israel, 5 which offered burnt offerings, and sacrificed peace offerings of oxen unto the LORD. And Moses took half of the blood, and 6 put it in basons; and half of the blood he sprinkled on the altar. And he took the book of the covenant, and read in the 7 audience of the people: and they said, ^bAll that the LORD hath said will we do, and be obedient. And Moses took the 8 blood, and sprinkled it on the people, and said, Behold ^cthe blood of the covenant, which the LORD hath made with you concerning all these words.

This apparent identity has been accounted for in three ways. The first theory is, that the religion of the Jews was borrowed from that of the Gentiles: this hypothesis was maintained by Maimonides, Marsham, Spencer, and Warburton; and is strenuously opposed by Witsius, in his Egyptiaca. The second theory is, that the ceremonial of the Gentiles was borrowed from that of the Jews: an opinion supported by Gale in his Court of the Gentiles, by Dickenson in his Delphi Phœnicizantes, by Stillingfleet in his Origines Sacræ, and others. The third is, that the ancient ceremonial of the pagans, and the levitical law of the Jews, were both derived in great measure from the early patriarchal ritual, which at one period was common to all the descendants of Noah. The heathen nations perverted it to idolatry and superstition, the Jews received it in a new form and with more solemn sanctions from Moses; who was divinely inspired to alter, reform, add to, or take away from it, as was most suitable to the genius of the people, the object of Providence, the customs of the surrounding nations, or the accomplishment of his various designs, as the legislator and judge of Israel. This theory, which is espoused by Calmet, and strenuously defended by Faber (Orig. of Pagan Idol. vol. iii. p. 630, &c.), appears to be by far the most consistent and correct; and it solves nearly all the phenomena. Many of the laws and customs of the Hindoos, who are the most ancient nation on earth, except perhaps the Jews and Chinese, are the same which prevailed among the family of Abraham, before the institution of the levitical law: and they coincide with several arbitrary enactments of the law of Moses, which were derived from that source. Vide, in addition to the above authorities, Calmet, art. Ceremonies, and Fragments, No. 85; Ward on the Hindoos; Michaelis' Comment. vol. i. p. 9, &c.

The Golden Calf.

EXODUS XXXII. VER. 1—6.

The people, in the absence of Moses, cause Aaron to make a calf.

And when the people saw that Moses delayed to come down ¹ out of the mount, the people gathered themselves together unto ^{a Acts vii. 40.} Aaron, and said unto him, ^a Up, make us gods, which shall go before us; for as for this Moses, the man that brought us up out of the land of Egypt, we wot not what is become of him. And Aaron said unto them, Break off the golden earrings, ² which are in the ears of your wives, of your sons, and of your daughters, and bring them unto me. And all the people brake ³ off the golden earrings which were in their ears, and brought ^{b 1 Kin. xii. 28.} them unto Aaron. ^b And he received them at their hand, and ⁴ fashioned it with a graving tool, after he had made it a molten calf: and they said, These be thy gods, O Israel, which brought thee up out of the land of Egypt. And when Aaron saw it, ⁵ he built an altar before it; and Aaron made proclamation, and said, To morrow is a feast to the LORD. And they rose up ⁶ early on the morrow, and offered burnt offerings, and brought ^{c 1 Cor. x. 7.} peace offerings; and the ^c people sat down to eat and to drink, and rose up to play.

EXODUS XXXII. VER. 7, TO THE END.

^{a Deut. ix. 12.} And the LORD said unto Moses, ^a Go, get thee down; for ⁷ thy people, which thou broughtest out of the land of Egypt,

- 8 have corrupted themselves: They have turned aside quickly out of the way which I commanded them: they have made them a molten calf, and have worshipped it, and have sacrificed thereunto, and said, These be thy gods, O Israel, which 9 have brought thee up out of the land of Egypt. And the LORD said unto Moses, ^b I have seen this people, and, behold,
 10 it is a stiffnecked people: Now therefore let me alone, that my wrath may wax hot against them, and that I may consume
 11 them: and I will make of thee a great nation. ^c And Moses besought ^d the LORD his God, and said, LORD, why doth thy wrath wax hot against thy people, which thou hast brought forth out of the land of Egypt with great power, and with a 12 mighty hand? ^e Wherefore should the Egyptians speak, and say, For mischief did he bring them out, to slay them in the mountains, and to consume them from the face of the earth? Turn from thy fierce wrath, and repent of this evil
 13 against thy people. Remember Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, thy servants, to whom thou swarest by thine own self, and saidst unto them, ^f I will multiply your seed as the stars of heaven, and all this land that I have spoken of will I give unto 14 your seed, and they shall inherit it for ever. And the LORD repented of the evil which he thought to do unto his people.
 15 And Moses turned, and went down from the mount, and the two tables of the testimony were in his hand: the tables were written on both their sides; on the one side and on the 16 other were they written. And the ^g tables were the work of God, and the writing was the writing of God, graven upon the 17 tables. And when Joshua heard the noise of the people as they shouted, he said unto Moses, There is a noise of war in 18 the camp. And he said, It is not the voice of them that shout for mastery, neither is it the voice of them that cry for ^h being overcome: but the noise of them that sing do I hear.
 19 And it came to pass, as soon as he came nigh unto the camp, that he saw the calf, and the dancing: and Moses' anger waxed hot, and he cast the tables out of his hands, and brake them
 20 beneath the mount. ⁱ And he took the calf which they had made, and burnt it in the fire, and ground it to powder, and strawed it upon the water, and made the children of Israel
 21 drink of it. And Moses said unto Aaron, What did this people unto thee, that thou hast brought so great a sin upon them?
 22 And Aaron said, Let not the anger of my lord wax hot: thou knowest the people, that they are set on mischief. For they said unto me, Make us gods, which shall go before us: for as 23 for this Moses, the man that brought us up out of the land of 24 Egypt, we wot not what is become of him. And I said unto them, Whosoever hath any gold, let them break it off. So they gave it me: then I cast it into the fire, and there came out this calf.

Yet now, if thou wilt forgive their sin —; and if 32 not, blot me, I pray thee, out of thy book which thou hast written. the children of Israel stripped themselves of their ornaments pitched it without the camp, afar off from the camp, and called it the Tabernacle of the congregation. And it came to pass, that every one which sought the LORD went out unto the tabernacle of the congregation, which was without the camp.

 8 And it came to pass, when Moses went out unto the tabernacle, that all the people rose up, and stood every man at his 24 badgers' skins, brought them. Every one that did offer an offering of silver and brass brought the LORD's offering: and every man, with whom was found shittim wood for any work 25 of the service, brought it. And all the women that were wise hearted did spin with their hands, and brought that which they had spun, both of blue, and of purple, and of scarlet, and of 26 fine linen. And all the women whose heart stirred them up in 27 wisdom spun goats' hair. And the rulers brought onyx stones, and stones to be set, for the ephod, and for the breastplate;

 28 and ^g spice, and oil for the light, and for the anointing oil, and ^{g ch. xxx 23.} 29 for the sweet incense. The children of Israel brought a willing offering unto the LORD, every man and woman, whose heart made them willing to bring for all manner of work, which the LORD had commanded to be made by the hand of Moses.

30 And Moses said unto the children of Israel, See, ^h the LORD ^{h ch. xxxi. 2, xc.} hath called by name Bezaleel the son of Uri, the son of 31 Hur, of the tribe of Judah; and he hath filled him with the spirit of God, in wisdom, in understanding, and in knowledge, 32 and in all manner of workmanship; and to devise curious 33 works, to work in gold, and in silver, and in brass, and in the cutting of stones, to set them, and in carving of wood, to make 34 any manner of cunning work. And he hath put in his heart that he may teach, both he, and Aholiab, the son of Ahisamach, 35 of the tribe of Dan. Them hath he filled with wisdom of heart, to work all manner of work, of the engraver, and of the cunning workman, and of the embroiderer, in blue, and in purple, in scarlet, and in fine linen, and of the weaver, even of them that do any work, and of those that devise cunning work.

1 Then wrought Bezaleel and Aholiab, and every wise hearted man, in whom the LORD put wisdom and understanding to know how to work all manner of work for the service of the sanctuary, according to all that the LORD had commanded.
 2 And Moses called Bezaleel and Aholiab, and every wise hearted man, in whose heart the LORD had put wisdom, even every one whose heart stirred him up to come unto the work 3 to do it: and they received of Moses all the offering, which the children of Israel had brought for the work of the service

A.C. 1490. of the sanctuary, to make it withal. And they brought yet unto him free offerings every morning.

And all the wise men, that wrought all the work of the 4 sanctuary, came every man from his work which they made;
 and they spake unto Moses, saying, The people bring much 5 more than enough for the service of the work, which the LORD commanded to make. And Moses gave commandment, and 6 they caused it to be proclaimed throughout the camp, saying, Let neither man nor woman make any more work for the offering of the sanctuary. So the people were restrained from bringing. For the stuff they had was sufficient for all the work 7 to make it, and too much.

ich. xxvi. 1. ⁱ And every wise hearted man among them that wrought the 8 work of the tabernacle made ten curtains of fine twined linen, and blue, and purple, and scarlet: with cherubims of cunning work made he them. The length of one curtain was twenty 9 and eight cubits, and the breadth of one curtain four cubits:
 the curtains were all of one size. And he coupled the five 10 curtains one unto another: and the other five curtains he coupled one unto another. And he made loops of blue on the 11 edge of one curtain from the selvedge in the coupling: likewise he made in the uttermost side of another curtain, in the jeh. xxvi. 5. coupling of the second. ^j Fifty loops made he in one curtain, 12 and fifty loops made he in the edge of the curtain which was in the coupling of the second: the loops held one curtain to another. And he made fifty taches of gold, and coupled 13 the curtains one unto another with the taches: so it became one tabernacle.

And he made curtains of goats' hair for the tent over the 14 tabernacle: eleven curtains he made them. The length of one 15 curtain was thirty cubits, and four cubits was the breadth of one curtain: the eleven curtains were of one size. And he 16 coupled five curtains by themselves, and six curtains by themselves. And he made fifty loops upon the uttermost edge of 17 the curtain in the coupling, and fifty loops made he upon the edge of the curtain which coupleth the second. And he made 18 fifty taches of brass to couple the tent together, that it might be one. And he made a covering for the tent of rams' skins 19 dyed red, and a covering of badgers' skins above that.

And he made boards for the tabernacle of shittim wood, 20 standing up. The length of a board was ten cubits, and the 21 breadth of a board one cubit and a half. One board had two 22 tenons, equally distant one from another: thus did he make for all the boards of the tabernacle. And he made boards for 23 the tabernacle; twenty boards for the south side southward:
 and forty sockets of silver he made under the twenty boards; 24
 two sockets under one board for his two tenons, and two sockets under another board for his two tenons. And for the other 25 side of the tabernacle, which is toward the north corner, he ^{A.C. 1490.} 26 made twenty boards, and their forty sockets of silver; two sockets under one board, and two sockets under another board.

 27 And for the sides of the tabernacle westward he made six 28 boards. And two boards made he for the corners of the taber-29 nacle in the two sides. And they were ^k coupled beneath, and ^k Heb.

 boards; and their sockets were sixteen sockets of silver, ¹ under ¹ Heb. two every board two sockets. ^{sockets, two} 31 And he made ^m bars of shittim wood; five for the boards ^{sockets under} 32 of the one side of the tabernacle, and five bars for the boards ^{one board.}
 33 of the other side of the tabernacle, and five bars for the boards ^{m ch. xxvi.}

 middle bar to shoot through the boards from the one end to the 34 other. And he overlaid the boards with gold, and made their rings of gold to be places for the bars, and overlaid the bars with gold.
 35 And he made a vail of blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine twined linen: with cherubims made he it of cunning work.
 36 And he made thereunto four pillars of shittim wood, and overlaid them with gold: their hooks were of gold; and he cast for 37 them four sockets of silver. And he made an hanging for the

 2 And he made the horns thereof on the four corners of it; the horns thereof were of the same: and he overlaid it with brass.
 3 And he made all the vessels of the altar, the pots, and the shovels, and the basons, and the fleshhooks, and the firepans:
 4 all the vessels thereof made he of brass. And he made for the altar a brasen grate of network under the compass thereof
 5 beneath unto the midst of it. And he cast four rings for the 6 four ends of the grate of brass, to be places for the staves. And he made the staves of shittim wood, and overlaid them with 7 brass. And he put the staves into the rings on the sides of the altar, to bear it withal; he made the altar hollow with boards.

A.C. 1490.

This is the sum of the tabernacle, even of the tabernacle of 21 testimony, as it was counted, according to the commandment of Moses, for the service of the Levites, by the hand of Ithamar, son of Aaron the priest. And Bezaleel the son of Uri, 22 the son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah, made all that the LORD commanded Moses. And with him was Aholiab, son of Ahi- 23 samach, of the tribe of Dan, an engraver, and a cunning workman, and an embroiderer in blue, and in purple, and in scarlet, and fine linen. All the gold that was occupied for the work 24 in all the work of the holy place, even the gold of the offering, was twenty and nine talents, and seven hundred and thirty shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary. And the silver of 25 them that were numbered of the congregation was an hundred talents, and a thousand seven hundred and threescore and fifteen shekels, after the shekel of the sanctuary: a bekah for 26 every man, that is, half a shekel, after the shekel of the sanctuary, for every one that went to be numbered, from twenty years old and upward, for six hundred thousand and three thousand and five hundred and fifty men. And of the hundred 27 talents of silver were cast the sockets of the sanctuary, and the sockets of the vail; an hundred sockets of the hundred talents, a talent for a socket. And of the thousand seven hundred 28 seventy and five shekels he made hooks for the pillars, and overlaid their chapiters, and filleted them. And the brass of the 29 offering was seventy talents, and two thousand and four hundred shekels. And therewith he made the sockets to the door 30 of the tabernacle of the congregation, and the brasen altar, and the brasen grate for it, and all the vessels of the altar, and the 31 sockets of the court round about, and the sockets of the court gate, and all the pins of the tabernacle, and all the pins of the court round about.

19.

And of the blue, and purple, and scarlet, they made ^e cloths 1 of service, to do service in the holy place, and made the holy garments for Aaron; as the LORD commanded Moses. And 2 he made the ephod of gold, blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine twined linen. And they did beat the gold into thin plates, 3 and cut it into wires, to work it in the blue, and in the purple, and in the scarlet, and in the fine linen, with cunning work. They made shoulderpieces for it, to couple it together: by the 4 two edges was it coupled together. And the curious girdle of 5 his ephod, that was upon it, was of the same, according to the work thereof; of gold, blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine twined linen; as the LORD commanded Moses.

- 6 ^f And they wrought onyx stones inclosed in ouches of gold, A.C. 1490.

 Israel; as the LORD commanded Moses.
- 8 And he made the breastplate of cunning work, like the work of the ephod; of gold, blue, and purple, and scarlet, and fine 9 twined linen. It was foursquare; they made the breastplate double: a span was the length thereof, and a span the breadth 10 thereof, being doubled. And they set in it four rows of stones:
the first row was a ^h sardius, a topaz, and a carbuncle: this was h Or, ruby.
 11 the first row. And the second row, an emerald, a sapphire, and 12 a diamond. And the third row, a ligure, an agate, and an 13 amethyst. And the fourth row, a beryl, an onyx, and a jasper:
 14 they were inclosed in ouches of gold in their inclosings. And the stones were according to the names of the children of Israel, twelve, according to their names, like the engravings of a signet, every one with his name, according to the twelve 15 tribes. And they made upon the breastplate chains at the 16 ends, of wreathen work of pure gold. And they made two ouches of gold, and two gold rings; and put the two rings in 17 the two ends of the breastplate. And they put the two wreathen chains of gold in the two rings on the ends of the 18 breastplate. And the two ends of the two wreathen chains they fastened in the two ouches, and put them on the shoulder-19 pieces of the ephod, before it. And they made two rings of gold, and put them on the two ends of the breastplate, upon the 20 border of it, which was on the side of the ephod inward. And they made two other golden rings, and put them on the two sides of the ephod underneath, toward the forepart of it, over against the other coupling thereof, above the curious girdle of 21 the ephod. And they did bind the breastplate by his rings unto the rings of the ephod with a lace of blue, that it might be above the curious girdle of the ephod, and that the breast-plate might not be loosed from the ephod; as the LORD commanded Moses.
- 22 And he made the robe of the ephod of woven work, all of 23 blue. And there was an hole in the midst of the robe, as the hole of an habergeon, with a band round about the hole, that it 24 should not rend. And they made upon the hems of the robe pomegranates of blue, and purple, and scarlet, and twined 25 linen. And they made ⁱ bells of pure gold, and put the bells i ch. xxviii. 33.
 between the pomegranates upon the hem of the robe, round 26 about between the pomegranates; a bell and a pomegranate, a bell and a pomegranate, round about the hem of the robe to minister in; as the LORD commanded Moses.
- 27 And they made coats of fine linen of woven work for Aaron, 28 and for his sons, and a mitre of fine linen, and goodly bonnets

A.C. 1490. of fine linen, and ^k linen breeches of fine twined linen, and a 29 k ch. xxviii. 42. girdle of fine twined linen, and blue, and purple, and scarlet,

1 ch. xxviii. 36. ¹ And they made the plate of the holy crown of pure gold, 30 and wrote upon it a writing, like to the engravings of a signet, HOLINESS TO THE LORD. And they tied unto it a 31 lace of blue, to fasten it on high upon the mitre; as the LORD commanded Moses.

Thus was all the work of the tabernacle of the tent of the 32 congregation finished: and the children of Israel did according to all that the LORD commanded Moses, so did they.

And they brought the tabernacle unto Moses, the tent, and 33 all his furniture, his taches, his boards, his bars, and his pillars, and his sockets, and the covering of rams' skins dyed red, and 34
 the covering of badgers' skins, and the vail of the covering, the ark of the testimony, and the staves thereof, and the mercy 35 seat, the table, and all the vessels thereof, and the shewbread, 36 the pure candlestick, with the lamps thereof, even with the 37 lamps to be set in order, and all the vessels thereof, and the oil for light, and the golden altar, and the anointing oil, and ^m the 38 sweet incense, and the hanging for the tabernacle door, the 39 brasen altar, and his grate of brass, his staves, and all his vessels, the laver and his foot, the hangings of the court, his 40 pillars, and his sockets, and the hanging for the court gate, his cords, and his pins, and all the vessels of the service of the tabernacle, for the tent of the congregation, the cloths of ser- 41 vice to do service in the holy place, and the holy garments for Aaron the priest, and his sons' garments, to minister in the priest's office. According to all that the LORD commanded 42
 Moses, so the children of Israel made all the work. And 43
 Moses did look upon all the work, and, behold, they had done it as the LORD had commanded, even so had they done it: and Moses blessed them.

 8 shalt put water therein. And thou shalt set up the court round 9 about, and hang up the hanging at the court gate. And thou shalt take the anointing oil, and anoint the tabernacle, and all that is therein, and shalt hallow it, and all the vessels thereof:
 10 and it shall be holy. And thou shalt anoint the altar of the burnt offering, and all his vessels, and sanctify the altar: and 11 it shall be an altar ^pmost holy. And thou shalt anoint the 12 laver and his foot, and sanctify it. And thou shalt bring Aaron and his sons unto the door of the tabernacle of the congrega-13 tion, and wash them with water. And thou shalt put upon Aaron the holy garments, and anoint him, and sanctify him;
 14 that he may minister unto me in the priest's office. And thou 15 shalt bring his sons, and clothe them with coats: and thou shalt anoint them, as thou didst anoint their father, that they may minister unto me in the priest's office: for their anointing shall surely be an everlasting priesthood throughout their gene-16 rations. Thus did Moses: according to all that the LORD commanded him, so did he.
- 17 And it came to pass in the first month in the second year, on the first day of the month, that the ^atabernacle was reared up. ^qNum. vii 1
- 18 And Moses reared up the tabernacle, and fastened his sockets, and set up the boards thereof, and put in the bars thereof, and 19 reared up his pillars. And he spread abroad the tent over the tabernacle, and put the covering of the tent above upon it; as the LORD commanded Moses.
- 20 And he took and put the testimony into the ark, and set the staves on the ark, and put the mercy seat above upon the ark:
 21 and he brought the ark into the tabernacle, and ^rset up the vail of the covering, and covered the ark of the testimony; as the LORD commanded Moses. ^rch. xxxv. 12.
- 22 And he put the table in the tent of the congregation, upon 23 the side of the tabernacle northward, without the vail. And he set the bread in order upon it before the LORD; as the LORD had commanded Moses.
- 24 And he put the candlestick in the tent of the congregation, over against the table, on the side of the tabernacle southward.
- 25 And he lighted the lamps before the LORD, as the LORD commanded Moses.
- 26 And he put the golden altar in the tent of the congregation 27 before the vail: and he burnt sweet incense thereon; as the LORD commanded Moses.
- 28 And he set up the hanging at the door of the tabernacle.
- 29 And he put the altar of burnt offering by the door of the tabernacle of the tent of the congregation, and ^soffered upon it the burnt offering and the meat offering; as the LORD commanded Moses. ^sch. xxix. 38, &c.
- 30 And he set the laver between the tent of the congregation

A.C. 1490. and the altar, and put water there, to wash withal. And Moses 31 and Aaron and his sons washed their hands and their feet thereat: when they went into the tent of the congregation, 32 and when they came near unto the altar, they washed; as the LORD commanded Moses. And he reared up the court round 33 about the tabernacle and the altar, and set up the hanging of the court gate. So Moses finished the work.

1 Kin. viii. 10.

Then a cloud covered the tent of the congregation, and the 34 glory of the LORD filled the tabernacle. And Moses was not 35 able to enter into the tent of the congregation, because the cloud abode thereon, and the glory of the LORD filled the tabernacle. And when the cloud was taken up from over the 36 tabernacle, the children of Israel ^u went onward in all their journeys: but if the cloud were not taken up, then they journeyed 37 not till the day that it was taken up. LEVITICUS I.

1 The burnt offerings. 3 Of the herd, 10 of the flocks, 13 of the fowls.

And the LORD called unto Moses, and spake unto him out 1 of the tabernacle of the congregation, saying, Speak unto the 2 children of Israel, and say unto them, If any man of you bring an offering unto the LORD, ye shall bring your offering of the cattle, even of the herd, and of the flock. If his offering 3 be a burnt sacrifice of the herd, let him offer a male without blemish: he shall offer it of his own voluntary will at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation before the LORD.

²² It would be impossible, in these brief and cursory notes, to point out the peculiar object of each enactment of the law of Moses. It must be sufficient to remark, that each was intended, either to inculcate the necessity of personal purity and holiness—to typify the future great sacrifice of Christ—to declare the absolute necessity of a vicarious atonement for sin—or to defend the people against the surrounding idolatry, by compelling them to venerate those things which the idolaters hated, or to detest those which the idolaters adored. The laws of Moses taught the doctrine of a future state, and of admission into a spiritual Eden, by means of the blood of the true paschal Lamb. It was the schoolmaster to bring the Israelites to Christ; the middle wall of partition to the Jews and Gentiles, which St. Paul tells us the Messiah was to break down. The law of Moses was the standing evidence of the truth of prophecy, of the providence of God, and of the harmony of the divine dispensations: for nothing was taught in the Gospel, which had not previously been inculcated by the law.—Vide the Faith of the ancient Jews, by Bate; Lowman on the Hebrew Ritual; the Epistle to the Hebrews; the various Commentators on the Levitical Law; Dr. Young's 'Religion designed to prevent Superstition,' an admirable, though neglected work.

And he shall bring the bullock unto the door of the tabernacle of the congregation before the LORD ; and shall lay his hand upon the bullock's head, and kill the bullock before the LORD. And if the whole congregation of Israel sin through igno- 13 rance, ^u and the thing be hid from the eyes of the assembly, and they have done somewhat against any of the commandments of the LORD concerning things which should not be done, and are guilty; when the sin, which they have sinned against 14 it, is known, then the congregation shall offer a young bullock for the sin, and bring him before the tabernacle of the congregation. And the elders of the congregation shall lay their 15 hands upon the head of the bullock before the LORD: and the bullock shall be killed before the LORD. And the priest that 16 is anointed shall bring of the bullock's blood to the tabernacle of the congregation: and the priest shall dip his finger in some 17 of the blood, and sprinkle it seven times before the LORD, even before the vail. And the priest shall take of the blood thereof with his finger, and put it upon the horns of the altar of burnt offering, and shall pour out all the blood thereof at the bottom of the altar. 24.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, Speak unto the children of Israel, saying, He that offereth the sacrifice of his peace offerings unto the LORD shall bring his oblation unto the LORD of the sacrifice of his peace offerings. His own hands shall bring the offerings of the LORD made by fire, the fat with the breast, it shall he bring, that ^cthe breast may be waved for a wave offering before the LORD. And the priest shall burn the fat upon the altar: but the breast shall be Aaron's and his sons'. And the right shoulder shall ye give unto the priest for an heave offering of the sacrifices of your peace offerings. He among the sons of Aaron, that offereth the blood of the peace offerings, and the fat, shall have the right shoulder for his part. For the wave breast and the heave shoulder have I taken of the children of Israel from off the sacrifices of their peace offerings, and have given them unto Aaron the priest and unto his sons by a statute for ever from among the children of Israel.

This is the portion of the anointing of Aaron, and of the anointing of his sons, out of the offerings of the LORD made by fire, in the day when he presented them to minister unto the LORD in the priest's office; which the LORD commanded to be given them of the children of Israel, in the day that he anointed them, by a statute for ever throughout their generations. This is the law of the burnt offering, of the meat offering, and of the sin offering, and of the trespass offering, and of the consecrations, and of the sacrifice of the peace offerings; which the LORD commanded Moses in mount Sinai, in the day that he

3 the LORD. And unto the children of Israel thou shalt speak, saying, Take ye a kid of the goats for a sin offering; and a calf and a lamb, both of the first year, without blemish, for a 4 burnt offering; also a bullock and a ram for peace offerings, to sacrifice before the LORD; and a meat offering mingled with oil: for to day the LORD will appear unto you.
5 And they brought that which Moses commanded before the tabernacle of the congregation: and all the congregation drew 6 near and stood before the LORD. And Moses said, This is the thing which the LORD commanded that ye should do: and the 7 glory of the LORD shall appear unto you. And Moses said unto Aaron, Go unto the altar, and offer thy sin offering,
and thy burnt offering, and make an atonement for thyself,
and for the people: and offer the offering of the people,
and make an atonement for them; as the LORD commanded.
8 Aaron therefore went unto the altar, and slew the calf of brought the blood unto him: and he dipped his finger in the blood, and put it upon the horns of the altar, and poured out 10 the blood at the bottom of the altar: but the fat, and the kidneys, and the caul above the liver of the sin offering, he 11 burnt upon the altar; as the LORD commanded Moses. And the flesh and the hide he burnt with fire without the camp.

12 And he slew the burnt offering; and Aaron's sons presented unto him the blood, which he sprinkled round about upon the 13 altar. And they presented the burnt offering unto him, with the pieces thereof, and the head: and he burnt them upon the 14 altar. And he did wash the inwards and the legs, and burnt them upon the burnt offering on the altar.
15 And he brought the people's offering, and took the goat, which was the sin offering for the people, and slew it, and 16 offered it for sin, as the first. And he brought the burnt offer-as Moses commanded. And Aaron lifted up his hand toward 22 the people, and blessed them, and came down from offering of Destruction of Nadab and Abihu.

LEVITICUS X.

1 Nadab and Abihu, for offering of strange fire, are burnt by fire. 6 Aaron and his sons are forbidden to mourn for them. 8 The priests are forbidden wine when they are to go into the tabernacle. 12 The law of eating the holy things. 16 Aaron's excuse for transgressing thereof.

2.

And ^a Nadab and Abihu, the sons of Aaron, took either of 1 them his censer, and put fire therein, and put incense thereon, and offered strange fire before the LORD, which he commanded 2 them not. And there went out fire from the LORD, and de- 3 voured them, and they died before the LORD. Then Moses 4 said unto Aaron, This is it that the LORD spake, saying, I will be sanctified in them that come nigh me, and before all the people I will be glorified. And Aaron held his peace. And 5 Moses called Mishael and Elzaphan, the sons of Uzziel the uncle of Aaron, and said unto them, Come near, carry your brethren from before the sanctuary out of the camp. So they 6 went near, and carried them in their coats out of the camp; as Moses had said. And Moses said unto Aaron, and unto Ele- 7 azar and unto Ithamar, his sons, Uncover not your heads, neither rend your clothes; lest ye die, and lest wrath come upon all the people: but let your brethren, the whole house of Israel, bewail the burning which the LORD hath kindled.
And ye shall not go out from the door of the tabernacle of the 8 congregation, lest ye die: for the anointing oil of the LORD is upon you. And they did according to the word of Moses.

And the LORD spake unto Aaron, saying, Do not drink 8 wine nor strong drink, thou, nor thy sons with thee, when ye 9 go into the tabernacle of the congregation, lest ye die: it shall be a statute for ever throughout your generations: and that ye 10 may put difference between holy and unholy, and between unclean and clean; and that ye may teach the children of 11
Israel all the statutes which the LORD hath spoken unto them

12 by the hand of Moses. And Moses spake unto Aaron, and unto Eleazar and unto Ithamar, his sons that were left, Take the meat offering that remaineth of the offerings of the LORD made by fire, and eat it without leaven beside the altar: for it is most holy: and ye shall eat it in the holy place, because it is thy due, and thy sons' due, of the sacrifices of the LORD made by fire: for so I am commanded. ^b And the wave breast and heave shoulder shall ye eat in a clean place; thou, and thy sons, and thy daughters with thee; for they be thy due, and thy sons' due, which are given out of the sacrifices of peace offerings of the children of Israel. The heave shoulder and the wave breast shall they bring with the offerings made by fire of the fat, to wave it for a wave offering before the LORD; and it shall be thine, and thy sons' with thee, by a statute for ever; as the LORD hath commanded.

16 And Moses diligently sought the goat of the sin offering, and, behold, it was burnt: and he was angry with Eleazar and Ithamar, the sons of Aaron which were left alive, saying, 17 Wherefore have ye not eaten the sin offering in the holy place, seeing it is most holy, and God hath given it you to bear the iniquity of the congregation, to make atonement for them before the LORD? Behold, the blood of it was not brought in within the holy place: ye should indeed have eaten it in the holy place, ^c as I commanded. And Aaron said unto Moses, Behold, this day have they offered their sin offering and their burnt offering before the LORD; and such things have befallen me: and if I had eaten the sin offering to day, should it have been accepted in the sight of the LORD? And when Moses heard that, he was content.

Second Passover.

NUMBERS IX. VER. 1—14²³.

1 The passover is commanded again. 6 A second passover allowed for them that were unclean or absent.

1 And the LORD spake unto Moses in the wilderness of Sinai, in the first month of the second year after they were come out of the land of Egypt, saying, Let the children of Israel also keep ^a the passover at his appointed season. In the fourteenth day of this month, ^b at even, ye shall keep it in his appointed season: according to all the rites of it, and according to all the ceremonies thereof, shall ye keep it. And Moses spake unto the children of Israel, that they should keep the passover. And they kept the passover on the fourteenth day of the first month at even in the wilderness of Sinai: according to all that the LORD commanded Moses, so did the children of Israel.

And there were certain men, who were defiled by the dead 6 body of a man, that they could not keep the passover on that day: and they came before Moses and before Aaron on that day: and those men said unto him, We are defiled by the dead 7 offer an offering of the LORD in his appointed season among the children of Israel? And Moses said unto them, Stand 8

The fourteenth day of the second month at even they shall 11 keep it, and eat it with unleavened bread and bitter herbs.
They shall leave none of it unto the morning, ^c nor break any 12 not the offering of the LORD in his appointed season, that man shall bear his sin. And if a stranger shall sojourn among you, 14 and will keep the passover unto the LORD; according to the 10 them shall ye eat. And all that have not fins and scales in the seas, and in the rivers, of all that move in the waters, and of any living thing which is in the waters, they shall be an abomination unto you: they shall be even an abomination unto you; ye shall not eat of their flesh, but ye shall have their carcasses in abomination. Whatsoever hath no fins nor scales in the waters, that shall be an abomination unto you. A.C. 1490.

13 And these are they which ye shall have in abomination among the fowls; they shall not be eaten, they are an abomination: the eagle, and the ossifrage, and the ospray, and the vulture, and the kite after his kind; every raven after his kind; and the owl, and the night hawk, and the cuckow, and the hawk after his kind, and the little owl, and the cormorant, and the great owl, and the swan, and the pelican, and the gier eagle, and the stork, the heron after her kind, and the lapwing, and the bat. All fowls that creep, going upon all four, shall be an abomination unto you. Yet these may ye eat of every flying creeping thing that goeth upon all four, which have legs above their feet, to leap withal upon the earth; even these of them ye may eat; the locust after his kind, and the bald locust after his kind, and the beetle after his kind, and the grasshopper after his kind. But all other flying creeping things, which have four feet, shall be an abomination unto you. And for these ye shall be unclean: whosoever toucheth the carcase of them shall be unclean until the even. And whosoever beareth ought of the carcase of them shall wash his clothes, and be unclean until the even. The carcasses of every beast which divideth the hoof, and is not clovenfooted, nor cheweth the cud, are unclean unto you: every one that toucheth them shall be unclean. And whatsoever goeth upon his paws, among all manner of beasts that go on all four, those are unclean unto you: whoso toucheth their carcase shall be unclean until the even. And he that beareth the carcase of them shall wash his clothes, and be unclean until the even: they are unclean unto you.

29 These also shall be unclean unto you among the creeping things that creep upon the earth; the weasel, and the mouse, and the tortoise after his kind, and the ferret, and the chameleon, and the lizard, and the snail, and the mole. These are unclean to you among all that creep: whosoever doth touch them, when they be dead, shall be unclean until the even.

32 And upon whatsoever any of them, when they are dead, doth fall, it shall be unclean; whether it be any vessel of wood, or raiment, or skin, or sack, whatsoever vessel it be, wherein any work is done, it must be put into water, and it shall be unclean until the even; so it shall be cleansed. And every earthen vessel, whereinto any of them falleth, whatsoever is in it shall be unclean; and ye shall break it. Of all meat which may

A.C. 1490. be eaten, that on which such water cometh shall be unclean : and all drink that may be drunk in every such vessel shall be unclean. And every thing whereupon any part of their carcase 35 falleth shall be unclean ; whether it be oven, or ranges for pots, they shall be broken down : for they are unclean, and shall be unclean unto you. Nevertheless a fountain or pit, ^d wherein 36 there is plenty of water, shall be clean : but that which toucheth their carcase shall be unclean. And if any part of their 37 carcase fall upon any sowing seed which is to be sown, it shall be clean. But if any water be put upon the seed, and any part 38 of their carcase fall thereon, it shall be unclean unto you. And 39 if any beast, of which ye may eat, die ; he that toucheth the carcase thereof shall be unclean until the even. Whatsoever goeth upon the belly, and 42 whatsoever goeth upon all four, or whatsoever ^e hath more feet among all creeping things that creep upon the earth, then ye shall not eat ; for they are an abomination. Ye shall not make 43 yourselves ^f abominable with any creeping thing that creepeth, neither shall ye make yourselves unclean with them, that ye should be defiled thereby. For I am the LORD your God : 44 ye shall therefore sanctify yourselves, and ^g ye shall be holy ; for I am holy : neither shall ye defile yourselves with any manner of creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth. For 45 I am the LORD that bringeth you up out of the land of Egypt, to be your God : ye shall therefore be holy, for I am holy. This is the law of the beasts, and of the fowl, and of every 46 living creature that moveth in the waters, and of every creature that creepeth upon the earth : to make a difference 47 between the unclean and the clean, and between the beast that may be eaten and the beast that may not be eaten.

The laws and tokens whereby the priest is to be guided in discerning the leprosy.

1 And the LORD spake unto Moses and Aaron, saying, When
 2 a man shall have in the skin of his flesh a ⁿ rising, a scab, or ^{n Or, swelling.} bright spot, and it be in the skin of his flesh like the plague of leprosy; then he shall be brought unto Aaron the priest, or

 4 shall look on him, and pronounce him unclean. If the bright spot be white in the skin of his flesh, and in sight be not deeper than the skin, and the hair thereof be not turned white; then the priest shall shut up him that hath the plague seven days:
 5 and the priest shall look on him the seventh day: and, behold, if the plague in his sight be at a stay, and the plague spread not in the skin; then the priest shall shut him up seven days
 6 more: and the priest shall look on him again the seventh day: and, behold, if the plague be somewhat dark, and the plague spread not in the skin, the priest shall pronounce him clean: it is but a scab: and he shall wash his clothes, and be clean.
 7 But if the scab spread much abroad in the skin, after that he hath been seen of the priest for his cleansing, he shall be seen
 8 of the priest again: and if the priest see that, behold, the scab spreadeth in the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is a leprosy.
 9 When the plague of leprosy is in a man, then he shall be brought unto the priest; and the priest shall see him: and, behold, if the rising be white in the skin, and it have turned

But if the priest ²⁶ look on it, and, behold, there be no white hair in the bright spot, and it be no lower than the other skin, but be somewhat dark; then the priest shall shut him up seven days: and the ²⁷ priest shall look upon him the seventh day: and if it be spread much abroad in the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is the plague of leprosy. And if the bright spot ²⁸ stay in his place, and spread not in the skin, but it be somewhat dark; it is a rising of the burning, and the priest shall pronounce him clean: for it is an inflammation of the burning.

If a man or woman have a plague upon the head or the ²⁹ beard; then the priest shall see the plague: and, behold, if it ³⁰ be in sight deeper than the skin; and there be in it a yellow thin hair; then the priest shall pronounce him unclean: it is a dry scall, even a leprosy upon the head or beard. And if the priest ³¹ look on the plague of the scall, and, behold, it be not in sight deeper than the skin, and that there is no black hair in it; then the priest shall shut up him that hath the plague of the scall

But if the scall spread much in the skin after his cleansing ; then the priest shall look on him : and, behold, if the scall be spread in the skin, the priest shall not seek for yellow hair ; he is unclean. But if the scall be in his sight at a stay, and that there is black hair grown up therein ; the scall is healed, he is clean : and the priest shall pronounce him clean.

Then the priest shall look upon it : and, behold, if the rising of the sore be white reddish in his bald head, or in his bald forehead, as the leprosy appeareth in the skin of the flesh ; he is a leprous man, he is unclean : the priest shall pronounce him utterly unclean ; his plague is in his head. And the leper in whom the plague is, his clothes shall be rent, and his head bare, and he shall put a covering upon his upper lip, and shall cry, Unclean, unclean. He shall therefore burn that garment, whether warp or woof, in woollen or in and, behold, if the plague have not changed his colour, and the plague be not spread; it is unclean; thou shalt burn it in the fire; it is fret inward, ^u whether it be bare within or without.

 And if the priest look, and, behold, the plague be somewhat 56

And the LORD spake unto Moses in mount Sinai, saying, 1 Speak unto the children of Israel, and say unto them, When 2 ye come into the land which I give you, then shall the land ^d keep ^e a sabbath unto the LORD. Six years thou shalt sow 3 thy field, and six years thou shalt prune thy vineyard, and gather in the fruit thereof; but in the seventh year shall be a 4 sabbath of rest unto the land, a sabbath for the LORD: thou shalt neither sow thy field, nor prune thy vineyard. That 5 which groweth of its own accord of thy harvest thou shalt not reap, neither gather the grapes ^f of thy vine undressed; for it is a year of rest unto the land. And the sabbath of the land shall 6 be meat for you; for thee, and for thy servant, and for thy maid, and for thy hired servant, and for thy stranger that sojourneth with thee, and for thy cattle, and for the beast that 7 are in thy land, shall all the increase thereof be meat.

And thou shalt number seven sabbaths of years unto thee, 8
seven times seven years; and the space of the seven sabbaths of years shall be unto thee forty and nine years. Then shalt 9 thou cause the trumpet ^g of the jubile to sound on the tenth day of the seventh month, in the day of atonement shall ye make the trumpet sound throughout all your land. And ye 10 shall hallow the fiftieth year, and proclaim liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof: it shall be a jubile unto you; and ye shall return every man unto his possession, and ye shall return every man unto his family. A jubile shall 11 that fiftieth year be unto you: ye shall not sow, neither reap that which groweth of itself in it, nor gather the grapes in it of thy vine undressed. For it is the jubile; it shall be holy unto 12 you: ye shall eat the increase thereof out of the field. In the 13 year of this jubile ye shall return every man unto his possession.

- 14 And if thou sell ought unto thy neighbour, or buyest ought of A.C. 1490.

 17 Ye shall not therefore oppress one another; but thou shalt fear thy God: for I am the LORD your God.
 18 Wherefore ye shall do my statutes, and keep my judgments,
 19 and do them; and ye shall dwell in the land in safety. And the land shall yield her fruit, and ye shall eat your fill, and dwell 20 therein in safety. And if ye shall say, What shall we eat the seventh year? behold, we shall not sow, nor gather in our in-21 crease: then I will command my blessing upon you in the 22 sixth year, and it shall bring forth fruit for three years. And ye shall sow the eighth year, and eat yet of old fruit until the ninth year; until her fruits come in ye shall eat of the old store.

 28 possession. But if he be not able to restore it to him, then that which is sold shall remain in the hand of him that hath bought it until the year of jubile: and in the jubile it shall go out, and
 29 he shall return unto his possession. And if a man sell a dwelling house in a walled city, then he may redeem it within a whole
 30 year after it is sold; within a full year may he redeem it. And if it be not redeemed within the space of a full year, then the house that is in the walled city shall be established for ever to him that bought it throughout his generations: it shall not go 31 out in the jubile. But the houses of the villages which have no wall round about them shall be counted as the fields of the country: ^l they may be redeemed, and they shall go out in the

their iniquity in your enemies' lands; and also in the iniquities 40 of their fathers shall they pine away with them. If they shall confess their iniquity, and the iniquity of their fathers, with their trespass which they trespassed against me, and that also 41 they have walked contrary unto me; and that I also have walked contrary unto them, and have brought them into the land of their enemies; if then their uncircumcised hearts be humbled, and they then accept of the punishment of their 42 iniquity: then will I remember my covenant with Jacob, and also my covenant with Isaac, and also my covenant with Abraham will I remember; and I will remember the land.
 43 The land also shall be left of them, and shall enjoy her sabbaths, while she lieth desolate without them: and they shall accept of the punishment of their iniquity: because, even because they despised my judgments, and because their soul 44 abhorred my statutes. And yet for all that, when they be in the land of their enemies, ^x I will not cast them away, neither 45 will I abhor them, to destroy them utterly, and to break my covenant with them: for I am the LORD their God. But I will for their sakes remember the covenant of their ancestors, whom I brought forth out of the land of Egypt in the sight of the heathen, that I might be their God: I am the LORD.
 46 These are the statutes and judgments and laws, which the LORD made between him and the children of Israel in mount Sinai by the hand of Moses.

LEVITICUS XXVII.

1 He that maketh a singular vow must be the Lord's. 2 The estimation of the person.
 9 Of a beast given by vow. 14 Of a house. 16 Of a field, and the redemption thereof. 28 No devoted thing may be redeemed. 32 The tithe may not be changed.

1 And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, Speak unto the 2 children of Israel, and say unto them, When a man shall make a singular vow, the persons shall be for the LORD by thy esti-3 mation. And thy estimation shall be of the male from twenty years old even unto sixty years old, even thy estimation shall be fifty shekels of silver, after the shekel of the sanctuary.
 4 And if it be a female, then thy estimation shall be thirty 5 shekels. And if it be from five years old even unto twenty years old, then thy estimation shall be of the male twenty 6 shekels, and for the female ten shekels. And if it be from a month old even unto five years old, then thy estimation shall be of the male five shekels of silver, and for the female thy 7 estimation shall be three shekels of silver. And if it be from sixty years old and above; if it be a male, then thy estimation 8 shall be fifteen shekels, and for the female ten shekels. But if he be poorer than thy estimation, then he shall present himself before the priest, and the priest shall value him; according 9 to his ability that vowed shall the priest value him. And if it be a beast, whereof men bring an offering unto the LORD,

A.C. 1490. all that any man giveth of such unto the LORD shall be holy. He shall not alter it, nor change it, a good for a bad, or a bad 10 for a good: and if he shall at all change beast for beast, then it and the exchange thereof shall be holy. And if it be any 11 unclean beast, of which they do not offer a sacrifice unto the LORD, then he shall present the beast before the priest: and 12 the priest shall value it, whether it be good or bad: ^yas thou valuest it, who art the priest, so shall it be. But if he will at 13 all redeem it, then he shall add a fifth part thereof unto thy estimation.

And when a man shall sanctify his house to be holy unto the 14 LORD, then the priest shall estimate it, whether it be good or bad: as the priest shall estimate it, so shall it stand. And if 15 he that sanctifieth it will redeem his house, then he shall add the fifth part of the money of thy estimation unto it, and it shall be his. And if a man shall sanctify unto the LORD some 16 part of a field of his possession, then thy estimation shall be according to the seed thereof: ^zan homer of barley seed shall be valued at fifty shekels of silver. If he sanctify his field from 17 the year of jubile, according to thy estimation it shall stand. But if he sanctify his field after the jubile, then the priest 18 shall reckon unto him the money according to the years that remain, even unto the year of the jubile, and it shall be abated from thy estimation. And if he that sanctifieth the field 19 will in any wise redeem it, then he shall add the fifth part of the money of thy estimation unto it, and it shall be assured to him. And if he will not redeem the field, or if he have sold 20 the field to another man, it shall not be redeemed any more. But the field, when it goeth out in the jubile, shall be holy 21 unto the LORD, as a field devoted; the possession thereof shall be the priest's. And if a man sanctify unto the LORD a field 22 which he hath bought, which is not of the fields of his possession; then the priest shall reckon unto him the worth of thy 23 estimation, even unto the year of the jubile: and he shall give thine estimation in that day, as a holy thing unto the LORD. In the year of the jubile the field shall return unto him of 24 whom it was bought, even to him to whom the possession of the land did belong.  together on the first day of the second month, and they declared

A.C. 1490. their pedigrees after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, by their polls. As the LORD commanded Moses, 19 so he numbered them in the wilderness of Sinai. And the 20 children of Reuben, Israel's eldest son, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, by their polls, every male from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war; those that were numbered of them, even of the 21 tribe of Reuben, were forty and six thousand and five hundred.

Of the children of Simeon, by their generations, after their 22 families, by the house of their fathers, those that were numbered of them, according to the number of the names, by their polls, every male from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war; those that were numbered of 23 them, even of the tribe of Simeon, were fifty and nine thousand and three hundred.

Of the children of Gad, by their generations, after their 24 families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were able to go forth to war; those that were numbered of them, 25 even of the tribe of Gad, were forty and five thousand six hundred and fifty.

- 34 Of the children of Manasseh, by their generations, after their families, by the house of their fathers, according to the number of the names, from twenty years old and upward, all that were 35 able to go forth to war; those that were numbered of them, even of the tribe of Manasseh, were thirty and two thousand and two hundred. A.C. 1490.

46 upward, all that were able to go forth to war in Israel; even all they that were numbered were six hundred thousand and three thousand and five hundred and fifty.
- 47 But the Levites after the tribe of their fathers were not numbered among them. For the LORD had spoken unto Moses,

49 take the sum of them among the children of Israel: but thou shalt appoint the Levites over the tabernacle of testimony, and over all the vessels thereof, and over all things that belong to it: they shall bear the tabernacle, and all the vessels thereof; and they shall minister unto it, and shall encamp round about the 51 tabernacle. And when the tabernacle setteth forward, the Levites shall take it down: and when the tabernacle is to be pitched, the Levites shall set it up: and the stranger that

A.C. 1490. cometh nigh shall be put to death. And the children of Israel 52 shall pitch their tents, every man by his own camp, and every man by his own standard, throughout their hosts. But the 53 Levites shall pitch round about the tabernacle of testimony, that there be no wrath upon the congregation of the children of Israel: and the Levites shall keep the charge of the tabernacle of testimony. And the children of Israel did according to all 54 that the LORD commanded Moses, so did they.

Use of the Silver Trumpets.

NUMBERS X. VER. 1—10.

And the LORD spake unto Moses, saying, Make thee two 1, 2 trumpets of silver; of a whole piece shalt thou make them:
that thou mayest use them for the calling of the assembly, and for the journeying of the camps. And when they shall blow 3 with them, all the assembly shall assemble themselves to thee at the door of the tabernacle of the congregation. And if they 4 blow but with one trumpet, then the princes, which are heads of the thousands of Israel, shall gather themselves unto thee.
When ye blow an alarm, then the camps that lie on the east 5 parts shall go forward. When ye blow an alarm the second 6 time, then the camps that lie on the south side shall take their journey: they shall blow an alarm for their journeys. But 7 when the congregation is to be gathered together, ye shall blow, but ye shall not sound an alarm. And the sons of Aaron, 8 the priests, shall blow with the trumpets; and they shall be to you for an ordinance for ever throughout your generations.
And if ye go to war in your land against the enemy that 9 oppresseth you, then ye shall blow an alarm with the trumpets; and ye shall be remembered before the LORD your God, and ye shall be saved from your enemies. Also in the day of your 10 gladness, and in your solemn days, and in the beginnings of your months, ye shall blow with the trumpets over your burnt offerings, and over the sacrifices of your peace offerings; that they may be to you for a memorial before your God: I am the LORD your God.

Arrival of Jethro.

1 Jethro bringeth to Moses his wife and two sons. 7 Moses entertaineth him. 13 Jethro's counsel is accepted.

1 When ^a Jethro, the priest of Midian, Moses' father in law, ^{a ch. ii. 16.} heard of all that God had done for Moses, and for Israel his people, and that the LORD had brought Israel out of Egypt;
 2 then Jethro, Moses' father in law, took Zipporah, Moses' wife,

 Jethro am come unto thee, and thy wife, and her two sons with her.
 7 And Moses went out to meet his father in law, and did obeisance, and kissed him; and they asked each other of their 8 ^e welfare; and they came into the tent. And Moses told his ^{e Heb. peace.} father in law all that the LORD had done unto Pharaoh and to the Egyptians for Israel's sake, and all the travail that had

And it came to pass on the morrow, that Moses sat to judge ¹³ the people: and the people stood by Moses from the morning unto the evening. And when Moses' father in law saw all that ¹⁴ he did to the people, he said, What is this thing that thou doest to the people? why sittest thou thyself alone, and all the people stand by thee from morning unto even? And Moses said unto ¹⁵ his father in law, Because the people come unto me to enquire of God: when they have a matter, they come unto me; and I ¹⁶ judge between ^h one and another, and I do make them know the statutes of God, and his laws. And Moses' father in law ¹⁷ said unto him, The thing that thou doest is not good. ⁱ Thou ¹⁸ wilt surely wear away, both thou, and this people that is with thee: for this thing is too heavy for thee; ^k thou art not able to perform it thyself alone. Harken now unto my voice, I ¹⁹ will give thee counsel, and God shall be with thee: Be thou for the people to Godward, that thou mayest bring the causes unto God: and thou shalt teach them ordinances and laws, and shalt ²⁰ shew them the way wherein they must walk, and the work that they must do. Moreover thou shalt provide out of all the ²¹ people able men, such as fear God, men of truth, hating covetousness; and place such over them, to be rulers of thousands, and rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens: and let them judge the people at all seasons: and it ²² shall be, that every great matter they shall bring unto thee, but every small matter they shall judge: so shall it be easier for thyself, and they shall bear the burden with thee. If ²³ thou shalt do this thing, and God command thee so, then thou shalt be able to endure, and all this people shall also go to their place in peace. So Moses hearkened to the voice ²⁴ of his father in law, and did all that he had said. And Moses ²⁵ chose able men out of all Israel, and made them heads over the people, rulers of thousands, rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens. And they judged the people at ²⁶ all seasons: the hard causes they brought unto Moses, but every small matter they judged themselves.

 3 a man, every one a ruler among them. And Moses by the commandment of the LORD sent them from the wilderness of Paran: all those men were heads of the children of Israel.
 4 And these were their names:—of the tribe of Reuben, Shammua the son of Zaccur.
 5 Of the tribe of Simeon, Shaphat the son of Hori.
 6 Of the tribe of Judah, Caleb the son of Jephunneh.
 7 Of the tribe of Issachar, Igai the son of Joseph.

These are the names of the men which Moses sent to spy 16

Jehoshua.

And Moses sent them to spy out the land of Canaan, and 17 said unto them, Get you up this way southward, and go up into the mountain: and see the land, what it is; and the people 18 that dwelleth therein, whether they be strong or weak, few or many; and what the land is that they dwell in, whether it be 19 good or bad; and what cities they be that they dwell in, whether in tents, or in strong holds; and what the land is, whether it be 20 of good courage, and bring of the fruit of the land. Now the time was the time of the first ripe grapes.

So they went up, and searched the land from the wilderness 21 of Zin unto Rehob, as men come to Hamath. And they as- 22
cended by the south, and came unto Hebron; where Ahiman, Sheshai, and Talmai, the children of Anak, were. (Now Hebron was built seven years before Zoan in Egypt.) And 23 they came unto the ^abrook of Eshcol, and cut down from thence a branch with one cluster of grapes, and they bare it between two upon a staff; and they brought of the pomegranates, and of the figs. The place was called the ^bbrook of 24 ^cEshcol, because of the cluster of grapes which the children of Israel cut down from thence. And they returned from search- 25

And they went and came to Moses, and to Aaron, and to all 26 unto all the congregation, and shewed them the fruit of the Amalekites dwell in the land of the south: and the Hittites, and the Jebusites, and the Amorites, dwell in the mountains:

and the Canaanites dwell by the sea, and by the coast of Jordan. And Caleb stilled the people before Moses, and said, 30

- 1 And all the congregation lifted up their voice, and cried;

A.C. 1489. Because the LORD was not able to bring this people into the 16 land which he swore unto them, therefore he hath slain them in the wilderness. ²⁷ This conquest of Arad is supposed to be spoken of prophetically; its final subjugation being completed by Joshua. (Joshua xii. 14.) Arad is situated on the very border of Canaan: it is not improbable, therefore, that the king began the war against the Israelites, not only when they were comparatively unused to war, but at the very time when they were repulsed by the king of Edom. Though Arad was unsuccessful in his present attack, the people of Arad were not finally subdued till the days of Joshua; and I have therefore inserted this narrative after the account of the refusal of Edom to permit the Israelites to pass through his territory, and immediately before the account of the removal from Kadesh-barnes.—Vide Horsley's Bib. ²⁸ There were various modes in which the Divine will was communicated to man: one of which was, compelling the prophet, whether contrary, or agreeably to his inclination, to utter certain prophetic truths and oracular responses. Of all the patriarchal prophets, at this period of the world, Balaam appears to have been the most celebrated; and Balak, fearing the Israelites, who "cover the face of the earth," sends to Balaam, intreating him to come and curse these invaders. The seer professes his desire to please the king, but, at the same time, gives him to understand, that he is the mere instrument of making known the decree of the Almighty. The Angel-Jehovah was justly considered to have established the patriarchal dispensation, and as this system was now on the eve of being abrogated, it was to be expected that the same divine Being, who had introduced it, would effect its abolition. We read, accordingly, that when Balaam received the messengers of Balak, the Lord, the Angel-Jehovah, appeared unto him; and God said unto him, "Thou shalt not go with them; thou shalt not curse the people; for they are blessed." This annunciation checked, for a time, the ambition and covetousness of the prophet: the messengers returned with more honourable offers to Balaam, when the Angel of the Lord again appears as the captain of the Lord's host, “standing in the way, his sword drawn in his hand,” and He declares to the prophet, that whatever he may himself wish to predict, from the desire of promotion, “only the word that I shall speak unto thee, that thou shalt speak.” Every evidence, therefore, that the Israelites were the peculiar chosen people of God, separated by Him from the apostate Gentiles, and that patriarchism was consequently abolished, was thus afforded to the people of the east. From this time, except through the medium of God’s chosen people, the apostate children of Noah had no intercourse with God: and Balaam, with whatever reluctance, was constrained by the Holy Spirit to pronounce the inauguration of a new system, and thereby dissolve the old one.

The prophecies of Balaam, then, may be considered as the “death song of patriarchism,” and, at the very moment when this primeval system was formally abrogated, God, in his mercy, gives to the penitent Gentiles an assurance of a future Saviour; “there shall come a star out of Jacob, and a sceptre shall rise out of Israel.” It is supposed that this prophecy of the Messiah, together with the more ancient tradition of Noah, never ceased to prevail in a greater or less degree throughout the pagan world; until the eastern Magi came to seek the Messiah, having seen his star in the east. Balaam, after having announced the national prosperity of the chosen people of God, in the Holy Land, (Numb. xxiii. 21—24.) predicts the subjugation of the nations whose princes then surrounded him; and concludes with his prophecy of the captivity of the Jews, and the punishment of their oppressors. Thus was the goodness of Providence displayed, in permitting a Gentile prophet to declare to the Gentiles the same truths which he revealed to His own people by the Hebrew prophets: which is an earnest, and evidence, that all nations are interested in the mission of his Son; and that the Gentiles shall be again received into God’s visible church upon earth.—Vide Witsius de Prophetis et Prophetiâ; Faber’s Horæ Mossaicæ, vol. i. p. 92, and following; Hales’ Analysis, vol. ii. p. 219—230; Allix, Reflections, ch. xi.; Calmet, art. And the name of 59 Amram's wife was ^bJoechebed, the daughter of Levi, whom her mother bare to Levi in Egypt: and she bare unto Amram Aaron and Moses, and Miriam their sister. And unto Aaron 60 was born Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. And 61 Nadab and Abihu died, when they offered strange fire before the LORD. And those that were numbered of them were 62 twenty and three thousand, all males from a month old and upward: for they were not numbered among the children of Israel, because there was no inheritance given them among the children of Israel.

These are they that were numbered by Moses and Eleazar 63 the priest, who numbered the children of Israel in the plains of Moab by Jordan near Jericho. But among these there was 64 not a man of them whom Moses and Aaron the priest numbered, when they numbered the children of Israel in the wilderness of Sinai. For the LORD had said of them, They ^dshall 65 surely die in the wilderness. And there was not left a man of them, save Caleb the son of Jephunneh, and Joshua the son of Nun.

 thou shalt cause the inheritance of their father to pass unto them.
 8 And thou shalt speak unto the children of Israel, saying, If a

And Moses commanded the children of Israel according to the word of the LORD, saying, The tribe of the sons of Joseph hath said well. This is the thing which the LORD doth command concerning the daughters of Zelophehad, saying, Let them ^c marry to whom they think best; ^d only to the family of the tribe of their father shall they marry. So shall not the inheritance of the children of Israel remove from tribe to tribe: for every one of the children of Israel shall ^e keep himself to the inheritance of the tribe of his fathers. Law of Vows.

NUMBERS XXX.

 a widow's, or her that is divorced.*

a Heb. pro-

 vows were upon her.

And Moses spake unto the heads of the tribes concerning 1
 the children of Israel, saying, This is the thing which the LORD hath commanded. If a man vow a vow unto the LORD, 2 or swear an oath to bind his soul with a bond; he shall not a break his word, he shall do according to all that proceedeth out of his mouth. If a woman also vow a vow unto the LORD, 3 and bind herself by a bond, being in her father's house in her youth; and her father hear her vow, and her bond wherewith 4 she hath bound her soul, and her father shall hold his peace at her: then all her vows shall stand, and every bond wherewith she hath bound her soul shall stand. But if her father disallow 5 her in the day that he heareth; not any of her vows, or of her bonds wherewith she hath bound her soul, shall stand: and the LORD shall forgive her, because her father disallowed her.
 And if she had at all an husband, when ^b she vowed, or uttered 6 ought out of her lips, wherewith she bound her soul; and her 7 husband heard it, and held his peace at her in the day that he heard it: then her vows shall stand, and her bonds wherewith she bound her soul shall stand. But if her husband disallowed 8 her on the day that he heard it; then he shall make her vow which she vowed, and that which she uttered with her lips, wherewith she bound her soul, of none effect: and the LORD shall forgive her. But every vow of a widow, and of her that 9 is divorced, wherewith they have bound their souls, shall stand against her. And if she vowed in her husband's house, or 10 bound her soul by a bond with an oath; and her husband heard 11 it, and held his peace at her, and disallowed her not: then all her vows shall stand, and every bond wherewith she bound her soul shall stand. But if her husband hath utterly made them 12 void on the day he heard them; then whatsoever proceeded out of her lips concerning her vows, or concerning the bond of her soul, shall not stand: her husband hath made them void; and the LORD shall forgive her. Every vow, and every bind- 13 ing oath to afflict the soul, her husband may establish it, or her husband may make it void. But if her husband altogether 14 hold his peace at her from day to day; then he establisheth all her vows, or all her bonds, which are upon her: he confirmeth them, because he held his peace at her in the day that he heard ^{A.C. 1451.} 15 them. But if he shall any ways make them void after that he 16 hath heard them; then he shall bear her iniquity. These are the statutes, which the LORD commanded Moses, between a man and his wife, between the father and his daughter, being yet in her youth in her father's house.

1 These be the words which Moses spake unto all Israel on this side Jordan in the wilderness, in the plain over against ^a the Red sea, between Paran, and Tophel, and Laban, and Hazeroth, and Dizahab. (There are eleven days' journey from Horeb by the way of mount Seir unto Kadesh-barnea.) And it came to pass in the fortieth year, in the eleventh month, on the first day of the month, that Moses spake unto the children of Israel, according unto all that the LORD had given him in commandment unto them; ^b after he had slain Sihon the king of the Amorites, which dwelt in Heshbon, and Og the king of Bashan, which dwelt at Astaroth in Edrei: on this side Jordan, in the land of Moab, began Moses to declare this law, saying, The LORD our God spake unto us in Horeb, saying, Ye have dwelt long enough in this mount: turn you, and take your journey, and go to the mount of the Amorites, and unto ^c all the places nigh thereunto, in the plain, in the hills, and in the vale, and in the south, and by the sea side, to the land of the Canaanites, and unto Lebanon, unto the great river, the river Euphrates. And I spake unto you at that time, saying, I am not able to 9 multitude. (The LORD God of your fathers make you a thou- 11 promised you!) How can I myself alone bear your cumbrance, 12 and your burden, and your strife? ^f Take you wise men, 13 and understanding, and known among your tribes, and I will make them rulers over you. And ye answered me, and said, 14

The thing which thou hast spoken is good for us to do. So I 15 took the chief of your tribes, wise men, and known, and made them heads over you, captains over thousands, and captains over hundreds, and captains over fifties, and captains over tens, and officers among your tribes. And I charged your 16 judges at that time, saying, Hear the causes between your brethren, and ^g judge righteously between every man and his

And when we departed from Horeb, we went through all 19 that great and terrible wilderness, which ye saw by the way of manded us; and we came to Kadesh-barnea. And I said unto 20

And ye came near unto me every one of you, and said, We 22

the LORD our God doth give us. Notwithstanding ye would 26 not go up, but rebelled against the commandment of the LORD your God: and ye murmured in your tents, and said, Because 27 the LORD hated us, he hath brought us forth out of the land of Egypt, to deliver us into the hand of the Amorites, to destroy us. Whither shall we go up? our brethren have ^m discouraged 28

For the reconciling the apparent contradiction of this passage, with that in Numbers xxxiii. 31, 32; in the former of which Aaron is said to have died at Moserah, and in the latter at Mount Hor, vide Lightfoot, vol. i. p. 39, and Pfeiffer in loc.  in which we came from Kadesh-barnea, until we were come ^{12.} over the brook Zered, was thirty and eight years; until all the generation of the men of war were wasted out from among the 15 host, as the LORD sware unto them. For indeed the hand of the LORD was against them, to destroy them from among the host, until they were consumed.

16 So it came to pass, when all the men of war were consumed
 17 and dead from among the people, that the LORD spake unto me, 18 saying, Thou art to pass over through Ar, the coast of Moab, 19 this day: and when thou comest nigh over against the children of Ammon, distress them not, nor meddle with them: for I will not give thee of the land of the children of Ammon any possession; because I have given it unto the children of Lot for a 20 possession. (That also was accounted a land of giants: giants dwelt therein in old time; and the Ammonites call them 21 ^h Zamzummims; a people great, and many, and tall, as the ^{h Gen. xiv. 5,} Anakims; but the LORD destroyed them before them; and ^{Zuzims.} 22 they succeeded them, and dwelt in their stead: as he did to the children of Esau, which dwelt in Seir, when he destroyed the Horims from before them; and they succeeded them, and 23 dwelt in their stead even unto this day: and the Avims which dwelt in Hazerim, even unto Azzah, the Caphtorims, which came forth out of Caphtor, destroyed them, and dwelt in their stead.)

24 Rise ye up, take your journey, and pass over the river Arnon:
 behold, I have given into thine hand Sihon the Amorite, king of Heshbon, and his land: ⁱ begin to possess it, and contend ^{i Heb. begin,}

26 And I sent messengers out of the wilderness of Kedemoth the Moabites which dwell in Ar, did unto me;) until I shall pass over Jordan into the land which the LORD our God giveth 30 us. But Sihon king of Heshbon would not let us pass by him:

 for the LORD thy God hardened his spirit, and made his heart obstinate, that he might deliver him into thy hand, as appeareth

your fathers giveth you. ^b Ye shall not add unto the word 2 which I command you, neither shall ye diminish ought from it, that ye may keep the commandments of the LORD your God which I command you. Your eyes have seen what the LORD 3 did because of ^c Baal-peor: for all the men that followed Baalpeor, the LORD thy God hath destroyed them from among you.
But ye that did cleave unto the LORD your God are alive 4 every one of you this day. Behold, I have taught you statutes 5 and judgments, even as the LORD my God commanded me, that ye should do so in the land whither ye go to possess it.
Keep therefore and do them; for this is your wisdom and your 6 understanding in the sight of the nations, which shall hear all these statutes, and say, Surely this great nation is a wise and understanding people. For what nation is there so great, who 7 hath God so nigh unto them, as the LORD our God is in all things that we call upon him for? And what nation is there so 8 great, that hath statutes and judgments so righteous as all this law, which I set before you this day? Only take heed 9 to thyself, and keep thy soul diligently, lest thou forget the things which thine eyes have seen, and lest they depart from thy heart all the days of thy life: but teach them thy sons, and thy sons' sons; specially the day that thou stoodest before the 10
LORD thy God in Horeb, when the LORD said unto me, Gather me the people together, and I will make them hear my words, that they may learn to fear me all the days that they shall live upon the earth, and that they may teach their children. And ye came near and stood under the mountain; and 11 the ^d mountain burned with fire unto the ^e midst of heaven, with darkness, clouds, and thick darkness. And the LORD 12 spake unto you out of the midst of the fire: ye heard the voice of the words, but saw no similitude; ^f only ye heard a voice.
And he declared unto you his covenant, which he commanded 13
you to perform, even ten commandments; and he wrote them upon two tables of stone.

And the LORD commanded me at that time to teach you 14 statutes and judgments, that ye might do them in the land whither ye go over to possess it. Take ye therefore good heed 15 unto yourselves; for ye saw no manner of similitude on the day that the LORD spake unto you in Horeb out of the midst of the fire: lest ye corrupt yourselves, and make you a graven 16 image, the similitude of any figure, the likeness of male or female, the likeness of any beast that is on the earth, the like- 17 ness of any winged fowl that flieth in the air, the likeness of 18 any thing that creepeth on the ground, the likeness of any fish that is in the waters beneath the earth: and lest thou lift up 19 thine eyes unto heaven, and when thou seest the sun, and the moon, and the stars, even all the host of heaven, shouldest be driven to worship them, and serve them, which the LORD thy ^{A.C. 1451.}

 angry with me for your sakes, and sware that I should not go over Jordan, and that I should not go in unto that good land, 22 which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance: but I must die in this land, I must not go over Jordan: but ye 23 shall go over, and possess that good land. Take heed unto yourselves, lest ye forget the covenant of the LORD your God, which he made with you, and make you a graven image, or the 26 provoke him to anger: I call heaven and earth to witness against you this day, that ye shall soon utterly perish from off the land whereunto ye go over Jordan to possess it; ye shall not pro-27 long your days upon it, but shall utterly be destroyed. And the LORD shall scatter you among the nations, and ye shall be left few in number among the heathen, whither the LORD 28 shall lead you. And there ye shall serve gods, the work of men's hands, wood and stone, which neither see, nor hear, nor the days that are past, which were before thee, since the day that God created man upon the earth, and ask from the one side of heaven unto the other, whether there hath been any such thing as this great thing is, or hath been heard like it?

 33 Did ever people hear the voice of God speaking out of the 34 midst of the fire, as thou hast heard, and live? Or hath God assayed to go and take him a nation from the midst of another nation, by temptations, by signs, and by wonders, and by war, and by a mighty hand, and by a stretched out arm, and by great terrors, according to all that the LORD your God did 35 for you in Egypt before your eyes? Unto thee it was shewed, that thou mightest know that the LORD he is God; there is 36 none else beside him. Out of heaven he made thee to hear

A.C. 1451. his voice, that he might instruct thee: and upon earth he shewed thee his great fire; and thou heardest his words out of the midst of the fire. And because he loved thy fathers, therefore he chose their seed after them, and brought thee out in his sight with his mighty power out of Egypt; to drive out nations from before thee greater and mightier than thou art, to bring thee in, to give thee their land for an inheritance, as it is this day. Know therefore this day, and consider it in thine heart, that the LORD he is God in heaven above, and upon the earth beneath: there is none else. Thou shalt keep therefore his statutes, and his commandments, which I command thee this day, that it may go well with thee, and with thy children after thee, and that thou mayest prolong thy days upon the earth, which the LORD thy God giveth thee, for ever.

Then Moses severed three cities on this side Jordan toward the sun rising; that the slayer might flee thither, which should kill his neighbour unawares, and hated him not in times past; and that fleeing unto one of these cities he might live: namely, ^k Bezer in the wilderness, in the plain country, of the Reubenites; and Ramoth in Gilead, of the Gadites; and Golan in Bashan, of the Manassites.

And this is the law which Moses set before the children of Israel: these are the testimonies, and the statutes, and the judgments, which Moses spake unto the children of Israel, after they came forth out of Egypt, on this side Jordan, in the valley over against Beth-peor, in the land of Sihon king of the Amorites, who dwelt at Heshbon, whom Moses and the children of Israel ^l smote, after they were come forth out of Egypt: and they possessed his land, and the land ^m of Og king of Bashan, two kings of the Amorites, which were on this side Jordan toward the sun rising; from Aroer, which is by the bank of the river Arnon, even unto mount Sion, which is Hermon, and all the plain on this side Jordan eastward, even unto the sea of the plain, under the ⁿ springs of Pishgah.

 thou shalt remember all the way which the LORD thy God led thee these forty years in the wilderness, to humble thee, and to prove thee, to know what was in thine heart, whether thou thee, and suffered thee to hunger, and fed thee with manna, which thou knewest not, neither did thy fathers know; that he x Ex. xvi. 15.

ness, thou shalt not lack any thing in it; a land whose stones are iron, and out of whose hills thou mayest dig brass. ^v When 10 thou hast eaten and art full, then thou shalt bless the LORD thy God for the good land which he hath given thee. Beware that 11 thou forget not the LORD thy God, in not keeping his commandments, and his judgments, and his statutes, which I command thee this day: lest when thou hast eaten and art full, and 12 hast built goodly houses, and dwelt therein; and when thy herds 13 and thy flocks multiply, and thy silver and thy gold is multiplied, and all that thou hast is multiplied; then thine heart be 14 lifted up, and thou forget the LORD thy God, which brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage; who led thee through that great and terrible wilderness wherein 15 were fiery serpents, and scorpions, and drought, where there was no water; ^w who brought thee forth water out of the rock of flint; who fed thee in the wilderness with ^x manna, which thy 16 fathers knew not, that he might humble thee, and that he might prove thee, to do thee good at thy latter end; and thou say in 17 thine heart, My power and the might of mine hand hath gotten me this wealth. But thou shalt remember the LORD thy God: 18 for it is he that giveth thee power to get wealth, that he may establish his covenant which he sware unto thy fathers, as it is this day. And it shall be, if thou do at all forget the LORD thy 19 God, and walk after other gods, and serve them, and worship them, I testify against you this day that ye shall surely perish. As the nations which the LORD destroyeth before your face, so 20 shall ye perish; because ye would not be obedient unto the voice of the LORD your God.

DEUTERONOMY IX.

Moses dissuadeth them from the opinion of their own righteousness, by rehearsing their several rebellions.

y Num. xiii.
28.z ch. iv. 24.
Heb. xii. 29.

Hear, O Israel: Thou art to pass over Jordan this day, to 1 go in to possess nations greater and mightier than thyself, cities great and fenced up to heaven, a people great and tall, ^y the 2 children of the Anakims, whom thou knowest, and of whom thou hast heard say, Who can stand before the children of Anak! Understand therefore this day, that the LORD thy God 3 is he which goeth over before thee; as a ^z consuming fire he shall destroy them, and he shall bring them down before thy face: so shalt thou drive them out, and destroy them quickly, as the LORD hath said unto thee. Speak not thou in thine 4 heart, after that the LORD thy God hath cast them out from before thee, saying, For my righteousness the LORD hath brought me in to possess this land: but for the wickedness of these nations the LORD doth drive them out from before thee. Not for thy righteousness, or for the uprightness of thine heart, 5 dost thou go to possess their land: but for the wickedness of these nations the LORD thy God doth drive them out from A.C. 1451.

before thee, and that he may perform the word which the LORD 6 sware unto thy fathers, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. Understand therefore, that the LORD thy God giveth thee not this good land to possess it for thy righteousness; for thou art a stiffnecked people.

7 Remember, and forget not, how thou provokedst the LORD thy God to wrath in the wilderness: from the day that thou didst depart out of the land of Egypt, until ye came unto 8 this place, ye have been rebellious against the LORD. Also in Horeb ye provoked the LORD to wrath, so that the LORD 9 was angry with you to have destroyed you. When I was gone up into the mount to receive the tables of stone, even the tables of the covenant which the LORD made with you, then ^a I abode in the mount forty days and forty nights, I 10 neither did eat bread nor drink water: ^b and the LORD delivered unto me two tables of stone written with the finger of God; and on them was written according to all the words, which the LORD spake with you in the mount out of the 11 midst of the fire in the day of the assembly. And it came to pass at the end of forty days and forty nights, that the LORD gave me the two tables of stone, even the tables of the cove-12 nant. And the LORD said unto me, ^c Arise, get thee down a Ex. xxiv.

quickly from hence; for thy people which thou hast brought forth out of Egypt have corrupted themselves; they are quickly turned aside out of the way which I commanded them; they 13 have made them a molten image. Furthermore the LORD spake unto me, saying, I have seen this people, and, behold, 14 it is a stiffnecked people: let me alone, that I may destroy them, and blot out their name from under heaven: and I will 15 make of thee a nation mightier and greater than they. So I turned and came down from the mount, and the mount burned with fire: and the two tables of the covenant were in my two 16 hands. And I looked, and, behold, ye had sinned against the LORD your God, and had made you a molten calf: ye had turned aside quickly out of the way which the LORD had com-17 manded you. And I took the two tables, and cast them out 18 of my two hands, and brake them before your eyes. And I fell down before the LORD, as at the first, forty days and forty nights: I did neither eat bread, nor drink water, because of all your sins which ye sinned, in doing wickedly in the sight of 19 the LORD, to provoke him to anger. For I was afraid of the anger and hot displeasure, wherewith the LORD was wroth against you to destroy you. But the LORD hearkened unto 20 me at that time also. And the LORD was very angry with Aaron to have destroyed him: and I prayed for Aaron also the 21 same time. And I took your sin, the calf which ye had made, and burnt it with fire, and stamped it, and ground it very small,

 34. mandment of the LORD your God, and ye believed him not, nor hearkened to his voice. Ye have been rebellious against 24 the LORD from the day that I knew you. Thus I fell down 25 before the LORD forty days and forty nights, as I fell down at the first; because the LORD had said he would destroy you.
 I prayed therefore unto the LORD, and said, O Lord God, 26 destroy not thy people and thine inheritance, which thou hast redeemed through thy greatness, which thou hast brought forth out of Egypt with a mighty hand. Remember thy servants, 27 Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob; look not unto the stubbornness of this people, nor to their wickedness, nor to their sin: lest the 28
 g Num. xiv. land whence thou broughtest us out say, ^g Because the LORD
 16. was not able to bring them into the land which he promised them, and because he hated them, he hath brought them out to power and by thy stretched out arm.

 you in the mount out of the midst of the fire in the day of the commanded me.

At the end of ^qevery seven years thou shalt make a release. 1
And this is the manner of the release: Every ^rcreditor that 2 exact it of his neighbour, or of his brother; because it is called the LORD's release. Of a foreigner thou mayest exact it again: 3 but that which is thine with thy brother thine hand shall release; ^ssave when there shall be no poor among you; for the 4 LORD shall greatly bless thee in the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance to possess it: only if thou 5 carefully hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to observe to do all these commandments which I command thee this day. For the LORD thy God blesseth thee, as he promised 6 thee: and ^tthou shalt lend unto many nations, but thou shalt not borrow; and thou shalt reign over many nations, but they shall not reign over thee.

If there be among you a poor man of one of thy brethren 7

u Heb. in the midst.

If one be found slain in the land which the LORD thy God 1 giveth thee to possess it, lying in the field, and it be not known who hath slain him : then thy elders and thy judges 2 shall come forth, and they shall measure unto the cities which are round about him that is slain : and it shall be, that the city 3 which is next unto the slain man, even the elders of that city shall take an heifer, which hath not been wrought with, and which hath not drawn in the yoke ; and the elders of that city 4 shall bring down the heifer unto a rough valley, which is neither eared nor sown, and shall strike off the heifer's neck there in the valley : and the priests the sons of Levi shall come near ; 5 for them the LORD thy God hath chosen to minister unto him, and to bless in the name of the LORD ; and by their ^t word shall every controversy and every stroke be tried : and all the 6 elders of that city, that are next unto the slain man, shall wash their hands over the heifer that is beheaded in the valley : and 7 they shall answer and say, Our hands have not shed this blood, neither have our eyes seen it. Be merciful, O LORD, unto 8 thy people Israel, whom thou hast redeemed, and lay not innocent blood ^u unto thy people of Israel's charge. And the blood shall be forgiven them. So shalt thou put away the guilt of 9 innocent blood from among you, when thou shalt do that which is right in the sight of the LORD.

When thou goest forth to war against thine enemies, and 10 the LORD thy God hath delivered them into thine hands, and thou hast taken them captive, and seest among the captives a 11 beautiful woman, and hast a desire unto her, that thou wouldest have her to thy wife ; then thou shalt bring her home to thine 12 house; and she shall shave her head, and ^{xv}pare her nails; ^{A.C. 1451.}

 13 and she shall put the raiment of her captivity from off her, and ^{x Or, suffer to grow.}
 shall remain in thine house, and bewail her father and her ^{y Heb. make, or, dress.} mother a full month; and after that thou shalt go in unto her, 14 and be her husband, and she shall be thy wife. And it shall be, if thou have no delight in her, then thou shalt let her go whither she will: but thou shalt not sell her at all for money, thou shalt not make merchandise of her, because thou hast humbled her.

15 If a man have two wives, one beloved, and another hated, and they have born him children, both the beloved and the 16 hated; and if the firstborn son be her's that was hated: then it shall be, when he maketh his sons to inherit that which he hath, that he may not make the son of the beloved firstborn before the son of the hated, which is indeed the firstborn:
 17 but he shall acknowledge the son of the hated for the first-born, by giving him a double portion of all ^zthat he hath: ^{z Heb. that is found with him.} for he is the beginning of his strength; the right of the first-born is his.

18 If a man have a stubborn and rebellious son, which will not obey the voice of his father, or the voice of his mother, and that, when they have chastened him, will not hearken unto 19 them: then shall his father and his mother lay hold on him, and bring him out unto the elders of his city, and unto the 20 gate of his place; and they shall say unto the elders of his city, This our son is stubborn and rebellious; he will not obey 21 our voice; he is a glutton and a drunkard. And all the men of his city shall stone him with stones, that he die: so shalt thou put evil away from among you; and all Israel shall hear and fear.

22 And if a man have committed a sin worthy of death, and he 23 be to be put to death, and thou hang him on a tree: his body shall not remain all night upon the tree, but thou shalt in any wise bury him that day; (for ^ahe that is hanged is ^baccursed of God:) that thy land be not defiled, which the LORD thy God giveth thee for an inheritance. ^{a Gal. iii. 13. b Heb. the curse of God.}

like manner shalt thou do with his ass; and so shalt thou do with his raiment; and with all lost thing of thy brother's, which he hath lost, and thou hast found, shalt thou do likewise: thou mayest not hide thyself.

Thou shalt not see thy brother's ass or his ox fall down by 4
the way, and hide thyself from them: thou shalt surely help him to lift them up again.

The woman shall not wear that which pertaineth unto a man, 5 neither shall a man put on a woman's garment: for all that do so are abomination unto the LORD thy God.

If a bird's nest chance to be before thee in the way in any 6 tree, or on the ground, whether they be young ones, or eggs, and the dam sitting upon the young, or upon the eggs, thou shalt not take the dam with the young: but thou shalt in any 7 wise let the dam go, and take the young to thee; that it may be well with thee, and that thou mayest prolong thy days.

When thou buildest a new house, then thou shalt make a 8 house, if any man fall from thence.

Thou shalt not sow thy vineyard with divers seeds: lest the 9

If any man take a wife, and go in unto her, and hate her, 13 and give occasions of speech against her, and bring up an evil 14 name upon her, and say, I took this woman, and when I came to her, I found her not a maid: then shall the father of the 15 damsel, and her mother, take and bring forth the tokens of the damsel's virginity unto the elders of the city in the gate: and 16
the damsel's father shall say unto the elders, I gave my daughter unto this man to wife, and he hateth her; and, lo, he hath given 17 occasions of speech against her, saying, I found not thy daughter a maid; and yet these are the tokens of my daughter's virginity.
And they shall spread the cloth before the elders of the city.
And the elders of that city shall take that man and chastise him; 18 and they shall amerce him in an hundred shekels of silver, and 19 give them unto the father of the damsel, because he hath brought up an evil name upon a virgin of Israel: and she shall be his wife; he may not put her away all his days. But if 20 this thing be true, and the tokens of virginity be not found for the damsel: then they shall bring out the damsel to the door of her 21

22 ^h If a man be found lying with a woman married to an husband, then they shall both of them die, both the man that lay with the woman, and the woman: so shalt thou put away evil from Israel.

23 If a damsel that is a virgin be betrothed unto an husband, and a man find her in the city, and lie with her; then ye shall bring them both out unto the gate of that city, and ye shall stone them with stones that they die; the damsel, because she cried not, being in the city; and the man, because he hath humbled his neighbour's wife: so thou shalt put away evil from among you.

25 But if a man find a betrothed damsel in the field, and the man ⁱ force her, and lie with her: then the man only that lay with her shall die: but unto the damsel thou shalt do nothing; ^{i Or, take strong hold of her.} there is in the damsel no sin worthy of death: for as when a man riseth against his neighbour, and slayeth him, even so is this matter: for he found her in the field, and the betrothed damsel cried, and there was none to save her.

28 ^k If a man find a damsel that is a virgin, which is not betrothed, and lay hold on her, and lie with her, and they be found; then the man that lay with her shall give unto the damsel's father fifty shekels of silver, and she shall be his wife; because he hath humbled her, he may not put her away all his days.

DEUTERONOMY XXVII.

1 The people are commanded to write the law upon stones, 5 and to build an altar of whole stones. 11 The tribes divided on Gerizim and Ebal. 14 The curses pronounced on mount Ebal.

 2 this day. And it shall be on the day ^a when ye shall pass ^{a Josh. iv. 1.} over Jordan unto the land which the LORD thy God giveth thee, that thou shalt set thee up great stones, and plaister them

 7 offerings thereon unto the LORD thy God: and thou shalt offer peace offerings, and shalt eat there, and rejoice before
 8 the LORD thy God. And thou shalt write upon the stones all the words of this law very plainly.
 9 And Moses and the priests the Levites spake unto all Israel, saying, Take heed, and hearken, O Israel; this day thou art 10 become the people of the LORD thy God. Thou shalt therefore obey the voice of the LORD thy God, and do his command-

DEUTERONOMY XXVIII.

1 The blessings for obedience. 15 The curses for disobedience.

^a Lev. xxvi. 3. And it shall come to pass, ^aif thou shalt hearken diligently 1 unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to observe and to do all his commandments which I command thee this day, that the LORD thy God will set thee on high above all nations of the earth: and all these blessings shall come on thee, and over- 2 take thee, if thou shalt hearken unto the voice of the LORD

³⁰ The continued fulfilment of prophecy is the perpetual miracle by which God is constantly appealing to mankind. Prophecy may be defined, anticipated history. History may be defined, the fulfilment of prophecy. In no instance throughout Scripture is the grandeur of the scheme of prophecy more discernible than in the prophecies of Moses; some of which are still fulfilling, or remain to be fulfilled. Moses resumes the predictions of Jacob, and of Balaam; and describes the Messiah in still clearer terms, as the Prophet who should arise, like unto him; that is, a Lawgiver, who should abolish one dispensation of Providence, to introduce a better.

He predicts, in the plainest terms, the Assyrian and Babylonish captivities, Deut. xxviii. 32, 33, 36, 37, 47, 48. Lev. xxvi. 23, 34, 39. the import of which passages is fully explained by Jeremiah v. 15, 17.

He describes the desolation of the country, and the captivity of the Jews under the Romans—Deut. xxviii. 49. to the end.—He announces the ultimate restoration of the Jews, Lev. xxvi. 44. Deut. xxx. 1—6. and concludes with proclaiming the punishment of God upon their enemies. In the sublime ode written immediately preceding his death, he gives a bold outline of the whole history of the Jews, and repeats the predictions of their future destiny; concluding with an anticipation of the day, when the Gentiles shall unite in the praises of the Jewish converts to the God of their fathers, who will finally bring about their restoration. Succeeding Prophets have frequently only amplified the prophecies of Moses. Of all beings merely human, the Jewish legislator was the first, the greatest, the most highly gifted. His prophecies, therefore, are the interpreters of the plans and conduct of Providence from his own day until the end of the Christian dispensation, and the commencement of an unknown æra. They shine like a meteor through the dark night of history, illumining the past, the present, and the future: and they will always remain, as Moses declared they should remain, “a sign, and a wonder for ever.”—Vide Jortin's remarks on Eccl. History, last edit. works, vol. i. p. 203, 222; Chandler's Defence of Christianity, ch. 6. sect. ii.; Bishop Newton on the Prophecies, vol. i. p. 94, 120; Hales' Analysis, vol. ii. p. 250, 254.

DEUTERONOMY XXX.

1 Great mercies promised unto the repentant. 11 The commandment is manifest.
15 Death and life are set before them.

And it shall come to pass, when all these things are come 1 upon thee, the blessing and the curse, which I have set before thee, and thou shalt call them to mind among all the nations, whither the LORD thy God hath driven thee, and shalt return 2 unto the LORD thy God, and shalt obey his voice according to all that I command thee this day, thou and thy children, with all thine heart, and with all thy soul; that then the LORD thy 3 God will turn thy captivity, and have compassion upon thee, and will return and gather thee from all the nations, whither the LORD thy God hath scattered thee. ^p If any of thine be 4 driven out unto the outmost parts of heaven, from thence will the LORD thy God gather thee, and from thence will he fetch thee: and the LORD thy God will bring thee into the land 5 which thy fathers possessed, and thou shalt possess it; and he will do thee good, and multiply thee above thy fathers. And 6 the LORD thy God will circumcise thine heart, and the heart of thy seed, to love the LORD thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soul, that thou mayest live. And the LORD 7 thy God will put all these curses upon thine enemies, and on them that hate thee, which persecuted thee. And thou shalt 8 return and obey the voice of the LORD, and do all his commandments which I command thee this day. ^q And the LORD 9 thy God will make thee plenteous in every work of thine hand, in the fruit of thy body, and in the fruit of thy cattle, and in the fruit of thy land, for good: for the LORD will again rejoice over thee for good, as he rejoiced over thy fathers: if thou 10 shalt hearken unto the voice of the LORD thy God, to keep his commandments and his statutes which are written in this book of the law, and if thou turn unto the LORD thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soul.

 and in thy heart, that thou mayest do it.
 15 See, I have set before thee this day life and good, and death thy God, to walk in his ways, and to keep his commandments and his statutes and his judgments, that thou mayest live and multiply: and the LORD thy God shall bless thee in the land

 so that thou wilt not hear, but shalt be drawn away, and wor-

³¹ The arrangement of this part of the narrative is very difficult. We read of two charges to Joshua, and two charges to the people. We read likewise of the delivery of a copy of the law to the priests, and of another to the Levites. Whether these charges were given at the same time; or whether two copies of the law were delivered, one to be deposited in the ark, the other to be copied by the people, is uncertain. It is supposed that some few passages at the end of Deuteronomy have been added by a later writer; either by Samuel, or Ezra, or one of the Prophets. This would account for the apparent repetition.

 10 LORD, and unto all the elders of Israel. And Moses commanded them, saying, At the end of every seven years, in the solemnity of the ^a year of release, in the feast of tabernacles, a oh. xv. 1.
 11 when all Israel is come to appear before the LORD thy God in the place which he shall choose, thou shalt read this law
 12 before all Israel in their hearing. Gather the people together, men, and women, and children, and thy stranger that is within thy gates, that they may hear, and that they may learn, and fear the LORD your God, and observe to do all the words of 13 this law: and that their children, which have not known any thing, may hear, and learn to fear the LORD your God, as long as ye live in the land whither ye go over Jordan to possess it.
- 14 And the LORD said unto Moses, Behold, thy days approach that thou must die: call Joshua, and present yourselves in the tabernacle of the congregation, that I may give him a charge. And Moses and Joshua went, and presented themselves in the 15 tabernacle of the congregation. And the LORD appeared in the tabernacle in a pillar of a cloud: and the pillar of the cloud stood over the door of the tabernacle.
- 16 And the LORD said unto Moses, Behold, thou shalt ^b sleep b Heb. lie down. with thy fathers; and this people will rise up, and go a whoring after the gods of the strangers of the land, whither they go to be among them, and will forsake me, and break my covenant 17 which I have made with them. Then my anger shall be kindled against them in that day, and I will forsake them, and I will hide my face from them, and they shall be devoured, and many evils and troubles shall ^c befall them; so that they c Heb. find them. will say in that day, Are not these evils come upon us, because 18 our God is not among us? And I will surely hide my face in that day for all the evils which they shall have wrought, in 19 that they are turned unto other gods. Now therefore write ye this song for you, and teach it the children of Israel: put it in their mouths, that this song may be a witness for me against 20 the children of Israel. For when I shall have brought them into the land which I swear unto their fathers, that floweth with milk and honey; and they shall have eaten and filled

The second Charge to Joshua, and Delivery of the Law to the Levites.

DEUTERONOMY XXXI. VER. 23—29.

And he gave Joshua the son of Nun a charge, and said, 23
 a Josh. i. 6. ^a Be strong and of a good courage: for thou shalt bring the children of Israel into the land which I swear unto them: and I will be with thee.

And it came to pass, when Moses had made an end of writ- 24
 ing the words of this law in a book, until they were finished, that Moses commanded the Levites, which bare the ark of the 25 covenant of the LORD, saying, Take this book of the law, and 26 put it in the side of the ark of the covenant of the LORD your God, that it may be there for a witness against thee. For I 27 know thy rebellion, and thy stiff neck: behold, while I am yet alive with you this day, ye have been rebellious against the LORD; and how much more after my death?

Gather unto me all the elders of your tribes, and your offi- 28 cers, that I may speak these words in their ears, and call heaven and earth to record against them. For I know that after 29 my death ye will utterly corrupt yourselves, and turn aside from the way which I have commanded you; and evil will befall you in the latter days; because ye will do evil in the sight of the LORD, to provoke him to anger through the work of your hands.

DEUTERONOMY XXXI. VER. 22 & 30.

Moses therefore wrote this song the same day, and taught it 22 the children of Israel. And Moses spake in the ears of all the 30 congregation of Israel the words of this song, until they were ended.

JOSHUA I. VER. 1—9.

1 Now after the death of Moses the servant of the LORD it came A.C. 1451.
to pass, that the LORD spake unto Joshua the son of Nun,

¹ The conduct of Providence towards the people of Israel had now made them the only nation in the world which maintained, in its entire purity, the doctrine of the Unity of God. The nations around them professed the grossest polytheism; and though many have been of opinion that the more philosophical part of mankind saw through the absurdity of Idolatry, we have no proof whatever that they worshipped the one only true God, who was revealed to their fathers, and was adored by the Israelites. The one God of the Heathens was a mysterious, undefinable, existing, nameless, First Cause; which received various epithets at various times. It was something comprising the properties of matter, with the attributes of spirit; which every attempt to describe rendered only more unintelligible and absurd. It was sometimes called the plastic energy of nature—fate—destiny—the soul of the world—or whatever other term the fancy or superstition of the Pagans might please to assign it: and we have every reason to suppose the philosopher, the magistrate, and the vulgar, among the Idolatrous nations, differed only in their degrees of absurdity. The people of Israel alone, not by the efforts of their own reasoning, but by the proofs which had appealed so strongly and so undeniably to their senses, believed, and professed, the religion of the true God, the Omnipotent, Omniscient, Omnipresent Creator, Preserver, and Judge of the World.

The worship of Jehovah being thus established among the Israelites, it could not be supposed that they were designed to wander perpetually in the wilderness. So long as the Israelites continued an obscure and wandering people in the deserts of Arabia, the great and merciful purposes, for which they had been so conspicuously favoured by the Almighty, could not be considered as fulfilled.

From the miracles and wonders they had witnessed they would naturally conclude that they were not to continue for ever in the wilderness; they would anticipate the possession of some fertile country where they might establish their religion in its purity. The land of Canaan, which was now in the possession of the Canaanites, appeared from its central situation best adapted for this purpose; but this circumstance could give them no right or title to the territory. Yet we read they claimed this country as if it was their inheritance: they fought, they conquered, they put to death, or dispossessed the inhabitants. The question therefore which has been proposed by many on reading this part of the narrative is worthy of attention,—By what right did the Israelites invade the land of Palestine?

God, the great governor, who possesses all power over his creatures, and may justly punish those who violate his laws, in that manner which to his wisdom may seem most impressive and useful, commanded the Israelites to exterminate the Canaanites, as the just retribution for their crimes and idolatries. God might have destroyed them by famine, by earthquake, by pestilence: He might have drowned them by a local deluge, or consumed them by fire from heaven: instead of employing these means, He commissioned the people of Israel to root them out by the sword. In so doing, the Almighty not only demonstrated to the whole world his hatred of the corruptions and pollutions of superstition, but He more particularly enforced on the Israelites the purity of his law, the certainty of their own punishment if they apostatized, and the freedom from temporal evil which they should enjoy, if they persevered in their allegiance to Him, their Sovereign.

Lest this invasion of Canaan by the Israelites, however, should be drawn into precedent by other nations, from motives of ambition, or religious persecution, they were assured, by continued and powerful miracles, that their cause was just, that they should be successful, and that they were not subject at that period to the common laws of nations. The people of Israel was the sword of God,

A.C. 1451. ^a Moses' minister, saying, Moses my servant is dead; now 2
^a Deut. i. 38. therefore arise, go over this Jordan, thou, and all this people, the great Magistrate of the universe; and they were no more to be justly condemned for thus acting in conformity to the commands of God, than the executioner can be who fulfils the last sentence of the law. Before other nations, then, invade the territory of their neighbours on the same supposed authority as the Israelites, the same commission from heaven must be given; and that commission must be authenticated by miracles equally evident, unquestionable, and wonderful.

Many, however, have not been satisfied with this argument; and would discard the doctrine of the peculiar Providence, which regulated, by a visible theocracy, the conduct of the chosen people: they would defend the invasion of Palestine on other grounds. They would judge of the transactions of that Period, (regardless of the peculiar circumstances under which they took place) by modern ideas, and the present law of nations. Some suppose that the conduct of the Israelites was solely defensible, on the supposition that there had been a partition of the whole earth by the sons of Noah; and that Canaan had been allotted to Shem; the sons of Shem, therefore, were justified in claiming their ancient inheritance from the Canaanites, who were descended from Ham. Others have asserted that the Canaanites commenced the war by attacking the Israelites: an assertion which cannot be sustained by the history. While others have affirmed, without any well-grounded arguments, that the Israelites, as a wandering people, having no certain home, were justified in forcibly invading, and taking possession of, an adjoining territory. But Michaelis is of opinion that the right of the Israelites originated in their being actually the proprietors of Canaan, of which they had been unjustly dispossessed by the intruding and hostile Canaanites.

The laws of nations are always the same. If any nation, or tribe, or part of a tribe, take possession of an unknown, undiscovered, unoccupied, or uninhabited country, the right of property vests in them; they are its proprietors and owners. After the Deluge, the world might be said to be in this state; and Michaelis has endeavoured to prove, that the ancestors of Abraham were the original occupiers of the pasture land of Canaan. Canaan, therefore, by the law of nations, as well as by the promises of God, was the lot of Abraham's inheritance; and the rightful land of his descendants. The Canaanite and the Perizzite had only just established themselves in Canaan when Abraham removed from Haran to that country; and were so weak and few in number, that they never interfered with the rights of sovereignty assumed and exerted by Abraham. The Canaanites were merchants and adventurers who had been originally settled near the borders of the Indian ocean; and who, having been dispossessed by the Cuthic Sidonians, had migrated westward, to form establishments on the sea coasts of Palestine, and carry on commerce with the herdsmen who traversed it. They were for some time contented with their factories on the sea coasts; but they gradually obtained possession of the inland country. The Perizzites, too, were a warlike tribe, who now first made their appearance in Canaan; they had originally inhabited the north-east of Babylonia. Whether they had been dispossessed of their settlements; whether they were seeking new establishments; or for whatsoever purpose they were now in Palestine, they gave no interruption to the progress of Abraham; although Abraham entered upon the Holy Land, and continued his journeyings with a large retinue, and as a powerful prince. He took possession of Canaan as the territory of his ancestors; not indeed as a fixed habitation, but as pasture land adapted to his numerous flocks and herds. He traversed the whole country as a proprietor, without a competitor. He had the power of arming three hundred and eighteen of his own servants, born in his own house: and it is most probable that he had others who are not enumerated. He declared war as an independent prince of this country against five neighbouring princes; and formed an alliance with Abimelech, as an equal, and as a sovereign. It is true, he purchased land of the Canaanitish family of Heth: but this was because the Hittites had gradually made a more fixed settlement in that part of the country; their intrusion had not been at first prevented by the ancestors of Abraham; and by this sufferance they made that district their peculiar property.

As Abraham thus traversed and possessed Canaan, with undisputed authority, so too did Isaac and Jacob in like manner. No one opposed their right. They exercised, as Abraham had done before them, sovereign power; they never resigned that power; nor gave up to others the property of that land, which now, by long prescription, as well as by the promise of God, had become entirely their own.

The ancestors, then, of the Israelites, Michaelis argues, were either the sole sovereigns, or the most powerful of those princes who possessed, in early ages, the Holy Land. By the famine which occurred in the days of Joseph, they were compelled to leave their own country, and take refuge in Egypt: yet they never lost sight of the sepulchre of their fathers. And though we do not read that acts of ownership were continued, to maintain and perpetuate their right, we can have but little doubt that something of the kind took place; for Jacob was taken from Egypt to be buried there; Joseph assured them that they should return; and the Egyptians, their oppressors, a kindred branch of the powerful tribes which had by this time entirely taken possession of Palestine, kept them in bondage, and refused to let them go, lest they should claim the inheritance of their fathers.

 3 of Israel to search out the country. And the king of Jericho

If this claim of the Israelites can be proved to be well founded, they would have been entitled, by the law of nations, forcibly to take possession of the Holy Land; and it will be interesting to observe how the merciful providence of God afforded them the opportunity of successfully regaining their lawful inheritance, and at the same time accomplishing his own divine purposes, to the fulfilment of his prophecies, and to the happiness and security of his church. The Israelites may be considered as the servants and ministers of God, punishing the idolatry of the Canaanites, and instituting in its place, in the midst of an apostate world, the religion of the one true God. In every victory they obtained, they must have admired the faithfulness of that promise which had foretold their entire possession of this land; and they must have been persuaded that, if they served other gods, they would bring down upon themselves the punishments predicted by Moses.—Vide Michaelis, Comment. &c. vol. i. book ii. ch. iii. p. 155, &c.; Horæ Mosaicæ, vol. i. p. 458; Faber's Origin of Pag. Idol. vol. iii. p. 561, &c.

² There is some accidental derangement of the order of the chapters in the book of Joshua. If chronologically placed, they should be read thus: the first chapter to the tenth verse—the second chapter from the tenth verse to the end of the first chapter—the third and consecutive chapters to the eleventh—then the twenty-second chapter—and lastly, twelfth and thirteenth chapters to the twenty-fourth verse of the latter.—Bedford's Scripture Chronology, b. v. p. 590; Gray's Key, p. 147, note z.

A.C. 1451. sent unto Rahab, saying, Bring forth the men that are come to thee, which are entered into thine house: for they be come to search out all the country. And the woman took the two 4 men, and hid them, and said thus, There came men unto me, but I wist not whence they were: and it came to pass about the 5 time of shutting of the gate, when it was dark, that the men went out: whither the men went I wot not: pursue after them quickly; for ye shall overtake them. But she had brought 6 them up to the roof of the house, and hid them with the stalks of flax, which she had laid in order upon the roof. And the 7 men pursued after them the way to Jordan unto the fords: and as soon as they which pursued after them were gone out, they shut the gate.

And before they were laid down, she came up unto them 8 upon the roof; and she said unto the men, I know that the 9 LORD hath given you the land, and that your terror is fallen upon us, and that all the inhabitants of the land ^e faint because of you. For we have heard how the LORD ^f dried up the 10 water of the Red sea for you, when ye came out of Egypt; and ^g what ye did unto the two kings of the Amorites, that were on the other side Jordan, Sihon and Og, whom ye utterly destroyed. And as soon as we had heard these things, our hearts did melt, 11 neither ^h did there remain any more courage in any man, because of you: for the LORD your God, he is God in heaven above, and in earth beneath. Now therefore, I pray you, swear 12 unto me by the LORD, since I have shewed you kindness, that ye will also shew kindness unto my father's house, and give me a true token: and that ye will save alive my father, and my 13 mother, and my brethren, and my sisters, and all that they have, and deliver our lives from death. And the men answered her, 14 Our life ⁱ for your's, if ye utter not this our business. And it shall be, when the LORD hath given us the land, that we will deal kindly and truly with thee. Then she let them down by 15 a cord through the window: for her house was upon the town wall, and she dwelt upon the wall. And she said unto them, 16 Get you to the mountain, lest the pursuers meet you; and hide yourselves there three days, until the pursuers be returned: and afterward may ye go your way. And the men said unto 17 her, We will be blameless of this thine oath which thou hast made us swear. to more advantage. My only object has been to relate the facts in their order, according to the best authorities. The third chapter of the book of Joshua contains an account of the passage of the Israelites over the river Jordan. The fact, as related by the sacred historian, is inserted in the Bible in its proper place : but Bishop Horsley is of opinion, that the narration of the fact itself is confused ; he has, therefore, altered the arrangement of the sentences and verses, to give a more orderly and clear account : and he has done the same with other passages. In the present case the Bishop's arrangement has undoubtedly given greater elegance to the relation of the passage of the river Jordan, and I have therefore added it in this note, as one specimen of the manner in which that learned and ingenious author has proceeded in his proposed emendations of the sacred text : though the boldness of his criticisms is not always to be approved. The twelfth verse of this third chapter of Joshua he places after the first of chapter the 4th.

CHAPTER III.

- II. I. 1 And it came to pass after three days, that they removed from Shittim, and came unto Jordan, Joshua and all the children of Israel, and there they passed the night, before they passed over.
- v. 2 And Joshua said unto the people, Sanctify yourselves, for to morrow Jehovah will perform wonders among you.
- I. VII. 3 And Joshua arose early in the morning ; and Jehovah said unto Joshua, This day will I begin to magnify thee in the eyes of all Israel, that they may understand that as I was with Moses I will be with thee.
- VIII. 4 And thou, command the priests that bear the ark of the covenant, saying, When ye enter the brink of the water of Jordan, then stand ye still in Jordan.
- II. 5 And the officers went through the camp ;
- III. 6 And they commanded the people, saying, So soon as ye shall see the priests the Levites take up the ark of the covenant of Jehovah your God, then ye shall march from your place, and go after it.
- IV. 7 Only there shall be a space between you and it. Ye shall not approach it within the distance of full two thousand cubits, in order that ye may know the way which ye must go, for ye have not passed this way heretofore.
- VI. 8 And Joshua spake unto the priests, saying, Take up the ark of the covenant, and pass over before the people. So they took up the ark of the covenant, and marched before the people.
- IX. 9 And Joshua said unto the children of Israel, Come hither, and hear the words of Jehovah your God.
- X. 10 And Joshua said, By this ye shall know that the living God is among you, and assuredly he will drive out before you the Canaanite, and the Hittite, and the Hivite, and the Perizzite, and the Amorite, and the Jebusite.
- XI. 11 Behold the ark of the covenant of the Lord of the whole earth goeth on before you into Jordan.
- XIII. 12 And it shall be, as soon as the soles of the feet of the priests bearing the ark of Jehovah, the Lord of all the earth, shall rest in the waters of Jordan, the waters of Jordan shall be intercepted, the waters that come down from above, and they shall stand up in one heap.
- XIV. 13 And it came to pass, when the people marched from their tents to pass over Jordan, with the priests bearing the ark of the covenant before the people ;
- XV. 14 When they that bare the ark came unto Jordan, and the feet of the priests bearing the ark were dipped in the water upon the brink, (now Jordan is swollen over all his banks all the season of harvest :)
- XVI. 15 Then the waters which came down from the upper parts [of the river] stood still * ; they rose up in one heap to a great distance above the city Adam †, which is hard by Zaredan. And those that were going down toward the sea of the plain, the salt sea, ran quite off, being separated [from the upper stream]. So the people crossed over opposite to Jericho.
- XVII. 16 And the priests bearing the ark of the covenant of Jehovah stood firm upon dry land in the midst of Jordan. And all Israel crossed over upon dry land, until the whole army had crossed over Jordan.

⁴ This division is made on the authority of Mr. Faber. The Angel, who appeared to Moses, now appears to Joshua, assumes the same exalted name, "Jehovah," and challenges the same divine honours as the Son of God.—Faber's Horæ Mosaicæ, vol. ii. p. 107; and Horsley's Biblical Criticism, vol. i. p. 255.

But the children of Israel committed a trespass in the ac- 1 cursed thing: for ^{a b} Achan, the son of Carmi, the son of ^c Zabdi, the son of Zerah, of the tribe of Judah, took of the accursed thing: and the anger of the LORD was kindled against the children of Israel. And Joshua sent men from Jericho 2 to Ai, which is beside Beth-aven, on the east side of Beth-el, and spake unto them, saying, Go up and view the country. And the men went up and viewed Ai. And they returned 3 to Joshua, and said unto him, Let not all the people go up; but let ^d about two or three thousand men go up and smite Ai; and make not all the people to labour thither; for they are but few. So there went up thither of the people about three 4 thousand men; and they fled before the men of Ai. And 5 the men of Ai smote of them about thirty and six men: for they chased them from before the gate even unto Shebarim, and smote them ^e in the going down: wherefore the hearts of the people melted, and became as water.

And Joshua rent his clothes, and fell to the earth upon his 6 face before the ark of the LORD until the eventide, he and the elders of Israel, and put dust upon their heads. And 7 Joshua said, Alas, O Lord God, wherefore hast thou at all brought this people over Jordan, to deliver us into the hand of the Amorites, to destroy us? would to God we had been content, and dwelt on the other side Jordan! O LORD, what 8 shall I say, when Israel turneth their ^f backs before their enemies! And the LORD said unto Joshua, ^m Fear not, neither be thou 1 his people, and his city, and his land: and thou shalt do to Ai 2

So Joshua arose, and all the people of war, to go up against 3 Ai: and Joshua chose out thirty thousand mighty men of valour, and sent them away by night. And he commanded 4 them, saying, Behold, ye shall lie in wait against the city, even behind the city: go not very far from the city, but be ye all ready: and I, and all the people that are with me, will ap- 5 proach unto the city: and it shall come to pass, when they come out against us, as at the first, that we will flee before them, (for they will come out after us) till we have ^p drawn 6 them from the city; for they will say, They flee before us, as at the first: therefore we will flee before them. Then ye shall 7 rise up from the ambush, and seize upon the city: for the LORD your God will deliver it into your hand. And it shall 8

Joshua therefore sent them forth: and they went to lie in 9 ambush, and abode between Beth-el and Ai, on the west side of Ai: but Joshua lodged that night among the people. And 10 Joshua rose up early in the morning, and numbered the people, and went up, he and the elders of Israel, before the people to Ai. And all the people, even the people of war that were with 11 him, went up, and drew nigh, and came before the city, and pitched on the north side of Ai: now there was a valley between them and Ai. And he took about five thousand men, and set 12 them to lie in ambush between Beth-el and Ai, on the west side ^q of the city. And when they had set the people, even 13 all the host that was on the north of the city, and ^r their liers in wait on the west of the city, Joshua went that night into the midst of the valley.

And it came to pass, when the king of Ai saw it, that they 14

hasted and rose up early, and the men of the city went out ^{A.C. 1451.} against Israel to battle, he and all his people, at a time appointed, before the plain; but he wist not that there were liers 15 in ambush against him behind the city. And Joshua and all Israel made as if they were beaten before them, and fled by the 16 way of the wilderness. And all the people that were in Ai were called together to pursue after them: and they pursued after 17 Joshua, and were drawn away from the city. And there was not a man left in Ai or Beth-el, that went not out after Israel:
 18 and they left the city open, and pursued after Israel. And the LORD said unto Joshua, Stretch out the spear that is in thy hand toward Ai; for I will give it into thine hand. And Joshua stretched out the spear that he had in his hand toward 19 the city. And the ambush arose quickly out of their place, and they ran as soon as he had stretched out his hand: and they entered into the city, and took it, and hasted and set
 20 the city on fire. And when the men of Ai looked behind them, they saw, and, behold, the smoke of the city ascended up to heaven, and they had no ^{s Heb. hand.} power to flee this way or that way: and the people that fled to the wilderness turned back upon the 21 pursuers. And when Joshua and all Israel saw that the ambush had taken the city, and that the smoke of the city ascended, then they turned again, and slew the men of Ai. And the other issued out of the city against them; so they were in the midst of Israel, some on this side, and some on that side: and they smote them, so that they ^{t Dent. vii. 2.} let none of them remain or 23 escape. And the king of Ai they took alive, and brought him to Joshua. And it came to pass, when Israel had made an end of slaying all the inhabitants of Ai in the field, in the wilderness wherein they chased them, and when they were all fallen on the edge of the sword, until they were consumed, that all the Israelites returned unto Ai, and smote it with the edge of 25 the sword. And so it was, that all that fell that day, both of men and women, were twelve thousand, even all the men of Ai.
 26 For Joshua drew not his hand back, wherewith he stretched out the spear, until he had utterly destroyed all the inhabitants
 27 of Ai. ^{u Num. xxxi 22 26.} Only the cattle and the spoil of that city Israel took for a prey unto themselves, according unto the word of the

^a The Gibeonites, being thus preserved among the Israelites, became a standing monument to all future generations of the truth of the events recorded in the book of Joshua. The people beheld among them a tribe of the ancient Canaanites, reduced to servitude; and they must have received the same kind of lesson from observing them, and associating with them, as the Christian of the present day may derive from looking upon the Jews, and remembering the ancient prophecies of Moses, Isaiah, and others; who have as clearly described their present degraded condition and dispersion, as they have their future restoration.

A.C. 1451. king of Jarmuth, and unto Japhia king of Lachish, and unto Debir king of Eglon, saying, Come up unto me, and help me, 4 that we may smite Gibeon: for it hath made peace with Joshua and with the children of Israel. Therefore the five kings of 5
 the Amorites, the king of Jerusalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachish, the king of Eglon, gathered themselves together, and went up, they and all their hosts, and encamped before Gibeon, and made war against it.

And the men of Gibeon sent unto Joshua to the camp to 6
 Gilgal, saying, Slack not thy hand from thy servants; come up to us quickly, and save us, and help us: for all the kings of the Amorites that dwell in the mountains are gathered together against us. So Joshua ascended from Gilgal, he, and all the 7 people of war with him, and all the mighty men of valour.

And the LORD said unto Joshua, Fear them not: for I have 8 delivered them into thine hand; there shall not a man of them stand before thee. Joshua therefore came unto them suddenly, 9 and went up from Gilgal all night. And the LORD discomfited 10 them before Israel, and slew them with a great slaughter at Gibeon, and chased them along the way that goeth up to Beth-horon, and smote them to Azekah, and unto Makkedah.

And it came to pass, as they fled from before Israel, and were 11 in the going down to Beth-horon, that the LORD cast down great stones from heaven upon them unto Azekah, and they died:
they were more which died with hailstones than they whom the children of Israel slew with the sword.

Then spake Joshua to the LORD in the day when the LORD 12 delivered up the Amorites before the children of Israel, and he said in the sight of Israel, ¹ Sun, ^m stand thou still upon Gibeon:
 and thou, Moon, in the valley of Ajalon. And the sun stood still, 13 and the moon stayed, until the people had avenged themselves

 So the sun stood still in the midst of heaven, and hasted not to go down about a whole day. And there was no day like that 14

⁷ The object of this miracle (which Mr. Bryant, Whiston, and others, have endeavoured to explain away) was of the most important and impressive nature. The Sun and the Moon, the two principal gods of the idolaters, were commanded to yield miraculous obedience to the chief servant of the true God; and thereby to contribute to the more effectual conquest of their own worshippers. It was a miracle of the same description with those which had been wrought in Egypt. With respect to the objections to the probability of this miracle, which originate in a consideration of its supposed consequences, it is justly observed by Bishop Watson, "The machine of the universe is in the hand of God; he can stop the motion of any part, or of the whole, with less trouble than either of us can stop a watch."—How absurd then are the reasonings of those men, who believe in the existence of an omnipotent God, yet deny the possibility of the exertion of his power in other ways than those which are known to their limited experience!

 Israel had made an end of slaying them with a very great slaughter, till they were consumed, that the rest which remained of them 21 entered into fenced cities. And all the people returned to the camp to Joshua at Makkedah in peace: none moved his tongue 22 against any of the children of Israel. Then said Joshua, Open the mouth of the cave, and bring out those five kings unto me out 23 of the cave. And they did so, and brought forth those five kings unto him out of the cave, the king of Jerusalem, the king of Hebron, the king of Jarmuth, the king of Lachish, and the 24 king of Eglon. And it came to pass, when they brought out those kings unto Joshua, that Joshua called for all the men of Israel, and said unto the captains of the men of war which went with him, Come near, put your feet upon the necks of these kings. And they came near, and put their feet upon the necks 25 of them. And Joshua said unto them, Fear not, nor be dismayed, be strong and of good courage; for thus shall the LORD do to 31 And Joshua passed from Libnah, and all Israel with him,

 32 and the LORD delivered Lachish into the hand of Israel, which took it on the second day, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and all the souls that were therein, according to all that he had done to Libnah.

And Joshua returned, and all Israel with him, to Debir; and 38 fought against it: and he took it, and the king thereof, and all 39 the cities thereof; and they smote them with the edge of the sword, and utterly destroyed all the souls that were therein; he left none remaining: as he had done to Hebron, so he did to Debir, and to the king thereof; as he had done also to Libnah, and to her king.

1445. And it came to pass, when Jabin king of Hazor had heard 1 those things, that he sent to Jobab king of Madon, and to the king of Shimron, and to the king of Achshaph, and to the kings 2 that were on the north of the mountains, and of the plains south of Chinneroth, and in the valley, and in the borders of Dor on the west, and to the Canaanite on the east and on the west, and 3 to the Amorite, and the Hittite, and the Perizzite, and the Jebusite in the mountains, and to the Hivite under Hermon in the land of Mizpeh. And they went out, they and all their 4 hosts with them, much people, even as the sand that is upon the sea shore in multitude, with horses and chariots very many. And when all these kings were ^a met together, they 5 came and pitched together at the waters of Merom, to fight against Israel.

And the LORD said unto Joshua, Be not afraid because of 6

- them: for to morrow about this time will I deliver them up all slain before Israel: thou shalt hough their horses, and burn their chariots with fire. So Joshua came, and all the people of war with him, against them by the waters of Merom suddenly; and they fell upon them. And the LORD delivered them into the hand of Israel, who smote them, and chased them unto ^b great Zidon, and unto ^{c d} Misrephoth-maim, and unto the valley of Mizpeh eastward; and they smote them, until they left them none remaining. And Joshua did unto them as the LORD bade him: he houghed their horses, and burnt their chariots with fire. A.C. 1445.
- And Joshua at that time turned back, and took Hazor, and smote the king thereof with the sword: for Hazor beforetime was the head of all those kingdoms. And they smote all the souls that were therein with the edge of the sword, utterly destroying them: there was not ^e any left to breathe: and he burnt Hazor with fire. And all the cities of those kings, and all the kings of them, did Joshua take, and smote them with the edge of the sword, and he utterly destroyed them^f, as Moses the servant of the LORD commanded. But as for the cities that stood still ^g in their strength, Israel burned none of them, save Hazor only; that did Joshua burn. And all the spoil of these cities, and the cattle, the children of Israel took for a prey unto themselves; but every man they smote with the edge of the sword, until they had destroyed them, neither left they any to breathe.
- ^h As the LORD commanded Moses his servant, so ⁱ did Moses command Joshua, and so did Joshua; ^k he left nothing undone of all that the LORD commanded Moses. So Joshua took all that land, the hills, and all the south country, and all the land of Goshen, and the valley, and the plain, and the mountain of Israel, and the valley of the same; even from ^l the mount Halak, that goeth up to Seir, even unto Baal-gad in the valley of Lebanon under mount Hermon: and all their kings he took, and smote them, and slew them. ^m Joshua made war a long time with all those kings. There was not a city that made peace with the children of Israel, save ⁿ the Hivites the inhabitants of Gibeon: all other they took in battle. For it was of the LORD to harden their hearts, that they should come against Israel in battle, that he might destroy them utterly, and that they might have no favour, but that he might destroy them, as the LORD commanded Moses.
- And at that time came Joshua, and cut off the Anakims from the mountains, from Hebron, from Debir, from Anab, and from all the mountains of Judah, and from all the mountains of Israel: Joshua destroyed them utterly with their cities. There was none of the Anakims left in the land of the children of Israel: only in Gaza, in Gath, and in Ashdod, there remained.

Then Joshua built an altar unto the LORD God of Israel on mount Ebal, as Moses the servant of the LORD commanded ³¹ the children of Israel, as it is written in the ^p book of the law of Moses, an altar of whole stones, over which no man hath lift up any iron: and they offered thereon burnt offerings unto the LORD, and sacrificed peace offerings.

And he wrote there upon the stones a copy of the law of ³² Moses, which he wrote in the presence of the children of Israel. And all Israel, and their elders, and officers, and their judges, ³³ stood on this side the ark and on that side before the priests the Levites, which bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD, as well the stranger, as he that was born among them; half of them over against mount Gerizim, and half of them over against mount Ebal ^q; as Moses the servant of the LORD had commanded before, that they should bless the people of Israel. And afterward he read all the words of the law, the blessings ³⁴ and cursings, according to all that is written in the book of the law. § 9. The Tribe of Reuben, &c. return Home ^b.

JOSHUA XXII.

1444. Then Joshua called the Reubenites, and the Gadites, and the half tribe of Manasseh, and said unto them, Ye have kept all ¹ that Moses the servant of the LORD commanded you, and have obeyed my voice in all that I commanded you: ye have not left ² your brethren these many days unto this day, but have kept the charge of the commandment of the LORD your God. And ³ now the LORD your God hath given rest unto your brethren, as he promised them: therefore now return ye, and get you unto ⁴ your tents, and unto the land of your possession, ^a which Moses the servant of the LORD gave you on the other side Jordan.

33. ch. xiii. 8.

^a We read (Josh. i. 16.) that the wives and children of the Reubenites were directed to remain on the other side of the river, in the settlements assigned to them by Moses; which had been conquered previously to the rest of the promised land. The men, however, who were fit for war, in compliance with an offer made to Moses, were directed by Joshua to assist their brethren in taking possession of Canaan. The war had now lasted seven years; the country was conquered, and the land at rest. It is but natural to conclude, that the Reubenites, &c. would return to their homes when their presence was no longer indispensably necessary to their brethren. I have, therefore, placed this chapter immediately after the accounts of the conquest, and before the division of the provinces of Palestine among the remaining tribes.

- 5 But take diligent heed to do the commandment and the law ^{A.C. 1444.} which Moses the servant of the LORD charged you ^b, to love ^{b Deut. x.12.} the LORD your God, and to walk in all his ways, and to keep his commandments, and to cleave unto him, and to serve him
- 6 with all your heart and with all your soul. So Joshua blessed them, and sent them away: and they went unto their tents.
- 7 Now to the one half of the tribe of Manasseh Moses had given possession in Bashan: but unto the other half thereof gave Joshua among their brethren on this side Jordan westward. And when Joshua sent them away also unto their tents,
- 8 then he blessed them, and he spake unto them, saying, Return with much riches unto your tents, and with very much cattle, with silver, and with gold, and with brass, and with iron, and with very much raiment: divide the spoil of your enemies with your brethren.
- 9 And the children of Reuben and the children of Gad and the half tribe of Manasseh returned, and departed from the children of Israel out of Shiloh, which is in the land of Canaan, to go unto the country of Gilead, to the land of their possession, whereof they were possessed, according to the word of the LORD by the hand of Moses.
- 10 And when they came unto the borders of Jordan, that are in the land of Canaan, the children of Reuben and the children of Gad and the half tribe of Manasseh built there an altar by Jordan, a great altar to see to.
- 11 And the children of Israel heard say, Behold, the children of Reuben and the children of Gad and the half tribe of Manasseh have built an altar over against the land of Canaan, in the borders of Jordan, at the passage of the children of Israel.
- 12 And when the children of Israel heard of it, the whole congregation of the children of Israel gathered themselves together at Shiloh, to go up to war against them. And the children of Israel sent unto the children of Reuben, and to the children of Gad, and to the half tribe of Manasseh, into the land of Gilead,
- 14 Phinehas the son of Eleazar the priest, and with him ten princes, of each ^c chief house a prince throughout all the tribes ^{c Heb. house of the father.} of Israel; and each one was an head of the house of their fathers among the thousands of Israel.
- 15 And they came unto the children of Reuben, and to the children of Gad, and to the half tribe of Manasseh, unto the
- 16 land of Gilead, and they spake with them, saying, Thus saith the whole congregation of the LORD, What trespass is this that ye have committed against the God of Israel, to turn away this day from following the LORD, in that ye have builded you an
- 17 altar, that ye might rebel this day against the LORD? Is the iniquity ^d of Peor too little for us, from which we are not ^{d Num. xxv.} cleansed until this day, although there was a plague in the ^d.

A.C. 1444. congregation of the LORD, but that ye must turn away this 18 day from following the LORD? and it will be, seeing ye rebel to day against the LORD, that to morrow he will be wroth with the whole congregation of Israel. Notwithstanding, if the land 19 of your possession be unclean, then pass ye over unto the land of the possession of the LORD, wherein the LORD's tabernacle dwelleth, and take possession among us: but rebel not against the LORD, nor rebel against us, in building you an altar beside e ch. vii. 1. 5. the altar of the LORD our God. ^e Did not Achan the son of 20 Zerah commit a trespass in the accursed thing, and wroth fell on all the congregation of Israel? and that man perished not alone in his iniquity.

Then the children of Reuben and the children of Gad and 21 the half tribe of Manasseh answered, and said unto the heads of the thousands of Israel, The LORD God of gods, the LORD 22 God of gods, he knoweth, and Israel he shall know; if it be in rebellion, or if in transgression against the LORD, (save us not this day,) that we have built us an altar to turn from following 23 the LORD, or if to offer thereon burnt offering or meat offering, or if to offer peace offerings thereon, let the LORD himself require it; and if we have not rather done it for fear of this 24 thing, saying, ^f In time to come your children might speak unto our children, saying, What have ye to do with the LORD God of Israel? For the LORD hath made Jordan a border 25 between us and you, ye children of Reuben and children of Gad; ye have no part in the LORD: so shall your children make our children cease from fearing the LORD. Therefore 26 we said, Let us now prepare to build us an altar, not for burnt offering, nor for sacrifice: but that it may be ^g a witness between 27 us, and you, and our generations after us, that we might do the service of the LORD before him with our burnt offerings, and with our sacrifices, and with our peace offerings; that your children may not say to our children in time to come, Ye have no part in the LORD. Therefore said we, that it shall be, 28 when they should so say to us or to our generations in time to come, that we may say again, Behold the pattern of the altar of the LORD, which our fathers made, not for burnt offerings, nor for sacrifices; but it is a witness between us and you. God 29 forbid that we should rebel against the LORD, and turn this day from following the LORD, to build an altar for burnt offerings, for meat offerings, or for sacrifices, beside the altar of the LORD our God that is before his tabernacle.

And when Phinehas the priest, and the princes of the con- 30 gregation and heads of the thousands of Israel which were with him, heard the words that the children of Reuben and the children of Gad and the children of Manasseh spake, ^h it pleased them. And Phinehas the son of Eleazar the priest 31 said unto the children of Reuben, and to the children of Gad, and to the children of Manasseh, This day we perceive that ^{A.C. 1444.} the LORD is among us, because ye have not committed this trespass against the LORD: ⁱ now ye have delivered the children ^{i Heb. then.} of Israel out of the hand of the LORD.

- 32 And Phinehas the son of Eleazar the priest, and the princes, returned from the children of Reuben, and from the children of Gad, out of the land of Gilead, unto the land of Canaan, to 33 the children of Israel, and brought them word again. And the thing pleased the children of Israel; and the children of Israel blessed God, and did not intend to go up against them in battle, to destroy the land wherein the children of Reuben and Gad
34 dwelt. And the children of Reuben and the children of Gad called the altar ^k Ed: for it shall be a witness between us that ^{k That is, A witness: so ch. xxiv. 27.} the LORD is God.

° An instructive lesson was taught to each of the tribes, on their taking possession of their respective allotted settlements. They were well acquainted with the prophecies of their ancestor Jacob. On his death bed he had predicted the nature of the territory they should severally possess, at the future appointed time of obtaining the promised land. If the descriptive allusions of this patriarch, contained in the forty-ninth chapter of Genesis, be compared with the nature of the settlements of the various tribes, they will be found to correspond beautifully throughout. So true was the declaration of Moses, that the word was nigh them; the evidences of their religion were continually before them, appealing to their hearts; and demonstrating every day the faithfulness and truth of God!

Then the children of Judah came unto Joshua in Gilgal: 6 and Caleb the son of Jephunneh the Kenezite said unto him, Thou knowest the thing that the LORD said unto Moses the man of God concerning me and thee in Kadesh-barnea. Forty 7 years old was I when Moses the servant of the LORD sent me from Kadesh-barnea to espie out the land; and I brought him word again as it was in mine heart. Nevertheless my brethren 8 that went up with me made the heart of the people melt: but I wholly ^a followed the LORD my God. And Moses swore on 9 that day, saying, Surely the land whereon thy feet have trodden shall be thine inheritance, and thy children's for ever, because thou hast wholly followed the LORD my God. And 10 now, behold, the LORD hath kept me alive, as he said, these

Now therefore give me this mountain, whereof the LORD spake in that day; for thou heardest in that day how the Anakims were there, and that the cities were great and fenced: if so be the LORD will be with me, then I shall be able to drive them out, as the LORD said. And Joshua blessed him, and gave unto Caleb the son of Jephunneh Hebron for an inheritance. ^d Hebron therefore became the inheritance of Caleb the son of Jephunneh the Kenezite unto this-day, because that he wholly followed the LORD God of Israel. § 6. Lot of Joseph.

JOSHUA XVI.

- 1 And the lot of the children of Joseph ^a fell from Jordan by ^{a Heb. went} Jericho, unto the water of Jericho on the east, to the wilderness ^{forth.}
- 2 that goeth up from Jericho throughout mount Bethel, and goeth out from Bethel to ^b Luz, and passeth along unto the borders of ^{b Judg. i. 26.}
- 3 Archi to Ataroth, and goeth down westward to the coast of Japhleti, unto the coast of Beth-horon the nether, and to
- 4 Gezer: and the goings out thereof are at the sea. So the children of Joseph, Manasseh and Ephraim, took their inheritance.
- 5 And the border of the children of Ephraim according to their families was thus: even the border of their inheritance on the
- 6 east side was Ataroth-addar, unto Beth-horon the upper; and the border went out toward the sea to Michmethah on the north side; and the border went about eastward unto Taanath-shiloh,
- 7 and passed by it on the east to Janohah; and it went down from Janohah to Ataroth, and to Naarath, and came to Jericho,

A.C. 1444. and went out at Jordan. The border went out from Tappuah 8 westward unto the river Kanah; and the goings out thereof were at the sea. This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Ephraim by their families. And the separate 9 cities for the children of Ephraim were among the inheritance of the children of Manasseh, all the cities with their villages. And they drave not out the Canaanites that dwelt in Gezer: 10 but the Canaanites dwell among the Ephraimites unto this day, and serve under tribute.

JOSHUA XVII.

1 The lot of Manasseh. 8 His coast. 12 The Canaanites not driven out. 14 The children of Joseph obtain another lot.

There was also a lot for the tribe of Manasseh; for he was the 1 c firstborn of Joseph; to wit, for d Machir the firstborn of Manasseh, the father of Gilead: because he was a man of war, therefore he had Gilead and Bashan. There was also a lot for e the 2 rest of the children of Manasseh by their families; for the children of Abiezer, and for the children of Helek, and for the children of Asriel, and for the children of Shechem, and for the children of Hepher, and for the children of Shemida: these were the male children of Manasseh the son of Joseph by their families.

But f Zelophehad, the son of Hepher, the son of Gilead, the 3 son of Machir, the son of Manasseh, had no sons, but daughters: and these are the names of his daughters, Mahlah, and Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah. And they came near before Eleazar the priest, and before Joshua the son of Nun, and before 4 the princes, saying, The LORD commanded Moses to give us an inheritance among our brethren. Therefore according to the commandment of the LORD he gave then an inheritance among the brethren of their father. And there fell ten portions 5 to Manasseh, beside the land of Gilead and Bashan, which were on the other side Jordan; because the daughters of Manasseh 6 had an inheritance among his sons: and the rest of Manasseh's sons had the land of Gilead.

And the coast of Manasseh was from Asher to Michmethah, 7 that lieth before Shechem; and the border went along on the right hand unto the inhabitants of En-tappuah. Now Manasseh had the land of Tappuah: but Tappuah on the border 8 of Manasseh belonged to the children of Ephraim; and 9 the coast descended unto the g river Kanah, southward of the river: these cities of Ephraim are among the cities of Manasseh: the coast of Manasseh also was on the north side of the river, and the outgoings of it were at the sea: south- 10 ward it was Ephraim's, and northward it was Manasseh's, and the sea is his border; and they met together in Asher on the north, and in Issachar on the east. And Manasseh 11 had in Issachar and in Asher Beth-shean and her towns, and Yet the children of Manasseh could not drive out the inhabitants of those cities; but the Canaanites would dwell in that land. Yet it came to pass, when the children of Israel were waxen strong, that they put the Canaanites to tribute; but did not utterly drive them out. And the children of Joseph spake unto Joshua, saying, Why hast thou given me but one lot and one portion to inherit, seeing I am a great people, forasmuch as the LORD hath blessed me hitherto? And Joshua answered them, If thou be a great people, then get thee up to the wood country, and cut down for thyself there in the land of the Perizzites and of the ^hgiants, if mount Ephraim be too narrow for thee. And the children of Joseph said, The hill is not enough for us: and all the Canaanites that dwell in the land of the valley have chariots of iron, both they who are of Beth-shean and her towns, and they who are of the valley of Jezreel. And Joshua spake unto the house of Joseph, even to Ephraim and to Manasseh, saying, Thou art a great people, and hast great power: thou shalt not have one lot only: but the mountain shall be thine; for it is a wood, and thou shalt cut it down: and the outgoings of it shall be thine: for thou shalt drive out the Canaanites, though they have iron chariots, and though they be strong.

JOSHUA XVIII. VER. 1—10.

1 And the whole congregation of the children of Israel assembled together at Shiloh, and set up the tabernacle of the congregation there. And the land was subdued before them. And there remained among the children of Israel seven tribes, which had not yet received their inheritance. And Joshua said unto the children of Israel, How long are ye slack to go to possess the land, which the LORD God of your fathers hath given you? 4 Give out from among you three men for each tribe: and I will send them, and they shall rise, and go through the land, and describe it according to the inheritance of them; and they shall come again to me. And they shall divide it into seven parts: Judah shall abide in their coast on the south, and the house of Joseph shall abide in their coast on the north. Ye shall therefore describe the land into seven parts, and bring the description hither to me, that I may cast lots for you here before the LORD 7 our God. But the Levites have no part among you; for the priesthood of the LORD is their inheritance: and Gad, and Reuben, and half the tribe of Manasseh, have received their inheritance beyond Jordan on the east, which Moses the servant of the LORD gave them.

A.C. 1444. And the men arose, and went away: and Joshua charged 8 them that went to describe the land, saying, Go and walk through the land, and describe it, and come again to me, that I may here cast lots for you before the LORD in Shiloh. And 9 the men went and passed through the land, and described it by cities into seven parts in a book, and came again to Joshua to the host at Shiloh.

And Joshua cast lots for them in Shiloh before the LORD: 10 and there Joshua divided the land unto the children of Israel according to their divisions.

§ 8. Lot of Benjamin and the rest of the Tribes.

JOSHUA XVIII. VER. 11, TO THE END.

And the lot of the tribe of the children of Benjamin came up 11 according to their families: and the coast of their lot came forth between the children of Judah and the children of Joseph. And their border on the north side was from Jordan; and the 12 border went up to the side of Jericho on the north side, and went up through the mountains westward; and the goings out thereof were at the wilderness of Beth-aven. And the border 13 went over from thence toward Luz, to the side of Luz, which is Beth-el, southward; and the border descended to Ataroth-adar, near the hill that lieth on the south side of the nether Beth-horon. And the border was drawn thence, and compassed 14 the corner of the sea southward, from the hill that lieth before Beth-horon southward; and the goings out thereof were at Kirjath-baal, which is Kirjath-jearim, a city of the children of Judah: this was the west quarter. And the south quarter was 15 from the end of Kirjath-jearim, and the border went out on the west, and went out to the well of waters of Nephtoah: and the 16 border came down to the end of the mountain that lieth before the valley of the son of Hinnom, and which is in the valley of the giants on the north, and descended to the valley of Hinnom, to the side of Jebusi on the south, and descended to Enrogel, and was drawn from the north, and went forth to 17 En-shemesh, and went forth toward Geliloth, which is over against the going up of Adummim, and descended to ^a the stone of Bohan the son of Reuben, and passed along toward 18 the side over against ^b Arabah northward, and went down unto Arabah: and the border passed along to the side of Beth- 19 hoglah northward: and the outgoings of the border were at the north ^c bay of the salt sea at the south end of Jordan: this was the south coast. And Jordan was the border of it on the 20 east side. This was the inheritance of the children of Benjamin, by the coasts thereof round about, according to their families. Now the cities of the tribe of the children of 21 Benjamin according to their families were Jericho, and Beth-hoglah, and the valley of Keziz, and Beth-arabah, and 22 their families.

JOSHUA XIX. VER. 1—48.

1 The lot of Simeon, 10 of Zebulun, 17 of Issachar, 24 of Asher, 32 of Naphtali, 40 of Dan.

1 And the second lot came forth to Simeon, even for the tribe of the children of Simeon according to their families:
 and their inheritance was within the inheritance of the children
 2 of Judah. And they had in their inheritance Beer-sheba, 3 Sheba, and Moladah, and Hazar-shual, and Balah, and Azem, 4, 5 and Eltolad, and Bethul, and Hormah, and Ziklag, and Beth-
 6 marcaboth, and Hazar-susah, and Beth-lebaoth, and Sharuh;
 7 thirteen cities and their villages: Ain, Remmon, and Ethier, 8 and Ashan; four cities and their villages: and all the villages that were round about these cities to Baalath-beer, Ramath of the south. This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children 9 of Simeon according to their families. Out of the portion of the children of Judah was the inheritance of the children of Simeon: for the part of the children of Judah was too much for them: therefore the children of Simeon had their inheritance within the inheritance of them.

10 And the third lot came up for the children of Zebulun according to their families: and the border of their inheritance 11 was unto Sarid: and their border went up toward the sea, and Maralah, and reached to Dabbasheth, and reached to the river 12 that is before Jokneam; and turned from Sarid eastward toward the sunrising unto the border of Chisloth-tabor, and then goeth 13 out to Daberath, and goeth up to Japhia, and from thence passeth on along on the east to Gittah-hepher, to Ittah-kazin, border compasseth it on the north side to Hannathon: and the 15 outgoings thereof are in the valley of Jiphtah-el: and Kattath, and Nahallal, and Shimron, and Idalah, and Beth-lehem: 16 twelve cities with their villages. This is the inheritance of the children of Zebulun according to their families, these cities with their villages.

17 And the fourth lot came out to Issachar, for the children of 18 Issachar according to their families. And their border was 19 toward Jezreel, and Chesulloth, and Shunem, and Haphraim, 20 and Shihon, and Anaharath, and Rabbith, and Kishion, and 21 Abez, and Remeth, and En-gannim, and En-haddab, and

And the fifth lot came out for the tribe of the children of 24 Asher according to their families. And their border was Hel- 25 kath, and Hali, and Beten, and Achshaph, and Alammelech, 26 and Amad, and Misheal; and reacheth to Carmel westward, and to Shihor-libnath; and turneth toward the sunrising to 27 Beth-dagon, and reacheth to Zebulun, and to the valley of Jiphthah-el toward the north side of Beth-emek, and Neiel, and goeth out to Cabul on the left hand, and Hebron, and 28 Rehob, and Hammon, and Kanah, even unto great Zidon; and 29 e Heb Tz^{or}. then the coast turneth to Ramah, and to the strong city ^e Tyre; and the coast turneth to Hosah; and the outgoings thereof are at the sea from the coast to Achzib: Ummah also, and Aphek, 30 and Rehob: twenty and two cities with their villages. This 31 is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Asher according to their families, these cities with their villages.

The sixth lot came out to the children of Naphtali, even for 32 the children of Naphtali according to their families. And their 33 coast was from Heleph, from Allon to Zaanannim, and Adami, Nekeb, and Jabneel, unto Lakum; and the outgoings thereof were at Jordan: then the coast turneth westward to Aznoth- 34 tabor, and goeth out from thence to Hukkok, and reacheth to Zebulun on the south side, and reacheth to Asher on the west side, and to Judah upon Jordan toward the sunrising. And 35 the fenced cities are Ziddim, Zer, and Hammath, Rakkath, and Chinnereth, and Adamah, and Ramah, and Hazor, and 36, 37 Kedesh, and Edrei, and En-hazor, and Iron, and Migdal-el, 38 Horem, and Beth-anath, and Beth-shemesh; nineteen cities with their villages. This is the inheritance of the tribe of the 39 children of Naphtali according to their families, the cities and their villages.

And the seventh lot came out for the tribe of the children of 40 Dan according to their families. And the coast of their inherit- 41 ance was Zorah, and Eshtaol, and Ir-shemesh, and Shaalabbin, 42 and Ajalon, and Jethlah, and Elon, and Thimnathah, and 43 Ekron, and Eltekeh, and Gibbethon, and Baalath, and 44, 45 Jehud, and Bene-berak, and Gath-rimmon, and Me-jarkon, 46 and Rakkon, with the border ^f before ^g Japho. And the coast 47 of the children of Dan went out too little for them: therefore the children of Dan went up to fight against Leshem, and took it, and smote it with the edge of the sword, and possessed it, and dwelt therein, and called Leshem, ^h Dan, after the name of Dan their father. This is the inheritance of the tribe of the 48 children of Dan according to their families, these cities with their villages.

§ 10. Cities of Refuge and Levitical Cities.

JOSHUA XX.

1, 2 The LORD also spake unto Joshua, saying, Speak to the children of Israel, saying, ^a Appoint out for you cities of refuge, a Ex. xxi. 13. Num. xxxv. 6, 11, 14. Deut. xix. 2, 9.
 3 whereof I spake unto you by the hand of Moses: that the slayer that killeth any person unawares and unwittingly may flee thither: and they shall be your refuge from the avenger
 4 of blood. And when he that doth flee unto one of those cities shall stand at the entering of the gate of the city, and shall declare his cause in the ears of the elders of that city, they shall take him into the city unto them, and give him a place, 5 that he may dwell among them. And if the avenger of blood pursue after him, then they shall not deliver the slayer up into his hand; because he smote his neighbour unwittingly, and cattle. And the children of Israel gave unto the Levites out 3 of their inheritance, at the commandment of the LORD, these cities and their suburbs. And the lot came out for the families 4 of the Kohathites: and the children of Aaron the priest, which were of the Levites, had by lot out of the tribe of Judah, and out of the tribe of Simeon, and out of the tribe of Benjamin, thirteen cities. And the rest of the children of Kohath had 5 by lot out of the families of the tribe of Ephraim, and out of the tribe of Dan, and out of the half tribe of Manasseh, ten cities. And the children of Gershon had by lot out of the 6 families of the tribe of Issachar, and out of the tribe of Asher, and out of the tribe of Naphtali, and out of the half tribe of Manasseh in Bashan, thirteen cities. The children of Merari 7 by their families had out of the tribe of Reuben, and out of them Shechem with her suburbs in mount Ephraim, to be a city of refuge for the slayer; and Gezer with her suburbs,

- 27 And unto the children of Gershon, of the families of the Levites, out of the other half tribe of Manasseh they gave Golan in Bashan with her suburbs, to be a city of refuge for the slayer; and Beesh-terah with her suburbs; two cities.
- 28 And out of the tribe of Issachar, Kishon with her suburbs, 41 cities. All the cities of the Levites within the possession of the children of Israel were forty and eight cities with their 42 suburbs. These cities were every one with their suburbs round

JOSHUA XXIV.

1 And Joshua gathered all the tribes of Israel to Shechem, and called for the elders of Israel, and for their heads, and for their judges, and for their officers; and they presented themselves before God. And Joshua said unto all the people, Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, ⁿYour fathers dwelt on the other side of the flood in old time, even Terah, the father of Abraham, and n Gen. xi. 26.

 6 I did among them: and afterward I brought you out. And I ^tbrought your fathers out of Egypt: and ye came unto the sea; ^uand the Egyptians pursued after your fathers with chariots and
 7 horsemen unto the Red sea. And when they cried unto the LORD, he put darkness between you and the Egyptians, and brought the sea upon them, and covered them; and your eyes have seen what I have done in Egypt: and ye dwelt in the 8 wilderness a long season. And I brought you into the land of the Amorites, which dwelt on the other side Jordan; ^xand they fought with you: and I gave them into your hand, that ye might possess their land; and I destroyed them from before 9 you. Then Balak the son of Zippor, king of Moab, arose and warred against Israel, and ^ysent and called Balaam the son of 10 Beor to curse you: but I would not hearken unto Balaam; therefore he blessed you still: so I delivered you out of his

Now therefore fear the LORD, and serve him in sincerity and 14 in truth: and put away the gods which your fathers served on the other side of the flood, and in Egypt; and serve ye the LORD. And if it seem evil unto you to serve the LORD, choose 15 you this day whom ye will serve; whether the gods which your fathers served that were on the other side of the flood, or the gods of the Amorites, in whose land ye dwell: but as for me and my house, we will serve the LORD. And the people answered and 16 said, God forbid that we should forsake the LORD, to serve other gods; for the LORD our God, he it is that brought us up and 17 our fathers out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage, and which did those great signs in our sight, and preserved us in all the way wherein we went, and among all the people through whom we passed: and the LORD drave out from before 18 us all the people, even the Amorites which dwelt in the land: therefore will we also serve the LORD; for he is our God. And 19 Joshua said unto the people, Ye cannot serve the LORD: for he is an holy God; he is a jealous God; he will not forgive your transgressions nor your sins. If ye forsake the LORD, 20 and serve strange gods, ^a then he will turn and do you hurt, and consume you, after that he hath done you good. And the 21 people said unto Joshua, Nay; but we will serve the LORD. And Joshua said unto the people, Ye are witnesses against 22 yourselves that ye have chosen you the LORD, to serve him. And they said, We are witnesses. Now therefore put away, 23 said he, the strange gods which are among you, and incline your heart unto the LORD God of Israel. And the people 24 said unto Joshua, The LORD our God will we serve, and his voice will we obey. So Joshua made a covenant with the 25 people that day, and set them a statute and an ordinance in Shechem ¹⁰.

Interregnum after the Death of Joshua.

§ 1. State of Israel after the Death of Joshua.

JUDGES I.

Now after the death of Joshua it came to pass, that the children of Israel asked the LORD, saying, Who shall go up for us against the Canaanites first, to fight against them? And the LORD said, Judah shall go up: behold, I have delivered the land into his hand. And Judah said unto Simeon his brother, Come up with me into my lot, that we may fight against the Canaanites; and I likewise will go with thee into thy lot. So Simeon went with him. And Judah went up; and the LORD delivered the Canaanites and the Perizzites into their hand: and they slew of them in Bezek ten thousand men. And they found Adoni-bezek in Bezek: and they fought against him, and they slew the Canaanites and the Perizzites. But Adoni-bezek fled; and they pursued after him, and caught him, and cut off his thumbs and his great toes. And Adoni-bezek said, Threescore and ten kings, having ^atheir thumbs and their great toes cut off, ^bgathered their meat under my table: as I have done, so God hath required me. And they brought him to Jerusalem, and there he died. Now the children of Judah had fought against Jerusalem, and had taken it, and smitten it with the edge of the sword, and set the city on fire. 1425.

And afterward the children of Judah went down to fight

A.C. 1425. against the Canaanites, that dwelt in the mountain, and in the south, and in the ^d valley. And Judah went against the 10 Canaanites that dwelt in Hebron: (now the name of Hebron before was Kirjath-arba:) and they slew Sheshai, and Ahiman, and Talmi. And from thence he went against the inhabit- 11 ants of Debir: and the name of Debir before was Kirjath-sepher: ^e and Caleb said, He that smiteth Kirjath-sepher, and 12 taketh it, to him will I give Achsah my daughter to wife. And Othniel the son of Kenez, Caleb's younger brother, took 13 it: and he gave him Achsah his daughter to wife. And it came 14 to pass, when she came to him, that she moved him to ask of her father a field: and she lighted from off her ass; and Caleb said unto her, What wilt thou? And she said unto him, Give 15 me a blessing: for thou hast given me a south land; give me also springs of water. And Caleb gave her the upper springs and the nether springs.

And the children of the Kenite, Moses' father in law, went 16 up out of the city of palm trees with the children of Judah into the wilderness of Judah, which lieth in the south of Arad; and they went and dwelt among the people. And Judah went 17 with Simeon his brother, and they slew the Canaanites that inhabited Zephath, and utterly destroyed it. And the name of the city was called ^e Hormah. Also Judah took Gaza with 18 the coast thereof, and Askelon with the coast thereof, and Ekron with the coast thereof. And the Lord was with Judah; 19 and ^f he drave out the inhabitants of the mountain; but could not drive out the inhabitants of the valley, because they had chariots of iron. ^g And they gave Hebron unto Caleb, as Moses 20 said: and he expelled thence the three sons of Anak. And the 21 children of Benjamin did not drive out the Jebusites that inhabited Jerusalem; but the Jebusites dwell with the children of Benjamin in Jerusalem unto this day.

And the house of Joseph, they also went up against Beth- 22 el: and the Lord was with them. And the house of Joseph 23 sent to descry Beth-el. (Now the name of the city before was ^h Luz.) And the spies saw a man come forth out of the city, 24 and they said unto him, Shew us, we pray thee, the entrance into the city, and ⁱ we will shew thee mercy. ¹¹ This passage, relating to the conquest of Kirjath-sepher by Caleb, was mentioned before (Josh. xv. 13—20.), that the possessions of Judah might be enumerated together. Bishop Horsley, however, wishes it to be expunged from the text, as an interpolation: a proposition to which it appears impossible to assent. "No reason," he adds, "can be assigned for its insertion." It is not certainly known at what time the city was taken. Bishop Patrick is of opinion, that it was not captured till after the death of Joshua; owing to the indolence of the tribe of Judah. Dr. Wells, on the contrary, supposes that it was taken by Caleb, immediately after it was allotted to him by Joshua. It is preserved in its place in this Arrangement, because the narrative is not otherwise complete. Vide Horsley, (Bib. Crit. vol. i.); Dr. Wells; and Bp. Patrick in loc.

And it came to pass, when Israel was strong, that they put the Canaanites to tribute, and did not utterly drive them out.
- 29 ^l Neither did Ephraim drive out the Canaanites that dwelt in Gezer; but the Canaanites dwelt in Gezer among them.

- 31 Neither did Asher drive out the inhabitants of Accho, nor the inhabitants of Zidon, nor of Ahlab, nor of Achzib, nor of Helbah, nor of Aphik, nor of Rehob: but the Asherites dwelt among the Canaanites, the inhabitants of the land: for they did not drive them out.
- 33 Neither did Naphtali drive out the inhabitants of Bethshemesh, nor the inhabitants of Beth-anath; but he dwelt among the Canaanites, the inhabitants of the land: nevertheless the inhabitants of Bethshemesh and of Beth-anath became tributaries unto them. And the Amorites forced the children of Dan into the mountain: for they would not suffer them to come down to the valley: but the Amorites would dwell in mount Heres in Aijalon, and in Shaalbim: yet the hand of the house of Joseph ^m prevailed, so that they became tributaries.

¹² The Israelites having now obtained possession of the promised land, it remained for them only to secure their conquests. They omitted to do so. The angel Jehovah again, therefore, appeared to them after the death of Joshua, to remonstrate with them for having neglected to extirpate idolatry. They had hitherto been triumphant over all their opponents; they were now in their turn to be punished for disobedience, to be brought into subjection, and to learn that lesson from adversity, which they had refused to be taught in prosperity.

A.C. 1425. it came to pass, when the angel of the LORD spake these words unto all the children of Israel, that the people lifted up their voice, and wept. And they called the name of ⁵ that place ^tBochim: and they sacrificed there unto the LORD.

¹³ The death of Joshua is repeated as an introduction to the ensuing history of the origin and progress of idolatry, and of the apostacy among the Israelites.

¹⁴ That these chapters, from the seventeenth to the twenty-first inclusive, ought to be inserted here will be evident from considering, among other reasons,—

I. The Danites were still unsettled when the transactions recorded in chapters xvii. and xviii. took place; which must therefore have been soon after Joshua's death.

II. Phinehas was alive at the battle of Gibeah.

III. The wickedness at Gibeah is mentioned (Hos. x. 9.) as the first open wickedness of Israel, after they had taken possession of Canaan. It must therefore have preceded the offences for which they were brought into slavery by the surrounding nations. Vide Lightfoot in loc.; Bishop Patrick, &c.

So all the men of Israel were gathered 11 against the city, ^r knit together as one man.

s ch. iii. 15.

And the tribes of Israel sent men through all the tribe of 12 Benjamin, saying, What wickedness is this that is done among you? Now therefore deliver us the men, the children of Belial, 13 which are in Gibeah, that we may put them to death, and put away evil from Israel. But the children of Benjamin would not hearken to the voice of their brethren the children of Israel: but 14 the children of Benjamin gathered themselves together out of the cities unto Gibeah, to go out to battle against the children of Israel. And the children of Benjamin were numbered at 15 that time out of the cities twenty and six thousand men that drew sword, beside the inhabitants of Gibeah, which were numbered seven hundred chosen men. Among all this people 16 there were seven hundred chosen men ^s lefthanded; every one could sling stones at an hair breadth, and not miss. And 17 the men of Israel, beside Benjamin, were numbered four hundred thousand men that drew sword: all these were men of war.

And the children of Israel arose, and went up to the house 18 of God, and asked counsel of God, and said, Which of us shall go up first to the battle against the children of Benjamin? And the LORD said, Judah shall go up first. And the children of 19 Israel rose up in the morning, and encamped against Gibeah. And the men of Israel went out to battle against Benjamin; 20 and the men of Israel put themselves in array to fight against them at Gibeah. And the children of Benjamin came forth 21 out of Gibeah, and destroyed down to the ground of the Israelites that day twenty and two thousand men. And the 22 people the men of Israel encouraged themselves, and set their battle again in array in the place where they put themselves in array the first day.  25 children of Benjamin the second day. And Benjamin went forth against them out of Gibeah the second day, and destroyed down to the ground of the children of Israel again eighteen thousand men; all these drew the sword.

26 Then all the children of Israel, and all the people, went up, and came unto the house of God, and wept, and sat there before the LORD, and fasted that day until even, and offered 27 burnt offerings and peace offerings before the LORD. And the children of Israel enquired of the LORD, (for the ark of the 28 covenant of God was there in those days, and Phinehas, the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron, stood before it in those days,) saying, Shall I yet again go out to battle against the children of Benjamin my brother, or shall I cease? And the LORD said, Go up; for to morrow I will deliver them into 29 thine hand. And Israel set liers in wait round about Gibeah.
 30 And the children of Israel went up against the children of Israel said, Let us flee, and draw them from the city unto the 33 highways. And all the men of Israel rose up out of their place, and put themselves in array at Baal-tamar: and the liers in wait of Israel came forth out of their places, even out of the 34 meadows of Gibeah. And there came against Gibeah ten thousand chosen men out of all Israel, and the battle was sore:

 35 but they knew not that evil was near them. And the LORD smote Benjamin before Israel: and the children of Israel destroyed of the Benjamites that day twenty and five thousand and an 36 hundred men: all these drew the sword. So the children of Benjamin saw that they were smitten: for the men of Israel gave place to the Benjamites, because they trusted unto the 37 liers in wait which they had set beside Gibeah. And the liers

JUDGES XXI.

1 The people bewail the desolation of Benjamin. 8 By the destruction of Jabesh-gilead they provide them four hundred wives. 16 They advise them to surprise the virgins that danced at Shiloh.

Now the men of Israel had sworn in Mizpeh, saying, There 1 shall not any of us give his daughter unto Benjamin to wife. And the people came to the house of God, and abode 2 there till even before God, and lifted up their voices, and wept sore; and said, O LORD God of Israel, why is this 3 come to pass in Israel, that there should be to day one tribe lacking in Israel? And it came to pass on the morrow, that the 4 people rose early, and built there an altar, and offered burnt offerings and peace offerings. And the children of Israel said, 5 Who is there among all the tribes of Israel that came not up with the congregation unto the LORD? For they had made a great oath concerning him that came not up to the LORD to Mizpeh, saying, He shall surely be put to death. And the 6 children of Israel repented them for Benjamin their brother, and said, There is one tribe cut off from Israel this day. How shall 7 we do for wives for them that remain, seeing we have sworn by the LORD that we will not give them of our daughters to wives?

And they said, What one is there of the tribes of Israel that 8

- came not up to Mizpeh to the LORD? And, behold, there came none to the camp from Jabesh-gilead to the assembly.
- 9 For the people were numbered, and, behold, there were none of the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead there. And the congregation sent thither twelve thousand men of the valiantest, and commanded them, saying, Go and smite the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead with the edge of the sword, with the women and
- 11 the children. And this is the thing that ye shall do, ^k Ye shall utterly destroy every male, and every woman that ^l hath lain by
- 12 man. And they found among the inhabitants of Jabesh-gilead four hundred ^m young virgins, that had known no man by lying with any male: and they brought them unto the camp to Shiloh, which is in the land of Canaan. And the whole congregation sent some ⁿ to speak to the children of Benjamin that were in the rock Rimmon, and to ^o call peaceably unto them.
- 14 And Benjamin came again at that time; and they gave them wives which they had saved alive of the women of Jabesh-gilead: and yet so they sufficed them not. And the people repented them for Benjamin, because that the LORD had made a breach in the tribes of Israel.
- 16 Then the elders of the congregation said, How shall we do for wives for them that remain, seeing the women are destroyed
- 17 out of Benjamin? And they said, There must be an inheritance for them that be escaped of Benjamin, that a tribe be not
- 18 destroyed out of Israel. Howbeit we may not give them wives of our daughters: for the children of Israel have sworn, saying, Cursed be he that giveth a wife to Benjamin. Then they said, Behold, there is a feast of the LORD in Shiloh ^p yearly in a place which is on the north side of Beth-el, ^q on the east side ^r of the highway that goeth up from Beth-el to Shechem, and
- 20 on the south of Lebonah. Therefore they commanded the children of Benjamin, saying, Go and lie in wait in the vineyards; and see, and, behold, if the daughters of Shiloh come out to dance in dances, then come ye out of the vineyards, and catch you every man his wife of the daughters of Shiloh, and
- 22 go to the land of Benjamin. And it shall be, when their fathers or their brethren come unto us to complain, that we will say unto them, ^s Be favourable unto them for our sakes: because we reserved not to each man his wife in the war: for ye did not give unto them at this time, that ye should be guilty.
- 23 And the children of Benjamin did so, and took them wives, according to their number, of them that danced, whom they caught: and they went and returned unto their inheritance, and repaired the cities, and dwelt in them. And the children of Israel departed thence at that time, every man to his tribe and to his family, and they went out from thence every man

And I will draw unto thee to the ^ariver Kishon Sisera, the captain of Jabin's army, with his chariots and his multitude; and I will deliver him into thine hand. - 10 And Barak called Zebulun and Naphtali to Kedesh; and he went up with ten thousand men at his feet: and Deborah went up with him. Now Heber the Kenite, which was of the children of ^bHobab the father in law of Moses, had severed himself from the Kenites, and pitched his tent unto the plain of Zaanaim, which is by Kedesh. And they shewed Sisera that Barak the son of Abinoam was gone up to mount Tabor. And Sisera ^cgathered together all his chariots, even nine hundred chariots of iron, and all the people that were with him, from Harosheth of the Gentiles unto the river of Kishon. And Deborah said unto Barak, Up; for this is the day in which the LORD hath delivered Sisera into thine hand: is not the LORD gone out before thee? So Barak went down from mount Tabor, and ten thousand men after him. And ^dthe LORD discomfited Sisera, and all his chariots, and all his host, with the edge of the sword before Barak; so that Sisera lighted down off his chariot, and fled away on his feet. But Barak pursued after the chariots, and after the host, unto Harosheth of the Gentiles: and all the host of Sisera fell upon the edge of the sword; and there was not ^ea man left. Howbeit Sisera fled away on his feet to the tent of Jael the wife of Heber the Kenite: for there was peace between Jabin the king of Hazor and the house of Heber the Kenite.

- 19 And he said unto her, Give me, I pray thee, a little water to drink; for I am thirsty. And she opened ^ga bottle of milk, and gave him drink, and covered him. Again he said unto her, Stand in the door of the tent, and it shall be, when any man doth come and enquire of thee, and say, Is there any man here? that thou shalt say, No. Then Jael Heber's wife took a nail of the tent, and ^htook an hammer in her hand, and went softly unto him, and smote the nail into his temples, and

History of Ruth ¹⁶.

RUTH I.

1 Elimelech, driven by famine into Moab, dieth there. 4 Mahlon and Chilion, having married wives of Moab, die also. 6 Naomi returning homeward, 8 dissuadeth her two daughters in law from going with her. 14 Orpah leaveth her, but Ruth with great constancy accompanieth her. 19 They two come to Bethlehem, where they are gladly received.

1245. Now it came to pass in the days when the judges ^a ruled, 1
^{a Heb. judged.} that there was a famine in the land. And a certain man of Beth-lehem-judah went to sojourn in the country of Moab, he,

¹⁵ The oppression of the Israelites under Midian seems to have been more severe than that under any of their other conquerors. The people were entirely subdued; they were driven (Judg. vi. 2.) to mountains, and caves, and dens; they were consumed by famine; and the first movement of Gideon was effected by night, lest he should be put to death by the Midianites, if he attempted to act in the day. While they were in this deplorable condition, another change in the conduct of Providence took place. A prophet was inspired for the occasion, to address the people. This, at least, is the first time we read of a prophet coming among them, for the purpose only of reproving their folly, while their calamity lasted. The angel Jehovah, too, again appeared among them, to convince them that this prophet was commissioned from on high; and very possibly to establish the new dispensation, under which a continued succession of prophets was to arise till the time of the great Prophet like unto Moses. The Angel revealed himself to Gideon. He commanded Gideon to attempt the release of the people, and assured him of the certainty of success, by miracles, adapted (as all the miracles recorded in the Old Testament were) to the peculiar circumstances of the persons for whom they were wrought—Vide Hales' Analysis, vol. ii. p. 311; Lightfoot in loc.

¹⁶ The history of Ruth was added to the canon of Scripture; as from her David and the Messiah descended. By recording the adoption of a Gentile into the family from which Christ was to derive his origin, the Holy Spirit intended to intimate the comprehensive design of the Christian dispensation. The book is placed here on the authority of Bp. Patrick, who observes, that no other famine is said to have happened during the administration of the Judges, than that caused, in the time of Gideon, by the invasion of the Midianites.—Gray's Key, p. 166; Bp. Patrick in loc.

And they came into the country of Moab, and ^b continued there. And Elimelech Naomi's husband died; and she was left, and her two sons. And they took them wives of the women of Moab; the name of the one was Orpah, and the name of the other Ruth; and they dwelled there about ten years.* And Mahlon and Chilion died also both of them; and the woman was left of her two sons and her husband.

6 Then she arose with her daughters in law, that she might return from the country of Moab: for she had heard in the country of Moab how that the LORD had visited his people in giving them bread. Wherefore she went forth out of the place where she was, and her two daughters in law with her: and they went on the way to return unto the land of Judah. And Naomi said unto her two daughters in law, Go, return each to her mother's house: the LORD deal kindly with you, as ye have dealt with the dead, and with me. The LORD grant you that ye may find rest, each of you in the house of her husband.

Then she kissed them; and they lifted up their voice, and wept. And they said unto her, Surely we will return with thee unto thy people. And Naomi said, Turn again, my daughters: why will ye go with me? are there yet any more sons in my womb, that they may be your husbands? Turn again, my daughters, go your way; for I am too old to have an husband.

If I should say, I have hope, ^c if I should have an husband also to night, and should also bear sons; would ye ^d tarry for them till they were grown? would ye stay for them from having husbands? nay, my daughters; for ^e it grieveth me much for your sakes that the hand of the LORD is gone out against me.

16 And Ruth said, ^f Intreat me not to leave thee, or to return from following after thee: for whither thou goest, I will go: and where thou lodgest, I will lodge: thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God: where thou diest, will I die, and there will I be buried: the LORD do so to me, and more also, if ought but death part thee and me. RUTH II.

1 Ruth gleaneth in the fields of Boaz. 4 Boaz taking knowledge of her, 8 sheweth her great favour. 18 That which she got, she carrieth to Naomi.

And Naomi had a kinsman of her husband's, a mighty man 1 of wealth, of the family of Elimelech; and his name was ^k Boaz. And Ruth the Moabitess said unto Naomi, Let me now go to 2 the field, and glean ears of corn after him in whose sight I shall find grace. And she said unto her, Go, my daughter. And 3 she went, and came, and gleaned in the field after the reapers : and her ^l hap was to light on a part of the field belonging unto Boaz, who was of the kindred of Elimelech.

And, behold, Boaz came from Beth-lehem, and said unto the 4 reapers, the LORD be with you. And they answered him, The LORD bless thee. Then said Boaz unto his servant that was 5 set over the reapers, Whose damsel is this? And the servant 6 that was set over the reapers answered and said, It is the Moabitish damsel that came back with Naomi out of the country of Moab : and she said, I pray you, let me glean and gather 7 after the reapers among the sheaves : so she came, and hath continued even from the morning until now, that she tarried a little in the house. Then said Boaz unto Ruth, Heardest thou 8 not, my daughter? Go not to glean in another field, neither go from hence, but abide here fast by my maidens : let thine eyes 9 be on the field that they do reap, and go thou after them : have I not charged the young men that they shall not touch thee? and when thou art athirst, go unto the vessels, and drink of 10 that which the young men have drawn. Then she fell on her face, and bowed herself to the ground, and said unto him, Why have I found grace in thine eyes, that thou shouldest take knowledge of me, seeing I am a stranger? And Boaz an- 11 swered and said unto her, It hath fully been shewed me, all that thou hast done unto thy mother in law since the death of thine husband : and how thou hast left thy father and thy mother, and the land of thy nativity, and art come unto a people which thou knewest not heretofore. The LORD recom- 12 pense thy work, and a full reward be given thee of the LORD God of Israel, under whose wings thou art come to trust. Then she said, ^m Let me find favour in thy sight, my lord ; for that 13 thou hast comforted me, and for that thou hast spoken ⁿ friendly unto thine handmaid, though I be not like unto one of thine handmaidens. 18 And she took it up, and went into the city: and her mother in law saw what she had gleaned: and she brought forth, and 19 gave to her that she had reserved after she was sufficed. And her mother in law said unto her, Where hast thou gleaned to day? and where wroughtest thou? blessed be he that did take knowledge of thee. And she shewed her mother in law with whom she had wrought, and said, the man's name with whom I

JUDGES VII.

1 Gideon's army of two and thirty thousand is brought to three hundred. 9 He is encouraged by the dream and interpretation of the barley cake. 16 His stratagem of trumpets and lamps in pitchers. 24 The Ephraimites take Oreb and Zeeb.

Then Jerubbaal, who is Gideon, and all the people that 1 were with him, rose up early, and pitched beside the well of Harod: so that the host of the Midianites were on the north side of them, by the hill of Moreh, in the valley. And the 2 LORD said unto Gideon, The people that are with thee are too many for me to give the Midianites into their hands, lest Israel vaunt themselves against me, saying, Mine own hand hath saved me. Now therefore go to, proclaim in the ears of the 3 people, saying, ^t whosoever is fearful and afraid, let him return and depart early from mount Gilead. And there returned of the people twenty and two thousand; and there remained ten thousand. And the LORD said unto Gideon, The people are 4 yet too many; bring them down unto the water, and I will try them for thee there: and it shall be, that of whom I say unto thee, This shall go with thee, the same shall go with thee; and of whomsoever I say unto thee, This shall not go with thee, the same shall not go. So he brought down the people unto 5 the water: and the LORD said unto Gideon, Every one that lappeth of the water with his tongue, as a dog lappeth, him shalt thou set by himself; likewise every one that boweth down upon his knees to drink. And the number of them that lapped, 6 putting their hand to their mouth, were three hundred men: but all the rest of the people bowed down upon their knees to drink water. And the LORD said unto Gideon, By the three 7 hundred men that lapped will I save you, and deliver the Midianites into thine hand: and let all the other people go every man unto his place. So the people took victuals in their 8 hand, and their trumpets: and he sent all the rest of Israel every man unto his tent, and retained those three hundred men: and the host of Midian was beneath him in the valley.

And it came to pass the same night, that the LORD said unto 9 him, Arise, get thee down unto the host; for I have delivered it into thine hand. But if thou fear to go down, go thou with 10 Phurah thy servant down to the host. And thou shalt hear 11 what they say; and afterward shall thine hands be strengthened to go down unto the host. Then went he down with Phurah his servant unto the outside of the ^u armed men that 12 were in the host. And the Midianites and the Amalekites and 13 ^x all the children of the east lay along in the valley like grass-

And when Gideon was come, behold, there was a man that told a dream unto his fellow, and said, Behold, I dreamed a dream, and, lo, a cake of barley bread tumbled into the host of Midian, and came unto a tent, and smote it that it fell, and overturned it, that the tent
 14 lay along. And his fellow answered and said, This is nothing else save the sword of Gideon the son of Joash, a man of Israel: for into his hand hath God delivered Midian, and all the host.
 15 And it was so, when Gideon heard the telling of the dream, and ^ythe interpretation thereof, that he worshipped, and re- y Heb. the breaking thereof.

 19 So Gideon, and the hundred men that were with him, came unto the outside of the camp in the beginning of the middle watch; and they had but newly set the watch: and they blew the trumpets, and brake the pitchers that were in their hands.
 20 And the three companies blew the trumpets, and brake the pitchers, and held the lamps in their left hands, and the trumpets in their right hands to blow withal: and they cried, The

And he said unto them, What have I done now in comparison of you? Is not the gleaning of the grapes of Ephraim better than the vintage of Abi-ezer? God hath delivered into your hands the princes of Midian, Oreb and Zeeb: and what was I able to do in comparison of you? Then their ⁱ anger was abated toward him, when he had said that.

And Gideon came to Jordan, and passed over, he, and the three hundred men that were with him, faint, yet pursuing them. And the princes of Succoth said, Are the hands of Zebah and Zalmunna now in thine hand, that we should give bread unto thine army? and Gideon said, Therefore when the LORD hath delivered Zebah and Zalmunna into mine hand, then I will ^k tear your flesh with the thorns of the wilderness and with briers.

And he went up thence to Penuel, and spake unto them likewise: and the men of Penuel answered him as the men of Succoth had answered him. And he spake also unto the men of Penuel, saying, When I come again in peace, I will break down this tower.

follow Abimelech; for they said, He is our brother. And 4 they gave him threescore and ten pieces of silver out of the

And Abimelech rose up, and all the people that were with 34 him, by night, and they laid wait against Shechem in four companies. And 36 when Gaal saw the people, he said to Zebul, Behold, there come people down from the top of the mountains. And Zebul said unto him, Thou seest the shadow of the mountains as if 37 they were men. And Gaal spake again and said, See there ^m come people down by the ^m middle of the land, and another ⁿ company come along by the plain of ⁿ Meonenim. Then said 38 Zebul unto him, Where is now thy mouth, wherewith thou saidst, Who is Abimelech, that we should serve him? is not 39 this the people that thou hast despised? go out, I pray now, and fight with them. And Gaal went out before the men of 39 Shechem, and fought with Abimelech. And Abimelech chased 40 him, and he fled before him, and many were overthrown and wounded, even unto the entering of the gate. And Abimelech 41 dwelt at Arumah: and Zebul thrust out Gaal and his brethren, that they should not dwell in Shechem. And it came to pass 42 on the morrow, that the people went out into the field; and they told Abimelech. And he took the people, and divided 43 them into three companies, and laid wait in the field, and looked, and, behold, the people were come forth out of the city; and he rose up against them, and smote them. And Abime- 44 lech, and the company that was with him, rushed forward, and stood in the entering of the gate of the city: and the two other companies ran upon all the people that were in the fields, and slew them. And when all the men of the tower of Shechem heard that, 46 they entered into an hold of the house of the god Berith. And Abimelech gat him up to mount 48 Zalmon, he and all the people that were with him: and Abimelech took an ax in his hand, and cut down a bough from the trees, and took it, and laid it on his shoulder, and said unto the people that were with him, What ye have seen ^o me do, make haste, and do as I have done. And all the people likewise cut 49 down every man his bough, and followed Abimelech, and put ^{A.C. 1232.} them to the hold, and set the hold on fire upon them; so that all the men of the tower of Shechem died also, about a thousand men and women.

50 Then went Abimelech to Thebez, and encamped against 51 Thebez, and took it. But there was a strong tower within the city, and thither fled all the men and women, and all they of the city, and shut it to them, and gat them up to the top of the 52 tower. And Abimelech came unto the tower, and fought against it, and went hard unto the door of the tower to burn it 53 with fire. And a certain woman ^{p 2 Sam. xi. 21.} cast a piece of a millstone 54 upon Abimelech's head, and all to brake his skull. Then he called hastily unto the young man his armourbearer, and said unto him, Draw thy sword, and slay me, that men say not of me, A woman slew him. And his young man thrust him 55 through, and he died. And when the men of Israel saw that Abimelech was dead, they departed every man unto his place.

56 Thus God rendered the wickedness of Abimelech, which he 57 did unto his father, in slaying his seventy brethren: and all the evil of the men of Shechem did God render upon their heads: and upon them came the curse of Jotham the son of Jerubbaal.

Now ^kJephthah the Gileadite was a mighty man of valour, 1 and he ^{was} the son of ^lan harlot: and Gilead begat Jephthah. Then Jephthah fled ^mfrom his brethren, and 3 dwelt in the land of Tob: and there were gathered vain men to Jephthah, and went out with him.

And it came to pass ⁿin process of time, that the children of 4 Ammon made war against Israel. And it was so, that when the 5 children of Ammon made war against Israel, the elders of Gilead went to fetch Jephthah out of the land of Tob: and they 6 said unto Jephthah, Come, and be our captain, that we may 7 fight with the children of Ammon. And Jephthah said unto the elders of Gilead, Did not ye hate me, and expel me out of my father's house? and why are ye come unto me now when 8 ye are in distress? And the elders of Gilead said unto Jephthah, Therefore we turn again to thee now, that thou mayest go with us, and fight against the children of Ammon, and be

¹⁷ The arrangement of the contents of this section is made on the united authorities of the Bible Chronology, and Calmet. The events therein related seem to have taken place in the following order:

Samson and Samuel are born in the same year, at the commencement of the servitude of the Israelites to the Philistines mentioned in (Judges xiii. 1.) the year in which Abdon dies, and the forty years' administration of Eli (1 Sam. iv. 18.) begin. (A.C. 1155.)

Samuel is called, aged twelve years, according to Josephus. (Samuel continued to prophesy till his death.) (A.C. 1143.)

Samson arrived at years of maturity, revenges the cause of his country upon the Philistines from 1136 to 1117: in which last year he was killed. He is said to have judged Israel these twenty years. (Judg. xv. 20.) (A.C. 1117.)

In the year of Samson's death a prophet is sent to Eli to warn him of the impending fate of his house. And the prediction is fulfilled within two years after Samson's death; when the Philistines began to recover from the loss occasioned by Samson; and revenged that loss by the capture of the ark—the defeat of the Israelites—and the slaughter of the sons of Eli. (A.C. 1116.)

On the death of Eli the sole administration of Samuel commences, and continues twenty-one years, till the ark is recovered, and brought from Kirjath-jearim to the house of Abinadab. (A.C. 1096.)

The people demand a king, and the forty years' government of Saul commences, and continues till 1055.

The administration of Samuel lasted, either solely, or in conjunction with Eli and Saul, eighty years.

¹⁸ The appearance of the angel Jehovah to Manoah, and his wife, was the last open vision; the last miraculous interposition till the voice which called Samuel.

 and came to the man, and said unto him, Art thou the man

 14 unto the woman let her beware. She may not eat of any thing that cometh of the vine, neither let her drink wine or strong drink, nor eat any unclean thing: all that I com-15 manded her let her observe.
 And Manoah said unto the angel of the LORD, I pray thee, let us detain thee, until we shall have made ready a kid ⁱ for 16 thee. And the angel of the LORD said unto Manoah, Though thou detain me, I will not eat of thy bread: and if thou wilt offer a burnt offering, thou must offer it unto the LORD. For 17 Manoah knew not that he was an angel of the LORD. And Manoah said unto the angel of the LORD, What is thy name, that when thy sayings come to pass we may do thee honour?
 18 And the angel of the LORD said unto him, Why askest thou 19 thus after my name, seeing it is ^k secret? So Manoah took a kid with a meat offering, and offered it upon a rock unto the LORD: and the angel did wonderously; and Manoah and his 20 wife looked on. For it came to pass, when the flame went up toward heaven from off the altar, that the angel of the LORD ascended in the flame of the altar. And Manoah and his wife 21 looked on it, and fell on their faces to the ground. But the angel of the LORD did no more appear to Manoah and to his wife.
 22 Then Manoah knew that he was an angel of the LORD. And Manoah said unto his wife, ^l We shall surely die, because we 23 have seen God. But his wife said unto him, If the LORD were pleased to kill us, he would not have received a burnt offering and a meat offering at our hands, neither would he have shewed us all these things, nor would as at this time have told us such things as these.
 24 And the woman bare a son, and called his name Samson:
 25 and the child grew, and the LORD blessed him. And the Spirit of the LORD began to move him at times in ^m the camp of Dan between Zorah and Eshtaol.

¹⁹ The song of Hannah is chiefly remarkable for its predicting the dominion of the promised Saviour of the world as a king, before there was any king in Israel; and as being likewise the first composition in which He is described by the term Messiah, the Christ, or the Anointed. The same epithet was afterwards used by David, Nathan, Ethan, Isaiah, Daniel, and the succeeding prophets of the Old Testament; and by the apostles and inspired writers of the New. The ancient Jews referred this hymn to the times of the Messiah. "The expressions are too magnificent and sublime" to be confined to inferior subjects.—Vide Hales' Analysis, vol. ii. p. 333; Bp. Patrick in loc. The former has given a new translation, and the latter a beautiful paraphrase of this hymn. Bishop Horsley too has given a very spirited translation of this song.—Bib. Crit. vol. iv. p. 358.

the flesh was in seething, with a fleshhook of three teeth in his hand; and he struck it into the pan, or kettle, or caldron, or 14 pot; all that the fleshhook brought up the priest took for himself. So they did in Shiloh unto all the Israelites that came thither. Also before they burnt the fat, the priest's servant 15 came, and said to the man that sacrificed, Give flesh to roast for the priest; for he will not have sodden flesh of thee, but raw. And if any man said unto him, Let them not fail 16 to burn the fat ^x presently, and then take as much as thy soul desireth; then he would answer him, Nay; but thou shalt give it me now: and if not, I will take it by force ²⁰.
Wherefore the sin of the young men was very great before 17
the LORD: for men abhorred the offering of the LORD.

^y Ex. xxviii. 4. ^y But Samuel ministered before the LORD, being a child, 18 girded with a linen ephod. Moreover his mother made him 19 a little coat, and brought it to him from year to year, when she came up with her husband to offer the yearly sacrifice.

^z Or, petition which she asked, &c. And Eli blessed Elkanah and his wife, and said, The LORD 20

the LORD. And they went unto their own home. And the 21 LORD visited Hannah, so that she conceived, and bare three sons and two daughters. And the child Samuel grew before the LORD.

²⁰ The priests, according to the Mosaic ordinance, were invited to the offering feasts: when they either would not, or could not, accept the invitation, a part of it, in civility only, was sent home to them: this courtesy was at length converted into a right; and they demanded a portion of the sacrifice in the unwarrantable manner described. 1 Sam. ii. 15—17.—Michaelis' Comment. vol. i. p. 262, note.

The Call of Samuel.

I SAMUEL III.

- 1 And the child Samuel ministered unto the LORD before Eli. A.C. 1143.
 And the word of the LORD was precious in those days; there
 2 was no open vision. And it came to pass at that time, when Eli was laid down in his place, and his eyes began to wax dim, 3 that he could not see; and ere the lamp of God went out in the temple of the LORD, where the ark of God was, and 4 Samuel was laid down to *sleep*²¹; that the LORD called 5 Samuel: and he answered, Here am I. And he ran unto Eli, and said, Here am I; for thou calledst me. And he said,
 I called not; lie down again. And he went and lay down.
 6 And the LORD called yet again, Samuel. And Samuel arose and went to Eli, and said, Here am I; for thou didst call me.
 And he answered, I called not, my son; lie down again.
 7 ^a Now Samuel did not yet know the LORD, neither was the 8 word of the LORD yet revealed unto him. And the LORD called Samuel again the third time. And he arose and went to Eli, and said, Here am I; for thou didst call me. And Eli 9 perceived that the LORD had called the child. Therefore Eli said unto Samuel, Go, lie down: and it shall be, if he call thee, that thou shalt say, Speak, LORD; for thy servant heareth.
 10 So Samuel went and lay down in his place. And the LORD came, and stood, and called as at other times, Samuel, Samuel. Then Samuel answered, Speak; for thy servant
 heareth.
 11 And the LORD said to Samuel, Behold, I will do a thing in Israel, ^bat which both the ears of every one that heareth it 12 shall tingle. In that day I will perform against Eli all things which I have spoken concerning his house: ^cwhen I begin, I 13 will also make an end. ^{d e}For I have told him that I will judge his house for ever for the iniquity which he knoweth;
 because his sons made themselves ^fvile, and he ^grestrained 14 them not. And therefore I have sworn unto the house of Eli, that the iniquity of Eli's house shall not be purged with sacrifice nor offering for ever.

²¹ The Israelites had again become so corrupt, and the priesthood itself so degraded by the vices of the sons of Eli, that the oracular voice in the sanctuary given by Urim and Thummim had for some time ceased. Eli is warned of the ruin of his family, not by the usual answer from between the cherubim over the ark, but by a prophet, sent to him expressly for that purpose. There had been no open manifestation of the presence of the God of Israel since the appearance of the angel to Manoah. The expectation of Eli, however, that the angel Jehovah would again appear, is well described in his answer to Samuel, when the youthful Levite inquired if he had called him. The God of Israel in the present instance revealed himself to a child; and Eli immediately perceived that it was the angel Jehovah, the Lord, who had called him. The assertion of the inspired writer is express: the Lord came, and stood, and called, Samuel, Samuel! (1 Sam. iii. 10.) The destruction of Eli's house is now denounced; and from this period through the whole of the life of Samuel, the oracle was regularly uttered as in former times. See Exod. xxv. 32; Num. vii. 89.—Vide Hales' Analysis, vol. ii. p. 334; Horsley's Bib. Crit. vol. i. p. 317.

And Samuel lay until the morning, and opened the doors of the house of the LORD. And Samuel feared to shew Eli the vision. Then Eli called Samuel, and said, Samuel, my son. And he answered, Here am I. And he said, What is the thing that the LORD hath said unto thee? I pray thee hide it not from me: God do so to thee, and ^h more also, if thou hide any thing from me of all the things that he said unto thee. And Samuel told him ^k every whit, and hid nothing from him. And he said, It is the LORD: let him do what seemeth him good.

And Samuel grew, and the LORD was with him, and did let none of his words fall to the ground. And all Israel from Dan even to Beer-sheba knew that Samuel was ^l established to be a prophet of the LORD. And the LORD appeared again in Shiloh: for the LORD revealed himself to Samuel in Shiloh by the word of the LORD.

Marriage of Samson, and his exploits against the Philistines.

JUDGES XIV.

a Heb. she is

eyes.

And Samson went down to Timnath, and saw a woman in Timnath of the daughters of the Philistines. And he came up, and told his father and his mother, and said, I have seen a woman in Timnath of the daughters of the Philistines: now therefore get her for me to wife. Then his father and his mother said unto him, Is there never a woman among the daughters of thy brethren, or among all my people, that thou goest to take a wife of the uncircumcised Philistines? And Samson said unto his father, Get her for me; for ^a she pleaseth me well. But his father and his mother knew not that it was of the LORD, that he sought an occasion against the Philistines: for at that time the Philistines had dominion over Israel.

b Heb. in meeting him.

Then went Samson down, and his father and his mother, to Timnath, and came to the vineyards of Timnath: and, behold, a young lion roared ^b against him. And the Spirit of the LORD came mightily upon him, and he rent him as he would have rent a kid, and he had nothing in his hand: but he told not his father or his mother what he had done. And he went down, and talked with the woman; and she pleased Samson well.

And after a time he returned to take her, and he turned aside to see the carcase of the lion: and, behold, there was a swarm of bees and honey in the carcase of the lion. And he took thereof in his hands, and went on eating, and came to his father and mother, and he gave them, and they did eat: but he told not them that he had taken the honey out of the carcase of the lion.

So his father went down unto the woman: and Samson made

- 11 there a feast; for so used the young men to do. And it came ^{A.C. 1136.} to pass, when they saw him, that they brought thirty companions to be with him.
- 12 And Samson said unto them, I will now put forth a riddle unto you: if ye can certainly declare it me within the seven days of the feast, and find it out, then I will give you thirty
- 13 ^c sheets and thirty change of garments: but if ye cannot ^{c Or, shirts.} declare it me, then shall ye give me thirty sheets and thirty change of garments. And they said unto him, Put forth thy
- 14 riddle, that we may hear it. And he said unto them, Out of the eater came forth meat, and out of the strong came forth sweetness. And they could not in three days expound the
- 15 riddle. And it came to pass on the seventh day, that they said unto Samson's wife, Entice thy husband, that he may declare unto us the riddle, lest we burn thee and thy father's house with fire: have ye called us ^d to take that we have? is it
- 16 ^{d Heb. to possess us, or, to impoverish us.} not so? And Samson's wife wept before him, and said, Thou dost but hate me, and lovest me not: thou hast put forth a riddle unto the children of my people, and hast not told it me. And he said unto her, Behold, I have not told it my father nor
- 17 my mother, and shall I tell it thee? And she wept before him ^e the seven days, while their feast lasted: and it came to pass on the seventh day, that he told her, because she lay sore upon him: and she told the riddle to the children of her people.
- 18 And the men of the city said unto him on the seventh day before the sun went down, What is sweeter than honey? and what is stronger than a lion? And he said unto them, If ye had not plowed with my heifer, ye had not found out my riddle.
- 19 And the Spirit of the LORD came upon him, and he went down to Ashkelon, and slew thirty men of them, and took their ^f spoil, and gave change of garments unto them which ex- ^{f Or, apparel.} pounded the riddle. And his anger was kindled, and he went
- 20 up to his father's house. But Samson's wife was given to his companion, whom he had used as his friend.

JUDGES XV. VER. 1—19

they answered, Samson, the son in law of the Timnite, because he had taken his wife, and given her to his companion.

will I be avenged of you, and after that I will cease. And he 8 smote them hip and thigh with a great slaughter: and he went

Then the Philistines went up, and pitched in Judah, and 9 thee into their hand: but surely we will not kill thee. And

JUDGES XVI.

A.C. 1117. Then went Samson to Gaza, and saw there ^aan harlot, and went 1

Delilah said unto Samson, Behold, thou hast mocked me, and told me lies: now tell me, I pray thee, wherewith thou mightest be bound. And he said unto her, If they bind me fast with 11 ^k Heb. where-with work hath not been done. new ropes ^kthat never were occupied, then shall I be weak, and be as another man. Delilah therefore took new ropes, 12 and bound him therewith, and said unto him, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. And there were liers in wait abiding in the chamber. And he brake them from off his arms like a thread. And Delilah said unto Samson, Hitherto thou hast 13 mocked me, and told me lies: tell me wherewith thou mightest be bound. And he said unto her, If thou weavest the seven locks of my head with the web. And she fastened it with the 14 pin, and said unto him, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. And he awaked out of his sleep, and went away with the pin of the beam, and with the web.

And she said unto him, How canst thou say, I love thee, 15

- when thine heart is not with me? thou hast mocked me these ^{A.C. 1117.} three times, and hast not told me wherein thy great strength 16 lieth. And it came to pass, when she pressed him daily with her words, and urged him, so that his soul was ^{1 Heb. shortened.} vexed unto death;
 17 that he told her all his heart, and said unto her, There hath not come a razor upon mine head; for I have been a Nazarite unto God from my mother's womb: if I be shaven, then my strength will go from me, and I shall become weak, and be 18 like any other man. And when Delilah saw that he had told her all his heart, she sent and called for the lords of the Philistines, saying, Come up this once, for he hath shewed me all his heart. Then the lords of the Philistines came up unto 19 her, and brought money in their hand. And she made him sleep upon her knees; and she called for a man, and she caused him to shave off the seven locks of his head; and she began to 20 afflict him, and his strength went from him. And she said, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. And he awoke out of his sleep, and said, I will go out as at other times before, and shake myself. And he wist not that the Lord was departed from him.
- 21 But the Philistines took him, and ^{m Heb. bored out.} put out his eyes, and brought him down to Gaza, and bound him with fetters of

 23 Then the lords of the Philistines gathered them together for to offer a great sacrifice unto Dagon their god, and to rejoice: for they said, Our god hath delivered Samson our enemy into

 27 I may lean upon them. Now the house was full of men and women; and all the lords of the Philistines were there; and there were upon the roof about three thousand men and women, 28 that beheld while Samson made sport. And Samson called unto the Lord, and said, O Lord God, remember me, I pray thee, and strengthen me, I pray thee, only this once, O God, that I may be at once avenged of the Philistines for my two us: for his hand is sore upon us, and upon Dagon our god.

 They sent therefore and gathered all the lords of the Philistines 8 unto them, and said, What shall we do with the ark of the God of Israel? And they answered, Let the ark of the God of Israel be carried about unto Gath. And they carried the ark of the God of Israel about thither. And it was so, that, after they 9 had carried it about, the hand of the LORD was against the city with a very great destruction: and he smote the men of the city, both small and great, and they had emerods in their secret parts.

Therefore they sent the ark of God to Ekron. And it came 10 to pass, as the ark of God came to Ekron, that the Ekronites cried out, saying, They have brought about the ark of the God of Israel to ^c us, to slay us and our people. So they sent and 11 gathered together all the lords of the Philistines, and said, Send away the ark of the God of Israel, and let it go again to his own place, that it slay ^d us not, and our people: for there was a deadly destruction throughout all the city; the hand of God was very heavy there. And the men that died not were 12 smitten with the emerods: and the cry of the city went up to heaven.

And the ark of the LORD was in the country of the Philis- 1

 they said, If ye send away the ark of the God of Israel, send it not empty; but in any wise return him a trespass offering:
 then ye shall be healed, and it shall be known to you why his hand is not removed from you. Then said they, What shall be 4 answered, Five golden emerods, and five golden mice, accord-

1096. ²³ And it came to pass, while the ark abode in Kirjath-jearim, 2 that the time was long; for it was twenty years: and all the house of Israel lamented after the LORD.

And Samuel spake unto all the house of Israel, saying, If ye 3 do return unto the LORD with all your hearts, then ^a put away the strange gods and ^b Ashtaroth from among you, and prepare your hearts unto the LORD, and ^c serve him only: and he will deliver you out of the hand of the Philistines. Then the chil- 4 dren of Israel did put away ^d Baalim and Ashtaroth, and served the LORD only. And Samuel said, Gather all Israel to Mizpeh, 5 and I will pray for you unto the LORD. And they gathered together to Mizpeh, and drew water, and poured it out before 6 the LORD, and fasted on that day, and said there, We have sinned against the LORD. And Samuel judged the children of Israel in Mizpeh. And when the Philistines heard that the 7 children of Israel were gathered together to Mizpeh, the lords of the Philistines went up against Israel. And when the children of Israel heard it, they were afraid of the Philistines. And the children of Israel said to Samuel, ^e Cease not to cry 8 unto the LORD our God for us, that he will save us out of the hand of the Philistines.

And Samuel took a sucking lamb, and offered it for a burnt 9 offering wholly unto the LORD: and Samuel cried unto the LORD for Israel; and the LORD ^f heard him. And as Samuel 10 was offering up the burnt offering, the Philistines drew near to battle against Israel: but the LORD thundered with a great thunder on that day upon the Philistines, and discomfited them; and they were smitten before Israel. And the men of Israel 11 went out of Mizpeh, and pursued the Philistines, and smote them, until they came under Beth-car. Then Samuel took a 12 stone, and set it between Mizpeh and Shen, and called the name of it ^g Eben-ezer, saying, Hitherto hath the LORD helped us.

So the Philistines were subdued, and they came no more 13

²³ The meaning is not, that the ark was at Kirjath-jearim only twenty years; but that twenty years elapsed before the people received from Samuel any hope of Jehovah's interposition for their deliverance. The expression (1 Sam. vii. 1.) "the men of Kirjath-jearim came, and fetched up the ark of the Lord, and brought it into the house of Abinadab in the hill," means that they removed it, not from the city altogether, but to the highest part, the citadel, which was consecrated to its service. The word Kirjath-jearim signifies 'the city of the woods.' The continuance of the ark in this place explains the difficulty in Psalm cxxxii. 6. "We heard of the ark at Ephratah, or Shiloh in Ephraim; and found it at Kirjath-jearim, the fields of the wood."—Dr. Wells, vol. ii. in loc.; Bishop Patrick in loc.; Horsley's Bib. ²⁴ The laws of Moses will appear to be drawn up with the most perfect wisdom. Knowing the changeableness of the human mind, he had anticipated the decision to which the people had now arrived by demanding a king. He specifies, therefore, (Deut. xvii. 14, &c.) the duties the king was required to perform; and Samuel, at the coronation of Saul, prepared a writing in which the powers and privileges of the sovereign were distinctly laid down; and this writing was carefully deposited in the sanctuary. Nevertheless the people refused to obey the voice of Samuel; 19 and they said, Nay; but we will have a king over us; that we 20 also may be like all the nations; and that our king may judge us, and go out before us, and fight our battles. And Samuel 21 heard all the words of the people, and he rehearsed them in the ears of the LORD. And the LORD said to Samuel, Harken 22 unto their voice, and make them a king. Now there was a man of Benjamin, whose name was ^a Kish, 1 the son of Abiel, the son of Zeror, the son of Bechorath, the son of Aphiah, ^b a Benjamite, a mighty man of ^c power. And 2 he had a son, whose name was Saul, a choice young man, and a goodly: and there was not among the children of Israel a goodlier person than he: from his shoulders and upward he 3 was higher than any of the people. And the asses of Kish Saul's father were lost. And Kish said to Saul his son, Take now one of the servants with thee, and arise, go seek the asses. And he passed through mount Ephraim, and passed through 4 the land of Shalisha, but they found them not: then they passed through the land of Shalim, and there they were not: and he passed through the land of the Benjamites, but they found them not. And when they were come to the land of 5 Züph, Saul said to his servant that was with him, Come, and let us return; lest my father leave caring for the asses, and take thought for us. And he said unto him, Behold 6 now, there is in this city a man of God, and he is an honourable man; all that he saith cometh surely to pass: now let - us go thither; peradventure he can shew us our way that we ^{A.C. 1095.} should go. Then said Saul to his servant, But, behold, if we go, what shall we bring the man? for the bread ^a is spent in our vessels, and there is not a present to bring to the man ^{d Heb. is gone out of, &c.} of God: what ^e have we? And the servant answered Saul again, and said, Behold, ^f I have here at hand the fourth part of a shekel of silver: that will I give to the man of God, ^{g Heb. is with us.} to tell us our way. (Beforetime in Israel, when a man went to enquire of God, thus he spake, Come, and let us go to the seer: for he that is now called a Prophet was beforetime called ^{h Heb. there is found in my hand.} a Seer.) Then said Saul to his servant, ⁱ Well said; come, let us go. So they went unto the city where the man of God ^{g Heb. Thy word is good.} was.

- 11 And as they went up ^h the hill to the city, they found young maidens going out to draw water, and said unto them, Is the ^{h Heb. in the ascent of the city.} seer here? Now therefore get you up; for about ^k this time ye shall find him. ^{k Heb. to day.}
- 14 And they went up into the city: and when they were come into the city, behold, Samuel came out against them, for to go up to the high place.
- 15 ¹ Now the LORD had ^m told Samuel in his ear a day before ^j Saul came, saying, To morrow about this time I will send thee ^{j ch. xv. 1. And when Samuel saw Saul, the LORD said unto him, Behold the man whom I spake to thee of! this same shall ⁿ reign over my ^{n Heb. restrain in.} people. Then Saul drew near to Samuel in the gate, and said, Tell me, I pray thee, where the seer's house is. And Samuel answered Saul, and said, I am the seer: go up before me unto the high place; for ye shall eat with me to day, and to morrow I will let thee go, and will tell thee all that is in thine heart.
- 20 And as for thine asses that were lost ^o three days ago, set not thy mind on them; for they are found. And on whom is all the desire of Israel? Is it not on thee, and on all thy father's ^{o Heb. to day three days.} house? And Saul answered and said, Am not I a Benjamite, of the smallest of the tribes of Israel? and my family the least of all the families of the tribe of Benjamin? wherefore then ^p speakest thou ^{p Heb. according to this word.} so to me? And Samuel took Saul and his servant, and brought them into the parlour, and made them sit in the chiefest place among them that were bidden, which were the portion which I gave thee, of which I said unto thee, Set it that which is ^a left! set it before thee, and eat: for unto this time hath it been kept for thee since I said, I have invited the people. So Saul did eat with Samuel that day.

And when they were come down from the high place into the 25 city, Samuel communed with Saul upon the top of the house.
 And they arose early: and it came to pass about the spring of 26
 the day, that Samuel called Saul to the top of the house, saying, Up, that I may send thee away. And Saul arose, and they went out both of them, he and Samuel, abroad. And as they 27 were going down to the end of the city, Samuel said to Saul,

 14 And Saul's uncle said unto him and to his servant, Whither went ye? And he said, To seek the asses: and when we saw 15 that they were no where, we came to Samuel. And Saul's uncle said, Tell me, I pray thee, what Samuel said unto you.
 16 And Saul said unto his uncle, He told us plainly that the asses were found. But of the matter of the kingdom, whereof Samuel spake, he told him not.
 17 And Samuel called the people together unto the LORD to 18 Mizpeh; and said unto the children of Israel, Thus saith the LORD God of Israel, I brought up Israel out of Egypt, and delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the 19 hand of all kingdoms, and of them that oppressed you: and ye have this day rejected your God, who himself saved you out of all your adversities and your tribulations; and ye have said unto him, Nay, but set a king over us. Now therefore present yourselves before the LORD by your tribes, and by your thou-20 sands. And when Samuel had caused all the tribes of Israel to 21 come near, the tribe of Benjamin was taken. When he had caused the tribe of Benjamin to come near by their families, the family of Matri was taken, and Saul the son of Kish was taken: and when they sought him, he could not be found.
 22 Therefore they enquired of the LORD further, if the man should yet come thither. And the LORD answered, Behold, 23 he hath hid himself among the stuff. And they ran and fetched him thence: and when he stood among the people, he was higher than any of the people from his shoulders and up-24 ward. And Samuel said to all the people, See ye him whom the LORD hath chosen, that there is none like him among all the people? And all the people shouted, and said, ^f God save ^f ^{Heb. Let} kingdom, and wrote it in a book, and laid it up before the LORD. And Samuel sent all the people away, every man to his house.

 26 And Saul also went home to Gibeah; and there went with 27 him a band of men, whose hearts God had touched. But the children of Belial said, How shall this man save us? And they

§ 2. Wars of Saul.

1 SAMUEL XI.

1 Nahash offereth them of Jabesh-gilead a reproachful condition. 4 They send messengers, and are delivered by Saul. 12 Saul thereby is confirmed, and his kingdom renewed.

Then Nahash the Ammonite came up, and encamped against 1
Jabesh-gilead: and all the men of Jabesh said unto Nahash, Make a covenant with us, and we will serve thee. And Nahash 2 the Ammonite answered them, On this condition will I make a covenant with you, that I may thrust out all your right eyes, and lay it for a reproach upon all Israel. And the elders of 3 Jabesh said unto him, ^a Give us seven days' respite, that we may send messengers unto all the coasts of Israel: and then, if there be no man to save us, we will come out to thee.

^a Heb. Forbear us.

Then came the messengers to Gibeah of Saul, and told the 4 tidings in the ears of the people: and all the people lifted up their voices, and wept. And, behold, Saul came after the herd 5 out of the field; and Saul said, What aileth the people that they weep? And they told him the tidings of the men of Jabesh.
And the Spirit of God came upon Saul when he heard those 6 tidings, and his anger was kindled greatly. And he took a 7 yoke of oxen, and hewed them in pieces, and sent them throughout all the coasts of Israel by the hands of messengers, saying, Whosoever cometh not forth after Saul and after Samuel, so shall it be done unto his oxen. And the fear of the LORD fell on the people, and they came out ^b with one consent.
And when he numbered them in Bezek, the children of 8
Israel were three hundred thousand, and the men of Judah thirty thousand. And they said unto the messengers that came, 9
Thus shall ye say unto the men of Jabesh-gilead, To morrow, by that time the sun be hot, ye shall have ^c help. And the messengers came and shewed it to the men of Jabesh; and they were glad. Therefore the men of Jabesh said, To morrow 10 we will come out unto you, and ye shall do with us all that seemeth good unto you. And it was so on the morrow, that 11 Saul put the people in three companies; and they came into the midst of the host in the morning watch, and slew the Ammon-ites until the heat of the day: and it came to pass, that they which remained were scattered, so that two of them were not left together.

And the people said unto Samuel, Who is he that said, Shall 12 Saul reign over us? bring the men, that we may put them to death. And Saul said, there shall not a man be put to death 13 this day: for to day the LORD hath wrought salvation in Israel.
Then said Samuel to the people, Come, and let us go to Gilgal, 14 and renew the kingdom there. And all the people went to 15

Gilgal; and there they made Saul king before the LORD in A.C. 1095.
 Gilgal; and there they sacrificed sacrifices of peace offerings before the LORD; and there Saul and all the men of Israel rejoiced greatly.

And all the people said unto Samuel, Pray for 19 thy servants unto the LORD thy God, that we die not: for we have added unto all our sins this evil, to ask us a king.

And Samuel said unto the people, Fear not: ye have done 20 all this wickedness: yet turn not aside from following the LORD, but serve the LORD with all your heart; and turn ye 21 not aside: for then should ye go after vain things, which cannot profit nor deliver; for they are vain. For the LORD will not 22 forsake his people for his great name's sake: because it hath pleased the LORD to make you his people. Saul ^s reigned one year; and when he had reigned two years 1 over Israel, Saul chose him three thousand men of Israel; 2 whereof two thousand were with Saul in Michmash and in mount Beth-el, and a thousand were with Jonathan in Gibeah of Benjamin: and the rest of the people he sent every man to his tent. And Jonathan smote the garrison of the Philistines 3 that was in ^t Geba, and the Philistines heard of it. And Saul blew the trumpet throughout all the land, saying, Let the Hebrews hear. And all Israel heard say that Saul had smitten 4 a garrison of the Philistines, and that Israel also ^u was had in abomination with the Philistines. And the people were called together after Saul to Gilgal.

When the men of Israel saw that they were in a strait, (for the people were distressed,) then the people did hide themselves in caves, and in thickets, and in rocks, and in high places, and in pits. And some of the Hebrews went over Jordan to the land of Gad and Gilead. As for Saul, he was yet in Gilgal, and all the people ^x followed him trembling. A.C. 1093.

- 8 ^y And he tarried seven days, according to the set time that Samuel had appointed: but Samuel came not to Gilgal; and the people were scattered from him. And Saul said, Bring hither a burnt offering to me, and peace offerings. And he offered the burnt offering. And it came to pass, that as soon as he had made an end of offering the burnt offering, behold, Samuel came; and Saul went out to meet him, that he might ^z salute him. y ch. x. 8.

- 11 And Samuel said, What hast thou done? And Saul said, Because I saw that the people were scattered from me, and that thou camest not within the days appointed, and that the Philistines gathered themselves together at Michmash; therefore said I, The Philistines will come down now upon me to Gilgal, and I have not ^a made supplication unto the LORD: I forced myself therefore, and offered a burnt offering. And Samuel said to Saul, Thou hast done foolishly: thou hast not kept the commandment of the LORD thy God, which he commanded thee: for now would the LORD have established thy kingdom upon Israel for ever. But now thy kingdom shall not continue: the LORD hath sought him a man after his own heart, and the LORD hath commanded him to be captain over his people, because thou hast not kept that which the LORD commanded thee. And Samuel arose, and gat him up from Gilgal unto Gibeah of Benjamin. And Saul numbered the people that were ^b present with him, ^c about six hundred men. - 19 Now there was no smith found throughout all the land of Israel: for the Philistines said, Lest the Hebrews make them swords or spears: But all the Israelites went down to the Philistines, to sharpen every man his share, and his coulter, and his ax, and his mattock. ²⁵ What was this ark of God which Saul commands the priests to bring ? The ark of the covenant was at Kirjath-jearim : and the Israelites had been already punished for removing it from Shiloh without permission. From the latter part of this first book of Samuel it appears, that, during Saul's life, both Saul and David were possessed at the same time of the instruments of oracular consultation ; of which the ark, with the cherubic emblems, formed an essential part. Mr. Hutchinson's opinion, then, that there were more emblematic arks than one, deserves great attention.—Hutchinson's Works, vol. vi. p. 148—151, quoted by Horsley, Bib. Crit. vol. i. p. 328.

A.C. 1093. fore he put forth the end of the rod that was in his hand, and dipped it in an honeycomb, and put his hand to his mouth; and his eyes were enlightened. Then answered one of the 28 people, and said, Thy father straitly charged the people with an oath, saying, Cursed be the man that eateth any food this day. And the people were ^u faint. Then said Jonathan, My 29 father hath troubled the land: see, I pray you, how mine eyes have been enlightened, because I tasted a little of this honey. How much more, if haply the people had eaten freely to day 30 of the spoil of their enemies which they found? for had there not been now a much greater slaughter among the Philistines? And they smote the Philistines that day from Michmash to 31 Aijalon: and the people were very faint. And the people 32 flew upon the spoil, and took sheep, and oxen, and calves, and ^x slew them on the ground: and the people did eat them ^x with the blood.

Then they told Saul, saying, Behold, the people sin against 33 the LORD, in that they eat with the blood. And he said, Ye have ^y transgressed: roll a great stone unto me this day. And 34 Saul said, Disperse yourselves among the people, and say unto them, Bring me hither every man his ox, and every man his sheep, and slay them here, and eat; and sin not against the LORD in eating with the blood. And Saul said, Let us go down after the Philistines by 36 night, and spoil them until the morning light, and let us not leave a man of them. And they said, Do whatsoever seemeth good unto thee. Then said the priest, Let us draw near hither unto God. And Saul asked counsel of God, Shall I go down 37 after the Philistines? wilt thou deliver them into the hand of Israel? But he answered him not that day. And Saul said, 38 Draw ye near hither, all the ^b chief of the people: and know and see wherein this sin hath been this day. For, as the LORD 39 liveth, which saveth Israel, though it be in Jonathan my son, he shall surely die. But there was not a man among all the people that answered him. Then said he unto all Israel, Be 40 ye on one side, and I and Jonathan my son will be on the other side. And the people said unto Saul, Do what seemeth good unto thee. Therefore Saul said unto the LORD God of 41 Israel, ^c Give a perfect lot. And Saul and Jonathan were taken: but the people ^d escaped. And Saul said, Cast lots 42 between me and Jonathan my son. And Jonathan was taken. Then Saul said to Jonathan, Tell me what thou hast done. 43 And Jonathan told him, and said, I did but taste a little honey with the end of the rod that was in mine hand, and, lo, I must die. And Saul answered, God do so and more also: for thou 44

45 shalt surely die, Jonathan. And the people said unto Saul, A.C. 1093.
 Shall Jonathan die, who hath wrought this great salvation in Israel? God forbid: as the LORD liveth, there shall not one hair of his head fall to the ground; for he hath wrought with God this day. So the people rescued Jonathan, that he died 46 not. Then Saul went up from following the Philistines: and the Philistines went to their own place.

47 So Saul took the kingdom over Israel, and fought against all his enemies on every side, against Moab, and against the

 It repenteth me that I have set up Saul to be king: for he is 11

 the LORD all night. And when Samuel rose early to meet 12 Saul in the morning, it was told Samuel, saying, Saul came to Carmel, and, behold, he set him up a place, and is gone about, and passed on, and gone down to Gilgal. And Samuel came 13 to Saul: and Saul said unto him, Blessed be thou of the LORD:
 I have performed the commandment of the LORD. And 14 Samuel said, What meaneth then this bleating of the sheep in mine ears, and the lowing of the oxen which I hear? And 15 Saul said, They have brought them from the Amalekites: for the people spared the best of the sheep and of the oxen, to sacrifice unto the LORD thy God; and the rest we have utterly destroyed. Then Samuel said unto Saul, Stay, and I will tell 16 thee what the LORD hath said to me this night. And he said unto him, Say on. And Samuel said, When thou wast little in 17 thine own sight, wast thou not made the head of the tribes of Israel, and the LORD anointed thee king over Israel? And the 18 LORD sent thee on a journey, and said, Go and utterly destroy the sinners the Amalekites, and fight against them until ^lthey be consumed. Wherefore then didst thou not 19 obey the voice of the LORD, but didst fly upon the spoil, and didst evil in the sight of the LORD? And Saul said unto 20 Samuel, Yea, I have obeyed the voice of the LORD, and have gone the way which the LORD sent me, and have brought Agag the king of Amalek, and have utterly destroyed the Amalekites. But the people took of the spoil, sheep and oxen, 21 the chief of the things which should have been utterly destroyed, to sacrifice unto the LORD thy God in Gilgal. And 22 Samuel said, Hath the LORD as great delight in burnt offerings and sacrifices, as in obeying the voice of the LORD?
 Behold, ^mto obey is better than sacrifice, and to hearken than the fat of rams. For rebellion is as the sin of ⁿwitchcraft, and 23

And Saul said unto Samuel, I have sinned: for I have 24 because I feared the people, and obeyed their voice. Now 25 therefore, I pray thee, pardon my sin, and turn again with me, that I may worship the LORD. And Samuel said unto Saul, 26

I will not return with thee: for thou hast rejected the word of the LORD, and the LORD hath rejected thee from being king over Israel. And as Samuel turned about to go away, he laid hold upon the skirt of his mantle, and it rent. So Samuel turned again after Saul; and Saul worshipped the LORD.

Then said Samuel, Bring ye hither to me Agag the king of the Amalekites. And Agag came unto him delicately. And Agag said, Surely the bitterness of death is past. And Samuel said, ^{p Ex. xvii. 11. Then Samuel went to Ramah; and Saul went up to his house to Gibeah of Saul. And Samuel came no more to see Saul until the day of his death: nevertheless Samuel mourned for Saul: and the LORD repented that he had made Saul king over Israel.

and let him come down to me. If he be able to fight with me, 9 and to kill me, then will we be your servants: but if I prevail against him, and kill him, then shall ye be our servants, and

Saul and all Israel heard those words of the Philistine, they were dismayed, and greatly afraid.

15 eldest followed Saul. But David went and returned from 16 Saul to feed his father's sheep at Beth-lehem. And the Philistine drew near morning and evening, and presented himself 17 forty days. And Jesse said unto David his son, Take now him; and he came to the ^htrench, as the host was going forth 21 to the ⁱfight, and shouted for the battle. For Israel and the Philistines had put the battle in array, army against army.

22 And David left ^khis carriage in the hand of the keeper of the 23 brethren. And as he talked with them, behold, there came up the champion, the Philistine of Gath, Goliath by name, out of the armies of the Philistines, and spake according to the same 24 words: and David heard them. And all the men of Israel, when they saw the man, fled ^mfrom him, and were sore afraid.

25 And the men of Israel said, Have ye seen this man that is come up? surely to defy Israel is he come up: and it shall be, that the man who killeth him, the king will enrich him with great riches, and ⁿwill give him his daughter, and make his that stood by him, saying, What shall be done to the man that killeth this Philistine, and taketh away the reproach from Israel? for who is this uncircumcised Philistine, that he should him after this manner, saying, So shall it be done to the man said, Why camest thou down hither? and with whom hast thou

1 SAMUEL XVII. VER. 55, 56 ²⁶.

And when Saul saw David go forth against the Philistine, 55 he said unto Abner, the captain of the host, Abner, whose son

²⁶ Towards the conclusion of 1 Sam. xvi. we read that Saul sent messengers unto Jesse, saying, "Send David thy son." Pursuant to this order, David played on the harp before the king, when the evil spirit of melancholy was upon him. Saul loved him greatly, and he became his armour-bearer, and resided constantly at his court; for Saul sent a second message to Jesse: "Let David, I pray thee, stand before me; for he hath found favour in my sight." Yet in verse 55 of the next chapter, we read that Saul inquired of Abner, Whose son was the conqueror of Goliath? He speaks of him as an entire stranger; and Abner, to gratify the king's curiosity, introduces David to him after the combat, with the head of the Philistine in his hand. Bishops Warburton and Hall suppose that the encounter with Goliath took place before David was required to play the harp before Saul; and this solution of the difficulty is espoused by Bp. Horsley, whose arguments are so satisfactory, that I insert his own words. 'It appears, indeed, from many circumstances of the story, that David's combat with Goliath was many years prior in order of time to Saul's madness, and to David's introduction to him as a musician. 1st. David was quite a youth when he engaged Goliath, (verses 33, 42.); when he was introduced to Saul, as a musician, he was of full age, (chap. xvi. 18.) 2dly. His combat with Goliath was his first appearance in public life, (ver. 56), [הָרָעָלָה]; when he was introduced as a musician, he was a man of established character, (ch. xvi. 18.) 3dly. His combat with Goliath was his first military exploit, (verses 38, 39). He was a man of war when he was introduced as a musician, (ch. xvi. 18.) He was unknown both to Saul and Abner at the time when he fought Goliath. He had not, therefore, yet been in the office of Saul's armour-bearer, or resident in any capacity at the court. Now the just conclusion from these circumstances is, not that these twenty verses are an interpolation, but that the last ten verses of the preceding chapter, which

1 SAMUEL XVII. VER. 41—54.

41 And the Philistine came on and drew near unto David; and 42 the man that bare the shield went before him. And when the Philistine looked about, and saw David, he disdained him: for 43 he was but a youth, and ruddy, and of a fair countenance. And the Philistine said unto David, Am I a dog, that thou comest to me with staves? And the Philistine cursed David by his gods.
 44 And the Philistine said to David, Come to me, and I will give thy flesh unto the fowls of the air, and to the beasts of the field.
 45 Then said David to the Philistine, Thou comest to me with a sword, and with a spear, and with a shield: but I come to thee in the name of the LORD of hosts, the God of the armies of 46 Israel, whom thou hast defied. This day will the LORD deliver saveth not with sword and spear: for the battle is the LORD's, 48 and he will give you into our hands. And it came to pass, when the Philistine arose, and came and drew nigh to meet David, that David hasted, and ran toward the army to meet the 49 Philistine. And David put his hand in his bag, and took thence a stone, and slang it, and smote the Philistine in his relate Saul's madness and David's introduction to the court upon that occasion, are misplaced. The true place for these ten verses seems to be between the 9th and the 10th of the eighteenth chapter. 1 SAMUEL XVIII. VER. 1—4.

And it came to pass, when he had made an end of speaking 1 unto Saul, that the soul of Jonathan was knit with the soul of David, and Jonathan loved him as his own soul. And Saul 2 took him that day, and would let him go no more home to his father's house. Then Jonathan and David made a covenant, 3 because he loved him as his own soul. And Jonathan stripped 4 himself of the robe that was upon him, and gave it to David, and his garments, even to his sword, and to his bow, and to his

PSALM IX ²⁷.Written on the Victory over Goliath.

1 David praiseth God for executing of judgment. 11 He inciteth others to praise him.
13 He prayeth that he may have cause to praise him.

To the chief Musician upon Muth-labben, A Psalm of David.

I will praise thee, O LORD, with my whole heart; I will shew 1 forth all thy marvellous works.

I will be glad and rejoice in thee: I will sing praise to thy 2
name, O thou most High.

²⁷ The ninth Psalm is inserted here on the authority of the Chaldee paraphrast. It is entitled, to the chief musician לבן מות, on Muth-labben. Lightfoot translates this phrase, "upon the death of the champion;" and Goliath, in the Authorized Version, (1 Sam. xvii. 4.) is called a "champion." The original, וַיָּאֵשׁ הַבָּנִים מִמָּהֵרָא, signifies, "and there came out a man between the two camps;" or, as the margin of Arias Montanus' Bible reads, יָצָא בֵּן, stans inter duas acies. The Chaldee paraphrast accordingly interprets the words, על מות לבן, thus: "upon the death of the man that came out between the two armies:" (that is, on the death of the champion Goliath of Gath), על מיתרתא דגברא רי נפק מביני משרייתא. In D'Oyly and Mant's Bible three various authorities are quoted on the title of this Psalm; Bp. Horne, Dimock, and Dr. S. Clarke. Bp. Horne imagines it was composed to celebrate some victory; but what, is unknown. Dimock mentions the tradition, that Labben was the name of a prince or chief in the enemies' army: and Dr. S. Clarke supposes it to be the title of a tune. Dr. Gray places the Psalm among those composed by David after his accession. Calmet conjectures that it was written and sung by David on the occasion of removing the ark from the house of Obed edom to Mount Zion. Among these contending authorities, (if different conjectures, supported by great names, can be so called), I have preferred the decision of Lightfoot. With respect to the rest of the Psalms, I shall merely notice the authority which may have induced me to give them their respective places, without entering into a variety of criticisms and opinions.

^f Or, terrified.

But the Spirit of the LORD departed from Saul, and an evil 14 spirit from the LORD ^f troubled him. And Saul's servants said 15 unto him, Behold now, an evil spirit from God troubleth thee.

thee, to seek out a man, who is a cunning player on an harp:
and it shall come to pass, when the evil spirit from God is upon thee, that he shall play with his hand, and thou shalt be well.
And Saul said unto his servants, Provide me now a man that 17 can play well, and bring him to me. Then answered one of 18 the servants, and said, Behold, I have seen a son of Jesse the Beth-lehemite, that is cunning in playing, and a mighty valiant man, and a man of war, and prudent in ^g matters, and a comely person, and the LORD is with him.

Wherefore Saul sent messengers unto Jesse, and said, Send 19 me David thy son, which is with the sheep. And Jesse took 20 an ass laden with bread, and a bottle of wine, and a kid, and sent them by David his son unto Saul. And David came to 21 Saul, and stood before him: and he loved him greatly; and he became his armourbearer. And Saul sent to Jesse, saying, Let 22 David, I pray thee, stand before me; for he hath found favour in my sight. And it came to pass, when the evil spirit from 23 God was upon Saul, that David took an harp, and played with his hand: so Saul was refreshed, and was well, and the evil spirit departed from him.

1 SAMUEL XVIII. VER. 10, TO THE END.

And it came to pass on the morrow, that the evil spirit from 10
God came upon Saul, and he prophesied in the midst of the house: and David played with his hand, as at other times: and there was a javelin in Saul's hand. And Saul cast the javelin; 11 for he said, I will smite David even to the wall with it. And David avoided out of his presence twice.

And Saul was afraid of David, because the LORD was with 12 him, and was departed from Saul. Therefore Saul removed 13 him from him, and made him his captain over a thousand; and he went out and came in before the people. And David ^h be- 14

²⁸ In confirmation of Bishop Horsley's arrangement, (vide Note 26) it may be observed, that it is probable David might retire from court on discovering the jealousy excited in the mind of Saul after the songs and dances of the women; (1 Sam. xviii. 6,) he might have gone home to his father, and returned only to the court when the malady of his sovereign required his presence. The apparent capriciousness of Saul's conduct probably arose from the sudden returns of his disorder; and at other times from the suspicions he might entertain towards the anointed successor of his crown.

16 wisely, he was afraid of him. But all Israel and Judah loved David, because he went out and came in before them. A.C. 1062.

17 And Saul said to David, Behold my elder daughter Merab, her will I give thee to wife: only be thou ¹valiant for me, and fight the LORD's battles. For Saul said, Let not mine hand be upon him, but let the hand of the Philistines be upon him. ⁱ Heb. a son of valour.

18 And David said unto Saul, Who am I? and what is my life, or my father's family in Israel, that I should be son in law to 19 the king? But it came to pass at the time when Merab Saul's daughter should have been given to David, that she was given

20 unto Adriel the Meholahite to wife. And Michal Saul's daughter loved David: and they told Saul, and the thing

21 ^kpleased him. And Saul said, I will give him her, that she may be a snare to him, and that the hand of the Philistines may be against him. Wherefore Saul said to David, Thou shalt this day be my son in law in the one of the twain. ^k Heb. was right in his eyes.

22 And Saul commanded his servants, saying, Commune with David secretly, and say, Behold, the king hath delight in thee, and all his servants love thee: now therefore be the king's son in law. And Saul's servants spake those words in the ears of David. And David said, Seemeth it to you a light thing to be a king's son in law, seeing that I am a poor man, and lightly

24 esteemed? And the servants of Saul told him, saying, ¹On this manner spake David. And Saul said, Thus shall ye say to David, The king desireth not any dowry, but an hundred foreskins of the Philistines, to be avenged of the king's enemies. But Saul thought to make David fall by the hand of 26 the Philistines. And when his servants told David these words, it pleased David well to be the king's son in law: and the days

27 were not ^mexpired. Wherefore David arose and went, he and his men, and slew of the Philistines two hundred men; and

David brought their foreskins, and they gave them in full tale to the king, that he might be the king's son in law. And Saul gave him Michal his daughter to wife. ⁿ Heb. fulfilled.

28 And Saul saw and knew that the LORD was with David, and that Michal Saul's daughter loved him. And Saul was yet the more afraid of David; and Saul became David's enemy

³⁰ The date of David's marriage with Michal is uncertain. Dr. Hales supposes that five years elapsed between his conquest of Goliath and his marriage; because that time appears to him requisite for the intervening events, and for the establishment of the popularity and character of David. The marriage and the victory over Goliath are supposed in the Bible Chronology to have occurred in the same year. It is probable, however, that it took place some time after the overthrow of the champion of Gath; as David, according to Bishop Horsley's supposition, returned home to his father, and was again invited to court, and made the armour-bearer of Saul. This was a post of confidence and affection; and while David continued in it, he greatly distinguished himself in war, and ingratiated himself with the people. The affections of Saul, however, soon changed; but the son of Jesse still continued firmly established in the hearts of the people. It was attempted, therefore, to remove him by stratagem. The king's daughter was offered him in marriage, on condition that he killed a certain number of the enemy. But this exposure to danger, instead of the desired effect, only served to increase his fame; and he became the son in law of Saul. It is not probable that all these events could have happened in one year; but still five are not required; for if so long a space was given to his residence at the court of Saul, we should too much abridge the time assigned to his wandering in the wilderness, in the hill country, &c. I have on these grounds, therefore, rejected the date given in the Bible Chronology, as well as that of Dr. Hales; and allowed three years from the victory over Goliath till the marriage, and flight, by means of Michal, from the court of Saul. Vide Hales' Anal. vol. ii. p. 351.

§ 6. David flies to Ramah.

1 SAMUEL XIX. VER. 18, TO THE END.

So David fled, and escaped, and came to Samuel to Ramah, 18 and told him all that Saul had done to him. And he and Samuel went and dwelt in Naioth. And it was told Saul, 19 saying, Behold, David is at Naioth in Ramah. And Saul sent 20 messengers to take David: and when they saw the company of the prophets prophesying, and Samuel standing as appointed over them, the Spirit of God was upon the messengers of Saul, and they also prophesied. And when it was told Saul, he sent 21 other messengers, and they prophesied likewise. And Saul sent messengers again the third time, and they prophesied also.
Then went he also to Ramah, and came to a great well that is 22 in Sechu: and he asked and said, Where are Samuel and David? And one said, Behold, they be at Naioth in Ramah.
And he went thither to Naioth in Ramah: and the Spirit 23 of God was upon him also, and he went on, and prophesied, until he came to Naioth in Ramah. And he stripped off his 24 clothes also, and prophesied before Samuel in like manner, and ³² Bishop Horsley is of opinion that Samuel died about this time, and that, at his death, David fled from Ramah; for in all his ensuing difficulties David consulted Ahimelech, and not Samuel, as he had been accustomed to do (ch. xxi.), or Gad (xxii. 5.), or Abiathar (xxxiii. 9. 12.). I have not, however, altered the Bible arrangement upon these conjectural reasons. Samuel was now ninety years of age. He might have been rendered by infirmity incapable of directing David. In addition to which, it must be remembered that, immediately on Samuel's death, we read that David fled to the wilderness. (1 Sam. xxv. 1.) The mere existence of Samuel, from the prophet's influence in the towns and cities of Israel, seems to have been a defence to David.—Horsley, Bib. Crit. in loc.

A.C. 1061. and much more to Jonathan : but if it please my father to do thee evil, then I will shew it thee, and send thee away, that thou mayest go in peace : and the LORD be with thee, as he hath been with my father. And thou shalt not only while yet 14 I live shew me the kindness of the LORD, that I die not : but 15 also thou shalt not cut off thy kindness from my house for ever : no, not when the LORD hath cut off the enemies of David every one from the face of the earth. So Jonathan ^k made a 16 covenant with the house of David, saying, Let the LORD even require it at the hand of David's enemies. And Jonathan 17 caused David to swear again, ¹because he loved him : for he loved him as he loved his own soul. Then Jonathan said to 18 David, To morrow is the new moon : and thou shalt be missed, because thy seat will be ^mempty. And when thou hast stayed 19 three days, then thou shalt go down ⁿquickly, and come to the place where thou didst hide thyself ^pwhen the business was in hand, and shalt remain by the stone ^qEzel. And I will 20 shoot three arrows on the side thereof, as though I shot at a mark. And, behold, I will send a lad, saying, Go, find out the 21 arrows. If I expressly say unto the lad, Behold, the arrows are on this side of thee, take them ; then come thou : for there is peace to thee, and ^rno hurt ; as the LORD liveth. But if I 22 say thus unto the young man, Behold, the arrows are beyond thee ; go thy way : for the LORD hath sent thee away. And 23 as touching the matter which thou and I have spoken of, behold, the LORD be between thee and me for ever.

So David hid himself in the field : and when the new moon 24 was come, the king sat him down to eat meat. And the king sat 25 upon his seat, as at other times, even upon a seat by the wall : and Jonathan arose, and Abner sat by Saul's side, and David's place was empty. Nevertheless Saul spake not any thing that 26 day : for he thought, Something hath befallen him, he is not clean ; surely he is not clean. And it came to pass on the 27 morrow, which was the second day of the month, that David's place was empty : and Saul said unto Jonathan his son, Wherefore cometh not the son of Jesse to meat, neither yesterday, nor to day ? And Jonathan answered Saul, David earnestly 28 asked leave of me to go to Beth-lehem : and he said, Let me 29 go, I pray thee ; for our family hath a sacrifice in the city ; and my brother, he hath commanded me to be there : and now, if I have found favour in thine eyes, let me get away, I pray thee, and see my brethren. Therefore he cometh not unto the king's table. Then Saul's anger was kindled against Jonathan, 30 and he said unto him, ^st Thou son of the perverse rebellious woman, do not I know that thou hast chosen the son of Jesse to thine own confusion, and unto the confusion of thy mother's nakedness ? For as long as the son of Jesse liveth upon the 31 ground, thou shalt not be established, nor thy kingdom.

 34 to slay David. So Jonathan arose from the table in fierce anger, and did eat no meat the second day of the month: for he was grieved for David, because his father had done him shame.

35 And it came to pass in the morning, that Jonathan went out into the field at the time appointed with David, and a 36 little lad with him. And he said unto his lad, Run, find out now the arrows which I shoot. And as the lad ran, he shot an 37 arrow ^x beyond him. And when the lad was come to the place of the arrow which Jonathan had shot, Jonathan cried after the 38 lad, and said, Is not the arrow beyond thee? And Jonathan cried after the lad, Make speed, haste, stay not. And Jonathan's lad gathered up the arrows, and came to his master.

³³ Calmet, Gray, and Wells, assign the date of these Psalms to the persecution of David by Saul. The titles prefixed to them in the Hebrew text, though they do not form a part of the Psalm, and may possibly be spurious, are undoubtedly very ancient, and may be considered a better authority for the insertion of the Psalms in their respective places, than the conjectures of later authors. Psalms lvi. and xxxiv. are therefore inserted in this Section on the authority of Lightfoot, and their titles. The title of the xxxivth Psalm informs us that it was composed when David was sent away by Abimelech, on his feigning himself mad. (1 Sam. xxi. 13.) But we read that the king of Gath was called Achish; Dr. Kennicott therefore supposes that Abimelech was the common title of the kings of Gath, in the same way as Pharaoh was of the kings of Egypt; and that Achish was only his individual name. That David was an inspired prophet, is evident from the prediction contained in the twentieth and twenty-first verses, that not a bone of Him (the Messiah) shall be broken. The pious Jews were continually looking forward to the Messiah; and they must have been as well aware of the meaning of these passages in the writings of those who were from time to time endued with the spirit of prophecy, as we ourselves are of the meaning of many of the predictions in the book of the Apocalypse. That is, their faith was kept in exercise by the glimpses given them of the future, though they could not entirely comprehend the precise signification of every figurative expression. Their faith, like ours, "was the substance of things not seen;" and "they walked by faith, and not by sight."

And David went thence to Mizpeh of Moab: and he said 3 do for me. And he brought them before the king of Moab: 4 and they dwelt with him all the while that David was in the

 David departed, and came into the forest of Hareth.

³⁵ Several passages of the first book of Chronicles, and the second book of Samuel, relate the same events, and repeat the same catalogues of illustrious men, in nearly the same words throughout. The apparent discrepancies are beautifully reconciled by Kennicott, in his Dissertation on the state of the Hebrew text, by comparing the Hebrew of both passages with the Septuagint. Compare the passage at the end of this Section, (1 Chron. xi. 15—19.) with the parallel passage, (2 Sam. xxiii. 13—17.) and refer to both in Kennicott's Dissert. vol. i. p. 252, 253.

³⁶ This is the first parallel passage which occurs. Parallel passages will be placed at the end of the respective Parts, or Sections, to which they belong.

- in Ramah, having his spear in his hand, and all his servants ^{A.C. 1060.} were standing about him;) then Saul said unto his servants that stood about him, Hear now, ye Benjamites; will the son of Jesse give every one of you fields and vineyards, and make you all captains of thousands, and captains of hundreds; that all of you have conspired against me, and there is none that ^b sheweth me that my son hath made a league with the son of Jesse, and there is none of you that is sorry for me, or sheweth unto me that my son hath stirred up my servant against me, to lie in wait, as at this day?
- 9 Then answered Doeg the Edomite, which was set over the servants of Saul, and said, I saw the son of Jesse coming to 10 Nob, to Ahimelech the son of Ahitub. And he enquired of the LORD for him, and gave him victuals, and gave him the 11 sword of Goliath the Philistine. Then the king sent to call Ahimelech the priest, the son of Ahitub, and all his father's house, the priests that were in Nob: and they came all of them 12 to the king. And Saul said, Hear now, thou son of Ahitub. 13 And he answered, ^c Here I am, my lord. And Saul said unto him, Why have ye conspired against me, thou and the son of Jesse, in that thou hast given him bread, and a sword, and hast enquired of God for him, that he should rise against me, 14 to lie in wait, as at this day? Then Ahimelech answered the king, and said, And who is so faithful among all thy servants as David, which is the king's son in law, and goeth at thy bidding, and is honourable in thine house? Did I then begin to 15 enquire of God for him? be it far from me: let not the king impute any thing unto his servant, nor to all the house of my father: for thy servant knew nothing of all this, ^d less or more. 16 And the king said, Thou shalt surely die, Ahimelech, thou, and all thy father's house.
- 17 And the king said unto the ^{e f} footmen that stood about him, Turn, and slay the priests of the LORD; because their hand also is with David, and because they knew when he fled, and did not shew it to me. But the servants of the king would not 18 put forth their hand to fall upon the priests of the LORD. And the king said to Doeg, Turn thou, and fall upon the priests. ³⁷ In the second and third chapters of the 1st of Samuel we read the prediction of the total ruin of Eli's house. Saul, in the blindness of his fury, orders eighty-five priests of the house of Eli with their families, and Ahimelech the high priest with his family, to be slain. This is another specimen of the way in which men pursue their own schemes, whether of good or evil, and of the manner in which they are overruled to the accomplishment of the prophecies and purposes of God. The reflecting part of the Jewish nation must have observed this fulfilment of one part of the prophecies, and inferred from it the eventual accomplishment of the rest. The same observation will apply to many events in the subsequent history. Vide a large collection of the prophecies, with their fulfilment, in Allix's Reflections on the Books of Scripture.

Psalm cix. On the authority of Archdeacon Randolph, who observes that it was probable that Doeg the Edomite was particularly alluded to in this Psalm; as he had slain the priests, and endeavoured to destroy him whom God had appointed to be king over Israel.—It is prophetic: and is applied by St. Paul to Judas.

Psalm xvii. Was composed, as Calmet remarks, during Saul's bitterest persecution of David; which was certainly when the inhuman murder of the priests was committed. Vide Horne's Crit Int. vol. ii. p. 159.

Psalm cxl. is referred to this period by Dr. Hammond.

Psalm xxxv. This Psalm, from its contents, seems to have been composed by David when he was persecuted by Saul; and falsely accused by Doeg, and others.—Edwards.

Psalm lxiv. This Psalm was most probably composed by David, when he was persecuted by Saul, and his associates.—Edwards.

§ 11. David at Keilah.

1 SAMUEL XXIII. VER. 1.

- 1 Then they told David, saying, Behold, the Philistines fight against Keilah, and they rob the threshingfloors.

1 SAMUEL XXII. VER. 20, TO THE END.

- 20 And one of the sons of Ahimelech the son of Ahitub, named 21 Abiathar, escaped, and fled after David. And Abiathar shewed 22 David that Saul had slain the LORD's priests. And David said unto Abiathar, I knew it that day, when Doeg the Edomite was

A.C. 1060. there, that he would surely tell Saul : I have occasioned the death of all the persons of thy father's house. Abide thou with 23 me, fear not : for he that seeketh my life seeketh thy life : but with me thou shalt be in safeguard.

1 SAMUEL XXIII. VER. 6³⁹.

And it came to pass, when Abiathar the son of Ahimelech 6 a ch. xxii. 20. ^a fled to David to Keilah, that he came down with an ephod in his hand.

1 SAMUEL XXIII. VER. 2—5.

Therefore David enquired of the LORD, saying, Shall I go 2 and smite these Philistines? And the LORD said unto David, Go and smite the Philistines, and save Keilah. And David's 3 men said unto him, Behold, we be afraid here in Judah : how much more then if we come to Keilah against the armies of the Philistines? Then David enquired of the LORD yet again. 4
And the LORD answered him and said, Arise, go down to Keilah ; for I will deliver the Philistines into thine hand. So 5
David and his men went to Keilah, and fought with the Philistines, and brought away their cattle, and smote them with a great slaughter. So David saved the inhabitants of Keilah.

1 SAMUEL XXIII. VER. 7—12.

And it was told Saul that David was come to Keilah. And 7 Saul said, God hath delivered him into mine hand ; for he is shut in, by entering into a town that hath gates and bars. And 8 Saul called all the people together to war, to go down to Keilah, to besiege David and his men.

And David knew that Saul secretly practised mischief against 9 him ; and he said to Abiathar the priest, Bring hither the ephod.
Then said David, O LORD God of Israel, thy servant hath 10 certainly heard that Saul seeketh to come to Keilah, to destroy the city for my sake. Will the men of Keilah deliver me up 11 into his hand ? will Saul come down, as thy servant hath heard?
O LORD God of Israel, I beseech thee, tell thy servant. And the LORD said, He will come down. Then said David, Will 12 the men of Keilah ^b deliver me and my men into the hand of Saul? And the LORD said, They will deliver thee up.

^b Heb. shut up.

³⁹ While the Philistines were fighting against Keilah, Doeg was executing the inhuman command of Saul, and murdering the priests at Nob. Abiathar at this time escaped and fled to David, with the ephod and the breastplate, with the Urim and Thummim ; thus transferring to David the means of consulting the oracle of God in the sanctuary, which had hitherto been appropriated to the service of Saul. To connect the history, the escape of Abiathar is inserted after the account which was brought to David, that the Philistines were plundering the country round Keilah. The second verse of 1 Samuel xxiii. tells us, that David consulted the oracle : on the authority of Bishop Horsley, therefore, as well as from the internal evidence, the sixth verse is placed before the second. —Vide Horsley's Bib. Crit. vol. i. p. 339. ; Bishop Patrick in loc. ; and Lightfoot.

§ 12. David in the Wilderness of Ziph and Maon.

I SAMUEL XXIII. VER. 13—23.

Then David and his men, which were about six hundred, 13 arose and departed out of Keilah, and went whithersoever they could go. And it was told Saul that David was escaped from Keilah; and he forbore to go forth. And David abode in the 14 wilderness in strong holds, and remained in a mountain in the wilderness of Ziph. And Saul sought him every day, but God delivered him not into his hand. And David saw that 15 Saul was come out to seek his life: and David was in the wilderness of Ziph in a wood.

And Jonathan Saul's son arose, and went to David into the 16 wood, and strengthened his hand in God. And he said unto 17 him, Fear not: for the hand of Saul my father shall not find thee; and thou shalt be king over Israel, and I shall be next unto thee; and that also Saul my father knoweth. And they 18 two made a covenant before the LORD: and David abode in the wood, and Jonathan went to his house.

Now therefore, O king, come down according to all the 20 desire of thy soul to come down; and our part shall be to deliver him into the king's hand. And Saul said, Blessed be ye of 21 the LORD; for ye have compassion on me. Go, I pray you, 22 prepare yet, and know and see his place where his ^c haunt is, and who hath seen him there: for it is told me that he dealeth very subtilly. See therefore, and take knowledge of all the lurking 23 places where he hideth himself, and come ye again to me with the certainty, and I will go with you: and it shall come to pass, if he be in the land, that I will search him out throughout all the thousands of Judah.

1 SAMUEL XXIII. VER. 24—28.

24 And they arose, and went to Ziph before Saul : but David and his men were in the wilderness of Maon, in the plain on the south of Jeshimon. Saul also and his men went to seek him. And they told David : wherefore he came down ^f into a rock, and abode in the wilderness of Maon. And when Saul heard that, he pursued after David in the wilderness of Maon.

A.C. 1058. is in the wilderness of En-gedi. Then Saul took three thousand 2 chosen men out of all Israel, and went to seek David and his 3 men upon the rocks of the wild goats. And he came to the 3 sheepcotes by the way, where was a cave; and Saul went in to 3 cover his feet: and David and his men remained in the sides 4 of the caves. And the men of David said unto him, Behold 4 the day of which the LORD said unto thee, Behold, I will 4 deliver thine enemy into thine hand, that thou mayest do to 5 him as it shall seem good unto thee. Then David arose, 5 and cut off the skirt of ^b Saul's robe privily. And it came to 5 pass afterward, that David's heart smote him, because he had 6 cut off Saul's skirt. And he said unto his men, The LORD 6 forbid that I should do this thing unto my master, the LORD's 6 anointed, to stretch forth mine hand against him, seeing he is 7 the anointed of the LORD. So David ^c stayed his servants with 7 these words, and suffered them not to rise against Saul. But 7 Saul rose up out of the cave, and went on his way. David 8 also arose afterward, and went out of the cave, and cried after 8 Saul, saying, My lord the king. And when Saul looked 8 behind him, David stooped with his face to the earth, and 8 bowed himself.

And David said to Saul, Wherefore hearest thou men's words, 9 saying, Behold, David seeketh thy hurt? Behold, this day 10 thine eyes have seen how that the LORD had delivered thee to 10 day into mine hand in the cave: and some bade me kill thee: 10 but mine eye spared thee; and I said, I will not put forth mine 11 hand against my lord: for he is the LORD's anointed. More- 11 over, my father, see, yea, see the skirt of thy robe in my 11 hand: for in that I cut off the skirt of thy robe, and killed 12 thee not, know thou and see that there is neither evil nor trans- 12 gression in mine hand, and I have not sinned against thee; yet 12 thou huntest my soul to take it. The LORD judge between 12 me and thee, and the LORD avenge me of thee: but mine 13 hand shall not be upon thee. As saith the proverb of the 13 ancients, Wickedness proceedeth from the wicked: but mine 13 hand shall not be upon thee. After whom is the king of Israel 14 come out? after whom dost thou pursue? after a dead dog, 14 after a flea. The LORD therefore be judge, and judge between 15 me and thee, and see, and plead my cause, and ^d deliver me 15

§ 14. Death of Samuel—David in the Wilderness of Paran.

I SAMUEL XXV.

1 Samuel dieth. 2 David in Paran sendeth to Nabal. 10 Provoked by Nabal's churlishness, he mindeth to destroy him. 14 Abigail, understanding thereof, 18 taketh a present, 23 and by her wisdom 32 pacifieth David. 36 Nabal hearing thereof dieth. 39 David taketh Abigail and Ahinoam to be his wives. 44 Michal is given to Phalti.

- 1 And ^a Samuel died ; and all the Israelites were gathered together, and lamented him, and buried him in his house at Ramah. And David arose, and went down to the wilderness of Paran. And there was a man in Maon, whose ^b possessions were in Carmel ; and the man was very great, and he had three thousand sheep, and a thousand goats : and he was shearing his sheep in Carmel. Now the name of the man was Nabal ; and the name of his wife Abigail : and she was a woman of good understanding, and of a beautiful countenance : but the man was churlish and evil in his doings ; and he was of the house of Caleb.
- 4 And David heard in the wilderness that Nabal did shear his 5 sheep. And David sent out ten young men, and David said unto the young men, Get you up to Carmel, and go to Nabal, 6 and ^c greet him in my name : and thus shall ye say to him that liveth in prosperity, Peace be both to thee, and peace be 7 to thine house, and peace be unto all that thou hast. And now I have heard that thou hast shearers : now thy shepherds which were with us, we ^d hurt them not, neither was there ought 8 missing unto them, all the while they were in Carmel. Ask thy young men, and they will shew thee. Wherefore let the young men find favour in thine eyes : for we come in a good day : give, I pray thee, whatsoever cometh to thine hand unto 9 thy servants, and to thy son David. And when David's young men came, they spake to Nabal according to all those words in the name of David, and ^e ceased.
- 10 And Nabal answered David's servants, and said, Who is David ? and who is the son of Jesse ? there be many servants 11 now a days that break away every man from his master. Shall I then take my bread, and my water, and my ^f flesh that I have killed for my shearers, and give it unto men, whom I know not 12 whence they be ? So David's young men turned their way, and

But one of the young men told Abigail, Nabal's wife, say- ¹⁴ ing, Behold, David sent messengers out of the wilderness to salute our master; and he ^g railed on them. But the men ¹⁵ were very good unto us, and we were not ^h hurt, neither missed we any thing, as long as we were conversant with them, when we were in the fields: they were a wall unto us both by ¹⁶ night and day, all the while we were with them keeping the sheep. Now therefore know and consider what thou wilt do; ¹⁷ for evil is determined against our master, and against all his household: for he is such a son of Belial, that a man cannot speak to him.

i Or, lumps.

Then Abigail made haste, and took two hundred loaves, and ¹⁸ two bottles of wine, and five sheep ready dressed, and five measures of parched corn, and an hundred ⁱ clusters of raisins, and two hundred cakes of figs, and laid them on asses. And ¹⁹ she said unto her servants, Go on before me; behold, I come after you. But she told not her husband Nabal. And it was ²⁰ so, as she rode on the ass, that she came down by the covert of the hill, and, behold, David and his men came down against her; and she met them. - 39 And when David heard that Nabal was dead, he said, Blessed be the LORD, that hath pleaded the cause of my reproach from the hand of Nabal, and hath kept his servant from evil: for the LORD hath returned the wickedness of Nabal upon his own head. And David sent and communed with Abigail, to take 19.

And the Ziphites came unto Saul to Gibeah, saying, ^a Doth 1 not David hide himself in the hill of Hachilah, which is before 2 Jeshimon? Then Saul arose, and went down to the wilderness 2 of Ziph, having three thousand chosen men of Israel with him, to seek David in the wilderness of Ziph. And Saul pitched 3 in the hill of Hachilah, which is before Jeshimon, by the way.
 But David abode in the wilderness, and he saw that Saul came after him into the wilderness. David therefore sent out spies, 4 and understood that Saul was come in very deed.

And David arose, and came to the place where Saul had 5 pitched: and David beheld the place where Saul lay, and Abner the son of Ner, the captain of his host: and Saul lay 5 in the ^c trench, and the people pitched round about him. Then 6 answered David and said to Ahimelech the Hittite, and to Abishai the son of Zeruiah, brother to Joab, saying, Who will go down with me to Saul to the camp? And Abishai said, I will go down with thee. So David and Abishai came to the 7 people by night: and, behold, Saul lay sleeping within the trench, and his spear stuck in the ground at his bolster: but Abner and the people lay round about him. Then said 8 Abishai to David, God hath ^d delivered thine enemy into thine hand this day: now therefore let me smite him, I pray thee, with the spear even to the earth at once, and I will not smite him the second time. And David said to Abishai, Destroy him 9 not: for who can stretch forth his hand against the LORD's anointed, and be guiltless? David said furthermore, As the 10 LORD liveth, the LORD shall smite him; or his day shall come to die; or he shall descend into battle, and perish. The LORD 11 forbid that I should stretch forth mine hand against the LORD's anointed: but, I pray thee, take thou now the spear that is at his bolster, and the cruse of water, and let us go. So David 12 took the spear and the cruse of water from Saul's bolster; and they gat them away, and no man saw it, nor knew it, neither awaked: for they were all asleep; because a deep sleep from the LORD was fallen upon them.

I will no more do thee harm, because my soul was precious in ⁴³ We have now arrived at the close of the persecutions of David. It is necessary to observe the order of the events related in this section. Finding Saul to be still implacable, David resolved upon joining the Philistines, which appears to have been an unjustifiable mode of escape, when we remember the many difficulties from which he had been so mercifully delivered. He fled to the king of Gath, with whom he continued sixteen months. During this time he was joined by many of his own people, and made war upon the surrounding nations. In the mean while, the Philistines, to whom David had become an auxiliary, had declared war against Saul; and Achish, the protector

1 SAMUEL XXVII. VER. 2—7.

And David arose, and he passed over with the six hundred 2 of David, required him to fight against his own countrymen. From this dreadful necessity of deciding between gratitude to Achish, and the love of his country, he was relieved by the distrust of the Philistines. The two armies approach: Saul consults the witch of Endor; and, according to the prediction of Samuel, who appears to him from the invisible world, he loses his throne and his life. This, of course, takes place at the conclusion of the sixteen months of David's residence at Ziklag. Not having been permitted to join in the battle, David had returned to this city; but finds it burnt and plundered by the Amalekites. He pursues and defeats the invaders with great slaughter. After the battle he generously divides the spoil between his soldiers, including those who were not able to attend him in the field. He distributes presents to the tribe of Judah, and secures the attachment of his friends: and on the death of Saul and Jonathan, being left without a rival, and alike distinguished for courage, conduct, generosity, magnanimity, and every virtue which can dignify and adorn a prince, every human means seemed to combine to accomplish the promises of God. The tribe of Judah assemble, and elect him king; and their example is followed, after an interval of seven years, by the rest of Israel.

And when Saul 5 ^a saw the host of the Philistines, he was afraid, and his heart greatly trembled. And when Saul enquired of the LORD, 6 the LORD answered him not, neither by dreams, nor by Urim, nor by prophets.

⁴⁵ This history of the witch of Endor has been made the subject of as much discussion as any history in the Old Testament ; and the general concurrent opinion of both the Jewish and Christian churches, that the spirit of Samuel really appeared to Saul, has been treated with much ridicule by objectors ; and it has been explained away, or otherwise interpreted, by some, who think that a Christian may conciliate the sceptic, by yielding those points which appear mysterious in his religion. But if we at all believe in the existence of spirit, as something which is distinct from matter, there is no difficulty or absurdity whatever in this history. We know but little of the invisible world, or of the manner in which the disembodied spirit continues to exist ; our understanding and our apprehension are so limited in this stage of our existence, that we cannot comprehend one half of those truths which our senses, our reason, and Revelation, compel us to approve. Why then should it appear impossible that God should raise the dead ? If Moses and Elias appeared from the invisible world, what greater difficulty can exist in supposing that Samuel did so ? For the proofs that the spirit of the prophet was really made visible by the power of God in some mysterious manner to the woman, and for an inquiry into the nature of the objects which were to be answered by this manifestation of Samuel, see the various commentators, Bp. Patrick, Bp. Horne, Stackhouse, particularly Dr. Hales' Analysis, vol. i. pages 355 to 361.

2 SAMUEL I.

Now it came to pass after the death of Saul, when David 1 was returned from ^a the slaughter of the Amalekites, and David had abode two days in Ziklag ; it came even to pass on the third 2 day, that, behold, a man came out of the camp from Saul with his clothes rent, and earth upon his head : and so it was, when he came to David, that he fell to the earth, and did obeisance.
 And David said unto him, From whence comest thou ? And 3
 he said unto him, Out of the camp of Israel am I escaped.
 And David said unto him, ^b How went the matter ? I pray 4 thee, tell me. And he answered, That the people are fled from the battle, and many of the people also are fallen and dead ; and Saul and Jonathan his son are dead also. And David 5 said unto the young man that told him, How knowest thou that Saul and Jonathan his son be dead ? And the young man 6 that told him said, As I happened by chance upon mount Gilboa, behold, Saul leaned upon his spear ; and, lo, the chariots and horsemen followed hard after him. And when he 7 that were with him : and they mourned, and wept, and fasted 12

2 SAMUEL II.

A.C. 1055. AND it came to pass after this, that David enquired of the 1
 LORD, saying, Shall I go up into any of the cities of Judah?
 And the LORD said unto him, Go up. And David said, Whither shall I go up? And he said, Unto Hebron. So 2
 David went up thither, and his two wives also, Ahinoam the Jezreelitess, and Abigail Nabal's wife the Carmelite. And his 3 men that were with him did David bring up, every man with his household: and they dwelt in the cities of Hebron. ^a And 4 the men of Judah came, and there they anointed David king over the house of Judah. And they told David, saying, That ^b the men of Jabesh-gilead were they that buried Saul.

 23 But Asahel would not turn aside from following him. And Abner said again to Asahel, Turn thee aside from following 24 should I hold up my face to Joab thy brother ? Howbeit he refused to turn aside : wherefore Abner with the hinder end of the spear smote him under the fifth rib, that the spear came out behind him ; and he fell down there, and died in the same place : and it came to pass, that as many as came to the place 25 where Asahel fell down and died stood still. Joab also and Abishai pursued after Abner : and the sun went down when they were come to the hill of Ammah, that lieth before Giah by the way of the wilderness of Gibeon.

 26 And the children of Benjamin gathered themselves together after Abner, and became one troop, and stood on the top of an hill. Then Abner called to Joab, and said, Shall the sword devour for ever ? knowest thou not that it will be bitterness in the latter end ? how long shall it be then, ere thou bid the 27 people return from following their brethren ? And Joab said, As God liveth, unless thou hadst spoken, surely then ⁿ in the people together, there lacked of David's servants nineteen 31 men and Asahel. But the servants of David had smitten of Benjamin, and of Abner's men, so that three hundred and threescore men died.

 32 And they took up Asahel, and buried him in the sepulchre of his father, which was in Beth-lehem. And Joab and his

2 SAMUEL III.

1 During the war David still waxeth stronger. 2 Six sons were born to him in Hebron. 6 Abner, displeased with Ish-bosheth, 12 revolteth to David. 13 David requireth a condition to bring him his wife Michal. 17 Abner, having communed with the Israelites, is feasted by David, and dismissed. 22 Joab, returning from battle, is displeased with the king, and killeth Abner. 28 David curseth Joab, 31 and mourneth for Abner.

A.C. 1053. Now there was long war between the house of Saul and the 1 house of David: but David waxed stronger and stronger, and the house of Saul waxed weaker and weaker.

And unto David were sons born in Hebron: and his first- 2 born was Amnon, of Ahinoam the Jezreelitess; and his second, 3 Chileab, of Abigail the wife of Nabal the Carmelite; and the third, Absalom the son of Maacah the daughter of Talmai king of Geshur; and the fourth, Adonijah the son of Haggith; and 4 the fifth, Shephatiah the son of Abital; and the sixth, Ithream, 5 by Eglah David's wife. These were born to David in Hebron.

And it came to pass, while there was war between the house 6 of Saul and the house of David, that Abner made himself strong for the house of Saul. And Saul had a concubine, 7 whose name was ^p Rizpah, the daughter of Aiah: and Ish-bosheth said to Abner, Wherefore hast thou gone in unto my father's concubine? Then was Abner very wroth for the 8 words of Ish-bosheth, and said, Am I a dog's head, which against Judah do shew kindness this day unto the house of Saul thy father, to his brethren, and to his friends, and have not delivered thee into the hand of David, that thou chargest me to day with a fault concerning this woman? So do God 9 to Abner, and more also, except, as the LORD hath sworn to David, even so I do to him; to translate the kingdom from the 10 house of Saul, and to set up the throne of David over Israel and over Judah, from Dan even to Beer-sheba. And he 11 could not answer Abner a word again, because he feared him.

1048. And Abner sent messengers to David on his behalf, saying, 12 Whose is the land? saying also, Make thy league with me, and, behold, my hand shall be with thee, to bring about all Israel unto thee.

And he said, Well; I will make a league with thee: but 13 one thing I require of thee, ^q that is, Thou shalt not see my face, except thou first bring Michal Saul's daughter, when thou comest to see my face. And David sent messengers to 14 Ish-bosheth Saul's son, saying, Deliver me my wife Michal, which I espoused to me ^r for an hundred foreskins of the Philistines. And Ish-bosheth sent, and took her from her hus- 15 band, even from ^s Phaltiel the son of Laish. And her husband 16 went with her ^t along weeping behind her to Bahurim. Then said Abner unto him, Go, return. And he returned.

 saying, By the hand of my servant David I will save my people ^{the third day.}
 Israel out of the hand of the Philistines, and out of the hand 19 of all their enemies. And Abner also spake in the ears of Benjamin: and Abner went also to speak in the ears of David in Hebron all that seemed good to Israel, and that seemed 20 good to the whole house of Benjamin. So Abner came to David to Hebron, and twenty men with him. And David 21 made Abner and the men that were with him a feast. And Abner said unto David, I will arise and go, and will gather all Israel unto my lord the king, that they may make a league with thee, and that thou mayest reign over all that thine heart desireth. And David sent Abner away; and he went in peace.
- 22 And, behold, the servants of David and Joab came from pursuing a troop, and brought in a great spoil with them: but Abner was not with David in Hebron; for he had sent him 23 away, and he was gone in peace. When Joab and all the host that was with him were come, they told Joab, saying, Abner the son of Ner came to the king, and he hath sent him away, 24 and he is gone in peace. Then Joab came to the king, and said, What hast thou done? behold, Abner came unto thee;
 why is it that thou hast sent him away, and he is quite gone?
 25 Thou knowest Abner the son of Ner, that he came to deceive thee, and to know thy going out and thy coming in, and to 26 know all that thou doest. And when Joab was come out from David, he sent messengers after Abner, which brought him 27 again from the well of Sirah: but David knew it not. And when Abner was returned to Hebron, Joab ^x took him aside ^{x 1 Kings ii.}

And all the 36 people took notice of it, and it ^f pleased them: as whatsoever the king did pleased all the people. ⁴⁶ This arrangement of section ii. is made on the authority of the author of the Book of Chronicles; who places the list of David's warriors after the account of his being made king by all the tribes of Israel at Hebron. They are mentioned before the numbering of the people in the Second Book of Samuel; but for what reason is not apparent. The most appropriate place for them seems to be that which follows the history of David's elevation; who was in a great measure indebted to their allegiance, among other human means, for the possession of the throne. There is some partial difference between the catalogue of these warriors in 2 Samuel xxiii. and that in 1 Chron. xi. Dr. Kennicott, in a valuable and learned dissertation, has reconciled the apparent discrepancies in the two lists by comparing both with the Septuagint; and pointing out the manner in which it is probable the various minor changes of letters and words might have occurred. The passages (2 Sam. xxiii. ver. 13—18.) and (1 Chron. xi. 15—20.) have been inserted above, chap. vi. sect. ix. Vide Kennicott's Dissertation on the State of the Hebrew Text, vol. i. particularly p. 248—260.

posed the fetching up of the ark from Kirjath-jearim. His first thought was gratitude and adoration to that God who had fulfilled his promises, and made him ruler over his people. On this supposition I have inserted the 139th Psalm in this place, although the date and occasion of the Psalm are uncertain. On surveying the whole of his eventful life, David acknowledges the wisdom of Providence alike in his adversity and prosperity; he resolves to restore the ark to its place; proclaims the omniscience of God; and concludes his song of praise, with a prayer to be preserved from the evils and dangers of prosperity, and to be led in the way everlasting.

§ 4. Removal of the Ark to Jerusalem.

2 SAMUEL VI. VER. 1—11.

The Ark brought from Kirjath-jearim.

1045.

Again, David gathered together all the chosen men of Israel, 1 thirty thousand. And ^a David arose, and went with all the 2 people that were with him from ^b Baale of Judah, to bring up from thence the ark of God, ^c whose name is called by the name of the LORD of hosts that dwelleth between the cherubims.
And they ^d set the ark of God upon a new cart, and brought it 3 out of the house of Abinadab that was in ^e Gibeah: and Uzzah and Ahio, the sons of Abinadab, drave the new cart. And they 4 brought it out of ^f the house of Abinadab which was at Gibeah, ^g accompanying the ark of God: and Ahio went before the ark.
And David and all the house of Israel played before the LORD 5 on all manner of instruments made of fir wood, even on harps, and on psalteries, and on timbrels, and on cornets, and on cymbals.

And when they came to ^h Nachon's threshingfloor, Uzzah put 6 forth his hand to the ark of God, and took hold of it; for the oxen ⁱ shook it. And the anger of the LORD was kindled 7 against Uzzah; and God smote him there for his ^k error; and there he died by the ark of God. And David was displeased, 8 because the LORD had ^l made a breach upon Uzzah: and he called the name of the place ^m Perez-uzzah to this day. And 9 David was afraid of the LORD that day, and said, How shall the ark of the LORD come to me? So David would not remove 10 the ark of the LORD unto him into the city of David: but David carried it aside into the house of Obed-edom the Gittite.
And the ark of the LORD continued in the house of Obed-edom 11
the Gittite three months: and the LORD blessed Obed-edom, and all his household.

 David called for Zadok and Abiathar the priests, and for the Levites, for Uriel, Asaiah, and Joel, Shemaiah, and Eliel, and 12 Amminadab, and said unto them, Ye are the chief of the fathers of the Levites: sanctify yourselves, both ye and your brethren, that ye may bring up the ark of the LORD God of Israel unto 13 the place that I have prepared for it. For because ye did it not at the first, the LORD our God made a breach upon us, for 14 that we sought him not after the due order. So the priests and the Levites sanctified themselves to bring up the ark of the LORD God of Israel.

⁵⁰ This Psalm is supposed by Calmet to have been written as a prayer during the Babylonish captivity. Others are of opinion it was composed by Solomon at the dedication of the Temple. I have inserted it here on the authority of Lightfoot, (its date being uncertain), as an appropriate prayer of David only. He had once attempted to remove the ark, and had left it at the house of Obed-edom. He now makes preparations to remove it a second time; and, offering up a prayer for himself in the third person, he repeats his vow that he would bring the ark to Jerusalem, and the prayer that he had made on the first attempt to remove it (ver. 8.); and he concludes by pleading the promises of God, that his posterity shall sit for ever on his throne, and that from him the Messiah should descend; he considers the removal of the ark as the sign and pledge of the certain accomplishment of these promises.

A.C. 1051. If thy children will keep my covenant and my testimony ¹² that I shall teach them, their children shall also sit upon thy throne for evermore.

For the LORD hath chosen Zion; he hath desired it for his ¹³ habitation.

This is my rest for ever: here will I dwell; for I have ¹⁴ desired it.

q Or, surely. I will ^q abundantly bless her provision: I will satisfy her ¹⁵ poor with bread.

I will also clothe her priests with salvation: and her saints ¹⁶ shall shout aloud for joy.

r Luke i. 69. ^r There will I make the horn of David to bud: I have or- ¹⁷ ^s Or, candle. dained a ^s lamp for mine anointed.

His enemies will I clothe with shame: but upon himself ¹⁸ shall his crown flourish.

2 SAMUEL VI. VER. 12—19.

And it was told king David, saying, The LORD hath blessed ¹² the house of Obed-edom, and all that pertaineth unto him, because of the ark of God. ^t So David went and brought up the ark of God from the house of Obed-edom into the city of David with gladness. And it was so, that when they that bare ¹³ the ark of the LORD had gone six paces, he sacrificed oxen and fatlings. And David danced before the LORD with all his ¹⁴ might; and David was girded with a linen ephod. ^v So David ¹⁵ and all the house of Israel brought up the ark of the LORD with shouting, and with the sound of the trumpet. And as ¹⁶ the ark of the LORD came into the city of David, Michal, Saul's daughter, looked through a window, and saw king David leaping and dancing before the LORD; and she despised him in her heart.

And they brought in the ark of the LORD, and set it in his ¹⁷ place, in the midst of the tabernacle that David had ^u pitched for it: and David offered burnt offerings and peace offerings before the LORD. And as soon as David had made an end of ¹⁸ offering burnt offerings and peace offerings, ^x he blessed the people in the name of the LORD of hosts. And he dealt among ¹⁹ all the people, even among the whole multitude of Israel, as well to the women as men, to every one a cake of bread, and a good piece of flesh, and a flagon of wine. So all the people departed every one to his house.

1 CHRONICLES XV. VER. 15, TO THE END.

And the children of the Levites bare the ark of God upon ¹⁵ ^y Ex. xxv. 14. their shoulders with the staves thereon, as ^v Moses commanded according to the word of the LORD. And David spake to the ¹⁶ chief of the Levites to appoint their brethren to be the singers with instruments of musick, psalteries and harps and cymbals,

- 17 sounding, by lifting up the voice with joy. So the Levites ^{A.C. 1051.} appointed ^z Heman the son of Joel; and of his brethren, ^a Asaph the son of Berechiah; and of the sons of Merari their brethren, 18 ren, ^b Ethan the son of Kushaiah; and with them their brethren of the second degree, Zechariah, Ben, and Jaaziel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Unni, Eliab, and Benaiah, and Maaseiah, and Mattithiah, and Elipheleh, and Mikneiah, and 19 Obed-edom, and Jeiel, the porters. So the singers, Heman, Asaph, and Ethan, were appointed to sound with cymbals of 20 brass; and Zechariah, and ^c Aziel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel and Unni, and Eliab, and Maaseiah, and Benaiah, with psalteries 21 on Alamoth; and Mattithiah, and Elipheleh, and Mikneiah, and Obed-edom, and Jeiel, and Azaziah, with harps ^d on the 22 Sheminith to excel. And Chenaniah, chief of the Levites, ^e was for ^f song: he instructed about the song, because he was 23 skilful. And Berechiah and Elkanah were doorkeepers for the 24 ark. And Shebaniah, and Jehoshaphat, and Nethaneel, and Amasai, and Zechariah, and Benaiah, and Eliezer, the priests, did blow with the trumpets before the ark of God: and Obed-edom and Jehiah were doorkeepers for the ark.
- 25 So ^g David, and the elders of Israel, and the captains over thousands, went to bring up the ark of the covenant of the 26 LORD out of the house of Obed-edom with joy. And it came to pass, when God helped the Levites that bare the ark of the covenant of the LORD, that they offered seven bullocks and 27 seven rams. And David was clothed with a robe of fine linen, and all the Levites that bare the ark, and the singers, and Chemaniah the master of the ^h song with the singers: David 28 also had upon him an ephod of linen. Thus all Israel brought up the ark of the covenant of the LORD with shouting, and with sound of the cornet, and with trumpets, and with cymbals, making a noise with psalteries and harps.
- 29 And it came to pass, as the ark of the covenant of the LORD came to the city of David, that Michal the daughter of Saul looking out at a window saw king David dancing and playing:
 and she despised him in her heart.

I CHRONICLES XVI.

1 David's festival sacrifice. 4 He ordereth a choir to sing thanksgiving. 7 The psalm of thanksgiving. 37 He appointeth ministers, porters, priests, and musicians, to attend continually on the ark.

- 1 So they brought the ark of God, and set it in the midst of the tent that David had pitched for it: and they offered burnt 2 sacrifices and peace offerings before God. And when David had made an end of offering the burnt offerings and the peace 3 offerings, he blessed the people in the name of the LORD. And he dealt to every one of Israel, both man and woman, to every one a loaf of bread, and a good piece of flesh, and a flagon of wine.

A.C. 1051.

And he appointed certain of the Levites to minister before 4
the ark of the LORD, and to record, and to thank and praise the LORD God of Israel: Asaph the chief, and next to him 5
Zechariah, Jeiel, and Shemiramoth, and Jehiel, and Matti-

⁵² The parallel passage of 1 Chron. xvii. with this of 2 Sam. vii. is not inserted at the end of the section in the usual manner, that the reader may have the advantage of comparing one with the other, and of observing the very forcible language in which they are both worded, as well as the light which the different modes of expressing the same idea throws upon this remarkable prediction of the Prophet Nathan. The sun of prophecy seems to be climbing higher in its celestial progress, when we read this passage. The first part announces the glory of Solomon. The second looks into futurity, to the final destination of the people of Israel, promising them a rest of such a nature as they have never yet enjoyed, though they have so long possessed the promised land. The third part predicts the future son of David, who is alluded to, and described, in terms applicable only to a greater than Solomon : and the passage, " I will be to him a father, and he shall be to me a son," is expressly applied by St. Paul to the Saviour who should come into the world.

Upon hearing this prophecy, David, though commanded not to build the temple, proceeds to the sanctuary ; and there acknowledges that he did not consider this prediction as referring to his immediate son, or to the building a temple made with hands. The two parallel passages, 2 Sam. vii. 19. and 1 Chron. xvii. 17. are thus interpreted by Bishop Horsley, 2 Sam. vii. 19. " And this (namely, what was said about his house in distant times) is the arrangement about the MAN, Oh Lord Jehovah."

1 Chron. xvii. 17. " And thou hast regarded me in the arrangement about THE MAN that is to be from above, O God Jehovah"—that is, in forming the scheme of the incarnation, regard was had to the honour of David, and his house, as a secondary object, by making it a part of the plan, that the Messiah should be born in his family.

This circumstance, of David's entering into the sanctuary, and acknowledging that he understood the meaning of the figurative language of the Prophet, is a proof that other Israelites, who expected the future Messiah, comprehended the various predictions which announced, in still clearer terms, the nature, the person, the life, and the incarnation of the promised Saviour. It shews us, too, that the prophecies were of various degrees of clearness ; and when the appointed number of inspired predictions contained in the Old Testament was completed, so satisfactory, and so perfect was the description of our blessed Lord, and so conclusive was the evidence that he was the Messiah, that wilful blindness alone prevented the Jews from acknowledging him. They had determined to receive only a temporal Messiah, and the predictions of their prophets were every day in vain fulfilled before their eyes, by the spiritual and long-promised Deliverer. And it came to pass that night, that the word of the LORD 4 came unto Nathan, saying, Go and tell ^b my servant David, 5 Thus saith the LORD, Shalt thou build me an house for me to dwell in? Whereas I have not dwelt in any house since the 6 time that I brought up the children of Israel out of Egypt, even to this day, but have walked in a tent and in a tabernacle. In all the places wherein I have walked with all the children of 7 Israel spake I a word with ^c any of the tribes of Israel, whom I commanded to feed my people Israel, saying, Why build ye not me an house of cedar? Now therefore so shalt thou say 8 unto my servant David, Thus saith the LORD of hosts, ^d I took thee from the sheepcote, ^e from following the sheep, to be ruler over my people, over Israel: and I was with thee whitherso- 9 ever thou wentest, and have cut off all thine enemies ^f out of thy sight, and have made thee a great name, like unto the name of the great men that are in the earth. Moreover I will 10 appoint a place for my people Israel, and will plant them, that they may dwell in a place of their own, and move no more; neither shall the children of wickedness afflict them any more, as beforetime. And as since the time that I commanded 11 judges to be over my people Israel, and have caused thee to rest from all thine enemies. Also the LORD telleth thee that he will make thee an house.

And when thy days be fulfilled, and thou shalt sleep with 12 thy fathers, ^g I will set up thy seed after thee, which shall proceed out of thy bowels, and I will establish his kingdom. ^h He 13 shall build an house for my name, and I will stablish the throne of his kingdom for ever. ⁱ I will be his father, and he shall 14 be my son. ^k If he commit iniquity, I will chasten him with the rod of men, and with the stripes of the children of men: but my mercy shall not depart away from him, as I took it 15 from Saul, whom I put away before thee. And thine house 16 and thy kingdom shall be established for ever before thee: thy throne shall be established for ever. According to all these 17 words, and according to all this vision, so did Nathan speak unto David.

Then went king David in, and sat before the LORD, and 18 he said, Who am I, O LORD God? and what is my house, that thou hast brought me hitherto? 1 Nathan first approving the purpose of David, to build God an house, 3 after by the word of God forbiddeth him. 11 He promiseth him blessings and benefits in his seed. 16 David's prayer and thanksgiving.

 3 And it came to pass the same night, that the word of God

And since the time that I commanded judges to be over my people Israel. Moreover I will subdue all thine enemies. Furthermore I tell thee that the LORD will build thee an house.

And it shall come to pass, when thy days be expired that thou must go to be with thy fathers, that I will raise up thy seed after thee, which shall be of thy sons; and I will establish his kingdom. He shall build me an house, and I will establish his throne for ever. ^{t 2 Sam. vii. 14.} I will be his father, and he shall be my son: and I will not take my mercy away from him, as I took it from him that was before thee: but I will settle him in mine house and in my kingdom for ever: and his throne shall be established for evermore. According to all these words, and according to all this vision, so did Nathan speak unto David.

And David the king came and sat before the LORD, and said, Who am I, O LORD God, and what is mine house, that thou hast brought me hitherto? And yet this was a small thing in thine eyes, O God; for thou hast also spoken of thy servant's house for a great while to come, and hast regarded me according to the estate of a man of high degree, O LORD God. What can David speach more to thee for the honour of thy servant? for thou knowest thy servant. O LORD, for thy servant's sake, and according to thine own heart, hast thou done all this greatness, in making known all these ^{u Heb. greatnesses.} great things. O LORD, there is none like thee, neither is there any God beside thee, according to all that we have heard with our ears. And what one nation in the earth is like thy people Israel, whom God went to redeem to be his own people, to make thee a name of greatness and terribleness, by driving out nations from before thy people, whom thou hast redeemed out of Egypt? For thy people Israel didst thou make thine own people for ever; and thou, LORD, becamest their God. Therefore now, LORD, let the thing that thou hast spoken concerning thy servant and concerning his house be established for ever, and do as thou hast said. Let it even be established, that thy name may be magnified for ever, saying, The LORD of hosts is the God of Israel, even a God to Israel: and let the house of David thy servant be established before thee. For thou, O my God, ^{x Heb. hast revealed the ear of thy servant.} hast told thy servant that thou wilt build him an house: therefore thy servant hath found in his heart to pray before thee. And now, LORD, thou art God, and hast promised this goodness unto thy servant: now therefore ^{y Or, it hath pleased thee.} let it please thee to bless the house of thy servant, that it may be before thee for ever: for thou blessest, O LORD, and it shall be blessed for ever.

⁵³ Psalm ii. The seventh verse of this Psalm refers to the prophecy of Nathan: it is inserted in this place on the joint authority of Dr. Hales; of its ancient Arabic title, "A Prophecy concerning Christ the Lord, and the calling of the Gentiles;" and on its internal evidence, derived from its correspondence with the preceding prophecy. The application of this Psalm to the Messiah was the unquestionable doctrine of the Jewish Church. For the authorities, vide Hales's Anal. vol. ii. p. 370, 371.

Psalm xlv. The prophecies of Nathan and David form the basis of an admirable chain of prophecies contained in the Psalms, which, on the authority of Dr. Hales, are inserted here: each of which is quoted as prophetic in some passages of the New Testament. Psalm xlv. declares the divinity of Christ, and his exaltation above the angels: it is expounded Heb. i. 8, 9.; 1 Pet. iii. 22.; Ephes. i. 22.; Phil. ii. 9—11. See, too, Horsley's Sermons on this Psalm.

Psalm xxii. predicts the sufferings and crucifixion of Christ. The Jews unwittingly quoted the eighth verse against our Lord, when hanging on the cross, and, as if to fix the undoubted application of the Psalm to himself, Christ expressed the sufferings of the moment in the first verse, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" Still further to prove that this Psalm was a prophecy of our Lord, St. John applies the 18th verse to the parting of our Lord's garments among the Roman soldiers.

Psalm xvi. predicts the death and resurrection of Christ: and is so applied by St. Peter, Acts ii. 25—31.; and by St. Paul, Acts xiii. 35, 36.

Psalm cxviii. foretells his rejection by the Jews, his adoption by the Gentiles, and the establishment of his church. It is cited by our Lord Matt. xxii. 42. It is expounded by St. Peter, Acts iv. 11.; 1 Pet. ii. 4, 5.; by St. Paul, Rom. ix. 32, 33.; Ephes. ii. 20, 21.; and by St. John, Rev. xx. 10—14.

Psalm cx. declares the exaltation, the kingdom, and priesthood of Christ. It is applied by our Lord expressly to assert his divinity, as that spiritual son of David, whom David calls Lord, or Jehovah, Matt. xxii. 44.; by St. Peter, Acts ii. 32—36.; and by St. Paul, who explains from hence the nature of his kingdom, 1 Cor. xv. 25—28, and of his priesthood, Heb. vii. 1—28. and chap. viii. ver. 1. measured them with a line, casting them down to the ground;
even with two lines measured he to put to death, and with one full line to keep alive. And so the Moabites became David's servants, and brought gifts.

- 3 David smote also ^cHadadezer, the son of Rehob, king of ^{A.C. 1040.}
^dZobah, as he went to recover his border at the river Euphrates.
 4 And David took ^efrom him a thousand ^fchariots, and seven houghed all the chariot horses, but reserved of them for an 5 hundred chariots. And when the Syrians of Damascus came to succour Hadadezer king of Zobah, David slew of the Syrians 6 two and twenty thousand men. Then David put garrisons in Syria of Damascus: and the Syrians became servants to David, and brought gifts. And the LORD preserved David 7 whithersoever he went. And David took the shields of gold that were on the servants of Hadadezer, and brought them to 8 Jerusalem. And from ^gBetah, and from ^hBerothai, cities of Hadadezer, king David took exceeding much brass.

 9 When ⁱToi king of Hamath heard that David had smitten all 10 the host of Hadadezer, then Toi sent ^kJoram his son unto king David, to ^lsalute him, and to bless him, because he had fought against Hadadezer, and smitten him: for Hadadezer ^mhad wars with Toi. And Joram ⁿbrought with him vessels of silver, and 11 vessels of gold, and vessels of brass: which also king David did dedicate unto the LORD, with the silver and gold that he had 12 dedicated of all nations which he subdued; of Syria, and of Moab, and of the children of Ammon, and of the Philistines, and of Amalek, and of the spoil of Hadadezer, son of Rehob, king of Zobah.

 15 the LORD preserved David whithersoever he went. And David reigned over all Israel; and David executed judgment 16 and justice unto all his people. And Joab the son of Zeruiah was over the host; and Jehoshaphat the son of Ahilud was 17 ^precorder; and Zadok the son of Ahitub, and Ahimelech the son of Abiathar, were the priests; and Seraiah was the ^qscribe;

⁵⁴ The gradual fulfilment of the ancient prophecies of their ancestors must have made a deep impression on the minds of the reflecting Israelites.—By this conquest of Edom, the prediction of Jacob (Gen. xxvii. ver. 40.) was accomplished.

 that Hadad fled, he and certain Edomites of his father's 17 child. And they arose out of Midian, and came to Paran : 18 and they took men with them out of Paran, and they came to Egypt, unto Pharaoh king of Egypt; which gave him an house, and appointed him victuals, and gave him land. And 19 Hadad found great favour in the sight of Pharaoh, so that he gave him to wife the sister of his own wife, the sister of Tahpenes the queen. And the sister of Tahpenes bare him Genubath his 20 son, whom Tahpenes weaned in Pharaoh's house : and Genubath was in Pharaoh's household among the sons of Pharaoh.

§ 7. Kindness of David to the House of Saul. The War with the Ammonites.

2 SAMUEL IX.

1 David by Ziba sendeth for Mephibosheth. 7 For Jonathan's sake he entertaineth him at his table, and restoreth him all that was Saul's. 9 He maketh Ziba his farmer.

And David said, Is there yet any that is left of the house of 1 Saul, that I may shew him kindness for Jonathan's sake? And 2 there was of the house of Saul a servant whose name was Ziba. And when they had called him unto David, the king said unto him, Art thou Ziba? And he said, Thy servant is he. And the 3 king said, Is there not yet any of the house of Saul, that I may shew the kindness of God unto him? And Ziba said unto the king, Jonathan hath yet a son, which is a lame on his feet. And 4 the king said unto him, Where is he? And Ziba said unto the king, Behold, he is in the house of Machir, the son of Ammiel, in Lo-debar.

Then king David sent, and fetched him out of the house of 5 Machir, the son of Ammiel, from Lo-debar. Now when 6 Mephibosheth, the son of Jonathan, the son of Saul, was come unto David, he fell on his face, and did reverence. And David said, Mephibosheth. And he answered, Behold thy servant! And David said unto him, Fear not: for I will surely 7 shew thee kindness for Jonathan thy father's sake, and will restore thee all the land of Saul thy father; and thou shalt eat bread at my table continually. And he bowed himself, and 8 said, What is thy servant, that thou shouldest look upon such a dead dog as I am?

Then the king called to Ziba, Saul's servant, and said unto 9 him, I have given unto thy master's son all that pertained to Saul and to all his house. Thou therefore, and thy sons, and 10 thy servants, shall till the land for him, and thou shalt bring in the fruits, that thy master's son may have food to eat: but Mephibosheth thy master's son shall eat bread alway at my table. Now Ziba had fifteen sons and twenty servants. Then said Ziba unto the king, According to all that my lord the king hath commanded his servant, so shall thy servant do. As for Mephibosheth, said the king, he shall eat at my table, as one of the king's sons. And Mephibosheth had a young son, whose name was Micha. And all that dwelt in the house of Ziba were servants unto Mephibosheth. So Mephibosheth dwelt in Jerusalem: for he did eat continually at the king's table; and was lame on both his feet.

¹ And it came to pass after this, that the ^e king of the children said David, I will shew kindness unto Hanun the son of Nahash, as his father shewed kindness unto me. And David sent to comfort him by the hand of his servants for his father. And David's servants came into the land of the children of Ammon.

³ And the princes of the children of Ammon said unto Hanun their lord, ^a Thinkest thou that David doth honour thy father, that he hath sent comforters unto thee? hath not David rather sent his servants unto thee, to search the city, and to spy it out, ⁴ and to overthrow it? Wherefore Hanun took David's servants, and shaved off the one half of their beards, and cut off their garments in the middle, even to their buttocks, and sent them ⁵ away. When they told it unto David, he sent to meet them, because the men were greatly ashamed: and the king said, Tarry at Jericho until your beards be grown, and then return.
⁶ And when the children of Ammon saw that they stank before David, the children of Ammon sent and hired the Syrians of Beth-rehob, and the Syrians of Zoba, twenty thousand footmen, and of king Maacah a thousand men, and of ^e Ish-tob ⁷ twelve thousand men. And when David heard of it, he sent ⁸ Joab, and all the host of the mighty men. And the children of Ammon came out, and put the battle in array at the enter-

⁹ Ish-tob, and Maacah, were by themselves in the field. When Joab saw that the front of the battle was against him before and behind, he chose of all the choice men of Israel, and put them ¹⁰ in array against the Syrians: and the rest of the people he delivered into the hand of Abishai his brother, that he might

Be of good courage, and let us play ¹² the men for our people, and for the cities of our God: and the LORD do that which seemeth him good. And Joab drew nigh, ¹³ and the people that were with him, unto the battle against the Syrians: and they fled before him. And when the children ¹⁴ of Ammon saw that the Syrians were fled, then fled they also before Abishai, and entered into the city. So Joab returned from the children of Ammon, and came to Jerusalem.

1036. And when the Syrians saw that they were smitten before ¹⁵ Israel, they gathered themselves together. And Hadarezer ¹⁶ sent, and brought out the Syrians that were beyond ^f the river: and they came to Helam; and ^g Shobach the captain of the host of Hadarezer went before them. And when it was told ¹⁷ David, he gathered all Israel together, and passed over Jordan, and came to Helam. And the Syrians set themselves in array ¹⁸ against David, and fought with him. And the Syrians fled before Israel: and David slew the men of seven hundred chariots of the Syrians, and forty thousand ^h horsemen, and smote Shobach the captain of their host, who died there. And when all the kings ¹⁹ that were servants to Hadarezer saw that they were smitten before Israel, they made peace with Israel, and served them. And the rest of the people he delivered unto the hand of ^a Abishai his brother, and 13 they set themselves in array against the children of Ammon. And he said, If the 14
Syrians be too strong for me, then thou shalt help me: but if the children of 15
Ammon be too strong for thee, then I will help thee. Be of good courage, and let 16 us behave ourselves valiantly for our people, and for the cities of our God: and let 17 the LORD do that which is good in his sight. So Joab and the people that were 18 with him drew nigh before the Syrians unto the battle; and they fled before him. 19
And when the children of Ammon saw that the Syrians were fled, they likewise 20 fled before Abishai his brother, and entered into the city. Then Joab came to 21 Jerusalem.

2 SAMUEL XII. VER. 1, TO FORMER PART OF VER. 15.

And the LORD sent Nathan unto David. And he came unto him, and said unto him, There were two men in one city; the one rich, and the other poor. The rich man had exceeding many flocks and herds: but the poor man had nothing, save one little ewe lamb, which he had bought and nourished up: and it grew up together with him, and with his children; it did eat of his own ^s meat, and drank of his own cup, and lay in his bosom, and was unto him as a daughter. And there came a traveller unto the rich man, and he spared to take of his own flock and of his own herd, to dress for the wayfaring man that was come unto him; but took the poor man's lamb, and dressed it for the man that was come to him. And David's anger was greatly kindled against the man; and he said to Nathan, As the LORD liveth, the man that hath done this thing ^t shall surely die: and he shall restore the lamb ^u fourfold, because he did this thing, and because he had no pity.

Wherefore hast thou despised the commandment of the LORD, to do evil in his sight? thou hast killed Uriah the Hittite with the sword, and hast taken his wife to be thy wife, and hast slain him with the sword of the children of Ammon. Now therefore the sword shall never depart from thy house; because thou hast despised me, and hast taken the wife of Uriah the Hittite to be thy wife. Thus saith the LORD, Behold, I will raise up evil against thee out of thine own house, and I will ^y take thy wives before thine eyes, and give them unto thy neighbour, and he shall lie with thy wives in the sight of this sun. For thou didst it secretly: but I will do this thing before all Israel, and before the sun. And David said unto Nathan, I have sinned against the LORD. Psalm xxxii. It is generally thought that this Psalm was written by David, after the pardon he obtained for his adultery with Bathsheba.—Hales's Anal. vol. ii. p. 376; and Rosenmüller.

Psalm xxxiii. is ascribed by Dr. Hales to the same occasion. And Psalm ciii. is considered by the same great authority as David's eucharistical ode, after God had pardoned his great sin.

Although God, upon the repentance of David, pardoned his sin, yet we find a series of temporal judgments were inflicted upon him, both as a just punishment for his crime, and as a solemn warning to others. The remainder of his days was as disastrous as the beginning had been prosperous and flourishing. Rape, incest, murder, and rebellion, raged among his children—he was deserted by his friends—reviled by his enemies—banished from his capital—and plunged into the deepest affliction, by the ingratitude and death of his favourite and rebellious son Absalom.—Vide Hales' Anal. vol. ii. p. 377.

Amnon and Tamar.

2 SAMUEL XIII. VER. 1—20.

1032. And it came to pass after this, that Absalom the son of David had a fair sister, whose name was Tamar ; and Amnon the son of David loved her. And Amnon was so vexed, that he fell sick for his sister Tamar ; for she was a virgin ; and ^a Amnon thought it hard for him to do any thing to her. But Amnon had a friend, whose name was Jonadab, the son of Shimeah David's brother : and Jonadab was a very subtil man. And he said unto him, Why art thou, being the king's son, ^b lean from day to day ? wilt thou not tell me ? And Amnon said unto him, I love Tamar, my brother Absalom's sister. And Jonadab said unto him, Lay thee down on thy bed, and make thyself sick : and when thy father cometh to see thee, say unto him, I pray thee, let my sister Tamar come, and give me meat, and dress the meat in my sight, that I may see it, and eat it at her hand.

So Amnon lay down, and made himself sick : and when the king was come to see him, Amnon said unto the king, I pray thee, let Tamar my sister come, and make me a couple of cakes in my sight, that I may eat at her hand. Then David sent home to Tamar, saying, Go now to thy brother Amnon's house, and dress him meat. So Tamar went to her brother Amnon's house ; and he was laid down. And she took ^d flour, and kneaded it, and made cakes in his sight, and did bake the cakes. And she took a pan, and poured them out before him ; but he refused to eat. And Amnon said, Have out all men from me. And they went out every man from him. And Amnon said unto Tamar, Bring the meat into the chamber, that I may eat of thine hand. And Tamar took the cakes which she had made, and brought them into the chamber to Amnon her brother. And when she had brought them unto him to eat, he took hold of her, and said unto her, Come lie with me, my sister. And she answered him, Nay, my brother, do not ^e force me ; for ^f ^g no such thing ought to be done in Israel : do not thou this folly. And I, whither shall I cause my shame

- 21 But when king David heard of all these things, he was very 1030.
 22 wroth. And Absalom spake unto his brother Amnon neither good nor bad: for Absalom hated Amnon, because he had forced his sister Tamar.
- 23 And it came to pass after two full years, that Absalom had sheepshearers in Baal-hazor, which is beside Ephraim: and 24 Absalom invited all the king's sons. And Absalom came to the king, and said, Behold now, thy servant hath sheepshearers;
 let the king, I beseech thee, and his servants go with thy 25 servant. And the king said to Absalom, Nay, my son, let us not all now go, lest we be chargeable unto thee. And he pressed him: howbeit he would not go, but blessed him.
- 26 Then said Absalom, If not, I pray thee, let my brother Am-non go with us. And the king said unto him, Why should he

A.C. 1030. go with thee? But Absalom pressed him, that he let Amnon 27 and all the king's sons go with him.

Now Absalom had commanded his servants, saying, Mark 28 ye now when Amnon's heart is merry with wine, and when I say unto you, Smite Amnon; then kill him, fear not: ^p have not I commanded you? be courageous, and be ^q valiant. And 29 the servants of Absalom did unto Amnon as Absalom had commanded. Then all the king's sons arose, and every man ^r gat him upon his mule, and fled.

And Jonadab, 32 the son of Shimeah David's brother, answered and said, Let not my lord suppose that they have slain all the young men the king's sons; for Amnon only is dead: for by the ^s appointment of Absalom this hath been ^t determined from the day that he forced his sister Tamar. Now therefore let not my lord 33 the king take the thing to his heart, to think that all the king's sons are dead: for Amnon only is dead. But Absalom fled. 34 And the young man that kept the watch lifted up his eyes, and looked, and, behold, there came much people by the way of the hill side behind him. And Jonadab said unto the king, Behold, 35 the king's sons come: ^u as thy servant said, so it is. Revolt of Absalom.

2 SAMUEL XIV. VER. 1—7.

1027. Now Joab the son of Zeruiah perceived that the king's heart 1 was toward Absalom. And Joab sent to Tekoah, and fetched 2 thence a wise woman, and said unto her, I pray thee, feign thyself to be a mourner, and put on now mourning apparel, and anoint not thyself with oil, but be as a woman that had a long time mourned for the dead: and come to the king, and 3 speak on this manner unto him. 2 SAMUEL XIV. VER. 18, TO THE END.

Then the king answered and said unto the woman, Hide not 18 from me, I pray thee, the thing that I shall ask thee. And the woman said, Let my lord the king now speak. And the 19 king said, Is not the hand of Joab with thee in all this? And the woman answered and said, As thy soul liveth, my lord the king, none can turn to the right hand or to the left from ought that my lord the king hath spoken: for thy servant Joab, he bade me, and he put all these words in the mouth of thine handmaid: to fetch about this form of speech hath thy servant Joab 20 done this thing: and my lord is wise, according to the wisdom of an angel of God, to know all things that are in the earth.

And the king said unto Joab, Behold now, I have done this 21 thing: go therefore, bring the young man Absalom again. And Joab fell to the ground on his face, and bowed himself, 22 ^h and ^h thanked the king: and Joab said, To day thy servant knoweth that I have found grace in thy sight, my lord, O king, ⁱ in that the king hath fulfilled the request of ⁱ his servant. So 23 Joab arose and went to Geshur, and brought Absalom to Jerusalem. And the king said, Let him turn to his own house, and 24 let him not see my face. So Absalom returned to his own house, and saw not the king's face.

And 26 when he polled his head, (for it was at every year's end that he polled it: because the hair was heavy on him, therefore he polled it:) he weighed the hair of his head at two hundred shekels after the king's weight. And unto Absalom there were 27 born three sons, and one daughter, whose name was Tamar: she was a woman of a fair countenance.

So Absalom dwelt two full years in Jerusalem, and saw not 28 the king's face. Therefore Absalom sent for Joab, to have 29 sent him to the king; but he would not come to him: and when he sent again the second time, he would not come. Therefore he said unto his servants, See, Joab's field is ^l near 30 mine, and he hath barley there; go and set it on fire. And Absalom's servants set the field on fire. Then Joab arose, and 31 came to Absalom unto his house, and said unto him, Wherefore have thy servants set my field on fire? And Absalom answered 32 Joab, Behold, I sent unto thee, saying, Come hither, that I may send thee to the king, to say, Wherefore am I come from Geshur? it had been good for me to have been there still: now therefore let me see the king's face; and if there be any

2 SAMUEL XV. TO VER. 29.

- 1 And it came to pass after this, that Absalom prepared him ^{1024.}
 2 chariots and horses, and fifty men to run before him. And Absalom rose up early, and stood beside the way of the gate: and it was so, that when any man that had a controversy ^m came ^{m Heb. to come.} to the king for judgment, then Absalom called unto him, and said, Of what city art thou? And he said, Thy servant is of one

 5 And it was so, that when any man came nigh to him to do him obeisance, he put forth his hand, and took him, and kissed
 6 him. And on this manner did Absalom to all Israel that came to the king for judgment: so Absalom stole the hearts of the men of Israel.
 7 ⁵⁹ And it came to pass after forty years, that Absalom said unto ^{1023.} the king, I pray thee, let me go and pay my vow, which I have 8 vowed unto the LORD, in Hebron. For thy servant vowed a vow while I abode at Geshur in Syria, saying, If the LORD shall bring me again indeed to Jerusalem, then I will serve the 9 LORD. And the king said unto him, Go in peace. So he arose, and went to Hebron.
 10 But Absalom sent spies throughout all the tribes of Israel, say-11 ing, As soon as ye hear the sound of the trumpet, then ye shall 12 say, Absalom reigneth in Hebron. And with Absalom went two hundred men out of Jerusalem, that were called; and they went in 13 their simplicity, and they knew not any thing. And Absalom sent for Ahithophel the Gilonite, David's counsellor, from his city, even from Giloh, while he offered sacrifices. And the conspiracy was strong; for the people increased continually with Absalom.
 14 And there came a messenger to David, saying, The hearts of the men of Israel are after Absalom. And David said unto all his servants that were with him at Jerusalem, Arise, and let us flee; for we shall not else escape from Absalom: make speed to depart, lest he overtake us suddenly, and bring ^o evil upon ^{o Heb. thrust.}

⁵⁹ 2 Sam. xv. 7. There is some difficulty in ascertaining what is meant by the "forty years," in this verse. Some read four years only. Lightfoot dates the forty years from the first anointing of David, by Samuel; and this solution is certainly preferable to making any alteration in the text. Dr. Hales supposes, that the proper reading is four years, as being the time from the first fomenting of Absalom's conspiracy, till it broke out into open rebellion: but for this there does not seem to be sufficient evidence.—Hales's Anal. vol. ii. p. 379; Lightfoot in loc.; Horsley's Bib. Crit. vol. i. p. 358; Bp. Patrick in loc.

 the elders of Israel. Then said Absalom, Call now Hushai the 5 Archite also, and let us hear likewise ^z what he saith. And 6 when Hushai was come to Absalom, Absalom spake unto him, saying, Ahithophel hath spoken after this manner: shall we do after his ^a saying? if not; speak thou. And Hushai said unto 7 Absalom, The counsel that Ahithophel hath ^b given is not good at this time. For, said Hushai, thou knowest thy father and 8 his men, that they be mighty men, and they be ^c chafed in their minds, as a bear robbed of her whelps in the field: and thy father is a man of war, and will not lodge with the people.
 Behold, he is hid now in some pit, or in some other place: 9 and it will come to pass, when some of them be ^d overthrown at the first, that whosoever heareth it will say, There is a slaughter among the people that follow Absalom. And he also that is 10 valiant, whose heart is as the heart of a lion, shall utterly melt:
 for all Israel knoweth that thy father is a mighty man, and they which be with him are valiant men. Therefore I counsel that 11 all Israel be generally gathered unto thee, from Dan even to Beer-sheba, as the sand that is by the sea for multitude; and ^e that thou go to battle in thine own person. So shall we come 12 upon him in some place where he shall be found, and we will light upon him as the dew falleth on the ground: and of him and of all the men that are with him there shall not be left so much as one. Moreover, if he be gotten into a city, then 13 shall all Israel bring ropes to that city, and we will draw it into

- 14 the river, until there be not one small stone found there. And A.C. 1023.
 Absalom and all the men of Israel said, The counsel of Hushai the Archite is better than the counsel of Ahithophel. For the LORD had ^fappointed to defeat the good counsel of Ahithophel, to the intent that the LORD might bring evil upon Absalom. f Heb. com-manded.
- 15 Then said Hushai unto Zadok and to Abiathar the priests, Thus and thus did Ahithophel counsel Absalom and the elders of Israel; and thus and thus have I counselled. Now therefore send quickly, and tell David, saying, Lodge not this night in the plains of the wilderness, but speedily pass over; lest the king be swallowed up, and all the people that are with him.
- 17 Now Jonathan and Ahimaaz stayed by En-rogel; for they might not be seen to come into the city: and a wench went and told them; and they went and told king David. Nevertheless a lad saw them, and told Absalom: but they went both of them away quickly, and came to a man's house in Bahurim, which had a well in his court; whither they went down. And the woman took and spread a covering over the well's mouth, and spread ground corn thereon; and the thing was not known.
- 20 And when Absalom's servants came to the woman to the house, they said, Where is Ahimaaz and Jonathan? And the woman said unto them, They be gone over the brook of water. And when they had sought and could not find them, they returned to Jerusalem. And it came to pass, after they were departed, that they came up out of the well, and went and told king David, and said unto David, Arise, and pass quickly over the water: for thus hath Ahithophel counselled against you. Then David arose, and all the people that were with him, and they passed over Jordan: by the morning light there lacked not one of them that was not gone over Jordan.
- 23 And when Ahithophel saw that his counsel was not ^gfollowed, g Heb. done. he saddled his ass, and arose, and gat him home to his house, to his city, and ^hput his household in order, and hanged himself, h Heb. gave charge concerning his house.
- 24 and died, and was buried in the sepulchre of his father. Then David came to Mahanaim. And Absalom passed over Jordan, he and all the men of Israel with him.
- 25 And Absalom made Amasa captain of the host instead of Joab: which Amasa was a man's son, whose name was ⁱIthra i Or, Jether an Ishmaelite. an Israelite, that went in to ^kAbigail the daughter of ^lNahash, k Heb. Abigail. sister to Zeruiah Joab's mother. So Israel and Absalom pitched in the land of Gilead. l Or, Jesse. See 1 Chr. ii. 13. 16.
- 27 And it came to pass, when David was come to Mahanaim, that Shobi the son of Nahash of Rabbah of the children of Ammon, and Mashir the son of Ammiel of Lo-debar, and
- 28 Barzillai the Gileadite of Rogelim, brought beds, and ^mbasons, m Or, cups. and earthen vessels, and wheat, and barley, and flour, and

p Ps. lxxx. 5.

My tears have been my meat day and night, while they 3 continually say unto me, Where is thy God?

When I remember these things, I pour out my soul in me: 4 for I had gone with the multitude, I went with them to the house of God, with the voice of joy and praise, with a multitude that kept holyday.

O my God, my soul is cast down within me: therefore will 6 I remember thee from the land of Jordan, and of the Hermonites, from ° the hill Mizar.

t Or, the little hill.

Deep calleth unto deep at the noise of thy waterspouts: 7 all thy waves and thy billows are gone over me.

Yet the LORD will command his lovingkindness in the day- 8 time, and in the night his song shall be with me, and my prayer unto the God of my life.

I will say unto God my rock, Why hast thou forgotten me? 9 why go I mourning because of the oppression of the enemy?

u Or, killing.

Why art thou cast down, O my soul? and why art thou 11 disquieted within me? hope thou in God: for I shall yet praise him, who is the health of my countenance, and my God.

62 Psalm xlii. In his flight from Absalom, David does not rest till he reaches the river Jordan. While reposing on its banks, he composes the forty-second Psalm, and remembers the Lord from the land of Jordan, (ver. 6.) In contemplating the waters of its river, he affectingly alludes to his own misery: "All thy billows and waves are gone over me." (Lightfoot in loc.) That this Psalm was written at this time, is suggested by Dr. Wells, who observes: 'This Psalm was most probably composed by David, when he was driven by Absalom from Jerusalem, and so from serving God at his own house or tabernacle, on Mount Zion; which he bewails as a great calamity, with hopes of being enabled by God to return thither again.'—Dr. Wells's Comment. vol. iii. p. 133.

PSALM I.V.

1 David in his prayer complaineth of his fearful case. 9 He prayeth against his enemies, of whose wickedness and treachery he complaineth. 16 He comforteth himself in God's preservation of him, and confusion of his enemies.

¶ To the chief Musician on Neginoth, Maschil, A Psalm of David.

- 1 Give ear to my prayer, O God ; and hide not thyself from my supplication.

⁶³ This Psalm, in all probability, was composed on the same occasion as the 42nd, (vide Bishop Patrick in loc.) Bishop Lowth was of opinion that the 42nd and 43rd Psalms were originally but one : and the supposition is confirmed by more than thirty manuscripts. The 43rd Psalm seems to have been written about the same time as the 42nd. Compare the last verses of the two Psalms together. Lightfoot.

Psalm lv. Lightfoot and Dr. Hales, (Anal. vol. 2. p. 381.) refer this Psalm to the occasion of Ahithophel's treachery : it is generally considered as a prophecy of the treachery of Judas, and is quoted as such by St. Peter, Acts i. 20.

Psalm iv. David probably composed this Psalm on the same occasion that he wrote the third, (Bishop Patrick.) Lightfoot has a curious thought on the 7th verse of this Psalm. David is expressing his confidence in God ; and proceeds to say, that his reliance on the providence of God affords him greater gladness of heart than he felt at that moment when, in the midst of his suffering and weariness, his own temporal wants as well as those of his followers were so abundantly relieved by the corn and wine of the three wealthy men who supplied him with provision at Mahanaim. 2 Sam. xvii. 27.

Psalm v. This Psalm is among those of which the date and occasion are quite uncertain. Dr. Edwards conjectures that it was composed when David was persecuted by Saul or Absalom. It is inserted here as more applicable to the circumstances of the revolt of Absalom than the persecution of Saul.

Psalm clxiv. A thanksgiving for David's victories over Absalom, and other rebels. Calmet ; Horne.

Psalm lxx. This Psalm is supposed to have been used by David continually during Absalom's rebellion. Wells's Comment. in loc. note.

Psalm lxxi. It is generally thought that this Psalm was composed by David on occasion of Absalom's rebellion, when David was old and grey-headed. Dr. Wells in loc. ; Calmet ; Horne ; Dr. Gray.

A.C. 1023. Attend unto me, and hear me: I mourn in my complaint, 2 and make a noise;

set captains of thousands and captains of hundreds over them.
And David sent forth a third part of the people under the 2 hand of Joab, and a third part under the hand of Abishai the son of Zeruiah, Joab's brother, and a third part under the hand of Ittai the Gittite. And the king said unto the people, I will surely go forth with you myself also. But the people answered, 3 Thou shalt not go forth: for if we flee away, they will not care for us; neither if half of us die, will they care for us:
but now thou art ^r worth ten thousand of us: therefore now it 4 is better that thou ^s succour us out of the city. And the king said unto them, What seemeth you best I will do. And the 5 king stood by the gate side, and all the people came out by hundreds and by thousands. And the king commanded Joab and Abishai and Ittai, saying, Deal gently for my sake with the young man, even with Absalom. And all the people heard when the king gave all the captains charge concerning Absalom.

And Joab said unto the man that told him, And, behold, thou 11

And it was told Joab, Behold, the king weepeth and mourneth for Absalom. And the ^m victory that day was turned into mourning unto all the people: for the people heard say that day how the king was grieved for his son. And the people gat them by stealth that day into the city, as people being ashamed steal away when they flee in battle. But the king covered his face, and the king cried with a loud voice, O my son Absalom, O Absalom, my son, my son! And Joab came into the house to the king, and said, Thou hast shamed this day the faces of all thy servants, which this day have saved thy life, and the lives of thy sons and of thy daughters, and the lives of thy wives, and the lives of thy concubines; ⁿ in that thou lovest thine enemies, and hatest thy friends. For thou hast declared this day, ^o that thou regardest neither princes nor servants: for this day I perceive, that if Absalom had lived, and all we had died this day, then it had pleased thee well. Now therefore arise, go forth, and speak comfortably unto thy servants: for I swear by the LORD, if thou go not forth, there will not tarry one with thee this night: and that will be worse unto thee than all the evil that befell thee from thy youth until now. Then the king arose, and sat in the gate. And they told unto all the people, saying, Behold, the king doth sit in the gate. And all the people came before the king: for Israel had fled every man to his tent.

And all the people were at strife throughout all the tribes of Israel, saying, The king has saved us out of the hand of our enemies, and he delivered us out of the hand of the Philistines; and now he is fled out of the land for Absalom. And Barzillai the Gileadite came down from Rogelim, and went over Jordan with the king, to conduct him over Jordan. Now Barzillai was a very aged man, even fourscore years old: and ^z he had provided the king of sustenance while he lay at Mahanaim; for he was a very great man. And the king said unto Barzillai, Come thou over with me, and I will feed thee with me in Jerusalem. And Barzillai said unto the king ^a How long have I to live, that I should go up with the king unto Jerusalem? I am this day fourscore years old: and can I discern between good and evil? can thy servant taste what I eat or what I drink? can I hear any more the voice of singing men and singing women? wherefore then should thy servant be yet a burden unto my lord the king? Thy servant will go a little way over Jordan with the king: and why should the king recompense it me with such a reward? Let thy servant, I pray thee, turn back again, that I may die in mine own city, and be buried by the grave of my father and of my mother. But behold thy servant Chimham; let him go over with my lord the king; and do to him what shall seem good unto thee. And the king answered, Chimham shall go over with me, and I will do to him that which shall seem good unto thee: and whatsoever thou shalt ^b require of me, that will I do for thee. And all the people went over Jordan. And when the king was come over, the king kissed Barzillai, and blessed him; and he returned unto his own place. Then the king went on to Gilgal, and ^c Chimham went on with him: and all the people of Judah conducted the king, and also half the people of Israel.

And, behold, all the men of Israel came to the king, and said unto the king, Why have our brethren the men of Judah stolen thee away, and have brought the king, and his household, and all David's men with him, over Jordan? And all the men of Judah answered the men of Israel, Because the king is near of kin to us: wherefore then be ye angry for this matter? have we eaten at all of the king's cost? or hath he given us any gift? And the men of Israel answered the men of Judah, and said, We have ten parts in the king, and we have also more right in David than ye: why then did ye ^d despise us, that our advice should not be first had in bringing back our king? And the words of the men of Judah were fiercer than the words of the men of Israel.

And when the man saw that all the people stood still, he removed Amasa out of the highway into the field, and cast a cloth upon him, when he saw that every one that came by him stood still. ⁶⁴ At this time, when the Israelites had been weakened by two rebellions and three years of famine, the Philistines, thinking it a favourable opportunity of shaking off the yoke, renew the war; but are defeated in four engagements, and are finally subdued. After these deliverances it is probable that David, who had composed the 18th Psalm at an early period of his life, when, according to the title, he had been delivered from the hand of Saul, now again applies it, on being rescued from the last assault of his enemies. This appears to account for the differences between this psalm § 12. David numbers the People.

2 SAMUEL XXIV. VER. 1—9.

- 1 ⁶⁵ And again the anger of the LORD was kindled against Israel, and ^a he moved David against them to say, Go, number Israel 2 and Judah. For the king said to Joab the captain of the host, which was with him, ^b Go now through all the tribes of Israel, from Dan even to Beer-sheba, and number ye the people, 3 that I may know the number of the people. And Joab said unto the king, Now the LORD thy God add unto the people, how many soever they be, an hundredfold, and that the eyes of my lord the king may see it: but why doth my lord the king 4 delight in this thing? Notwithstanding the king's word prevailed against Joab, and against the captains of the host. And Joab and the captains of the host went out from the presence of the king, to number the people of Israel.
- 5 And they passed over Jordan, and pitched in Aroer, on the right side of the city that lieth in the midst of the ^c river of Gad, 6 and toward Jazer: then they came to Gilead, and to the ^d land of Tahtim-hodshi; and they came to Dan-jaan, and about to 7 Zidon, and came to the strong hold of Tyre, and to all the cities of the Hivites, and of the Canaanites: and they went out to 8 the south of Judah, even to Beer-sheba. So when they had gone through all the land, they came to Jerusalem at the end 9 of nine months and twenty days. ⁶⁶ And Joab gave up the sum ⁶⁵ David's motive for numbering his people was pride of heart. It is curious to observe the different phraseology of Scripture: in this verse it says, "God moved him;" in another part, that Satan provoked him; and it is again decidedly spoken of as his own act, for which he was not only acc. untalbe, but punished.

⁶⁶ In the book of Samuel it is said, Joab numbered 800,000 for Israel, and 500,000 for Judah;

A.C. 1017. of the number of the people unto the king: and there were in Israel eight hundred thousand valiant men that drew the sword; and the men of Judah were five hundred thousand men.

Israel like to the stars of the heavens. Joab the son of Zeruiah 24 for it against Israel; neither ^g was the number put in the account of the chronicles of king David.

2 SAMUEL XXIV. VER. 10—15.

And David's heart smote him after that he had numbered 10
the people. And David said unto the LORD, I have sinned greatly in that I have done: and now, I beseech thee, O LORD, take away the iniquity of thy servant; for I have done very foolishly. For when David was up in the morning, the word 11 of the LORD came unto the prophet Gad, David's seer, saying, Go and say unto David, Thus saith the LORD, I offer thee 12 three things; choose thee one of them, that I may do it unto thee. So Gad came to David, and told him, and said unto 13 him, Shall seven years of famine come unto thee in thy land? or wilt thou flee three months before thine enemies, while they pursue thee? or that there be three days' pestilence in thy land? now advise, and see what answer I shall return to him that sent me. And David said unto Gad, I am in a great 14 strait: let us fall now into the hand of the LORD; for his mercies are ^h great: and let me not fall into the hand of man.

And Joab answered, The LORD make his people an hundred times so many more as they be: but, my lord the king, are they not all my lord's servants? why then doth my lord require this thing? why will he be a cause of trespass to Israel? Nevertheless the king's word prevailed against Joab. Wherefore Joab departed, and went throughout all Israel, and came to Jerusalem.

And Joab gave the sum of the number of the people unto David. And all they of Israel were a thousand thousand and an hundred thousand men that drew sword: and Judah was four hundred threescore and ten thousand men that drew sword.

- 9, 10 And the LORD spake unto Gad, David's seer, saying, Go and tell David, saying, Thus saith the LORD, ^a I offer thee three things: choose thee one of them, destroyed before thy foes, while that the sword of thine enemies overtaketh thee; ^c or else three days the sword of the LORD, even the pestilence, in the land, and the 13 advise thyself what word I shall bring again to him that sent me. And David said unto Gad, I am in a great strait: let me fall now into the hand of the LORD; for very great are his mercies; but let me not fall into the hand of man. ^c Or, many.

 on my father's house.

2 SAMUEL XXIV. VER. 18, TO THE END.

- 18 And Gad came that day to David, and said unto him, Go up, rear an altar unto 19 the LORD in the threshingfloor of Araunah the Jebusite. And David, according to 20 the saying of Gad, went up as the LORD commanded. And Araunah looked, and saw the king and his servants coming on toward him: and Araunah went out, and 21 bowed himself before the king on his face upon the ground. And Araunah said, Wherefore is my lord the king come to his servant? And David said, To buy the threshingfloor of thee, to build an altar unto the LORD, that the plague may be 22 stayed from the people. And Araunah said unto David, Let my lord the king take and offer up what seemeth good unto him: behold, here be oxen for burnt sacrifice, and threshing instruments and other instruments of the oxen for wood.
 23 All these things did Araunah, as a king, give unto the king. And Araunah said
 24 unto the king, The LORD thy God accept thee. And the king said unto Araunah, Nay; but I will surely buy it of thee at a price: neither will I offer burnt offerings unto the LORD my God of that which doth cost me nothing. So David bought the 25 threshingfloor and the oxen for fifty shekels of silver. And David built there an altar unto the LORD, and offered burnt offerings and peace offerings. So the LORD was intreated for the land, and the plague was stayed from Israel.

⁶⁸ The arrangement of the events related in this section varies considerably from their order as proposed by Lightfoot. The difficulty of placing them is very great; but the following considerations appear to warrant the present disposition of the text.

Solomon had been intended by his father, from his very birth, as the successor to the throne. It is generally supposed that Nathan assured David that his son would succeed him, when the name Jedediah, "Beloved of the Lord," was given him; and when he was commanded not to build the temple.

When David, however, was now very old and infirm, Adonijah began to assume the honours of royalty, and to consider himself as the successor. Adonijah was the fourth son of David: Absalom and Amnon were dead, and his other brother Daniel, or Chilead, was born before David was king. According to the custom of the east, therefore, Adonijah considered himself the eldest son, and heir to the kingdom. Lightfoot ascribes the rash and ambitious schemes of this prince, to his knowledge of his father's decrepitude and age; and places, therefore, the passage 1 Kings i. before the account of the address of David to Solomon. This, however, does not appear an adequate cause;

A.C. 1015. commanded to gather together the strangers that were in the land of Israel; and he set masons to hew wrought stones to build the house of God. And David prepared iron in abundance for the nails for the doors of the gates, and for the joinings; and brass in abundance without weight; also cedar trees in abundance: for the Zidonians and they of Tyre brought much cedar wood to David. And David said, ^a Solomon my son is young and tender, and the house that is to be builded for the LORD must be exceeding magnifical, of fame and of glory throughout all countries: I will therefore now make preparation for it. So David prepared abundantly before his death.

Then he called for Solomon his son, and charged him to build an house for the LORD God of Israel. And David said to Solomon, My son, as for me, it was in my mind to build an house unto the name of the LORD my God: but the word of the LORD came to me, saying, ^b Thou hast shed blood abundantly, and hast made great wars: thou shalt not build an house unto my name, because thou hast shed much blood upon the earth in my sight. Behold, a son shall be born to thee, who shall be a man of rest; and I will give him rest from all his enemies round about: for his name shall be ^c Solomon, and I will give peace and quietness unto Israel in his days. He shall build an house for my name; and he shall be my son, and I will be his father; and I will establish the throne of his kingdom over Israel for ever. Now, my son, the LORD be with thee; and prosper thou, and build the house of the LORD thy God, as he hath said of thee. Only the LORD give thee wisdom and understanding, and give thee charge concerning for if Adonijah really supposed himself to be the destined heir, the very conviction he entertained of his father's infirmity ought to have induced him to remain quiet. The suspicion of David's determination to anoint Solomon as his successor is more likely to have influenced his conduct. Adonijah, therefore, relying on the attachment of Joab, the head of the army, and on that of Abiathar the high-priest, as well as on the silence hitherto maintained in public respecting Solomon, endeavoured to form a party too strong for his father to oppose; and by these means to prevent the intended advancement of Solomon.

The promptitude and decision of David defeated this bold enterprise. Though he was confined to his couch by infirmities (1 Kings i. 47.) he ordered Solomon to be immediately crowned king, and declared partner of the throne: thus investing him with power to punish all conspiracies against the sovereign. This unexpected firmness entirely dispersed the adherents of Adonijah. David, however, not content with this, had recourse to another step, which secured the throne to Solomon against all further attempts. David summoned the princes and heads of Israel, and, leaving his couch, went to the assembly, presented Solomon to them as king, and declared the promise of God, that Solomon alone should build the temple, and establish the kingdom as his successor.

After this first assembly, more extensive preparations were made to build the temple: the priests and Levites are called together, and divided into their several courses; they do not appear to have been summoned to the first assembly. It is probable that the chief Psalms composed by David were delivered to the priests and singers. And when all the preparations for the objects which David had in view were completed, the congregation is summoned a second time—the magnificent presents of David to the intended building are recorded—the heads of the nation contribute to the work—a solemn festival was held, at which Solomon was again anointed—and all the princes publicly submitted themselves to him, as they had before done to his father.

 17 David also commanded all the princes of Israel to help Solomon his son, saying, Is not the LORD your God with you? and hath he not given you rest on every side? for he hath given the inhabitants of the land into mine hand; and the land is 19 subdued before the LORD, and before his people. Now set your heart and your soul to seek the LORD your God; arise therefore, and build ye the sanctuary of the LORD God, to bring the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and the holy vessels of God, into the house that is to be built to the name of the LORD.

 5 Then Adonijah the son of Haggith exalted himself, saying, I will ^mbe king: and he prepared him chariots and horsemen, ^m Heb. reign.

Wherefore Nathan spake unto Bath-sheba the mother of 11 Solomon, saying, Hast thou not heard that Adonijah the son of ^r Haggith doth reign, and David our lord knoweth it not? ^r 2 Sam. iii. 4. Now therefore come, let me, I pray thee, give thee counsel, 12 that thou mayest save thine own life, and the life of thy son Solomon. Go and get thee in unto king David, and say unto 13 him, didst not thou, my lord, O king, swear unto thine handmaid, saying, Assuredly Solomon thy son shall reign after me, and he shall sit upon my throne? why then doth Adonijah reign? Behold, while thou yet talkest there with the king, I 14 ^s Heb. fill up. also will come in after thee, and ^s confirm thy words.

And Bath-sheba went in unto the king into the chamber: 15 and the king was very old; and Abishag the Shunammite ministered unto the king. And Bath-sheba bowed, and did 16 ^t Heb. What to thee? obeisance unto the king. And the king said, ^t What wouldest thou? And she said unto him, My lord, thou swarest by the 17 LORD thy God unto thine handmaid, saying, Assuredly Solomon thy son shall reign after me, and he shall sit upon my throne. And now, behold, Adonijah reigneth; and now, my 18 lord the king, thou knowest it not: and he hath slain oxen and 19 fat cattle and sheep in abundance, and hath called all the sons of the king, and Abiathar the priest, and Joab the captain of the host: but Solomon thy servant hath he not called. And 20 thou, my lord, O king, the eyes of all Israel are upon thee, that thou shouldest tell them who shall sit on the throne of my lord the king after him. Otherwise it shall come to pass, 21 when my lord the king shall sleep with his fathers, that I and my son Solomon shall be counted ^u offenders.

And, lo, while she yet talked with the king, Nathan the 22 prophet also came in. And they told the king, saying, Behold 23 Nathan the prophet. And when he was come in before the king, he bowed himself before the king with his face to the ground. And Nathan said, My lord, O king, hast thou said, 24 Adonijah shall reign after me, and he shall sit upon my throne? For he is gone down this day, and hath slain oxen and fat 25 cattle and sheep in abundance, and hath called all the king's sons, and the captains of the host, and Abiathar the priest; and, behold, they eat and drink before him, and say, ^x God save king Adonijah. But me, even me thy servant, and Zadok the 26 priest, and Benaiah the son of Jehoida, and thy servant Solomon, hath he not called. Is this thing done by my lord the 27 king, and thou hast not shewed it unto thy servant, who should sit on the throne of my lord the king after him?

Then king David answered and said, Call me Bath-sheba. 28

 31 Then Bath-sheba bowed with her face to the earth, and did reverence to the king, and said, Let my lord king David live for ever.

32 And king David said, Call me Zadok the priest, and Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah the son of Jehoiada. And they came 33 before the king. The king also said unto them, Take with you the servants of your lord, and cause Solomon my son to ride upon ^zmine own mule, and bring him down to Gihon: ^{z Heb. which}

 36 Israel and over Judah. And Benaiah the son of Jehoiada answered the king, and said, Amen: the LORD God of my 37 lord the king say so too. As the LORD hath been with my lord the king, even so be he with Solomon, and make his 38 throne greater than the throne of my lord king David. So Zadok the priest, and Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, and the Cherethites, and the Pelethites, went down, and caused Solomon to ride upon king David's mule, 39 and brought him to Gihon. And Zadok the priest took an horn of oil out of the tabernacle, and anointed Solomon. And they blew the trumpet: and all the people said, God save king 40 Solomon. And all the people came up after him, and the people piped with ^apipes, and rejoiced with great joy, so that ^{a Or, flutes.}
 the earth rent with the sound of them.

41 And Adonijah and all the guests that were with him heard it as they had made an end of eating. And when Joab heard the sound of the trumpet, he said, Wherefore is this noise of 42 the city being in an uproar? And while he yet spake, behold, Jonathan the son of Abiathar the priest came: and Adonijah said unto him, Come in; for thou art a valiant man, and 43 bringest good tidings. And Jonathan answered and said to Adonijah, Verily our lord king David hath made Solomon
 44 king. And the king hath sent with him Zadok the priest, and Nathan the prophet, and Benaiah the son of Jehoiada, and the Cherethites, and the Pelethites, and they have caused him
 45 to ride upon the king's mule: and Zadok the priest and Nathan the prophet have anointed him king in Gihon: and they are come up from thence rejoicing, so that the city rang again.
 46 This is the noise that ye have heard. And also Solomon sit-servants came to bless our lord king David, saying, God make the name of Solomon better than thy name, and make his throne greater than thy throne. And the king bowed himself upon the bed. And also thus said the king, Blessed be the 48 LORD God of Israel, which hath given one to sit on my throne this day, mine eyes even seeing it. And all the guests that 49 were with Adonijah were afraid, and rose up, and went every man his way.

And Adonijah feared because of Solomon, and arose, and 50 went, and caught hold on the horns of the altar. And it was 51 told Solomon, saying, Behold Adonijah feareth king Solomon:
for, lo, he hath caught hold on the horns of the altar, saying,
Let king Solomon swear unto me to day that he will not slay his servant with the sword. And Solomon said, If he will shew 52 himself a worthy man, there shall not an hair of him fall to the earth: but if wickedness shall be found in him, he shall die.
So king Solomon sent, and they brought him down from the 53 altar. And he came and bowed himself to king Solomon: and Solomon said unto him, Go to thine house.

captains over the hundreds, and the stewards over all the sub-men, unto Jerusalem. Then David the king stood up upon his 2 feet, and said, Hear me, my brethren, and my people: As for me, I had in mine heart to build an house of rest for the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and for the footstool of our God, and had made ready for the building: but God said unto me, 3 ^fThou shalt not build an house for my name, because thou hast been a man of war, and hast shed ^gblood. Howbeit the LORD 4 God of Israel chose me before all the house of my father to be king over Israel for ever: for he hath chosen ^hJudah to be the ruler; and of the house of Judah, the house of my father; and among the sons of my father he liked me to make me king over 5

many sons,) he hath chosen Solomon my son to sit upon the ⁶⁹ This Psalm seems, from its internal evidence, to be addressed to Solomon; to encourage him to persevere in his allegiance to the King of kings. It describes the security, the reward, and the happiness of religion. I have inserted it therefore after the charge of David to his son. It is prophetic of Christ, and is quoted by him as applicable to himself.

Psalm cxlv. This fine hymn of praise was not improbably written towards the termination of David's life; on surveying the wisdom, mercy, and goodness of God both to himself and to all nature.

Now these are the divisions of the sons of Aaron. ^dThe sons 1 of Aaron; Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. But 2 ^eNadab and Abihu died before their father, and had no children: therefore Eleazar and Ithamar executed the priest's office. And David distributed them, both Zadok of the sons 3 of Eleazar, and Ahimelech of the sons of Ithamar, according to their offices in their service. And there were more chief men 4 found of the sons of Eleazar than of the sons of Ithamar; and thus were they divided. Among the sons of Eleazar there were sixteen chief men of the house of their fathers, and eight among the sons of Ithamar according to the house of their fathers. Thus were they divided by lot, one sort with another; for the 5 governors of the sanctuary, and governors of the house of God, were of the sons of Eleazar, and of the sons of Ithamar. And 6

- Shemaiah the son of Nethaneel the scribe, one of the Levites, ^{A.C. 1015.} wrote them before the king, and the princes, and Zadok the priest, and Ahimelech the son of Abiathar, and before the chief of the fathers of the priests and Levites: one ^{f Heb. house of the father.} principal household being taken for Eleazar, and one taken for Ithamar. Now the first lot came forth to Jehoiarib, the second to Jedaiah, the third to Harim, the fourth to Seorim, the fifth to Malchijah, the sixth to Mijamin, the seventh to Hakkoz, the eighth to Abijah, the ninth to Jeshuah, the tenth to Shecaniah, the eleventh to Eliashib, the twelfth to Jakim, the thirteenth to Huppah, the fourteenth to Jeshebeah, the fifteenth to Bilgah, the sixteenth to Immer, the seventeenth to Hezir, the eighteenth to Aphses, the nineteenth to Pethahiah, the twentieth to Jehezkeel, the one and twentieth to Jachin, the two and twentieth to Gamul, the three and twentieth to Delaiah, the four and twentieth to Maaziah. These were the orderings of them in their service to come into the house of the LORD, according to their manner, under Aaron their father, as the LORD God of Israel had commanded him.

ⁱ John ii. 17. ^k Rom. xv. 3. ⁱ For the zeal of thine house hath eaten me up; ^k and the 9 reproaches of them that reproached thee are fallen upon me.

When I wept, and chastened my soul with fasting, that was 10 to my reproach.

I made sackcloth also my garment; and I became a proverb 11 to them.

^l Heb. drinkers of strong drink. They that sit in the gate speak against me; and I was the 12 song of the ^l drunkards.

But as for me, my prayer is unto thee, O LORD, in an 13 acceptable time: O God, in the multitude of thy mercy hear me, in the truth of thy salvation.

Deliver me out of the mire, and let me not sink: let me 14 be delivered from them that hate me, and out of the deep waters.

Let not the waterflood overflow me, neither let the deep 15 swallow me up, and let not the pit shut her mouth upon me.

Hear me, O LORD; for thy lovingkindness is good: turn 16 unto me according to the multitude of thy tender mercies.

And hide not thy face from thy servant; for I am in trouble: 17
^m Heb. make haste to hear me. ^m hear me speedily.

Draw nigh unto my soul, and redeem it: deliver me because 18 of mine enemies.

Thou hast known my reproach, and my shame, and my dis- 19 honour: mine adversaries are all before thee.

- 20 Reproach hath broken my heart; and I am full of heaviness: and I looked for some ⁿ to take pity, but there was none; ^{n Heb. to lament with me.} and for comforters, but I found none.
- 21 They gave me also gall for my meat; ^o and in my thirst they gave me vinegar to drink. ^{o Matt. xxvii. 48. Mark xv. 23. John xix. 29.}
- 22 ^p Let their table become a snare before them: and that which should have been for their welfare, let it become a trap. ^{p Rom. xi. 9.}
- 23 Let their eyes be darkened, that they see not; and make their loins continually to shake.
- 24 Pour out thine indignation upon them, and let thy wrathful anger take hold of them.
- 25 Let ^q their habitation be desolate; and ^r let none dwell in their tents. ^{q Heb. their palace. r Heb. let there not be a dweller.}
- 26 For they persecute him whom thou hast smitten; and they talk to the grief of ^s those whom thou hast wounded. ^{s Heb. thy wounded.}
- 27 Add ^t iniquity unto their iniquity: and let them not come into thy righteousness. ^{t Or, punishment of iniquity.}
- 28 Let them be blotted out of the book of the living, and not be written with the righteous.
- 29 But I am poor and sorrowful: let thy salvation, O God, set me up on high.
- 30 I will praise the name of God with a song, and will magnify him with thanksgiving.
- 31 This also shall please the LORD better than an ox or bullock that hath horns and hoofs.
- 32 The ^u humble shall see this, and be glad: and your heart ^u shall live that seek God. ^{u Or, meek.}
- 33 For the LORD heareth the poor, and despiseth not his prisoners.
- 34 Let the heaven and earth praise him, the seas, and every thing that ^x moveth therein. ^{x Heb. creep-eith.}
- 35 For God will save Zion, and will build the cities of Judah: that they may dwell there, and have it in possession.
- 36 The seed also of his servants shall inherit it: and they that love his name shall dwell therein.

PSALM LXXXVIII.

1 An exhortation both to learn and to preach the law of God. 9 The story of God's wrath against the incredulous and disobedient. 67 The Israelites being rejected, God chose Judah, Zion, and David.

¶ y Maschil of Asaph.

y Or, A Psalm for Asaph to give instruction.

- 1 Give ear, O my people, to my law: incline your ears to the words of my mouth.
- 2 ^z I will open my mouth in a parable: I will utter dark sayings of old: ^{z Ps. xlix. 4. Matt. xiii. 35.}
- 3 Which we have heard and known, and our fathers have told us.
- 4 We will not hide them from their children, shewing to the generation to come the praises of the LORD, and his strength, and his wonderful works that he hath done.

For he established a testimony in Jacob, and appointed a ^a law in Israel, which he commanded our fathers, ^a that they should make them known to their children :

^a Deut. iv. 9. & vi. 7.

That the generation to come might know them, even the children which should be born ; who should arise and declare them to their children :

That they might set their hope in God, and not forget the works of God, but keep his commandments :

^b Heb. that prepared not their heart.
^c Heb. throwing forth.

And might not be as their fathers, a stubborn and rebellious generation ; a generation ^b that set not their heart aright, and whose spirit was not stedfast with God.

The children of Ephraim, being armed, and ^c carrying bows, turned back in the day of battle.

They kept not the covenant of God, and refused to walk in his law ;

And forgot his works, and his wonders that he had shewed them.

Marvellous things did he in the sight of their fathers, in the land of Egypt, in the field of Zoan.

^d Ex. xiv. 21.

^d He divided the sea, and caused them to pass through ; and he made the waters to stand as an heap.

^e Ex. xiii. 21. & xiv. 24.

^e In the daytime also he led them with a cloud, and all the night with a light of fire.

^f Ex. xvii. 6. Num. xx. 11. Ps. cv. 41. 1 Cor. x. 4.

^f He clave the rocks in the wilderness, and gave them drink as out of the great depths.

He brought streams also out of the rock, and caused waters to run down like rivers.

And they sinned yet more against him by provoking the most high in the wilderness.

And they tempted God in their heart by asking meat for their lust.

^g Num. xi. 4. ^h Heb. order.

^g Yea, they spake against God ; they said, Can God ^h furnish a table in the wilderness ?

ⁱ Ex. xvii. 6. Num. xx. 11.

ⁱ Behold, he smote the rock, that the waters gushed out, and the streams overflowed ; can he give bread also ? can he provide flesh for his people ?

Therefore the LORD heard this, and was wroth : so a fire was kindled against Jacob, and anger also came up against Israel ;

Because they believed not in God, and trusted not in his salvation :

Though he had commanded the clouds from above, and opened the doors of heaven, ^k Ex. xvi. 14. John vi. 31. ^l Or, Every one did eat the bread of the mighty, Ps. ciii. 20.

^k And had rained down manna upon them to eat, and had given them of the corn of heaven.

^l Man did eat angels' food : he sent them meat to the full. 25

- 26 He caused an east wind ^m to blow in the heaven : and by his ^m Heb. to go.
power he brought in the south wind.
- 27 He rained flesh also upon them as dust, and ⁿ feathered fowls ⁿ Heb. fowl of wing.
like as the sand of the sea :
- 28 And he let it fall in the midst of their camp, round about their habitations.
- 29 So they did eat, and were well filled : for he gave them their own desire ;
- 30 They were not estranged from their lust. But ^o while their ^o Num. xi.33.
meat was yet in their mouths,
- 31 The wrath of God came upon them, and slew the fattest of them, and ^p smote down the ^q chosen men of Israel. ^p Heb. made to bow.
^q Or, young men.
- 32 For all this they sinned still, and believed not for his wondrous works.
- 33 Therefore their days did he consume in vanity, and their years in trouble.
- 34 When he slew them, then they sought him : and they returned and enquired early after God.
- 35 And they remembered that God was their rock, and the high God their redeemer.
- 36 Nevertheless they did flatter him with their mouth, and they lied unto him with their tongues.
- 37 For their heart was not right with him, neither were they stedfast in his covenant.
- 38 But he, being full of compassion, forgave their iniquity, and destroyed them not : yea, many a time turned he his anger away, and did not stir up all his wrath.
- 39 For he remembered that they were but flesh ; a wind that passeth away, and cometh not again.
- 40 How oft did they ^r provoke him in the wilderness, and grieve ^r Or, rebel against him.
him in the desert !
- 41 Yea, they turned back and tempted God, and limited the Holy One of Israel.
- 42 They remembered not his hand, nor the day when he delivered them ^s from the enemy. ^s Or, from affliction.
- 43 How he had ^t wrought his signs in Egypt, and his wonders ^t Heb. set.

- 47 ^a He ^b destroyed their vines with hail, and their sycamore trees with ^c frost. ^a Ex. ix. 23.
^b Heb. killed.
- 48 ^d He gave up their cattle also to the hail, and their flocks to ^e hot thunderbolts. ^c Or, great hailstones.
^d Heb. He shut up.
^e Or, lightnings.
- 49 He cast upon them the fierceness of his anger, wrath,

and indignation, and trouble, by sending evil angels among them.

^f Heb. He weighed a path.

^g Or, their beasts to the murrain, Ex. ix. 3. 6.
^h Ex. xii. 29.

^f He made a way to his anger; he spared not their soul from 50 death, but gave ^g their life over to the pestilence;

^h And smote all the firstborn in Egypt; the chief of their 51 strength in the tabernacles of Ham :

But made his own people to go forth like sheep, and guided 52 them in the wilderness like a flock.

And he led them on safely, so that they feared not : but the 53 ⁱ sea ^k overwhelmed their enemies.

And he brought them to the border of his sanctuary, even to 54 this mountain, which his right hand had purchased.

^j Josh. xiii. 7.

He cast out the heathen also before them, and ^l divided them 55 an inheritance by line, and made the tribes of Israel to dwell in their tents.

Yet they tempted and provoked the most high God, and 56 kept not his testimonies :

But turned back, and dealt unfaithfully like their fathers ; 57 they were turned aside like a deceitful bow.

^m Deut.
xxxii. 21.

^m For they provoked him to anger with their high places, 58 and moved him to jealousy with their graven images.

When God heard this, he was wroth, and greatly abhorred 59 Israel :

ⁿ 1 Sam. iv.
11.

ⁿ So that he forsook the tabernacle of Shiloh, the tent which 60 he placed among men ;

And delivered his strength into captivity, and his glory into 61 the enemy's hand.

He gave his people over also unto the sword ; and was wroth 62 with his inheritance.

^o Heb.
praised.

The fire consumed their young men ; and their maidens were 63 not ^o given to marriage.

Their priests fell by the sword ; and their widows made no 64 lamentation.

Then the LORD awaked as one out of sleep, and like a mighty 65 man that shouteth by reason of wine.

And he smote his enemies in the hinder part : he put them 66 to a perpetual reproach.

Moreover he refused the tabernacle of Joseph, and chose not 67 the tribe of Ephraim :

But chose the tribe of Judah, the mount Zion which he loved. 68

And he built his sanctuary like high palaces, like the earth 69 which he hath ^p established for ever.

So he fed them according to the integrity of his heart ; and 72 guided them by the skilfulness of his hands.

Furthermore David the king said unto all the congregation, 1 ^h ch. xxii. 5. -Solomon my son, whom God alone hath chosen, is yet ^h young and tender, and the work is great: for the palace is not for man, but for the LORD God. Now I have prepared with all 2 my might for the house of my God the gold for things to be made things of brass, the iron for things of iron, and wood for things of wood; onyx stones, and stones to be set, glistening stones, and of divers colours, and all manner of precious stones, and marble stones in abundance. Moreover, because I have set 3 proper good, of gold and silver, which I have given to the house of my God, over and above all that I have prepared for the

the silver for things of silver, and for all manner of work to be made by the hands of artificers. And who then is willing ^k to ^k Heb. to fill his hand. consecrate his service this day unto the LORD?

- 6 Then the chief of the fathers and princes of the tribes of ^{A.C. 1015.} Israel, and the captains of thousands and of hundreds, with the 7 rulers of the king's work, offered willingly, and gave for the service of the house of God of gold five thousand talents and ten thousand drams, and of silver ten thousand talents, and of brass eighteen thousand talents, and one hundred thousand
 8 talents of iron. And they with whom precious stones were found gave them to the treasure of the house of the LORD, by 9 the hand of Jehiel the Gershonite. Then the people rejoiced, for that they offered willingly, because with perfect heart they offered willingly to the LORD: and David the king also rejoiced with great joy.
- 10 Wherefore David blessed the LORD before all the congregation: and David said, Blessed be thou, LORD God of Israel our father, for ever and ever.
- 11 ¹Thine, O LORD, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty: for all that is in the heaven and in the earth is thine; thine is the kingdom, O LORD, and thou art exalted as head above all.
- 12 Both riches and honour come of thee, and thou reignest over all; and in thine hand is power and might; and in thine hand it is to make great, and to give strength unto all.
- 13 Now therefore, our God, we thank thee, and praise thy glorious name.
- 14 But who am I, and what is my people, that we should ^mbe able to offer so willingly after this sort? for all things come of thee, and ⁿof thine own have we given thee.
- 15 For ^owe are strangers before thee, and sojourners, as were all our fathers: ^pour days on the earth are as a shadow, and there is none ^qabiding.
- 16 O LORD our God, all this store that we have prepared to build thee an house for thine holy name cometh of thine hand, and is all thine own.
- 17 I know also, my God, that thou ^rtriest the heart, and hast pleasure in uprightness. As for me, in the uprightness of mine heart I have willingly offered all these things: and now have I seen with joy thy people, which are ^spresent here, to offer willingly unto thee.
- 18 O LORD God of Abraham, Isaac, and of Israel, our fathers, keep this for ever in the imagination of the thoughts of the heart of thy people, and ^tprepare their heart unto thee:
- 19 And give unto Solomon my son a perfect heart, to keep thy commandments, thy testimonies, and thy statutes, and to do all these things, and to build the palace, for the which I have made provision.
